TO EXHUME BODIES IN SHEPHERD INVESTIGATION

Chicago, March 26—Two graves, those of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock, mother of William N. McClintock, millionaire orphan whose death led to the indictment of his foster father, William D. Shepherd, and C. C. Faiman, and that of Dr. Oscar Olson, brother of Chief Justice Harry Olson of the municipal court will be opened beginning Friday. The exhumation of the bodies was ordered by Coroner Oscar Wolff this afternoon when the state took cognizance of charges of Justice Olson that Mrs. McClintock and a Dr. Olson had died under mysterious circumstances, subsequent to visits from Shepherd. Both have been dead a number of years. Justice Olson also initiated the investigation into the death of young McClintock.

Shepherd, who was refused release on bail yesterday in a decision by Chief Justice Hopkins of the criminal court, was paraded in the bullpen of murderers row today, and one of two witnesses, said he believed Shepherd "looked like" a man who purchased a microscope from his firm.

The indictment charges that Shepherd obtained typhoid germs from a Bacteriological school here and gave them to young McClintock. In a will made just after he reached his majority, McClintock left the bulk of his $1,000,800 estate to Shepherd, with the exception of an $8,000 annuity to Miss Isabelle Pope, his fiancee. Faiman, head of the School of Bacteriological, testified in the preliminary investigation by state's attorneys and before the grand jury that he supplied the germs to Shepherd with instructions how to administer them.

At several stages of the investigation, Judge Harry Olson has demanded that the bodies of his brother and Mrs. McClintock be exhumed, but that matter had been delayed on the ground that it would be difficult to trace poisons in bodies so long buried. Mrs. McClintock died sixteen years ago and Dr. Olson three years ago.

But with the indictment of Shepherd for murder and the confession of Dr. Faiman that Shepherd and he plotted to kill young McClintock with typhoid germs, interest in the manner in which Dr. Olson and Mrs. McClintock came to their deaths again took a prominent place in the investigation.

The coroner said that state's attorey Crowe had requeste dthe exhumations.

Judge Olson asserted if the time of the first investigation into the death of young McClintock that the circumstances of Mrs. McClintock's death were suspicious and he was confident his brother did not died from natural causes.

Dr. Olson died a short time after Shepherd visited him in his sick room, according to Judge Olson.

RHODESIAN SKULL BELIEVED NEW TYPE

The skull which was found among the prehistoric human remains at Broken Hill, Rhodesia, in 1921, and is believed to be the oldest in existence, is that of a type of man unknown before.

This statement was made by Prof. Sir Arthur Keith, conservator of the Royal College of Surgeons' Museum in a lecture at the College of Surgeons in London.

"It is," he said, "one of the most important discoveries of ancient man ever made, because we cannot fit him in with any kind of man with which we are familiar.

"He is an absolutely new type to us—a type of man that we had no idea of before. He is a man of extremely primitive type, so primitive, so unlike other races living, that we have to create a new species for him."

He estimated that this man lived anywhere between 100,000 and 200,000 years ago.

He added: "The bones found show that this man could walk in an upright position and was 5 feet 9 inches or a little more in height.

"Although the skull has strong resemblance to the gorilla, this man was so very low down in the scale as regards brains, being even higher than some of the low types of human beings alive today."

The will of Artemas Ward, head of the advertising firm of that name, who died March 14, was filed in surrogate's court in New York. Its largest bequest is a life interest in a $1,000,000 trust fund to his son, Artemas Ward, Jr., of New York.

REFORESTATION WORK.

For a considerable period much emphasis has been laid upon the need of reforestation. It has been urged in many states, including New England, for while there is woodland to be found it is evident that much land which is now denuded or little better than waste land could be employed to growing trees and through such production pay handsome dividends. Through such increased timber production Connecticut and other states could supply a larger part of the lumber used within its borders each year and eliminate part of that freight bill from importations which alone runs into the millions of dollars yearly.

Connecticut has done some good work in the way of reforestation. There are demonstration tracts which make an excellent impression, but the work has by no means reached the proportions to which it should extend.

In this connection there appears to be not only an eagerness to better the woodland situation in Massachusetts but the demand for young trees for reforestation purposes exceeds the production by the state forester. The forestry department has 4,000,000 small pine trees, three-year-old seedlings, which will be distributed throughout that state during the coming week. Considering the fact that they will be used in some instances with others the year's production is expected to cover about 5,000 acres.

This may seem insignificant in a state with 8246 square miles, but the significant fact in connection therewith is that there seems to be a real interest in that state to respond to the reforestation need, and that there is a bigger demand for seedling trees than the forestry department can supply. That is an interest that can be expected to continue and with the reforestation acreage increasing each year the problem will not be long in getting the attention that it deserves. The unfortunate part of it is that too many of those who should be deeply interested in such work and who have much to gain therefrom are not alert to the possibilities.

CONGRESSIONAL PAY.

The law is the law, and as such it is expected that it will be obeyed. This will, of course, be generally supported. But just at the present time it isn't exactly pleasing to a few congressmen.

Not all members of congress voted for the increase in pay of the members of the national legislature. Not all believed that it should be done, or that it should be done at this time. There was a strong majority for it, and there were a few, a very few, who immediately proclaimed that no matter what the increase was they would refuse to accept anything in excess of the $7,500 a year which they have been receiving. So far as known there were but two who took such a stand. They have of course been applauded in one way or another, and there is no reason whatever to believe that they are not entirely sincere in their position.

These men have stated that they would not take the added salary. There it would seem they run up against a snag, for the matter having been referred to the controller general he has decided that checks must be drawn for the full amount, that the $10,000 salary having been voted it must be paid, else the heirs of the person to whom the money was due might come forward and make a claim for it. But he adds that if there are any who do not want the $10,000, after getting it they can return it to the government. They must take it but they give back as much as they want to. The books will have to show that they took it. They cannot set up the claim that they had refused to accept part of it. The return of the added $2,500 is then a matter that rests with them. It may be a disappointment, but there seems to be no other way out of it, even for congressmen. No one has yet been known to start a filibuster for the purpose of holding up his own pay envelope but perhaps the country will yet be treated to some such novelty.

There are two who have nevertheless registered determined protests against pay increase, and it cannot fail to make a good impression back of them.

PREDICTING THE WEATHER.

Now that there seems to be no doubt but what winter is over and the chances of a blizzard are over, there is no surprise that the weather bureau is calling attention to the fact that the past winter has not worked out in accordance with the predictions of a certain number of prophets who had prepared the people for a winter of unusual severity.

"A pretty good winter," is the common expression concerning it, and many are inspired to direct attention to such an opinion because they had anticipated something entirely different. During the weeks preceding winter there were many views aired as to what might be expected before the frost left the ground. There were those who laid stress on the record breaking character of the forthcoming months, with special attention being directed to certain periods which would be more strenuous than the rest. There were also some who could see no such a condition and said so, but between such cross fire it is only natural that those who are guided by such information should give heed to and prepare for the worst and hope for the best.

Of course the weather bureau is not the only one that is taking a fling at the weakness of certain long distant prophecies. They always come in for the plaudits or the criticisms of their immediate neighborhoods. Perhaps the weather bureau might have overlooked the chance to point to the weakness of the meteorological forecasters, but it apparently likes to have them rated for what they are and, while recognizing its own slips now and then, to have it understood that while weather prophets and groundhogs may hit the situation right there are times when they are about as far from the mark as possible.

But what is going to be done about it? With the weather bureau showing up the unscientific it would seem to be paving the way for the continuance of an endless controversy. There are no objections of course to the long distance predictions if they would only be correct.

RESTRICTING ARMAMENT.

Announcement to the effect that the idea of President Coolidge for a conference of nations for a further limitation of naval armament has the approval of Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, adds strength to the proposal insofar as it means that it will not meet with the opposition of the senator from Idaho.

He is not to be regarded as an opponent of such an undertaking, for it is a matter which he has long since supported. He was an advocate of such a step in advance of the previous conference, and naturally it could be expected that his sentiments would continue to run along the same channel.

When it is stated that he is in favor of the idea, of, including land armaments under the subjects for discussion at such a gathering it is indicated that he is desirous of going the whole distance. There is nothing dangerous or undesirable in that, but he has apparently been brought to a realization of the fact that this is not the opportune time for the broaching of such a proposition.

While there appears to be sufficient reasons for encouraging the president to sound out the other nations on the further decrease in naval armament nothing would probably put a step to any conference quicker than the attempt to include land armaments.

Europe, it must be remembered, is being subjected to an unusual test in the restriction of armaments of any kind. It must be brought to the realization of the importance of such action gradually. There is reason for thanksgiving that even slow progress can be made, and there is certainly no reason for blasting all future efforts by trying to do too much in one fell swoop. Borah does well to accept the president's viewpoint.

INTERSTATE BUS LINES.

In view of the recent decision by the United States supreme court concerning interstate bus lines, it was inevitable that there should be action startde seeking legislation from congress dealing with this new development.

Interstate traffic by transportation lines, now in the control of the interstate commerce commission, does not include the bus lines. They are engaged in the same business of carrying passengers and freight, but it is held by the supreme court that they are beyond the control of the state public utility commissions and the interstate commerce commission does not have authority to exercise control over them. That places them beyond the control of any regulatory body and yet they are doing business on public highways instead of private rights of way.

This is one of the developments of motor vehicles which has gotten ahead of legislation. Similar conditions within a state can be met by state commissions but just as soon as bus lines go from one state to another they can put themselves out of the reach of any commission and in defiance of all of them. State and federal authorities are powerless. There is control over the bus operating between state points, but not over those crossing the state line though they may be on the same highway and competing with established lines.

The situation is one that calls for early legislation. If, as claimed, it is possible for congress to delegate that authority to the states such a solution ought to meet requirements.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Isn't it about time for the first of the early peas to be blossoming?

The man on the corner says: If we get no further than talking about the next war everybody will be happy.

If a certain count from Europe wants to shake off his voluntary promise not to talk he might start divorce proceedings.

France knows how to sympathize with the devastated area of the middle west even though the cause of the respective conditions was entirely different.

General Pershing is welcomed as the chairman of the Tacna-Arica plebiscite because he is regarded as standing for fairness. That is what this country is seeking through his appointment.

Balloon jumping which means you can bound up into the air and over buildings by attaching yourself to gas bags must be considerable sport but many need no such arrangement to go up in the air.

The manner in which General Pershing's appointment as chairman of the Tacna-Arica plebiscite has been received by the nations concerned and their neighbors shows a better selection couldn't have been made.

INSPIRATIONAL ADVICE

The plainspoken uncle from downstate had enjoyed his dinner and now that he had looked the family over began to speak his mind.

"Well, well!" he said in the direction of his two nieces, "I thought by this time when I came to see you that you'd be married and settled. I'm afraid you girls haven't been tending to your jobs! Girls can't wait till a nice husband comes along these days, they have to be up and doing. And hunting them down! Instead of six swains sighing at a lady's doorstep you are more likely to see six girls converging from six directions toward some wary male and even at those odds the beggar usually ducks through the line and gets away!

"There was Chrys Anthum down home, who had gone along gayly since he was 20, sidestepping the gins and growing into the town's prize bachelor at 35. The chief complaint the women had against him for not marrying one of them was that Chrys had simply everything, they said, to make a wife happy. It gathered that being a bachelor is infinitely more of a crime if a man is well dowered with this world's gold and silver. If Chrys had been earning $30 a week only, his bachelor state would not have got on their nerves in the least. They would have said, had they taken time to observe him at all, that he was very sensible for shunning matrimony and making some poor girl slave her life away.

"The idea would be the remark at every afternoon party just about the time they passed the cake the second time. The idea of that man living all alone in that great big house with all those beautiful things in it! My dear, don't you just ache to get at those rooms and fix them up as they might be? There are such possibilities in that Anthum place! All it needs is a woman's touch! And that dinner party he gave—the food was all right but did you notice that the center flowers were not directly under the chandelier and things weren't set right on the table? Poor Chrys, he certainly needs some one to look after things for him!"

"And every woman or girl under fifty resolved herself into a home missionary society for the amelioration of Chrys Anthum's sad state. However, he totally refused to recognize that he needed rescue and went happily on his way, strewing ashes on Persian rugs and running window shades up as high as they would go and having beefsteak every night of his life for dinner. He was just as easy to grab as smoke or fog and could listen to a pretty girl telling him how she just loved to cook and keep house without batting an eyelast. No matter how many times he disappointed them the girls kept right after Chrys.

"And now the women are gradually beginning to ask whether you've noticed the little wrinkles around Chrys' eyes, and heaven pity the poor girl who would be so foolish as to marry such a spoiled, selfish, self-centered bachelor! The trouble is they let him go scot free to long and allowed him to get too agile and clever. The proper procedure is to find an eligible bachelor who is young and headstrong, cocky and sure of himself; then, laying a straight line between you and your prey, let nothing swerve you from your course and make it a short one. Nail him while the numbed surprise wears off he will accept his fate tractably and you may be able to turn him into something worth while.

"If you let your taste freedom too long they are likely to turn to estimating by mathematics and finding out how much happier they are unmarried. You are both very nice girls, but I want to see you settled for life, and if you have any one in mind remember my sad story about Chrys Anthum and how the girls back home lost out through procrastination."

"Thank you, dear uncle," said his nieces as they ducked out their half preparatory to going out among the bright lights. "Your words are inspiring, and we must be on our way to put your advice into practice!"

And they departed with an exceedingly determined expression on their faces which boded ill for somebody or other happy and free—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

American Public Schools.

Mr. Editor: "Open discussion is good for any cause." These are the words spoken by Dr. Frederick Joseph Kinaman. It is an evident fact that your correspondent from Augusta, Ga., Miranda C. Robinson, is suffering with an acute malady of Pseudo Americanism when she, knowingly or unknowingly casts a slur at our American public schools, at the same time gives praise for foreign schools that are a detriment to our lofty and sacred American ideals.

I have attended both schools and am therefore qualified in expressing my opinion concerning same. Before I go further, I want it understood that I am not in the business of attacking any religion. This is a free country and all should have the right to believe the way they wish to. I am writing this letter with one purpose in view, it is, to describe both, the foreign and American public schools.

The American public school is not a Protestant school; it is absolutely non-sectarian in every sense of the word. No religion is taught there because the pupils come from different religious denominations. Isn't this fair? Personally I believe the children should receive their religious training at home and in their respective churches and Sunday schools. At present there are only seven states where the Bible is taught in public schools. The time will soon come when every state in the union will enact such laws authorizing Bible teaching in all public schools.

The text books that are used in our public schools are not salted and peppered with bigotry and active malevolence against any religious sects, nor, do they interfere with the religious doctrines of historical subjects. By the subjects I mean, great men who made the history of our great country.

The foreign schools do not teach from the Bible. They have their own religious teachings which are very good considering all. Now let us compare the text books. Take this history for an example, the preface reads something like this: "American history has long been a vast conspiracy against truth." May I venture to ask, "What truth does this mean?" Let us go on further. "The dryness (perhaps Volstead act) of the United States history is, at present, proverbial with teacher and pupil. This handsome preface in part is from "Revised Edition to Excelsior Studies in American History and Civics." The following are taken at random from the same history, page 23, foot note, "Irving, however, being a Protestant, failed to appreciate the Catholic hero Columbus." Pages 26, 32, 38, 40, 44, 69, 92, 93, 121, 123, 124, 127, 130 contains much malignant matter so-called. Also the following lines: All Puritans were narrow-minded, exclusive and short-sighted in character and cruel Protestants. New England Protestants appealed to liberty and then closed the door against her. Protestant religious ideas being severe and gloomy." Does this spirit of our foreign schools compare favorably with our lofty American ideals? I wonder.

Why should our foreign schools be progenitors of hatred and malice, of such injustice? Are we not all brothers in Christ? Is not God the Father of us all? Are we not all equal because we are Catholics and Protestants, black and white? Certain Protestant churches in Norwich hold union services together in Christian fellowship. It is commendable. What a community of ours this would be if Catholic and Protestant churches would get together once in a while and worship in good Christian manner as Christ taught us! Such a spiritual unity would annihilate local prejudices and unreasonable partialities, would banish all source of envy and hostility, would tend to make men more social and humane and thus bring about universal brotherhood! God gives us men. The time demands Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and willing hands.

For while the rabble with their thumb-worn creeds,
Their large professions and their little deeds
Mingle in selfish strife; lo! Freedom weeps!
Wrong rules the land, and waiting justice sleeps!

ALEXANDER E. POREDA.
Norwich, March 26, 1925.

Solution to Puzzle.

Mr. Editor: In The Bulletin of March 7th in the news of fifty years ago is printed a puzzle which is said to have never been answered. I have a solution which I am sending you.

Puzzle—To five and five and fifty-five the first of letters add 'twill make a thing that killed a king and made a wise man good.

The answer is Fate.

Solution—5 and 5 and 55—65. 6 t 5 the 6th letter of the alphabet is (f). Add the 1st letter (a) then (t), then the 5th letter (e). Fate.

Yours truly,
MRS. C. W. NORTEN.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Vincent d'Indy, who today enters upon his seventy-fifth year, is the doyen of French composers. Born in Paris, March 27, 1851, he was intended for the law, but, as was the case with many other musicians, the call of music was too strong to be resisted, and ultimately he made it his life work. After the Franco-Prussian war, in which he served as a volunteer, he studied music with Cesar Franck and later went to Germany and spent several months in Weimer with Liszt. In 1875 his first work for the orchestra was performed at the Opera Comique. Since then d'Indy has stood in the front rank of French musicians. In 1905 he visited America and conducted the symphony orchestras in several of the large cities. Only a few nights ago in Paris the great composer conducted a performance of his Chant de la Cloche. It was a strenuous task, but the master was alert from beginning to end.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

RAILROAD ASSAILS ROBIN HOOD'S MEMORY

Nottingham is reported indignant at the proposal to run a coal-carrying railroad line through Sherwood Forest, home of Robin Hood, Little John and Maid Marian.

The local protests arise not only from respect for a famous legend but because of the abiding beauty of the considerable portions of the forest which remain" says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"One enthusiast calls the woodlands of Birklands and Bilhaigh, near the route of the projected railway, the finest not merely in Sherwood, but in all England.

"The early Sherwood Forest was bounded, roughly, by the towns of Nottingham, Chesterfield, Worksop and Newark. It never was an unbroken woodland; it included pastures, heaths and even barren tracts with here and there a densely wooded grove. Its original area—some 25 miles long by 10 miles wide—already is cut through by railroads, and inside these older limits today are towns and one cluster of beautiful estates known as the 'Dukeries.'

"Nottingham, on the southern border of the old forest limits, is a thriving city of nearly 300,000 people. It is famous for the strength of its ale and the beauty of its women; for the size of its extensive market place; the mystery of its caves, the annals of its rock-planted castle, and the festivities of its Goose Fair.

"While the castle rock stands, the inhabitants will tell you, their city will endure. The geologist hopes better than that for the city, for the rocks of the vicinity are sandstone, a fact which accounts for the prevalence of caves. A Pappiwick—the very cave where Robin Hood and his merry band took shelter!

"The original Nottingham castle was built by William the Conqueror. Its grimmest memory is the hanging of 28 Welsh boys, whose bodies were suspended over the walls so the town might see, by order of King John. The boys had been placed there as hostages for the good behavior of their fathers. When the parents rebelled there was no recourse, in those times of direct action, but to execute their sons.

"To this day visitors are shown Mortimer's Hole, a passage through which young King Edward III gained entrance and surprised his mother, Queen Isabella, in company with her lover, Roger Mortimer. The Queen mother's plea, 'Fair son, have pity on the gentle Mortimer,' you will recall had no effect, and after a sojourn in the London tower the 'Gentle Mortimer' was tied to a horse's tail and dragged to the Tyburn gallows.

"Nottingham history spans the centuries from the period when the Danes fought the Saxons for a foothold on the Trent, down through the meeting of parliaments there in the 14th century, the raising of the standard of Charles I in 1642 and the dismantling of the castle by Cromwell's troops two years later.

"Then the strife shifted from feudal to industrial struggles. For its prosperity today Nottingham thanks not kings, or generals, or armies, but Richard Arkwright for setting up there in 1769, the first spinning frame, and John 'Heathcoat who, forty years later, opened a new era in lace manufacture by his machines for making bobbin-net. Today Nottingham is famous for its hosiery and lace.

"Nottingham's market place, with its 1-2 acres, is reputed to be the largest in England. On one side the second stories of the shops project over the sidewalks; on market days booths spring up all over the open square. The size of the market place is a measure of Nottingham's early trade prosperity. Fairs were boons in medieval England and when Edward I granted Nottingham an 8-day fair concession, the towns-people had the thrills of an American town which lands a big new factory. Annie bestowed two more fairs upon Nottingham, and its fortune was made. Today the Goose Fair survives, a faint echo of the original fair which was serious business, now a very raucous and noisy carnival for which normal business suspends.

"Romance seems to grow on the trees of Sherwood. Near Mansfield is the home of Byron's first love, Mary Chaworth; at Newstead Abbey is Byron's room, kept very neatly as he left it. The traveler who stops at Mansfield may put up at an excellent inn and to go to his room he must climb an oak stairway three centuries old.

"Thoresby was the home of Lady Mary Montagu, witty correspondent and travel writer, who is credited with bringing back from Turkey a method of innoculation against small-pox.

"But Thoresby's most famous story is that of the Duchess of Kingston. After a secret marriage, at which the parson read the service by the light of a taper in the best man's hat, and the birth of a child, Elizabeth Chudleigh and her first husband separated. She sought a reconciliation when it looked as if Lord Bristol was about to die and leave her long-neglected husband that title.

"After she had arranged a forged registry of her marriage Lord Bristol set her plans awry by recovering. In the meantime she had scandalized the county by various escapades—including her appearance in an extremely decolletee gown at a masked ball. Gossip associated her name with the Duke of Kingston and she confirmed the rumors when she was installed as hostess of the merry entertainments at Kingston House. Like the illustrous Lady Hamilton she then began to dream of marriage, and she persuaded her husband to divorce her until he learned such a procedure would mean his assumption of his wife's heavy debts.

"Nothing daunted, Elizabeth brought a suit accusing her husband of falsely proclaiming his marriage to her; she was duly declared a 'spinster,' and London gasped when she married the Duke of Kingston.

"Five years later her husband died, but the Earl of Bristol inconveniently died about the same time, embarrassing the Duchess of Kingston with the added title of the Countess of Bristol.

"The courts being faced with this dilemma, commanded the lady's arrest on a charge of bigamy. The Countess attested that the registry of her first marriage was bogus, which was true, but witnesses turned up to swear that though the registry was false the marriage actually had occurred.

"'Fair enough,' plead Elizabeth, in effect 'if the honorable court adjudges I am a countess, I am. But as a Countess I am immune from branding in the hand.' The bewildered jurors discharged the Duchess-Countess, who went to St. Petersburg where she became the boon companion of the Empress Catherine. If the reminiscences of this pair had been recorded the memoirs thereof would be racy reading.

"Small wonder that Elizabeth now is known neither as the Duchess of Kingston or the Countess of Bristol. To the folk of Nottinghamshire she is the 'Duchess Robin Hood.'"

CHILD TRAINING

SHOULD WE CONTRADICT EACH OTHER?

Lydia Lion Roberts

A long time ago there was a little girl who was bright, eager and full of life. She was impulsive, interested in everything she saw and brimming over with ideas. But so many times her eyes clouded, her interest dulled, because when she tried to show older people that she saw things differently, or meant something that they did not understand, they said to her sharply, "Don't you contradict me. I am older than you and you should not contradict your elders."

The little girl had not meant to contradict, she had been trying to get out some of the many thoughts which tumbled over each other, and which grown folks seemed too slow to understand. Yet when these people told her things—and she was always so glad to have them talk with her—if she ventured her own ideas, they often flatly disagreed with her.

"But you contradict me, Mama," she said with a puzzled appeal in her eyes one day.

"That is different," said the mother, "I am older than you."

The little girl learned to keep silent even when she knew people were hearing things wrong, and she learned never to speak of it when older people quite flatly contradicted her, but she wondered and pondered.

Why was contradicting wrong when you were young, and right when you were older? It didn't make sense in the little girl's mind, it didn't seem right, but anyway there was no use asking any more about it because one only got into trouble. However, she made a big resolution. She resolved that when she grew up and married and had children, she would never, never, contradict them. She would not contradict them even though it were perfectly all right for her to do so.

The years passed and the little girl married and had rosy, sturdy children. When they began to grow to the eager, questioning, experimenting age the grown up little girl never once forgot her early resolution. If she differed in opinion with her little children she would say, "Perhaps you are right, but I thought it was this way," or, "Now are you sure that it is so? Because I had a different idea about it," or, sweetly and politely, "Excuse me, dear, but I think you are wrong." It was no wonder that the children were so obedient and happy in that house that people commented upon it.

Sometimes the children would breathlessly break into a conversation, then the mother would say gently, "I know you don't mean to be rude, but wouldn't it be more polite and pleasant if you didn't answer quite so quickly? It sounded almost as if you contradicted me, but of course you and I know that isn't right so we don't do it to each other."

In the streets of Vienna there are trees enough to make a small forest if they were placed together on one spot of land. According to the latest figures of the municipal government they number 58,000.

$150,000 SCHOOL FOR ST. JOSEPH'S PARISH

The contract for the erection of the new $150,000 school to be erected for St. Joseph's parish has been let to Contractor Patrick F. Sweeney of this city and work will begin immediately. The new school is to be erected on a plot of land opposite the church rectory, off Cliff street. When completed the school will be one of the finest in this locality. It will be modern in every respect. Three stories in height with a large basement, the school will have 17 class rooms with a bowling alley, several smaller rooms for the principal's office and for club purposes.

The new building will be of fireproof construction and will be built of tapestry brick. The interior finish will be of yellow pine with oak floors. The latest in heating apparatus and plumbing fixtures will be installed. The building will be approximately 116 feet by 63 feet.

In the basement will be located the heating plant, a bowling alley, a large club room, a society room and toilets. The principal's office will be located on the first floor which will six class accommodations for five class rooms. On the second floor will be six class rooms, a teacher's room and a nurse's room. There will be on the third floor, a library, a typewriter room and six class rooms. The school is designed to accommodate over 800 children.

Rev S. A. Ickis, the new rector, is planning to remodel the present school building into two large halls with domestic science rooms. He is also planning the erection within the next five or six years of a new $200,000 church for the parish.

Why are weak-minded men usually headstrong?

SUPERINTENDENT BATH MAKES HIS ANNUAL REPORT FOR DISTRICT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Fall River, Mass., March 26—The second day of the New England Southern Conference opened at 9 o'clock this morning with a brief devotional service conducted by Bishop Anderson. Two hymns were sung, the 23d Psalm was repeated in concert, and prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. J. L. Bartholomew.

Rev. W. H. Bath of Norwich, Conn., was passed in character and presented his sixth annual report as superintendent of Norwich district. In view of the disciplinary provision limiting the term of the district superintendent to six years, Mr. Bath will re-enter the pastorate at the close of the conference sessions next Monday. In recognition of the kindly feeling toward him, Rev. Joseph Cooper, in a very complimentary speech which concluded with a few lines of verse, voiced the sentiments of the preachers of Norwich district with their best wishes and in testimony of which he presented Mr. Bath a sum of money. Mr. Bath responded in a very happy way, thanking the men for the kindly expression.

Rev. J. W. LeBaron was passed in character and presented his annual report as superintendent of the Providence district.

A period of a half hour is being set apart in the middle of the morning sessions for worship. This period today was observed as follows. The hymn, I Worship Thee O, Holy Ghost was sung. Prayer was offered by Dean James A. Beebe of Boston University School of Theology. The address was made by Rev. M. E. Barrett of the South Street church, Brockton, Mass., and was based on Luke V. 1-8. The note of adventure and expectancy was made prominent in his appeal to the preacher to imitate the life of Jesus in the work to save men and women. Bishop Anderson added a few choice words and prayer by Rev. J. W. Annas followed.

The last hour of the morning period today was set apart for consideration of the "World Service" projects of the denomination. The first speaker was the Rev. John R. Edwards representing the work of the Board of Foreign Missions. He made interesting statements concerning the financial prospects for the continuance of this work. While recognizing the disheartening aspect of the decreased offerings in the churches reported heretofore, he announced that an increase of receipts had begun in December which had been growing as shown in the reports for January and February. His address showed some of the improved methods of raising money and expressed a hope for the future as soon as the laymen learn the actual facts as to the needs of the work in the various fields.

The second speaker was Rev. P. J. Maveety of the board of education. As newly organized, this board covers the work formerly covered by the boards known as board of education, board of Sunday school board of Epworth League and board of education for negroes. While recognizing the value of the mission boards he urged that even their success as conditioned upon the success of this board.

Bishop Anderson was the concluding speaker. He made an appeal for more system in the finances of the churches and urged the organization of a district conference on each district of the conference.

Wednesday Session.

A large congregation gathered at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to listen to the conference sermon which was delivered by Rev. Joseph Cooper of South Manchester. His text was Isaiah 52:1, "Awake, awake! Put on thy strength, O Zion" etc. It was an earnest appeal delivered in a vigorous manner which won the attention of the congregation.

At 3 o'clock, what is designated as "Institute Hour" was held in the interest of religious education. The speaker was the Rev. O. W. Bell of Sagamore, Mass., the subject being Christians in the Making. Rev. Ernest A. Legg of Stafford Springs (formerly of Norwich) was the presiding officer.

From 4 to 5 o'clock was observed as a social period and furnished an excellent time for social intercourse and recreation.

The great auditorium was filled in the evening to hear the musical program given by the Wells family of Brockton, Mass., and the lecture by Bishop Anderson.

The Wells family includes the three daughters and one son of the Rev. E. E. Wells, pastor of the Central church, Brockton. The instruments used by them are the piano, the cornet, the violin, and the bass viol. They began their program at 7.30 and terminated at 8.05 p. m. Their selections won the approval of the audience and this was manifest in the frequent encore given to the performers.

Bishop Anderson's Lecture.

Bishop Anderson was presented to the audience by the Rev. F. W. Dunham, pastor of the Brayton church, of Fall River. In presenting the Bishop, Mr. Dunham told the audience that the bishop had but recently been in the hospital to undergo an operation and that his wife had said that he had no business to lecture. While appreciating the bishop's ardor to help the conference, he playfully suggested that it was generally risky for a preacher to disobey his wife but possibly a bishop could dare to do this. In responding, the bishop said the only question between him and his wife was whether he or she would give this lecture. The bishop smilingly said he had decided to give the lecture himself and when he got through and had to face her again it would be her turn.

Life's Perpetual Adventure was the subject chosen by Bishop Anderson. Life is full of adventure and the man who really lives must not fear it. He said that man in primitive times had lived in fear of ghosts and had imagined that the whole universe was filled with unfriendly beings. Later as he learned true conditions he ceased to fear and now treated the universe as friendly and was learning new values. The bishop referred to intellectual adventure as one which was valid when it dared to follow truth where it would lead. He discounted the cry that there was any conflict between science and religion. He had no fears for the Bible. He said it was still the best seller among books. He had no use for the literalist, he said, and illustrated his point by the man who was making quite a stir hopping and skipping in the night and who said that he was obeying his physician whose prescription said "Take a dose for two nights and then skip a night."

He urged that man has two natures and one of the two must predominate. He referred to the early history of our country and said we had our Washington, our Jefferson and our Adams, but we also had our Benedict Arnold and our Aaron Burr. Aaron Burr struggled with his convictions and decided one night to give no further concern to religion and we have the result. He exhorted his hearers to give their religious nature its chance to function and find its real adventure. He presented the idea of world betterment as a valid part of adventure and held up the goal of world peace as possible of achievement. It was a great lecture full of humor and deep earnestness, holding the audience spellbound for an hour and 20 minutes.

Conference Notes.

Rev. James I. Bartholomew, Ph. D., well remembered in Norwich as presiding elder of the Norwich District, 1901-1906, is laboring in a successful pastorate at First church, Pawtucket, R. I. Dr. Bartholomew is one of the oldest effective ministers in this conference and he has received a cordial invitation to continue in this important church another year. For many years he has been an outstanding figure in the conference and he is still regarded as one of the most aggressive and up-to-date men within its membership.

It is generally regarded as settled that the two churches in Norwich will have their pastors returned to them. Rev. J. Harlow Graham of Trinity and Rev. James B. Aldrich of Norwich Town are both highly regarded in the conference and these churches evidently know how to appreciate their sterling worth.

Rev. G. G. Scrivener, a former district superintendent of Norwich district, who has been pastor of the church in East Providence, is reported as one of those who will exchange pastorates this year.

Among the men who answered to the first roll call were the following who have held pastorates in Norwich —Warren A. Luce, George A. Grant, William I. Ward, Frederick C. Baker, William D. Woodward, John P. Duxbury, Florus L. Streifeter, Charles H. Van Natter, Frederick W. Coleman, Samuel J. A. Rook, Samuel P. Maine and Robert L. Roberts. The present Norwich pastors, viz., J. Harlow Graham and James B. Aldrich, were also among those who answered to their names. Others who are in attendance include the following: Charles Smith, Uncasville; Myron E. Genter, New London; A. Stanley Muirhead, Willimantic; and G. Leon Wells, of Moosup.

Rev. Frederick C. Baker, who has served the church at Bridgeton, R. I., the past two years, is among those who are in the moving procession this year. It is understood that he is the recipient of a cordial invitation to another church which is likely to secure him. Mr. Baker is one of the best known men in the conference whose service in many fields of labor bears a record of continued faithfulness and zeal.

Rev. E. J. Ayres of Norwich is among the genial faces one meets here this week. He has been in the retired relation since 1909. He joined the conference in 1871 and there are only three living members of this conference who have been members of conference for a longer time than he. During the years of his active ministry, he served the following churches in Connecticut at different periods as follows: Quarryville and Andover, 1878-'79; Moosup, 1880-'82; Attawaugan, 1883; Hockanum, 1884-'85; East Hampton and Marlboro, 1886-'88; North Grosvenor-Dale, 1889-'92; Uncasville, 1893-'95. He was regarded as an able preacher and was sometimes selected to preach at the Willimantic Camp meeting in the days when great throngs gathered for those services.

The following notations are made from the report of the superintendent of Providence district: Thomson church, Pawtucket, reports a net gain of 216 members. Others report the following increases: Central Falls 70; First church, Pawtucket, 48; Mathewson Street, Providence, 129; Trinity Union, Providence, 67; Washington Park, Providence, 65. Others report similar gains in numbers varying from 18 to 45.

The church schools are showing an average attendance of 60 per cent of entire membership not counting home department and cradle roll.

Trinity Union, Providence, has raised $150.00 on her new parsonage and has paid off the last dollar of her indebtedness.

RECTOR'S LENTEN TOPIC WAS "OUR WEAK SPOTS"

The Lenten sermon at Trinity Episcopal church, Thursday evening, was by Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong, rector of Christ Episcopal church, in the absence of Rev. John H. Deming, rector of St. George's church, Newport, R. I., who was unable to come to Norwich owing to illness.

Rev. Mr. Budlong selected for his topic, Our Weak Spots, indicating how one weak spot in a person has often times lead to defeat. Mentioning Achilles, Goliath and the young man who would not follow Christ because of a weakness in his own character, Rev. Mr. Budlong said that if one is not careful someone would step on the heel which is weak, injure the forehead which is weak or defeat a person because of the weakness of character.

Some people, he said, may think that one weak spot is not bad, but this of ten times leads to the showing of other weak spots. In this period of Lent, he said, we should be particularly careful not to allow that weak spot of excuses to prevent us from carrying out our Lenten plans. Excuses for self are often times a weak spot in people but the church has no weak spot, except as you and I give it that weak spot.

We should be careful not to allow others to make us change our Lenten plans for this in itself shows us to be weak and that we have been wounded in a weak spot by a friend who has tempted us and caused us to say, "I'll do some other thing, I hadn't really planned to do that anyway."

PARCEL POST PACKAGES CAN BE SPEEDED UP

Parcel post packages can be sent by "first-class mail" for 25 cents extra postage, after April 15.

Postmaster-General New has sent instructions to all postmasters for operation of the special handling service provided in the new postal law.

"Special handling" means fast handling on the trains, similar to first-class service, as distinguished from "special delivery" which speeds up the progress of the shipment after it has arrived at the city of destination.

Therefore, it was pointed out, if the greatest speed is to be attained, shippers should use both special delivery, at from 10 to 20 cents, and "special handling" at 25 cents, in addition to other regular postage rates.

The 450 pupils of St. Patrick's School are rehearsing welcome songs, to greet the rector, Mgr. M. H. May, on his return from abroad.

FAREWELL RECEPTION FOR SPRIITUAL ACADEMY PASTOR

At the Spiritual Academy on Park street, Wednesday evening, one of the pleasantest social affairs that has been held for years, under the joint auspices of the First Spiritual Union and Helping Hands, took place.

It was in the nature of a farewell reception and supper to Rev. Albert P. Blinn and Mrs. Blinn, before their departure next week from Norwich, Mr. Blinn's resignation as pastor after twenty years' service taking effect April 1st. Charles A. Dowsett, acting chairman of the board of management of the Union and Mrs. Charlotte Cobb Dowsett as leading officer of the Helping Hands had general charge of the arrangements, and were assisted by Mrs. Leon Hayden, Mrs. William Beetham, Mrs. Joseph Mackey and Mrs. Louis Russel. The social hall was beautifully decorated, the tables being arranged in the form of a square with a center table at which were seated Rev. and Mrs. Blinn, Mrs. Nathan Brewster, Miss Mary A. Hill, Mrs. John Larkin, Edwin L. Tinkham, Mrs. Charles Twist, Mr. and Mrs. William Dowsett, these being the oldest members present of the Union, and Charles A. Dowsett as master of ceremonies the tables being so arranged that the other sixty odd guests were all facing the guests of honor, each table bearing a basket of choice spring flowers, and the lighting effects being in the form of yellow lilies. Ample justice was done to the splendid menu which comprised:

Escalloped Oysters
Shrimp Salad
Cabbage Rellish and Pickles
Rolls
Harlequin Jelly With Cream
Tea and Coffee

Following the supper, and while the guests were still at the tables, they were startled by the honking of an automobile horn and Mr. Dowsett requested Lois Russell to ascertain if belated guests were at the door. At first Mr. Russell stated that he found no cause for the disturbance but upon further investigation he came into the hall bearing a heavy patent leather suit case, which Mr. Dowsett took in charge, remarking that he had expected a Rolls Royce but that the case seemed to be all that was in evidence of it. Then in well chosen words he expressed for those present their desire to show their appreciation of Mr. Blinn's many years' service and Mrs. Blinn's work among them, and presented the case which was a very handsome tourists' luncheon kit. In addition to the luncheon kit which was a complete outfit for five people, a sum of gold was also presented, and it being Mrs. Blinn's birthday, she was presented with several individual gifts.

With intense feeling of appreciation Mrs. Blinn spoke of the many years of harmonious association, the loyalty of those present, the future of the organization which he saw assured because of such loyalty, and wished them all God speed in their work. At the close of his remarks, three cheers were given which somewhat lightened the solemnity that the remarks and occasion had engendered.

A social hour of games, music and good fellowship followed. At a subsequent meeting the board of management, Rev. Mr. Blinn was unanimously elected pastor emeritus of the First Spiritual Union, and Charles A. Dowsett was made chairman of the Sunday services for the balance of the season and for the season of 1925 and 1926, it being decided not to call any pastor, but to employ itinerant workers for next season and until some one that would be suitable and satisfactory could be secured.

Mr. and Mrs. Blinn will start by motor next week for Massachusetts where they will spend the summer, going to the southwest in the fall.

ELECT STATE OFFICERS AT D. A. R. CONVENTION

Mrs. Carl Humphrey Bissell, of Southington, was re-elected state regent at the closing session of the thirty-first annual state convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution at Ansonia, Thursday. Other officers elected were:

Vice regents, Katherine Arnold Nettleton, Derby; state recording secretary, Miss Mary Louise Cardee, Newtown; state corresponding secretary, Miss Alice Lee Coe, Winsted; state treasurer, Miss Jennie Loomis, Windsor; state consulting registrar, Miss Mary E. Bishop, Putnam; state historian, Mrs. Laurence Mouat, New Britain; state librarian, Miss Jessie W. Hayden, East Hartford; counsellors, Mrs. Mary A. Smith, Hartford; Mrs. Charles H. Armstrong, Bridgeport; Mrs. Thomas E. Carroll, Wethersfield; Mrs. William P. Barber, West Hartford; Mrs. George A. Ashbey, Norwich; Mrs. Frederick W. Wersebe, Washington; Mrs. Harry W. Hoyt, Danbury.

The Norwich delegates to the convention from Faith Trumbull chapter, who included Mrs. George A. Ashbey, regent, Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn, Mrs. Herbert W. Gallup, Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., and Mrs. George L. Ingalls, returned home late Thursday, reporting a session full of interest with reports that showed a very successful year in all departments, all financial obligations having been met 100 per cent. There were 166 voting members present and an attendance of about 250 at the sessions.

The report for the state organizations of the Children of the American Revolution was presented by Mrs. Allen Bidwell, one of the Norwich delegates.

The Wednesday evening session was one of the high points of the convention, comprising a fine musical programme and an excellent address by Rev. Glinton Wunder of Rochester, N. Y., who spoke upon the Soul of America.

Dinner and luncheon were served in the Ansonia armory and afternoon tea at the Congregational church Thursday afternoon before the convention adjourned about 4.30.

BEGINS LECTURE SERIES FOR CHURCH WORKERS

Professor M. A. Honline of Pasadena opened a series of five lectures on The Life of Christ, Thursday evening at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, which are especially applicable for Sunday school teachers and in which all the churches are joining, giving up their regular Thursday evening services for that purpose.

In the absence of Rev. J. Harlow Graham, chairman of the Norwich training school, Rev. E. C. Dunbar presided and opened the meeting, calling upon State Secretary Wallace I. Woodin of Hartford to introduce Professor Honline who conducted a course here last year.

Professor Honline laid the foundations for the course by speaking of the Teachers' Tools. Among these he spoke of ten essentials, the American revised version of the Bible, a good commentary, an atlas, maps, Snowden's Introduction to the New Testament, Rolls' Life of Christ, and Burton and Goodspeed's Harmony of the Gospel.

Manager of Baseball Team

H. Downer Johnson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Johnson of this city, has been elected manager of the Philadelphia Textile school baseball team. The college schedule which opens Saturday of this week comprises 14 games. The opening game is to be played at Villanova College.

FLAMSTEED ASTRONOMY, 1753, FOUND IN HEBRON ATTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 26—In a neglected corner of the attic of the old house in Hebron which was purchased several years ago by Mrs. T. D. Martin, wife of the rector of St. Peter's Episcopal church, she has come upon an interesting old book. The deed showed the house to have been built in 1752 or thereabouts and in repairing it the present owner has been careful to preserve the Colonial features which mark it as one of the oldest houses in the vicinity. The volume is a large well bound copy of "Atlas Coelestis, by the late Rev. Mr. John Flamsteed, regis professor of astronomy at Greenwich." It was dated at London, 1753. The book, which is 16 by 23 inches in size, was published some time after the death of the author and bears upon the front page that gentleman's likeness, handsomely gotten up in his powdered curling wig and clerical garb. The inscription reads: "To His Most Sacred Majesty, George the second, King of Great Britain, France and Ireland, Etc. This Atlas Coelestis of the late Rev. Mr. John Flamsteed, regis professor of Astronomy at the Royal Observatory at Greenwich, is, With the Greatest Submission, dedicated, By his majesty's most Humble, Most dutiful, Most Obedient Servant, Margaret Flamsteed (the author's daughter), James Hodgson."

There are 30 large double page illustrations, showing the constellations in their proper places in the heavens and represented by the familiar human and animal figures, fantastically depicted after the ancient method.

John Flamsteed, the author, was the first astronomer-royal of England and it was for his use that the Royal Observatory at Greenwich was originally built and named Flamsteed House. He was born in 1646 and spent his youth in the pursuit of mathematics and astronomy. His calculations of some remarkable eclipses of the moon were the means of his receiving an appointment as astronomer to the king in 1675. The statement is made that a sharp quarrel as to the publication of his works took place between him and Newton and Halley. The volume discovered in the attic was eaten with mold and the covers were badly mutilated, but the text and illustrations remain intact.

Mrs. Martin is in receipt of letters from the acting director of astronomy at Yale University saying that the university would greatly appreciate securing the book. He also said that he is astonished to find a copy of it in Connecticut.

Chas. E. Rogers, professor of astronomy at Trinity College, also writes from Hartford that Trinity Library does not possess a copy and that the college would be glad to secure this book.

OFFICER MALONEY FINDS BAG CONTAINING ALCOHOL

Early this (Friday) morning Officer Edward Maloney found a black traveling bag containing three gallons of alcohol on the sidewalk on West Thames street. The officer took charge of the bag and turned it in at police headquarters. Just how the bag happened to be left on the sidewalk is something of a mystery. Considering the fact that real alcohol brings about ten dollars a gallon somebody was rather careless about depositing some $30 worth in the path of the officer. The bag when opened contained one two-gallon can and one single gallon can, both filled with grain alcohol.

GIFT OF AUTOMOBILE TO FIRST BAPTIST PASTOR

The gift of a substantial check for the purchase of an automobile was made to Rev. E. C. Dunbar of the First Baptist church, Wednesday evening at the conclusion of a supper by the Ladies' Aid society. The check was presented by Fred D. Vergason after opening remarks by Walter M. Cowan.

Pastor Dunbar was taken completely by surprise but expressed his heartfelt thanks for the gift which will be such an assistance in his work as pastor for the congregation.

PETRONE TAKES FIRST IN EAGLES PINOCHLE

The fifth evening's play in the weekly pinochle tournament between the members of the Eagles resulted in N. Petrone going from third place to first, replacing J. Leirich, who had 5,400 for his evening's score.

High total for the evening went to A. Hastedt, 7,125, E. P. Mullins, 7,105, W. R. Hastedt 6,960.

Eastern Connecticut Health Report.

The weekly morbidity report issued by the state department of health for the week ending March 23rd shows that during the week Norwich reported one case of diphtheria and one case of scarlet fever. Communicable diseases reported from towns in eastern Connecticut for the week are as follows:

Diphtheria—New London, 1; Norwich, 1; Rockville, 1.

Scarlet fever—Griswold, 1; Norwich, 1; Stonington, 1; Mansfield, 1; Stafford Springs, 1; Pomfret, 4.

Whooping cough—Groton, 6; New London, 1; Stafford, 1.

Dr. Pitt Spoke at Danbury.

Rev. David A. Pitt, pastor of the Central Baptist church, addressed a hundred and fifty workers representing four denominations at a meeting Tuesday evening in Danbury in the interests of a campaign in visitation evangelism.

Plan Sunday School Social

One of the outstanding events of the Sunday School of the Central Baptist church will be the social to be held this (Friday) evening. The committee is planning to present some unusual attractions and it is expected the largest number will be present that have ever attended such a gathering.

WOULD HAVE HOSPITALS ADOPT MORE OPEN POLICY

Chicago, March 26.—In spite of the fact that use of many hospitals is restricted to physicians who are members of the hospital staffs, only 36.8 per cent. or 3,232, of New York city's 8,769 physicians are affiliated with hospitals, according to a special issue of the journal of the American Medical Association on hospital statistics. Twenty-nine per cent. of Cleveland physicians and 25.6 per cent. of Chicago physicians are staff members of hospitals.

"The present tendency in medicine is to urge hospitals to adopt a more open policy in this regard," said the journal.

Only three states, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Maine, have a hospital in each county, according to the journal. They are 1,367 of the 3,061 counties in the United States that have no general hospitals within their borders.

TO REMOVE THE BODY OF ADMIRAL GEORGE DEWEY

Washington, March 26.—Permission to remove the body of Admiral George Dewey hero of Manila Bay, from the mausoleum at Arlington to the crypt of Washington Cathedral where it will rest until an adequate memorial is built in the cathedral has been granted the admiral's widow by the war department. In making this announcement tonight, Mrs. George Dewey said her son, George Dewey of Chicago, concurred in the action.

The navy department will assist Mrs. Dewey in carrying out her plan and will furnish a guard of honor when the transfer is made.

Admiral Dewey died January 16, 1917, in his eightieth year. His body will lie in the same chapel with that of Woodrow Wilson.

WOULD INCREASE CANADIAN REVENUES $1,800,000 ANNUALLY

Ottawa, Ont., March 25.—New budget changes sponsored by the government would increase Canadian revenues $1,300,000 annually J. A. Robb, acting minister of finance said in the house of commons today.

Mr. Robb said the principal increases would be customs $814,613; special revenue act, $347,500; and export duty on electricity $400,000.

TO RECOVER THE BODY OF FLOYD COLLINS FROM CAVE

Cave City, March 26.—Work on the recovery of the body of Floyd Collins in Sand Cave will begin about April 1, W. W. Hunt, mining engineer of Central City, who accepted a contract to recover the body from Homer Collins, brother of Floyd, said here today.

Hunt said he was going to Sand Cave to see what plan will be used in recovering the body from its tomb.

NURMI CONQUORS RITOLA IN SPECIAL 5,000 METERS RACE IN BUFFALO

Buffalo, N. Y., Mar. 26—Paavo Nurmi tonight failed in his ambition to lower the world record of his countryman, Willie Ritola, in a special 5,000 meter match race at the 106th field artillery armory but he left his keenest rival for world record a good 120 yards to the rear at the finish.

As in the previous duel between the two at the 5,000 meter distance in the N. Y. A. C. games, in New York on March 27, Nurmi's race was marred by illness which invaded the track. The tables were turned, however, and this time it was Ritola who felt the touch of cramps as the goal drew near.

Nurmi's time was 14:38—14 4-5 seconds behind the world mark of 14:23 4-5 made by Ritola at Madison Square Garden on February 24.

Ugo Frigerio, 10,000 meter Olympic walking champion, fell before Philip Granville, Indian walker from Canada in a 6,000 meter pursuit race feature. Granville established the first recorded record of 26:34 for the distance, with 40 yards to the good of the Italian.

Alan Helffrich, of Penn state, won a special half mile, defeating Ray Dodge and Ray Watson, of the Illinois A. C. Both failed to lower the world record of 3:2-5 made in 1904 by E. B. Parson of the Yale-Harvard relay. Helffrich's time was 1:55 1-5.

WESTERLY HIGH TRACK TEAM STARTS PRACTICE

The track team of the Westerly High school begins training today (Friday) if the weather continues favorable under the direction of Coach Charles E. Mason when the men will use the walks in Wilcox park. Early distance and track events are handicapped by the lack of a suitable oval, the dump condition of the grounds at the fair ground held off High street preventing early use of the field and also, delaying the early baseball.

Dual meets and possibly four meets are planned this season. On May 9th at Kingston, R. I., the blue and white colors for W. H. S. track laurels are entered at the Rhode Island State college to enter the events as they are held off in the Rhode Island State Interscholastic meet when Westerly High cups are included in Class B. In this class the blue has been won by the Westerly trackmen for the past two years and W. H. S. hope to continue the winning streak.

May 20th in New London the W. H. S. team are entered in the meet to be held there by the Rhode Island-Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic league, this being the first year that Rhode Island appears in the league's ranks.

For April 16th or 23rd a dual meet with Chapman Technical High school of New London is carded. There has also been some discussion of a dual meet with the Stonington High school for track honors, but there has been no definite agreement on dates.

Coaching the W. H. S. Track team this year is Coach Charles E. Mason of the Westerly High school, assisted by W. H. S. Football Coach D. Harold Rogers in the weight events. Samuel Farago is the captain of the track team and Thomas Vitiello, the manager. In the number of fifty men expected to report for track work are the members of the basketball team, prospective baseball stringers, among some of last years' veterans being Capt. Harmon of the cross country team, Samuel Farago, Arthur Novogoski, R. Cavalli, Leo Grilli, N. Capalbo, Capalbo, Lyman Dabrowskie and Pitcom.

TWO CHAPMAN PLAYERS DROPPED FROM BASEBALL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 26—The early conditioning work of the Chapman Technical High baseball squad was given a serious blow, when two of the first string players were suspended from school on Wednesday morning for an indefinite period for insubordination in the French Class. These players Johnny Brown versatile Tech athlete and one of the mainstays of the baseball nine together with Albert Aquillo who played regularly at short last year, were the two players to be suspended. At first it was believed to be merely a suspension of a day, but with no attempt being made by either party to ascertain the exact penalty, the two players have been forced to discontinue their practice with the squad.

It will hurt Tech's chances for an early start, for the season is to get under way on Saturday, April 4th against Old Lyme. Regardless of being deprived of their uniforms, the two suspended players have been on the field during the past two days.

Inter class games were started for the first time today in an effort to uncover some dormant baseball material. A freshman from Old Lyme, Dean by name who is expected to do most of the hurling for Tech this year made a fine showing against the seniors in the initial encounter. These games will be continued. An early cut in the squad is unlikely, for there is not enough players to hamper the work as yet.

ACADEMY CANDIDATES ARE SHAPING UP VERY WELL

The midsummer warmth of Thursday gave Coach Brigham a splendid opportunity to get a line on his baseball charges. The boys who have been working out under wraps were allowed to let out yesterday and the results were able to show their wares it being the mentor of baseball. As yesterday was the only day that the candidates were able to show their wares it being entirely too early to make any comment on the prospects of the personnel of the team. Players who do not show very well at first may be the seasons stars a little later and those that show brilliantly in the early practice may prove to be flivers.

The clubhouse is being renovated and repaired and by next week uniforms will be distributed and practice will start in earnest. Coach Brigham expects to have about 30 men in uniform divided into two or three squads with games every day during the week. The playing field will be rolled within a short time and several of the bad places in the diamond will be smoothed out.

SUB BASE FIVE HAD ONLY A FAIR SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 26—In reviewing the season record of the Submarine Base basketball quintet, the achievement of the team for the season just terminated has its good and bad features. On a whole the team finished the season with a record of ten games reposing on the right side of the ledger and eight games as losses. In the victories of the gobs, several are over prominent fives, but on the other hand a slight relapse at times saw the Base dropping some of the more important contests to their opponents. Some victories were of minor consequence, while the majority of the defeats meant serious setbacks as far as championships in various classes were concerned.

For the first time since the Groton Iron Works beat them out for the City championship, at least eight years ago, the Base was forced to lose the City championship. This year after the gobs had monopolized the basketball field for seven seasons they lost the city title to the Coast Guard Cadets in two games. It was the changing of leadership in this particular sport, and once ejected from the top rung of the ladder in basketball the Sub Base will have a hard time regaining their lost standing. The Coast Guard will have practically the same outfit back to play against next season.

In the deciding game for the Eastern Service championship, the Submarine Base on March 17th lost the deciding game to the Newport Training Station after each team had won a game. The outstanding features of the record were the victories over such teams as the Manchester Atlas, Hudson A. C. of New Haven, Newport Torpedo Station, U. S. S. Rochester at Brooklyn, N. Y., and the Westerly Cycle Club. The victory over the Service five from Washington, D. C., at the state armory was one of the most impressive of all Sub Base victories. This game was one of the two which was to decide the Atlantic States championship, but the defeat the local gobs suffered at the hands of the Newport Training Station in the play off, lost them the opportunity to travel to Washington to oppose the Capitol City outfit for the Atlantic States Service championship.

Striking a tartar in the two Eastern Connecticut semi-professional teams, the Army and Navy of Taftville and the Plainfield five, these defeats retarded the early development of the five to mid-season form. Both were roughly played contests, and immediately after losing these two games, two more in quick succession were dropped. A string of victories followed the reverses, and four straight wins were hung up before the Newport Training Station was able to break through for a victory to mar the record.

The second short winning streak began with a victory against Newport Training station, followed by victories over Colchester, Manchester Atlas and the U. S. S. Rochester five. In the deciding game for the city championship, the Coast Guard found the gobs for the second victory over this team this year and took away the supremacy in this field after the gobs had things their own for such a long stretch of years. The season did not end in a blaze of glory, and the team finished with two defeats which spoiled a fairly good record.

The season's record for 1924-25.

BULKELEY BASEBALL SQUAD IS AGAIN CUT BY COACH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 26—Further cuts in the Bulkeley baseball squad were made today, when the squad which was originally cut to 31 members yesterday has but 25 on the list now. This weeding out process will continue all week, and with the beginning of practice next week, the team is expected to lose no time in getting in trim. Some of the veterans from last year have a difficult task before them to get into condition. But there remains almost three weeks more of preliminary work before the first team of the year is encountered.

RAIDED CLUB IS NOT THE ORIGINAL HARDIG A. C.

The original Hardig Athletic Club, which has been in existence for the past 15 or 20 years resent very much the using of their name for a club that was raided Wednesday evening for gambling. The club that was raided has recently taken the name of the Hardig Athletic Club and has no connection with the original Hardig athletic club organized so many years ago. The original Hardigs have been prominent in the local field of sports for a number of years and is a club that is strictly devoted to outdoor sports and not to the indoor pastimes of poker and "galloping dominoes."

GIVE CLEVER ENTERTAINMENT AT ST. ELIZABETH ST. SCHOOL

An entertainment for the benefit of the athletic fund at the Elizabeth street school was given Thursday afternoon in the school auditorium before a large audience that enjoyed the programme given by the several grades. The grades from the eighth to the fifth participated and the children's clever work was greatly applauded.

A playlet, The House of the Heart, was given by the eighth grade, Miss Nina Perry and Miss Gertrude Ward, teachers. The prelude was by Jacob Davis and the characters were taken as follows: Winston, Carolyn Beebe; the Child, Sarah Brickman; Love, Sarah Crumb; Cheerfulness, Sam Sechter; Envy, Catherine Broks; Industry, John Johnson; Dame Quarrelsome, Marion Murtagh; Gossip, Ellen Snow; Grumble, George Way; Laziness, Rutherford Schwartzberg.

Five children, Irving Slosberg, Frederick Gross, Isaac Gordon, Ethel Jacobson and Eleanor Grusinski, from the seventh grade room of Miss Isabelle M. Crawford gave a clever wand drill, a Norwegian dance in costume by nine girls and a dance, Dainty Steps, was given by ten girls from Miss Lillian Brewster's seventh grade room.

The playlet, Useless Grains, was given by the sixth grade room of Miss Ann Brand, those taking part being: Leonard Royce, Abraham Goldberg, Floyd Russell, Vincent Gryzkowski, Patrick Buonano, Margaret Whalen, Bessie Edwards, Evelyn Elliott, Steffa Snurkowski.

Girls from the sixth grade room of Mrs. Kremmer gave the Jumping Jack Jubilee.

The sixth grade room of Miss Lucille Haggerty presented the playlet Tom's Practical Joke, with the following characters: Aunt Emma, Anna Shapiro; Tom, the nephew, Earl Swan; Mary, Tom's sister, Augusta Goldblatt; Bill, Henry Riordan; Ted, Jack Ward. It included a solo by Henry Riordan with mandolin accompanied by Jack Ward.

The fifth grade rooms of Miss Emily Wilcox and Miss Mary Shannon united in presenting a pretty butterfly dance in which the following took part: Evelyn Wood, Mary Yablonsky, Helen Ostrowski, Mildred Weisinger, Sophy Borsa, Jennie Hurinowitch, Miriam Gordan, Nettie Kowalchik, Ethel Teizonsky, Frances Baranowski, Pauline Gross.

BALTIC-TAFTVILLE GAME AT PARISH HALL TONIGHT

The deciding game between the Baltic Wanderers and the Taftville Army-Navy Five will be played this evening at Parish Hall. Each team has won one game on their own floor. In the first game of the series the Taftville team easily defeated the Baltic quintet but in the second meeting the Wanderers displayed brilliant team work and in a hotly contested game emerged the victors by the scant margin of a single point.

The Wanderers will present the same lineup that defeated the local team last Friday night, Simoneau, Charron, Coady, Ridgeway and the Robertaille brothers. The Taftville team will be: J. Murphy and Belair, forwards, Harry Mills, center, and the Coleman brothers in the guard positions. Eddie Murphy will act in the utility role.

It is expected that this will be the final appearance of the local quintet on the chalked court this season and a large crowd is expected to back the home club to the limit.

In the preliminary game the Army-Navy Seconds will meet one of the strongest junior teams in the eastern part of the state in the All-Stars. Red Burelle, formerly manager of the Seconds has picked up a team that he considers the equal if not the superior of the Seconds. The Seconds have been beaten but once this season and are out to prevent another blot on their slate. The All-Stars will play the following men in their line-up: Berberick and Ellie Segal, forwards; Andrews, center, Despathy and Yerrington, guards. The Seconds will line up as follows: Gauthier and Bus Murphy, forwards; St. Germaine, center; Lemieux and Eccleston, guards. Paquette and Lamothe will act as subs. The game is called for 8:15 o'clock.

QUATRAIN IS ENTERED IN FAMOUS PREAKNESS

Baltimore, March 26—Quatrain, 3 year old son of Omar Khayyam—Bonnie Mary, which won close to $50,000 at New Orleans this season, will start in the Preakness at Pimlico in May, barring accidents.

Quatrain, a 6 to 1 favorite for the Kentucky Derby in the winter books, is now at Lexington, Ky. Word received here today from the owner, Frederick Johnson, said the colt would start in the Preakness if he trains satisfactorily.

Intercollegiate Bowling

New Haven, March 26—Michigan, University of Illinois and De Paw bowling teams were the winners in the scores of the intercollegiate bowling association games announced today by Secretary Moore. The scores:

Michigan 948; 907; 872.
Yale 958; 887; 848.
Illinois 924; 928; 888.
Navy 824; 829; 737.
De Paw 816; 863; 924.

EASTERN CONN. TRACK MEET TONIGHT AT NEW LONDON HAS BIG ENTRY LIST

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 26—A track meet which is expected to encircle the entire Eastern section of the state will be run off at the state armory on this (Friday) evening under the auspices of the 25th Brigade Headquarters National Guard unit. Entry blanks from the Sub Base, Coast Guard, Norwich, Mystic, Knights of Columbus, Y. M. C. A., Bulkeley and Chapman Technical High schools have been received, and each of these distinct organizations will have in the field some of the best dash and long distance men yet to perform on the track here in many a moon.

There has been a furore created as the result of the announcement that Bulkeley would appear on the same bill with Chapman Tech and opposing the tract team from that institution. This has been denied by the Bulkeley Headmaster and he is not sanctioning the appearing of the athletes from Bulkeley to use the school name. However, the keen rivalry that exists between the two High schools will be at its highest pitch, for nearly the entire Bulkeley squad of track men will enter in some event, track or field. This assures plenty of competition from this source as well as from the Coast Guard and the Submarine Base. These teams will have a fast relay team from the Knights of Columbus to defeat, and interest is running high as to who will be the ultimate winner in the various events.

The relay team from Norwich which was expected to be entered is reported to have found difficulties in securing a fourth member to make it a quartet. And for this reason a relay team from the Rose City will not be entered. However it is noted in the entry blanks that several Norwich runners will participate in some other events.

From the High school athletes whose performances stand out for themselves, the personnel of Bulkeley contingent will be as follows: Shefiott, Henkie, Le Blanc, Granata and Barry. Chapman Tech will have for the upholding of its colors, Captain Vibber, winner in a numerous long distance races in Eastern Interscholastic meets, Courbois from Norwich, Caruso, Brown, Zaparanick, Davy, Montgomery and Streeter.

For the Knights of Columbus, the fleet footed Joe Macinones who came within a fraction of a second in breaking the indoor world's record for the 35-yard dash in the last Bulkeley meet two years will lead the Kaceys in the various events. McDonald, Kenneth Shea a fine distance man, Skiffington and a host of others will unhold the Kaceys in the meet, or the Y. M. C. A. athletes, the number is large, and expert runners and field men have already made impressive showings in preliminary workouts.

Medals will consist of medals for first three places. For first place in any event a gold medal will be given to the winner, while second place men will receive silver and third placers bronze medals. A large crowd is expected to be on hand, for this meet is for the surplus fund established for camp days during the Summer each year.

DERBY MAY HAVE JOCKO ... ... CONLON OR THE NUTMEGS

W. L. Derby, manager of The Nutmegs, the semi-professional team that will play Sunday ball at the Fairgrounds this coming summer, is in New York aranging with Ed. Barrow, secretary of the New York Yankees, to have the Yanks play at the Fairgrounds on June 28th. From New York Manager Derby is to go to Philadelphia to make a deal for bleacher seats and at the same time close a deal whereby the Athletics will play in Norwich.

Manager Derby is scouting for players and his latest prospect is Jocko Conlon, former Harvard captain and diamond star who has been with the Boston Braves. Conlon was a sensation when he broke into professional ball and if Mr. Derby can land him he will be a great asset to the local team.

On his return from Philadelphia Manager Derby will take up his residence in Norwich and will personally supervise the] aying out of the diamond at the fairgrounds, where he intends to have accommodations for at least 5,000 fans. He gives his word that Norwich will have a team that it may be proud and that only fast baseball will bep layed here this summer. All he asks is that the Norwich fans come out and see for themselves what he has to offer in the line of baseball.

TWO VOLUNTOWN RIFLEMEN WIN NATIONAL MEDALS

The little town of Voluntown boasts of what few towns in the United States, no matter of what size, can claim. Right there in the village are two crack rifle shots who are ranked among the best ten shots in America. They, who hold this distinction are John Kaufmann and George B. Sheldon. In the 40 shot standing match on the 75 yard range these men placed in the first ten in America. Mr. Kaufmann was third with a score of 383 ou tof a possible 500 while Mr. Sheldon was tenth with a score of 379. Both men have received medals according to their ranking in the shoot. The scores of the ten follow:

J. A. Wade, Sheridan, Wyoming	385
John Doruvilea, West Bend, Ia.	384
John Kaufmann, Voluntown, Conn.	383
E. Johnson, Cleveland, O.	383
A. E. Hart, Cleveland, O.	382
H. M. Thomas, New Haven, Conn	382
P. A. Sawyer, Bangor, Me.	382
F. E. Border, West Bend, Ia.	381
I. L. Murray, Cambridge, Mass.	380
George B. Sheldon, Voluntown Ct.	379

SHEVLIN GETS VERDICT OVER ROCK SMITH

Hartford, Mar. 26—Eddie Shevlin, welterweight champion of New England, was awarded a close decision over "Rocky" Smith, of Battle Creek, Mich., here tonight, after a most spectacular fight seen in Hartford since the legalization of the sport.

Shevlin was almost out on his feet in the seventh round but Smith, despite his heavy hitting could not knock him down. In the eighth, Shevlin, staged a spectacular rally and carried the round by a wide margin. The crowd differed as to the winner.

In the semi-final of eight rounds, Vincent Forgione, of New York, won the decision over "Kid" Carson, of Holyoke, Mass. Eddie Lord, of Waterbury, defeated Johnny O'Keefe, of Hartford, in one six round preliminary and 'Sailor' Andre of Hartford won the verdict over Johnny Saxon, of Bridgeport in the other.

GIBBONS NOT READY TO SIGN TO MEET TUNNEY

Chicago, March 26—After an all-day conference, Jimmy De Forrest, new matchmaker of the Polo Grounds A. C. New York, left tonight for St. Paul without the signature of Eddie Kane, manager of Tom Gibbons, for a 15 round contest with Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, at the Polo Grounds, New York, on June 12.

Kane gave no indication that he would reject the offer but pleaded for more time to consider it. He promised to meet De Forrest on his return here Saturday, when the negotiations will be resumed.

De Forrest went to St. Paul in an attempt to obtain the signature of Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, to a set of articles. Tunney boxes Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, in St. Paul tomorrow night.

De Forrest said he had offered Kane 30 per cent. of the receipts, which would amount to more than $100,000 as Gibbons' share provided the gate reached above $400,000. De Forrest figures the match will draw between $400,000 and $500,000.

Tunney will be offered 20 per cent. of the receipts and acording to advices from St. Paul, Manager Gibson will accept.

HARVARD SQUAD TAKES TO OUTDOOR PRACTICE

Cambridge, Mass., March 26—The varsity baseball squad of Harvard moved outdoors today for the first time, spending two hours in batting practice which incidenially gave plenty of fielding exercise. At the end of the period, Coach Eddie Mahan announced the cut which brings the squad of 45 down to 26 men. Those dropped today will continue baseball work under Fred Lake, veteran major leaguer. Exchanges between the two squads are expected during the season.

Columbia Opens Against Cornell.

New York, March 26—Columbia will meet Cornell at Ithaca, April 18, in the first contest of the recently formed intercollegiate baseball league, the members of which are Columbia, Dartmouth, Cornell and Pennsylvania. The prize will be the quadrangle cup and the winner will be decided on the percentage basis, the same system which maintains in the professional circuits.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

San Francisco has sent Shortstop Ray Flaskamper and Catcher Andy Vargas to Lincoln of the Western League.

Infielder Charles J. Comiskey has been sold by Reading to Hartford of the Eastern League. Comiskey was used as utility man last season.

Messrs. Stallings and Hapgood have moved Captain George Spiers over to Bridgeport of the Eastern League, from Scranton of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

Port Hudson, Mich., has been awarded the sixth franchise in the reorganized Michigan-Ontario League. Port Hudson has been out of baseball for two years.

Frank Stapleton has been appointed manager of the Pittsfield team of the Eastern League. He will be a playing boss, having been first baseman on the team for the past four seasons.

Gene Calders, left-handed pitcher with New Orleans last season, has been purchased by Memphis. With the Pels Caldera won nine and lost nine in 1924. He was with Beaumont in the Texas League in 1923.

Joe Thorburn has been reinstated, and will report to Atlanta. It is said Manager Niehoff will give him a whirl at pitching, although he has been playing the outfield and hitting well in New Orleans semi-pro circles.

Sal Dinning, slugger and flychaser with Wichita last year, has been traded to St. Joseph for First Baseman-Outfielder William (Chief) Wano. The St. Joseph Club had recently acquired Wano from Dallas in the deal that sent Hack Miller to the Texas city.

The "Lone Star Sport Magazine" has made its appearance. It is a monthly publication devoted to all sorts of sports in the state of Texas, the various departments being conducted by men well versed in their particular line of athletics. It gives a goodly amount of space to Texas teams and league in Organized Baseball. Zeke Handler of Fort Worth, is the editor and publisher.

As the primary object of the Davis cup tournaments is to assist in the spread of the game of tennis throughout the world, it is probable that most of the first and second round matches in the competitions this year will not be played in America but in Europe. It is pointed out that the challenge round is assured to the United States, where interest in tennis is already higher than in most other countries.

President Sexton of the National Association, is re-considering the case against Cletus Dixon, manager of the pennant-winning Waterloo team of the Mississippi Valley League, who was suspended for a year for having a secret agreement with one of his players. Dixon, who managed his first organized Baseball team last season, has made his plea for reconstruction because of what he alleges was ignorance of the rules.

Charging that Ernest Ashenheimer, a Whiting, Ind., policeman, struck him in the face with his club, thereby destroying the sight of an eye and ending his professional baseball career, Ed. Rafferty, former White Sox player, has brought suit of $10,000 damages. Rafferty was arrested for disorderly conduct and the arresting officer declares he resisted arrest. The player was under suspension from the White Sox since 1923, having gone to that club from Waterbury.

Joe Cantillon, assistant business manager and scout for the Chicago White Sox, who also owns an interest in the Little Rock Club of the Southern League, dropped in on Little Rock the other day, and was escorted over to the state capital. The legislature was in session and Pongo was granted the privileges of the lower house. Introduced to the representatives from the speaker's rostrum, there was a cry of "speech, speech." But Joe couldn't get a squeak out of himself. He mopped his brow and beat it as fast as his friends would let him. Joe, perhaps, feared he might say something about the legislature's failure to put the sunday ball bill through.

Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Dodgers, who was ill most of the winter, has been directing the practice work at Clearwater from a chair behind the batting cage. He is still a little weak, but is gradually getting back his lost poundage and vigor.

Derrill Pratt, manager of the new Waco team of the Texas League, was tendered a dinner by baseball enthusiasts upon his arrival at Waco. Pratt's reporting was delayed somewhat by illness in his family.

Blake Harper, president of the Fort Smith Western Association club, announces the sale of Pitcher Hooks Bailey, Second Baseman Julie Nee, and Pitcher Billy Wood to the Quincy club of the Three-I League.

Runt Marr, manager of Vicksburg of the Cotton States League, has signed Herbert Johnson a semi-pro infielder of Fort Smith, for a trial.

Commissioner Landis has invited John Philip Sousa, the noted bandmaster to compose a march to be used at all ceremonies on American baseball fields. The invitation was extended to Sousa when Landis met him in Cuba recently.

Bill Essick, manager of the Vernon Pacific Coast League club, has signed Red Billman, a right-handed pitcher who worked for Harry Hannah's club in the winter league.

Ross C. Harriott, who has been secretary-treasurer of the Terre Haute Club of the Three-I League, for seven years, has been elected president of the club succeeding J. J. Cleary, who resigned to become business manager of the Bridgeport Eastern League club. Other officers elected were W. J. Stuebe, secretary and R. H. Rhyan, treasurer. Both of these have served as members of the board of directors.

Josh Billings former catcher for the St. Louis Browns, has been signed by the Boston Red Sox. He was a free agent.

Outfielder Warwick C. Comstock, who is claimed to be next to Archdeacon, the fastest man in baseball, has been turned over to Bridgeport by Rochester. He is a youngster who hails from the Texas Association.

PRAIRIE FIRES RAGING IN ROSEBUD RESERVATION

Valentine, Neb., March 26.—(By The A. P.)—Three prairie fires were raging in the Rosebud Indian reservation tonight, while rangers and Indians fought desperately to check the flames. Three villages had been burned to ruins by the blaze, and one report received here told of a woman and two small children being burned to death at Tuthill.

Miles City, Mont., March 26.—Prairie fires, raging in the Grand river territory in South Dakota, are threatening the grave of Sitting Bull, famous Indian Medicine Man, according to reports reaching here tonight.

The noted Indian met death at the hands of Lieutenant Bullhead, of General Nelson Miles' command, on December 15, 1890, when he resisted arrest after refusing to give up practice of the traditional "ghost dance."

ROUGH TIME ARRESTING DOPESTER IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, March 26.—Flashing of guns and a rough and tumble fight featured the arrests this afternoon here of Steven Puleco, of Fair street and Alphonse Mignion, who were taken on Church street by federal narcotic agents and locked up at police headquarters.

Mignion is alleged to have pulled a gun which he leveled at one of the agents and was subdued by a blow over the head with a gun in the hands of another officer.

A huge crowd gathered and followed the officers and prisoners to headquarters. They were held for the United States commissioner on charges of violating the federal narcotic law.

CANADIAN CANOEIST HAS REACHED MARSAILLES

Marseilles, France, March 26—Drenched to the skin, but cheerful, George H. C. Smythe, the Canadian canoeist, who set out last August from St. John, N. B., to paddle to Rome, except for the trip across the Atlantic, reached Marseilles today.

The canoeist arrived in England by steamer from New York last fall and preceeded with his boat to Dover, on the English channel. The first attempt to make the passage across the channel from Dover to Calais was unsuccessful, but he succeeded the twenty miles on his next effort.

From Calais Smythe paddled to Paris and thence proceeded by way of Lyons from Marseilles. He left Lyons at 9:30 o'clock March 22 and averted more than 62 miles a day down the river Rhone. He accomplished that on the Mediterranean the wind was colder than in the gulf of St. Lawrence during a northeaster.

"The weather has been unfavorable," said Smythe on his arrival here. "I have been wet through every day and had no time to admire the scenery. If the mistral abates I will leave tomorrow for Rome. I have yet thirty days to make the Italian capitol in order to win my bet."

TO SIMPLIFY TRANSMITTING ON NEWS BY RADIO TELEGRAPH

Washington, March 26.—The navy department made public today a report from a European radio magazine of a conference of 25 news agencies at Berne, Switzerland, at which resolutions were adopted looking to simplification of transmitting news by radio telegraph.

The proposals will be submitted to the next international communications conference, the date of which has not been determined. They urge measures to protect news in transit from leakage; adoption of a means of rapid ciphering; provision for multiple addressing of dispatches; reduction of press rates, and extension of these rates to all hours.

The conference which was attended by representatives of the Reuters Havas, Stefani, and Rosta Agencies an dothers declared the radio telephone was a menace to news agencies through the easy flooding of "uncontrolled" press news, and also urged uniform legislation in the copyrighting of press news.

The report was obtained for publication in the naval communications bulletin which says:

"While many of the suggested remedies are contrary to American principles it is obvious that the news agencies have a responsible case, and their views doubtless will have to be met in some way by the next international communications conference."

INDIAN CO-RESPONDENT IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE

New York, March 26.—Joe Schakuka, a Hopi Indian guide, was named as co-respondent in a suit for absolute divorce filed in Nassau county court by Clifford Hendricks wealthy big game hunter, against his wife, Ida May Hendricks.

The suit was revealed today, in Brooklyn supreme court, when an application by Hendricks for permission to serve the summons and complaint by publication, was granted by Justice Faber. Since the action was instituted, Hendricks said, he has been unable to find his wife, who is believed to be in California.

According to the sportsman's complaint he was married in 1920 at Kenmore, N. Y. L. Last summer he and his wife traveled in the west, where, the complaint alleges, Mrs. Hendricks met Secakuku during a hunting trip and was guilty of misconduct with the guide in Arizona and California during July, August, September and October.

HEADING FOR MANHOOD OR CLAMHOOD ?

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

I don't know whether the editor of The Bulletin will feel flattered or scandalized that I choose a sentence from a recent Bulletin editorial as my text, this morning. He was discussing "Making a Success," and recalled various boys who had won their way up the ladder of success to positions of prominence. He noted that they had all "got thar" by personal endeavor and application, by seeing opportunities and making the most of them. Right there he put in my text:—

"Their aim was to work and not to fudge it."

This is terse, it is self-explanatory, and it is absolutely true. The boys, whether from the farm or elsewhere, who attain prominence or win success do so by earning it through hard, steady and long work. There are no honest exceptions to this rule. Of course, gamblers and "bandits" and sneak thieves sometimes make large "hauls," but I don't think we're ready to admit that this is honest success.

Any such prominence or success as decent people crave or admire necessarily implies that its winner has excelled others in his chosen line. He has beaten them in the race; has got ahead of them and stays ahead. If there were 100,000,000 presidents of the United States, Calvin Coolidge wouldn't be any more prominent than each one of the other 99,999,999. If every one of us was worth $500,000,000, Henry Ford wouldn't be any more of a business success than you and I and the others. If we all wrote as good poetry as Alfred Tennyson, or painted as good pictures as Titian, or made as wonderful statues as St. Gaudens, or invented as enthralling stories as Charles Dickens, why, then neither Tennyson nor Titian nor St. Gaudens nor Dickens would be anything out of the ordinary.

To cite instances more intimately within the purview of "fans" and "flappers," Dempsey wouldn't be getting a cool million for one prize-fight if he wasn't the biggest and burliest scrapper in five continents. "Babe" Ruth wouldn't be getting a salary of $52,000 a year, plus bonuses and commissions, if he hadn't made of himself the best bat-twirler between the Atlantic and the Pacific. Nurmi wouldn't be in the first column of all the "sports" pages if he hadn't trained his legs so that they could get over more ground in less time than any other legs in civilization.

Dewey won the battle of Manila bay and immortal fame, not by any lucky fluke but because he and Secretary Roosevelt had been planning for some such an event for years, had been nursing the ships and training the crews and picking the ammunition and preparing for all sorts of possible or impossible contingencies. The victor the great sea-fight began his approach to it through the hard and rigorous discipline of the Naval Academy and long after-years at work in the handling of men and guns.

Sheridan won the fight at Winchester, not because he rode a big black horse and swung his hat, but because, from the time he entered West Point, he had been preparing for just such a scrimmage. He got the victory because he had earned it through long years of training and numerous campaigns of strenuous service.

If you're an old fashioned housewife and "set" your milk in shallow pans, the cream doesn't rise because it's in the pans. It rises because it's the nature of cream to get to the top.

Through all the realms of nature, including the province of humanity, the rule holds good that eminent success, in any line, comes only to eminent desert in that line. There's nothing new in that statement. It is old and trite. It has been said before, in one way or another, many times.

"The heights by great men won and kept
Were not attained by sudden flight.
But they, while their companions slept,
Were toiling upward through the night."

That is not merely good poetry, it is good sense and historical truth, as well.

It is not true that the world owes any man a living. It offers him an equal chance to earn one if he has the grit and gumption to do so. That's all. It is not true that success is a matter of luck. It is payment for work done and service rendered.

The wise Solomon once remarked that there were several things too deep for him. There are, likewise, several things too strong for us boosters of the twentieth century.

Not even a vote of the United States senate, affirmed by the United States supreme court and backed by the United States army, can make two-plus-two equal anything but four.

Not all the plantings of a Paul nor all the waterings of an Apollos can make the seed of a thistle produce a fig-tree.

Not even an unanimous vote of the entire electorate can make wrong right, or damphoolishness wisdom.

There are quite a number of things in this universe which are not open to amendment or change by plebiscitum. Call them what you please, "axioms," or "eternal verities," or "laws of nature," or "laws of God," they remain immutable, impregnable and imperishably dominant. We can no more change them than we can change the cosmic marches of the stars across infinite space; we can no more resist them than we can resist the sun-rise; we can no more escape them than we can escape death.

Yet that pitiful futility, that incredible folly is, apparently, the one thing which humanity spends most of its time trying to accomplish. It is all the while seeking to get something for nothing; to have without earning; to win the race by sitting in an easy chair and snoozing. Too many want to be "carried to the skies on flowery beds of ease," though they know perfectly well that others "fought to win the prize or sailed through bloody seas."

Especially does this seem to be true of the younger generation. Science and invention have brought so many luxuries within ordinary reach that the tendency is growing, by leaps and bounds, to consider luxury the end and aim of life.

Hitherto, those who have succeeded have done so because they did more and better work along their respective lines than those who failed. And, so long as truth remains true, so long will all who aspire to rival them have to follow in their steps. Heredity and environment are doubtless influential in some measure. Of course there must be some degree of capacity to start with. You can't make a steel razor blade out of a lead bullet. Nor can you make one out of iron ore till that ore has been smelted and refined and converted and re-worked into something about as unlike its original promise as can be conceived. Nor would all the education and all the training of the world make a Newton out of a congenital idiot. But the vast majority of men are not idiots, congenial or otherwise. They have a fairly even start in life. They are offered fairly equal opportunities.

"I never had a chance," whines some failure. Bosh. What he means is that he was too lazy or too stupid or too much engrossed in lesser matters to take the chances which passed him. He who prefers to go birdsnesting in the woods or dozing in the shade by the roadside is not apt to catch a ride on the Car of Opportunity when it whizzes past.

Remember the old saying that, if a man will only make a better mouse-trap than was ever made before, the world will beat a path to his door, though that door be only a cabin's in the woods.

Success means getting ahead. And getting ahead means getting in advance of the crowd. There's no use in being mealy-mouthed over facts. There's no such possibility in nature as of everybody's being ahead. "It can't be did." The very fact that A is ahead implies that B or C or D,—perhaps all of them,—are behind. And the only way to get ahead and keep ahead is to go faster than the laggards.

Our civilization and our social organizations are getting so complicated and tangled up that were in imminent danger of forgeting or at least of trying to ignore these hard facts. A good many of us try to gloze them over and pretend that we've discovered a way of getting around them. We haven't. And we never will.

The only way to honorable or even decent success is by the long and arduous road of accomplishment. To attain the goal ambitious would-be winners must make up their minds—

To be motors,—not brakes;
To be do-ers,—not dodgers;
To be men,—not mice;
To live,—not loaf.

There seems to be an idea in many quarters that men ought not to compete for success, that they all ought to march to the same tune and with the same route-step, and that step determined by the slowest laggards in the line. The inevitable result of this would be to turn all humanity into one flat morass of mediocrity.

Is that the sort of landscape you admire and desire? No mountain ranges, no rolling hills, no sky-scraping peaks, —just one monotonous level above which nothing shall be allowed to rise?

If so, you'll never be a "success,"—and won't deserve to be!

Physicists tell us that, if the surface of the earth were trued down to one dead smooth globe, the water would stand about a mile deep all over it, so much greater is the bulk of the oceans.

I suppose that would suit the whales and the sharks and the squids. But few men really want to live under a mile of salt water,—or are able to. The dry land is admittedly ridgy and stony and hard, But if we're going to continue to be men we shall have to take it as it is. If we prefer to be clams, perhaps the other thing would be more suitable.

One trouble with our times is that too many men seem to act on the belief that clamhood is more desirable than manhood.

THE FARMER.

JURY SUSTAINS WILL OF SAMUEL GOMPERS

Washington, March 26—The will of Samuel Gompers was sustained here today by a jury in the District of Columbia supreme court which decided against the charge of Mrs. Gertrude A. Gompers, the widow, that the labor leader had been unduly influenced.

Attorneys for Mrs. Gompers, who had previously announced she would not further oppose the will, were present, but offered no testimony. Mrs. Gompers was left a sum equal to her dowry rights and an estate of about $40,000.

RHEUMATIC PAINS GO SWOLLEN JOINTS VANISH

Rheuma—the One Safe and Quick-Acting Remedy for Rheumatism—Money Back if it Fails

Thousands of sufferers have freed themselves from the bondage of rheumatism; rid themselves of the torturing pain; reduced the swollen joints; thrown away canes and crutches, and from helpless beings became able to work and to be of use to themselves and their families.

They took Rheuma; the modern enemy of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, arthritis, gout and chronic neuralgia.

Don't be sceptical about Rheuma. You will know in a few hours after beginning the treatment that the poisonous uric acid is leaving your system through the natural channels. You will feel better in a day; you will know you are going to be helped in less than a week.

Don't think because Rheuma is not expensive that it won't bring you back to health. There is no guess work about it. That's why Lee & Osgood Co., and good druggists everywhere sell it with guarantee of money back if it does not give quick and blessed relief almost at once.

Quick Wits and Quick Legs

Alas, how very, very few
Think quickly and as quickly do!
—Old Mother Nature.

Quick wits alone are not enough. No, sir, they are not enough. In time of danger it is useless to think quickly and then hesitate and be slow to put into action the result of your quick thinking. Quick thinking and quick action must go together. Either is useless without the other. Of course, you know the old saying: "He who hesitates is lost." It is a true saying. If Peter Rabbit had hesitated an instant when he was surprised by Reddy Fox up there by Johnny Chuck's house he would have been lost.

But Peter didn't hesitate. His wits worked fast. They told him that there was just one way and only one way of escape open to him and that was Johnny Chuck's house. Never had he been in there. He hadn't expected ever to go in there as long as Johnny and Polly Chuck used it. They might be very angry, and Peter knew that he was no match for an angry Chuck, to say nothing of two angry Chucks. Still he didn't hestitate. He bounded forward and dived headfirst into that long hall of Johnny Chuck's house, and couldn't help grinning as he thought of Reddy Fox and how angry he would be. Peter knew that Reddy hadn't once thought he, Peter, would dare go into Johnny's Chuck's house with Johnny and Polly right there.

He heard Polly Chuck scrambling down the hall behind him. He heard Johnny Chuck growling and snarling and guessed that Johnny had turned in his doorway to face Reddy Fox, which was just what Johnny had done. As he went further and further toward the Chuck bedroom Peter continued to think fast. Polly Chuck behind him was saying things not at all pleasant to listen to. She was telling Peter just what she was going to do to him when she caught him. Peter knew that she could do just what she said she would do. No, it wasn't at all pleasant to hear.

He bounded forward and dived head first down into the long hall of Johnny Chuck's house.

"There must be a back hall leading to a back door somewhere," thought Peter. "Johnny and Polly Chuck are too clever to have a home with only one door. The thing to do is for me to find that and get out as quickly as possible before Reddy Fox thinks of it. It may be he knows where it is. If he does and thinks of it he will hurry over to it, for he will guess that Polly Chuck will drive me out that way. But if he doesn't know where it is, or doesn't think of it, I will have a chance to get away."

So you see Peter's wits were working fast and his legs were working just as fast. In fact, they were working so fast that he almost ran past the entrance to that back hall. Just in the nick of time he saw it and turned into it. He knew it was the back hall because it slanted up, which mean that it led to the surface of the ground. Polly Chuck, still saying spiteful things about a person who would enter the house of other people without being invited, turned into the back hall, and Peter knew that he must keep on.

His heart began to beat a little faster as he saw just a wee bit of light up ahead and knew that it came through the doorway. Where would he find himself when he came out? Was Reddy Fox waiting there for him? Why couldn't Polly Chuck be satisfied now and go back to her bedroom? Then he could sit just inside the doorway and make sure that the way was clear.

But it was clear that Polly Chuck would not be satisfied until he was out of her house. There was nothing for it but to go out of that back door as fast as his legs could take him and trust to fortune that he could reach some other place of safety before Reddy could catch him. Peter drew a long breath and shot out of the back door of Johnny Chuck's house lipperty-lipperty-lip as fast as thoses long legs of his could take him, and his eyes rolled this way and that way to see where he was and where Reddy Fox was.

Piles

Can't Be Cured From the Outside.

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., set at work some years ago to find a real internal Pile remedy. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It's easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

WARDEN ELECTED IN JUDGE GREEN'S PLACE

Hon. H. H. Gallup was elected warden of Christ Episcopal church at a church meeting this week, filling the vacancy left by the death of Judge Gardiner Greene. Mr. Gallup has been vestryman and Francis Gilman was elected to that office to succeed Mr. Gallup.

The output of the American cotton manufacturing industry in 1923 was valued at $1,901,125,703, an increase of 48.7 per cent over the 1921 figure.

Only Laughter is Sure

Send us laughter, O gods, for life is but vain;
We are bruised by its rods, we are galled by its chain.
What doth patience avail, or the strength to endure
In the fight when we fail? Only laughter is sure.

Faith is comrade no more. Sorrow sees us and nods.
From your generous store give us laughter, O gods;
That with sword of it girt, and with helm of it crowned,
We may battle unhurt, we may wander unbound!

Send us laughter, great lords, for our woes are too deep
To be served by the swords save of laughter and sleep!
Send us laughter, O gods, and the world is our own,
From the cloud to the clods, from the cot to the throne!

It shall soften the sting of the whips that are whirled,
And a balm it shall bring for the wounds of the world.
It shall lighten the rods, it shall cover the sore;
Send us laughter, O gods, for our armor of warl.
—W. H. Ogilvie.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain
How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

GIFT MADE TO SUPERINTENDENT BATH AT CONFERENCE AT FALL RIVER

Rev. W. H. Bath of this city, who is conducting a six-year period as superintendent in the Norwich district of the Methodist churches in the New England Southern conference, presented his annual report Thursday at the annual conference in session at Fall River.

The following was the report:

The Norwich District

Pastoral Changes

When our last session adjourned, the Jewett City Circuit was left to be supplied. A few weeks later, Rev. I. W. Carter was appointed to fill the vacancy, Rev. W. E. Newton went to Attawaugan and Rev. Joseph G. Bisbee, a candidate for admission on trial at this conference, was placed in charge of North Grosvenordale. In November, Rev. W. D. Woodward accepted appointment to the Federated church in Staffordville and Rev. George S. Brown, a probationer in the Oregon conference, was secured for Gales Ferry. In early winter Rev. I. D. Berlew left East Blackstone for an appointment in the New England conference and was succeeded by Rev. W. A. Milne, a student in Boston university. These adjustments have given excellent satisfaction and the return of all these pastors earnestly requested, in some cases with increased salary.

Personal Mention

The year has not been without the usual amount of illness. Rev. J. M. Potter, Chauncey W. Ruoff and George H. Wright have suffered severe sickness. In August, Rev. Thomas Tyrie, retired minister, was struck by a trolley car on the streets of Springfield and narrowly escaped with his life. Thanks to good care in the hospital and later in the home, this good man has made remarkable recovery and continues a benediction to us.

Our ministerial ranks have not been broken by death. However, Rev. Walter P. Buck is bereaved in the death of his wife, who had been prominently identified with the Woman's Home Missionary society, for ten years conference president. In October, Mrs. Loney Ela, widow of Rev. Walter Ela, a former presiding elder in this conference, went home in her 92nd year. Suitable obituaries will appear elsewhere. Rev. Chauncey W. Ruoff and Mrs. Ruoff are deeply bereaved in the sudden death of their eldest son, Chauncey W. Ruoff, Jr., a captain of artillery in the United States army, at the time of his death adjutant to General Fiske.

The district has lost two of its best-known laymen—the Hon. Cosgin Lippitt of Trinity church, Norwich, and Judge Joel E. Reed of Stafford Springs. Both had served their state with distinction, been religious leaders in their communities, been officials for many years of Willimantic Camp Meeting Association and been delegates to general conference. Other deaths that should be noted are those of Mr. John W. Rose at the age of 90, a familiar figure at Willimantic Camp Meeting where he played the bass viol for more than forty years; Mr. E. C. Stanley, long-time treasurer at South Manchester, quaint, saintly, sunny, deeply interested in all the work of the kingdom Mr. Jephtha Geer Bill, long a trustee and steward at Griswold, who died at the ripe age of 101 years. May those who have been called upon to walk through the valley of the shadow have caught some new vision of the Eternal Hills whence come faith and hope, comfort and courage.

Wedding bells have rung merrily on the district. Early in the conference year Rev. Roger C. Stimson, pastor at Vernon and Quarryville, was united in marriage with Miss Iva Romaine Hummer of York Pennsylvania, and in September Rev. Truman H. Woodward, pastor at Wapping, was united in marriage with Miss Rosella Mae Congdon, of Wapping. Their churches gave receptions to felicitate these young people. We wish them long lives of growing joy and usefulness. It is a pleasure to record the coming, June 3rd, of little Ruth Graham into the Norwich Trinity parsonage to be one of the fine quartet of children there. The district's newest object of pride is Nancy Clarke Stimson, born to Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Stimson, March 14.

Gifts and Bequests

Miss Lillian Riley has left $1,000 which after the death of a relative, comes into the possession of the Burnside church. Other churches received the following amounts: Baltic, $100 from J. B. Hartshorn; Danielson, the Wetherell Fund of $50 and the Fanny Aldrich Fund of $50; Manchester, $100 from Mrs. John S. Porter; Lyme, $500 given by Mrs. Alfred H. Robbins in memory of her husband; Norwich Town, $1,300 from Mrs. Sarah J. Tibbals; Trinity, Norwich, $500 from Mrs. Elizabeth Gardner; Willimantic, $1,000 from Mrs. Helen E. Brown; Glendale, $50 from Mrs. Patience Taft. The Gales Ferry Permanent Fund has been increased by $300 from the collections of Mr. Noyes B. Allen, now 86 years old, who has been accumulating this fund for twenty years. Total received during the year, $4,950. Mr. Joseph D. Barton left the East Hampton church a wood lot of thirty-five acres, the proceeds to be used for church expenses.

Special Occasions

After having been closed for six months, the Hazardville church, remodeled and beautified, was opened and rededicated Sunday, May 4th. The service was in charge of Bishop Hughes who preached a forceful sermon on the permanence of the Christian church. The renewed auditorium with its Gothic arches and gray tones, its fine new organ and its memorial windows depicting scenes in the life of Christ, not only satisfies the aesthetic sense but also creates a reverently worshipful mood. The church is also well equipped for the social activities of the parish. The undertaking involved an expenditure of about $50,000, only about $10,000 now remaining unpaid.

On Sunday afternoon, May 18, the corner stone of the new church at South Manchester was laid by Mr. A. Willard Case, under the inspiration of whose generosity the project was launched. Bishop E. S. Johnson preached in the morning and Dr. Jilian S. Wadsworth in the evening. The services were in charge of Bishop Hughes who preached a vital and stirring sermon to a congregation of nearly 2,000 people. The new structure will be ready for use in July and will be dedicated in the fall. Costing nearly $275,000, the completed building will be a credit to Methodism and an asset for the kingdom. Already $175,000 has been paid on the pledges.

On Sunday, March 8, the Uncasville church was re-opened after extensive improvements. The building has been re-shingled, painted within and without, a hardwood floor laid, and otherwise improved at a cost of $2,400.

The district conference held in Willimantic on November 6 at the suggestion of Bishop Anderson, was a notable occasion. It brought a large and representative group of laymen as well as most of our ministers. There were three sessions. In the morning addresses were given by district representatives as follows: A Model Program for the Local Church, Rev. J. G. Sallis; Selecting and Training Leaders for the Local Church, Rev. M. E. Genter; Putting Over the Local Budget, Plans that Have Brought Success, Mr. George E. Keith; Stewardship—The Principle and the Practice, Mr. Guy B. Dolbeare; Norwich District—Survey and Opportunity, the district superintendent. In the afternoon and evening there were stimulating addresses by Rev. R. C. Hartley, a sky pilot from the logging camps in the state of Washington, Bishop Welch and our own Resident Bishop William F. Anderson.

Property

In addition to the building and improving of church property already mentioned, the following items should be noted. Baltic has installed an organ blower costing $260; Burnside, painting and improving church and parsonage, $1,088; Danielson, a new furnace, $368; East Hampton, painting and incidental repairs on the parsonage, $216; East Thompson, furnace in the parsonage, $250; Hockanum, repairs, $250; Moosup, building a garage, re-roofing the church and the Willimantic camp houses, purchase of a piano and payment on a debt, a total expenditure of $2,246; North Grosvenordale, parsonage repairs and painting the church, $434; Norwich Town, repairing parsonage, $100; Rockville, painting the parsonage, laying new walks, incidental repairs on the church, $1,309; South Coventry, parsonage improvements, $145; Staffordville, electric lights in the parsonage renewing roofs on church and parsonage, $500; Stafford Springs, $5,000 raised for repairing the church which was damaged by lightning last summer; Vernon, $75; Wapping, painting parsonage and installing a bathroom, $600; East Glastonbury, parsonage improvements, $250; East Blackstone, redecorating church interior, $325. East Hartford reports the best year in its history and a new spirit is evident. The little church has been painted, settees have given place to pews, creating a more churchly appearance, and a cosy vestry has been fitted up, the total expense being $1,225 and all of it paid. The Thompsonville people have built a new kitchen on to the vestry, converted the old kitchen into a cloak room and put in a new steam heating plant for the whole church at a cost of $4,000. The chapel at Crystal Lake has been enlarged, repaired and beautified at an expense of $766, a remarkable achievement for so small a group.

REV. W. H. BATH
Presiding Elder

The church at Mashapaug, abandoned for many years, was sold for $110 and the proceeds placed in the hands of the conference trustees.

Ministers' Salaries

The following churches have voted salary increases that go into effect with the new conference year: Trinity church, Norwich, $500; New London, $400; Burnside, $300; Moosup, $200; Thompsonville, $200; East Hartford, $100; Jewett City, $100; Glendale, $100; Baltic, $50; Versailles, $50, a total of $2,200.

The cash salaries for the year now closing will total $53,850, an increase in six years of $12,030, this rate being more than guaranteed for next year also. While considerable, this advance has not kept pace with the cost of living. And no minister can function at highest efficiency when squeezed economically. The minimum salary should be $1,500 but a dozen men in conference relation on the district receive less, to say nothing of the supply preachers, some of whom do a high grade of work. Most of the churches want to be fair. Few of them are parsimonious. Some need only a fair presentation of stewardship principles. Experience shows that when a church comes to the point of increasing its minister's salary, that larger salary is more easily raised than the one formerly paid. The church which gives a comfortable support has its own self-respect, and wins respect. But lack of faith here results in both financial and spiritual stagnation.

Benevolences

According to a telegram from Dr. R. J. Wade our world service contributions up to February 28 exceed those of last year for the same period by $8,043. I doubt if the conference treasurer's report for the entire year will be so encouraging. The apparent gain I think is due to the fact that our benevolence treasurers are remitting to Chicago more regularly.

The Centenary offerings of Norwich district for the five-year period aggregate $474,236, an annual average of $94,847—no small amount for this district. Attention should be called to the fact that while the Boston area stood among all the areas of Methodism in per capita giving to the Centenary, Norwich district stood third among the fifteen districts of the area. The total benevolences for the district as reported in the year book are $230,000 for the five centenary years, which represents $6.83 a year for each full member. Some of the churches have fallen off in their giving this year due in part to industrial depression but in much greater part to post-centenary reactions. I am confident however, that careful, pastoral nurture will bring a recovery from all losses and bring up those churches that have not yet attained unto full benevolence stature.

All benevolences and all church expenses as reported in the year book for the five year period total just about one million dollars. That means a yearly payment of $28.69 for each full member, or a weekly payment of 55 cents for each full member.

Most of our churches are friendly to the conference claimants permanent fund effort. I have found very few that are hostile. Several churches because of local projects or conditions will not begin payment until next year. Most of the churches will meet in full the regular apportionment for conference claimants.

Membership

Reports given me indicate that 215 have been received into preparatory membership, 464 into full membership, with a net gain of 261 full members. We trust the final figures will make a better showing. Burnside has received 50, Danielson 18, East Hartford 68, East Blackstone 19, New London 25, South Manchester 35, North Grosvenordale 15, Westerly 19, Moosup 15, and other churches smaller classes.

A study of membership gains for the five-year period shows a net gain of 935 full members that is 14 3-10 per cent. This will not appear large, particularly if we overlook important factors in the case. One of them is the steady decrease in Protestant population in many communities. Within the district, covering an area of roughly 2,000 square miles and with approximately a population of 235,000, not more than 45 per cent of the people are Protestant. There are 12,000 of Hebrew faith. Twenty eight per cent are foreign born, 39 per cent are born of foreign or mixed parentage and only 33 per cent born of native parentage. These figures point to real problems in some localities. I hope it will not seem ungracious to any one if I add that while the increase in full for the district is 14 3-10 per cent that for the whole conference in the same period is 8 7-10 per cent. Comparison is made only that men who have really striven may have such encouragement as is mete and right.

District Preachers' Meetings

The district preachers' meetings this year have been better attended than usual and the programs of more than ordinary profit. The attitude of the church toward war, the application of Christian ethics in commerce and in industry and in government, week-day religious education, the problems related to modern thought and religion, methods for our work as ministers of Christ—these and other themes have been discussed ably and helpfully. Prof. William North Rice and Prof. Karl P. Harrington, of Wesleyan, Dr. J. Beveridge Lee, of New London, Dr. H. B. Belcher, of Middletown, Conn., and Bishop John W. Hamilton brought messages that stirred our minds and warmed our hearts.

Sunday Schools

Many of our Sunday schools are profiting by the courses given by our institute at Willimantic camp ground. Teacher training classes grow more popular. Interdenominational institutes have been conducted at New London, Norwich, Putnam and Willimantic. Burnside reports an unusual condition in its school—a waiting list of teachers. A new vigor is noted in the Sunday schools at East Hartford, Norwich Trinity, Willimantic, Moosup, Thompsonville, Stafford Springs.

Epworth Leagues

One new Epworth league has been formed and several others have taken on new life. The institute at Willimantic under the direction of the district Epworth league abides in strength and grows in influence. Rev. N. B. Burton as district president has done constructive work. With Mrs. Cora Downs Stevens, Professor Cleiland of Boston University, Dr. George F. Durgin, Rev. F. W. Gray and Dean Athearn on the faculty last summer the impressions made by the institute were deep and lasting.

Leadership

The year has been one of harmony and happiness. Some churches have shown a vitality that augure well for coming days. Inertia has been overcome. Progress has begun. This vitality has been the result of intelligent and consecrated leadership on the part of pastors. Revs. J. H. Graham, A. S. Muirhead, J. R. Duxbury, J. G. Sallis, G. Leon Wells, N. B. Burton, E. A. Legg, W. H. Dunnack deserve special recognition. I would also mention the name of Rev. W. F. Davis, one of our retired preachers, who has supplied at Portland this year, and who by his wisdom and consecration has brought that church through a trying crisis.

Opportunities

There are places of strategic opportunity on Norwich district, conspicuous among them being South Manchester and New London. Each of these churches is endeavoring by modern equipment and program to meet the needs of great constituencies.

The church at Westerly, in an expanding city with factories and quarries and summer resorts, has greatly added to its strength. There is a demand for ampler quarters for religious education and social activities. The pastor, Rev. M. S. Stocking has a vision of the great possibilities here, a vision which ought soon to be on the way to realization.

Trinity church, Norwich, though possessed of a splendid auditorium for its services of worship, lacks accommodations for modern program of religious education. I once heard Marion Lawrence say that to put a Sunday school in the basement is a debasement of the Sunday school. A recent quarterly conference, impressed both by the needs and equipment and by the growing promise in the church school, raised a strong committee to study the whole matter of the ministry of this church to the community and the proper housing of its program.

Willimantic is an industrial city of 14,000 people, among them many aliens, and 4,000 of them reported to have no church connections. Our church is admirably located to present the social gospel and the pastor should have a helper provided by missionary funds that needs of the people might be met.

Of Burnside I have written in previous reports. In this growing community the membership of the church has nearly doubled during the present pastorate. There is an opportunity here of which we are the sole heirs. Unless we improve it, our inheritance will pass to other hands.

Wherever opportunity knocks thus on the door of our church life, may our people know that the opportunity is God's call to them.

Conclusion

And now a final word. For six years it has been my privilege to travel from Thompsonville to Old Lyme and from East Blackstone to Westerly, the four corners of a wonderful district. It has been six years of high fellowship and happy service, six years in which I have had a growing appreciation of the importance and opportunity of the district superintendency in our system; in which I have come to realize how numerous are they in both ministry and laity, who do the day's work with courage and nobility; and in which,—I think I can say it modestly and honestly—I have made some growth in own religious experience. To have traveled a district for six years in heat and cold, in storm and fair—without illness or serious mishap, this is cause for genuine gratitude. But for the hospitality of so many homes, the confidence of so many churches, the friendship of so many good folks—how much greater cause for gratitude. These parsonage folks and other folks who have received me into the family circle as one of their own, ministered to my comfort, been patient with my shortcomings, and followed me with their prayers—I shall carry them in my heart through all the years.

Speeding the Crops.

Dr. Methodi Popoff, professor in the University of Sofia and Bulgarian ambassador to Berlin, lays claim to having increased the yields of many crops, including cotton, cereals and tobacco by from 20 to 50 per cent. by a process of chemical treatment of the seed. He has used various stimulants, such as magnesium chloride and a number of metallic salts, which are poisonous to vegetable as well as to animal life when taken in large quantities. He immerses the seeds in the proper chemical solution, leaving them there for a fixed time. If left too long, the seed life is destroyed; if not long enough the chemical is ineffective.

Steel Teeth.

Teeth made from enameled steel have been added to the products of the Krupp plants at Essen. The metal is from the same mixture formerly used in making German cannon. Eight dentists have been employed in the department at the start and Krupps hope to expand it later.

PROCEEDINGS AT THE BIRTH CONTROL CONFERENCE

New York, March 26—The sixth international neo-malthusian and birth control conference, in the second session of its seven day meeting, unanimously adopted today a resolution describing France and the United States as "the most backward countries represented at the conference," from the standpoint of dissemination of birth control information.

Several speakers pictured birth control as the only method of preventing over-population of the world and consequent intensification of the economic struggle for existence in industrial countries.

Dr. Louis L. Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, said dbirth control would hamper the American spirit of progress and adventure. He favored discussion of birth control, but opposed its practice for the present.

Prof. Paul H. Douglas of Amherst College asserted that feminists in Europe have favored the fixing of such minimum wages as will permit all workers to maintain a family of five. At this rate, he said, the United States would be able to support 70,000,000 more persons than it now does.

Rosika Schwimmer of Austria, who was a passenger on Henry Ford's "peace ship," objected to Prof. Douglas' interpretation of European feminists' purposes. She declared that they have favored no such fixing of wages.

Other speakers included Prof. William P. Montague of Columbia University of California; and Prof. E. M. East of Harvard University.

REPRESENTATIVE M'CLOUD INJURED IN PLANE CRASH

Uniontown, Penna., March 26—Representative C. J. McCloud of Detroit, Mich., suffered severe injuries here late today when an airplane in which he was flying to Washington, D. C., crashed shortly after taking off.

He was taken to a hospital where it was said he had suffered a broken rib, a broken shoulder and severe cuts and bruises. R. J. Mintz, pilot of the machine, escaped with only slight injuries.

Mr. McLeod and Mintz left Selfridge Field, Michigan, early today on the flight to Washington where the former had been called to attend a meeting, the nature of which is not known here.

Nearing Uniontown difficulty with the gasoline fed was experienced and when the plane reached here a landing was made for an examination. Repairs were made and the plane took off again about 5 o'clock. In taking off the plane struck the top of a tree near the field and fell.

New Safety Gas.

The chemical warfare service of the United States army is experimenting with "sneeze gas," which may be mixed with illuminating gas so as to save lives by warning room occupants of the escape of gas.

Charles L. Kacey, American minister to Finland, has resigned and the resignation will be accepted.

Blackfeet Indian squaws and children gather all the kinnikinick for the braves of the Glacier National Park reservation. More than a ton of this "peace pipe ammunition" goes up in smoke each year on this reservation, which has a population of about 2,000 Indians. The braves all take many whiffs during the ceremonial and the squaws and braves smoke it mixed with tobacco in between these formal gatherings. The leaves of the bearberry, which grows matted on the mountain sides, are gathered and dried for use in the Blackfeet Indian pipes. Willow bark is used by most of the other tribes of American Indians.

A hundred pounds of colored beads, scores of brass ornaments of all kinds, many other curios besides several leather pouches of what is said to be war paint, have been unearthed by scientists of the history department in the University of Washington, on the lower Elwha river in the northwest corner of the United States. The Indian relics were discovered by digging in an old burial ground, and while some of the articles reflect the influence of early white traders there are many which appear to have been buried generations before explorers invaded the northwest. Evidence was unearthed that at some distant time either war or pestilence visited the northwest tribes and took great toll. This was indicated by forty skeletons found in one grave. Increased efforts are to be made to recover enough of the rare specimens of aboriginal culture to enable scientists to identify the origin of the first inhabitants of the heavily timbered northwest regions.

DISCUSSION OVER MINORITY REPORT OF FORFEITED RIGHTS COMMITTEE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, March 26—A lively discussion occurred in the house this morning on majority and minority reports made by the committee on forfeited rights. The majority report was based on the fact that an application for restoration of rights had not been advertised. The minority report was that the case had merit and that the application should be granted. It was finally voted to recommit the bill to committee and on motion of Dr. Higgins they were instructed to hear and report on the merit of the applicant.

The unfavorable report of the committee on cities and boroughs on the Norwich Police bill was caused by the fact that the bill as presented gave an accused officer no chance to be heard. The committee was unwilling to report any bill that did not provide that a copy of the charge should be served upon the accused and that he should be given a hearing. As these suggestions of the committee were not acceptable they would do nothing but reject the bill.

The house committee on constitutional amendments of which Representative Cassidy of Norwich is chairman, held a hearing on a proposed amendment reading, "That the general assembly shall enact no legislation which shall provide for the imposition of any tax upon any inheritance or succession."

The bill was introduced by Mr. Matthews of Seymour and he advocated it before the committee. He said that all forms of taxation are unjust for whatever purpose but had no solution to offer as to house expenses of town or state could meet. The bill was approved by Deputy Tax Commissioner Holcomb and Gray P. Miller of the tax committee of the Manufacturers association.

SENATE.

The senate was called to order at 11:25 by Lt. Gov. Brainard.

Senator Shaw offered a resolution expressing the senate's sympathy with Senator Daniel M. Tobin, the leader of the senate, in his illness which prevented him from attending to his duties as senator.

The resolution was adopted by a rising vote.

Calendar.

Passed—Requiring the railroad company to maintain a foot bridge between Main and Humphrey streets, Seymour; allowing fires to be kindled in the open air from December 1 to March 1; requiring, after July 1, 1926, that every dental hygienist to have the equivalent of a high school education and a diploma from a reputable institution where dentistry is taught, allowing members of the dental commission their expenses including stenographer for holding hearings, etc., and that widows or heirs at law may continue for one year to operate the dental office of the licensed owner; providing for the examination of the qualifications of jurors; extending the authority of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station in the protection of plants from pests and providing for the punishment of violation of the quarantine of the station by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $50; creating the office of chief deputy sheriff for each county; recognizing the veterinary diploma of other states; exempting European hares from the operation of the close season for wild hares and rabbits.

HOUSE.

The house session began at 11:30 today. Speaker Degbie in the chair. Chaplain Lewis offered prayer.

Petitions were received from forty residents of Sterling protesting against Sterling being made a part of the proposed Plainfield district court. Referred to committee on the judiciary.

On unfavorable report of the committee on finance the house rejected bill No. 122, exempting towns of a grand list of $2,000,000 or less from the state tax on towns.

Resolutions on the death of Representative William J. Ferris of Greenwich were adopted today and a vote passed to send an engrossed copy to Mr. Ferris's widow. It also adopted a resolution paying the balance of Representative Ferris's salary to Mrs. Ferris.

Bills rejected on adverse reports from the committee on roads, bridges and rivers were: No. 132, providing for addition to trunk line system between Perkins corner in Mansfield and the Willimantic river stake road bridge; No. 136, for trunk line from Bethlehem to Washington: No. 926, for including in the trunk line the Tolland turnpike from Trolan street to Stafford Springs.

The house rejected bill No. 642, concerning civil jurisdiction in the town of Manchester.

Mrs. Lewis of Stratford secured reconsideration of bill No. 542, providing for two months' notice of school expense budgets and had the bill recommitted to the committee on education.

Mr. Tracy of Canaan called from the table senate bill No. 65, concerning payments of negotiable instruments after one year after date and had it recommitted to the committee on banks.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

THE PERIL OF POOR SEED CORN

A crop may be ruined by using poor seed corn. Planted side by side a seed of pure bred corn may yield ninety or more bushels per acre while the ground with inferior seed may produce only a third as much or around 30 bushels, a difference directly attributable to the quality of the seed used.

It is the task of the seedsman to provide the pure bred seed and for the farmer to grow it. While home-grown seed corn can be gathered more economically and safely than seed of other grains, skilled breeding and careful selection by expert seedsmen yields the best results. From 13 to 15 ears of corn are necessary to plant an acre and the expert eye of the seedsman will see to it that only ears of the highest seed quality are taken for this purpose.

More valuable even than the selection of the seed ears is the careful survey carried on by the seedsmen to grade their corn to fit the climate and length of season of the various corn growing sections of the country. Through field surveys carried on at great expense the ripening terms of the various corns are noted each year so that the seed corn can be sold with an accurate estimate and promise to the farmer buying his seed that under normal and usual conditions it will ripen in a certain number of days.

This season element in addition to the securing of pure bred types is one of the most important factors in seed corn. Careful experiments carried on by the agricultural college stations and carefully tabulated by the seedsmen have shown that it is not safe to use seed from widely different latitudes if assurance of a crop which will be out of the way of the frost is desired.

The sectional alignment of seed corn has become an exact science and a matter of common business practice with seedsmen who are now prepared to tell dealers and farmers whether certain breeds of corn will flourish and ripen in their sections.

WHY CLOVER CAN'T BE SPARED

A good growth of clover on a farm is usually regarded as an indication that it is one of the best farms of the community. Despite its known value to the land only a small percentage of farms show clover fields or fields of mixed clover and timothy. The amount of clover grown is relatively small.

A ton of clover hay contains about two or three times as much protein as a ton of timothy or red top hay, according to experiment station reports, which shows the superior value of clover as feed. Experiment station statisticians estimate that a farmer who feeds clover instead of ordinary grass hay reduces the cost of his milk production 25 per cent. The Connecticut station makes this estimate.

A bulletin from this station also calls attention to the value of clover in maintaining the mineral reserves in cows and young stock. The value of clover hay is greater per ton and the yields are greater than grass hays per acre.

Efforts to grow clover were slackened when feed could be bought easily and cheaply. The soil does not contain as much lime or mineral plant food as it once did but the chief difficulty has been the use of Italian seed not adapted to our climate and plants from which have not proved hardy. Failures are to be expected unless seed is sown in northern climates which is known to have been produced under similar climatic conditions.

Seedsmen are now, after many difficulties with imported seed, sticking only to imported seed they know will prove handy and to home-grown seed. Many soils need liming for clover crops. Lime makes the crop much more certain and more bountiful. When clover does not flourish lime should be applied. Red clover yields much more quickly to the beneficial results of lime than alsike and the red clover fails, lime is needed.

FERTILIZER FOR USE IN THE ORCHARDS

Nitrate fertilization should be considered a necessity in the sod orchard writes W. H. Darrow in Connecticut Agricultural College Review. Except possibly, on the richer soils, nitrogenous fertilizers have been profitable in all sod orchards where used. Increased yields of 100 to 300 per cent or more are not uncommon following the use of a quickly available nitrogenous fertilizer in starved sod orchards. Increased yields of 50 to 100 per cent have been obtained in orchards in fair condition of vigor.

Nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia are the nitrogenous fertilizers commonly used.

Other nitrogenous fertilizers sometimes used would include nitrate of potash, poultry manure and stable manure. There is no experimental evidence that the former has any advantage over nitrate of soda and the cost is somewhat more. Poultry manure has frequently been used with good results. If it has been protected against loss of nitrogen by fermentation or leaching, it is probable that a cart load of droppings applied to about 20 trees would be equivalent to about five pounds of nitrate of soda. A ton of stable manure to five trees should give about the same results. Stable manure, however, is slow acting and its effect may not always be apparent.

Experimental work in several states indicate that peaches cannot be grown successfully in sod. A thorough system of cultivation is recommended for peaches. This will conserve the soil moisture so that it will be available to the trees when they need it. Cover crops should also be sown at the proper time for each variety, in early summer or late fall, to supply the organic matter needed.

Experiments in Delaware, Ohio, Oregon, Virginia and Missouri show that nitrogen is the limiting factor in peach production in most locations. Except on the richer soils peach growers can afford to produce peaches without the use of some quickly available form of nitrogen such as nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia.

The use of muriate of potash or acid phosphate is not recommended for peaches. Acid phosphate, however, has often been used with good results on the cover crop.

FARM BOY WINS PIG CONTEST WITH 3,000-POUND LITTER

A farm boy of Spokane county, Wash., belonging to a junior agricultural extension club, was a ton-litter contest winner of 1924, according to reports to the United States department of agriculture. He not only produced 3,055 pounds of pork from one litter of pigs in six months, but kept a careful record of how he did it, including the kind and amount of feeds used and all expense involved. His records show that his pigs made an average daily gain of 1.4 pounds each from date of birth until sold. This gain cost a little less than 3 1-2 cents per pound, not including alfalfa pasture to which the pigs always had free access. The boy sold his prize winners to a packing house for $11.10 per hundred pounds, receiving 52 cents per hundred premium because of the excellent finish of his hogs.

This young stockman, Fred Gray, began in the swine business about two years ago by joining a pig club which the junior agricultural extension agent of the county organized, buying a pig, as other pig club members do, to feed and manage in demonstrating the economic value of the best methods in swine husbandry. His purchase was a Duroc sow of excellent type. He built a warm, moveable hog house, provided plenty of clean water and pasture, and carefully practiced good sanitation methods in addition to efficient feeding. He was able to raise eight pigs from the first litter. With the second litter he won the contest.

STUDYING THE SOIL

As we progress in scientific knowledge, we are learning a great deal about the soil. A gardener nowadays makes it his business to study his soil and find out its nature and what it needs before he begins making garden. He tests it to see whether it is acid or neutral. This is easily done by getting a few pieces of blue litmus paper from the drug store, mixing a sample of the soil in rain water or distilled water and dipping the litmus paper in it. If the soil is acid the paper turns red.

While acid soil may not be "sour" soil in the usual meaning of the word, and may bewell supplied with nourishment for certain forms of plants, it is best to give it plenty of lime for plants such as peas and beans. Soil which has been treated for some time with nitrate or commercial fertilizers is likely to turn acid and these fertilizers should be alternated with a lime dressing in the fall to neutralize the acidity.

If the soil is loam a mixture of clay and sand, it is likely to need the addition of humus in the form of manure or decaying leaves and grass clippings to add to its texture. If it is inclined to clay, sand or finely pulverized limestone plowed in will help to lighten it as well as heavy dressings of manure or vegetable matter to furnish the humus necessary.

Very sandy soil needs manure or leaves and lawn clippings and similar vegetable matter to decay in it because it cannot retain moisture without the addition of this vegetable sponge, one of the most valuable attributes of humus being its ability to retain moisture in suspension like a sponge.

The presence of certain weeds, such as sour dock or yellow sorrel, indicate an acid condition. The formation of moss on the surface may also indicate this condition, although it is not as certain a symptom as the sorrel. Lime has the valuable property, in addition to neutralizing, of liberating plant food for the use of the eager roots in the soil.

SUMMER-BLOOMING SHRUBS SHOULD BE PRUNED NOW

If you have not pruned your summer blooming shrubs yet, do not put it off longer. Spring flowering shrubs set their flower buds on the bushes in the autumn, and winter or spring pruning will rob you of their blooms, but the summer blooming shrubs should be pruned now to get the best results. Have a good strong, sharp pair of pruning shears. A keen pruning saw may be necessary for work on some large shrubs.

Prune at the bottom and not at the top. That is, take out shoots from the bottom; do not simply cut back the tops or tips of all shoots. A vigorous shrub keeps sending up new shoots and these if left form a clump so crowded that the stems become slender and weak. Take out the oldest wood and leave the stronger young shoots. This keeps your shrub always renewed. Do not remove the new shoots or your shrub will soon have old, gnarled wood and become leggy and thin. Take out from one-fifth to one-third of the entire shrub each year. Only formal shrubs, like evergreen boxes and bays or hedge plants, should have the tips clipped evenly in a hair-cut style.

HOW TO MANAGE BEES IN THE SPRING

Did you ever stop to think that it takes 75,000 to 100,000 worker bees to produce a maximum crop of honey, and in many locations the colony has only eight to ten weeks to obtain that large population?

During the spring the bee hive is like a combined incubator and brooder. The heat for this incubator is furnished by the adult bees which have lived through the winter. The brooder heat and food is also provided by these bees until many young bees are born. Then the new generations carry on the work.

Bees have to be assured of having plenty of food for their baby sisters developing in the cells all through the spring. When their supply of honey gets down to fifteen pounds they start economizing and insist on the queen bees laying less eggs. That is just one of bee instincts that means the loss of honey if prompt action is not taken by the beekeeper. Successful beekeepers provide against a shortage of food by saving a supply of combs of honey from the previous season. That really pays better interest than to sell the honey and have the money in the bank. Twenty-five pounds of honey for each hive saved in addition to what there is in the hive in the fall is not too much.

An Easy Way to Feed

If this honey is not on hand the surest way to succeed with bees is to feed each colony sugar syrup when the supply of honey in any hive gets down to fifteen pounds. This syrup should be made of two parts sugar to one part water.

Just food alone won't get the bees up to full numerical strength by the honey flow. To take advantage of the food each hive should have a good queen and at least enough bees to cover more than two combs in the spring. It is always worthwhile to find weak colonies and unite them with fairly strong ones, preferably early in the spring, to secure populous colonies.

There are several [illegible] be done in the [illegible] bees keep warm [illegible] where they are sheltered from the prevailing winds or protect them by using a rough artificial break. Second, the entrances should be contracted down so that only a few bees can pass in or out of the hive at one time. If the bees are wintered outdoors the packing should be left on until the weather warms up.

Lots of Bees Produced

With sufficient food, a good queen and plenty of protection to keep them warm the colonies will increase in strength rapidly, and by the time fruit trees bloom some colonies are likely to have enough bees to nearly cover all the combs in the hive. Then they should have more room so that the queen does not have to let up in egg laying. This is easily and conveniently done by simply putting another hive body on top of the first. This should be done by adding about twice as many bees in each hive by the beginning of the honey flow as you would have if the bees are confined to the one hive body. Furthermore, plenty of room goes a long way in preventing the bees from swarming.

To sum up, successful spring management of bees simply consists of seeing that each colony has plenty of food, a vigorous queen, that it is given protection against the cold and the queen has additional egg laying room when she wants it. They are the big four that make beekeeping more profitable.

Autos Drive Monks to Hills

Modern life, exemplified by the modern automobile horn and the glare of electric lights, has proved too much for the Trappist monks of Bang, according to a report from Munic, Bavaria. Despairing of any real seclusion in their monastery at Bamberg, they will soon withdraw to the mountain tops in Bavaria. Several sites are being studied for the retreat.

Divorce an Old Problem

While the divorce problem is one that often is cited as undermining American institutions, due to its prevalence in all walks of life, troubles between husband and wife date back many centuries. Cicero discarded his wife Terentia when he needed a fortune on to bring a fresh dowry, and Cato handed over his wife to his friend Hortensius, taking her back however when he died.

Holbein on Bank Notes

In an effort to baffle counterfeiters in Germany four pictures by Holbein have been used on the 10, 20, 50 and 100 mark bank notes. All four pictures are remarkable for the eyes. The expression of the face will be changed if the pictures are reproduced due to the peculiar squint of the eyes. As a further precaution ramie, the Asiatic fibre used in making incandescent gas mantles, is used in making the paper.

FELV NEW LONDON CITIZENS SHOW INTEREST IN CITY BUDGET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 26—Otto Meyers Eames, residing at 256 Montauk avenue, was prosecuted in the police court today for evading responsibility by hurrying away last night about 7:30 when an automobile he was driving crashed into a Packard touring car in charge of Arthur Fish, of Palmer, and owned by El. F. Wilbur of the same town. The collision was against the rear mudguard of the Packard and that was put in the badly damaged class. From the Packard the Eames car caromed against another automobile, but it is understood that the latter was not damaged. That didn't stop Eames for he drove on as if he had met with no accident. Fish, as soon as he could do so, got another car that was nearby and started off to overtake the Eames machine. On the way he picked up Policeman Clarence Martin and then "put his foot on it" to make speed. He pursued the fugitive Eames into the town of Waterford but did not overhaul him. It appeared that a policeman on Broad street saw the number of the plate on a car that was going at a very rapid speed, and that proved to be the Eames car. The officer reported his observation at the police station and then the word went out that Eames was being sought for the mishap he had occasioned. At 1:45 this morning Eames went to the police station and asked if he was sought. He was told that he was and then announced that he desired to give himself up. He was compelled to give a bond of $100 for appearance in court this morning. There he was represented by counsel who claimed that the affair was a matter of bad judgment on Eames in swinging into State street from Bank street—he made too short a turn. His attorney represented that Eames did not try to escape responsibility for what happened, and that he had no idea that he had damaged the car his machine struck against to the extent of $10, the limit fixed by law, so he went on his business. That was not the view the court deemed to be taken and a fine of $50 was handed down. Eames and the record of what occurred was forwarded to the motor vehicle commissioner. It is understood Eames has agreed to make good the damage to the Packard car, the estimate of that was that $50 would be the cost of making the repairs.

Moses Allard, who has a court record that was before Judge Crandall this morning for intoxication. He was arrested on complaint of his wife. Moses was taken last yesterday where he received a term for breach of the peace and when he went home and began to make trouble for Mrs. Allard, she appealed to the police. Today Allard was sent back to jail to serve out his time to pay the costs of his case. He will get out of town when he is released and will go to Lyme to reside with relatives. Judge Crandall told him that was the proper course for him to keep away from the New London jail.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah A. Bindloss, wife of Thomas P. Bindloss, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of her son, James J. Greene, 7 Spring street. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Bindloss, who died in Norwich, was born in Greenport, L. I., the daughter of James A. and Sarah Holroyd. She spent most of her life in this city. Besides her husband, Mrs. Bindloss leaves a son, James J. Greene of 7 Spring street; a brother, Ezra Holroyd of Long Island, and a sister, Mrs. George Bolton of Waterford.

Harry Wolfe, 3 Grand street, complained to the police this forenoon that a pocketbook containing $1 and several receipts had been stolen from his room while he slept. The police gave little credence to the reported theft, because of the fact that Wolfe's watch, which was in the trousers, was not taken. According to Wolfe he retired about 12:30 o'clock and arose at 6 this morning. When he started to dress, Wolfe claims that his trousers were not on a trunk where he had left them when he went to bed. A search for the trousers resulted in the apparel being found on the stairs at the rear entrance of the house, the pocketbook and its contents gone, but with the watch still in a pocket.

Margaret W. Mahan, administratrix of the estate of Bryan F. Mahan, has sold a house and lot, corner of Broad and Parker streets, to Ralph L. and Sarah E. Streut.

C. Hadlai Hull, administrator of the estate of Frank W. Dart, has sold a house and lot, corner of Vauxhall street and Connecticut avenue, to Minnie M. Campbell, Groton.

Lafayette Starr, formerly of Norwich is a patient at Lawrence Memorial Asociated hospital suffering from general shock and three fractured ribs as a result of being struck by an automobile owned and driven by Joseph Whitelaw, Lyme, in Waterford, Tuesday, police give but little credence to the serious today, officials at the hospital stating that there had been no improvement in the condition of Mr. Starr.

L. W. Ware, Des Moines, N. M., today communicated with the New London police in an endeavor to ascertain the whereabouts of Joseph Ware, who was a member of the crew of the U. S. S. Savannah, and who was discharged at this port Dec. 13, 1924. The sailor has not returned to his home and his relatives are anxious to ascertain where the former sailor is located. The local police have no knowledge of Ware's whereabouts.

Carl Hathaway, of Montville; Calvin Burrows, Poquonoc Bridge; Elbridge Darrah, U. S. S. Destroyer Jouett and Mrs. Frank Chapman and infant son, South Lyme, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

News has been received in New London of the death on the 17th inst., at Washington, D. C., of Miss Charlotte Crannel Minor, daughter of Rose Delano Minor, Waterford, and the late Dr. George Maynard Minor.

City Manager William A. Holt, who returned from South Weymouth, Mass., last night following attending the funeral of his brother-in-law Henry P. Chandler, yesterday was at his desk in the municipal building today, but he has not assigned a date for the hearing of the charges made against Patrolman Patrick Sheehan. City Manager Holt stated that he would assign a date for the hearing within a day or two and that it would undoubtedly take place in public, as the charges from Councilor Streeter had been made in public.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley St. C. Donnelly have returned to their home, Bellevue place, having spent several weeks at Miami, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Darrow, Ocean avenue, are spending a few days in New York.

Abraham Bronstein, formerly of New London, now residing in New York, is in this city for a stay of a few days that he may attend to his real estate interests here.

The city council held a meeting this evening for consideration of the tentative budget of expenses of the city during the fiscal year. There was little interest shown in the matter by citizens generally, only about half a dozen citizens other than members of the council being present and several of those manifesting no concern whatever as to what the expenditures were to be. Librarian Frederick W. Edgerton of the public library did interpose one objection, but that was a passive objection not of a serious nature enough to demand an explanation. City Manager Holt explained the budget proposals, using a white board with black figures to show what the proposed disbursements were to be. The meeting was of comparatively short duration. The budget will again be considered by the members of the council before it is submitted as the perfected plan of expenditures.

Charles Donahue, 24, of Montville, a chauffeur, was arrested this evening by Sergeant Samuel Hick, charged with breach of the peace, on complaint of S. N. Ganez, an employe of the Coney Island restaurant, Bank street. In default of a surety on his bond of $100 Donohue was locked up pending a hearing the police court Friday morning. Donohue, it is alleged, had been drinking and shortly after 6 o'clock, went to the restaurant, where he became involved in an argument with Ganez. Donohue finally became abusive and to such an extent that complaint was made to Sergeant Hick.

James Herman, a youth of about 20, and a stranger hereabouts, was taken into custody this noon by Capt. Richard Kelly, of the force of special agents of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, when Herman was found riding between the locomotive and the baggage car of the train that reached New London at 11:06 o'clock. Herman was locked up but was later released, being delivered into the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. Herman was taken to the Learned mission lodging house where he was fed and to show his gratitude, Herman, while left with other lodgers, watched his opportunity and stole a pair of trousers belonging to Eugene Roberts. Herman then succeeded in making his escape. Probation Officer Mansfield requested the police to arrest Herman in the event that the latter was found on the streets, but no trace of the thief was obtained.

With the arrival of real spring weather and the large number of automobilists appearing on the streets, traffic officers this afternoon started to rigidly enforce the automobile laws and as a result of the activity of the officers two arrests for violation of the city's parking laws were made. Mrs. Frances P. Learned, 579 Pequot avenue, was taken into custody by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy for parking her machine on the north side of Church street, which is restricted territory, and has been ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning. Traffic Officer Frank Linehan also arrested Allen B. Cook, of East Lyme, charged with the same offense. Cook was also ordered to appear in court Friday morning.

Thomas Moran has acquired a house and lot, Blydenburg avenue, for Michael Sabagh.

Mrs. Sidney H. Miner, of Post Hill place, this evening complained to the police of the dangerous condition of a wooden brow at the crosswalk, corner of Williams street and Post Hill place. The matter will be referred to the highway department saturday.

Antone Leverone today acquired additional property at Ocean Beach when he purchased the Sea Breeze cottage, a large and sightly structure at the shore resort.

The highway department has started the repair of several streets in the heart of the city that were in great need of repair as the result of the elements during the winter. One of these streets is North Bank street and today a considerable quantity of tar and blue stone were spread in the numerous depressions.

WIDOW OF JOYCE KILMER AT DIOCESAN BUREAU

Aline Kilmer, author of numerous beautiful poems and the widow of Joyce Kilmer, poet and World war victim, lectured Thursday evening at the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service, 42 Jay street. She also discussed her poems and essays. A musical program, featuring Henry J. LaFontaine, organist of St. Mary's church, Norwich, as vocal soloist, and Miss Marie Rose Leverone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Leverone of 28 Tilley street, New London, as pianist, had been arranged by the bureau.

It has been said of Mrs. Kilmer that "she has captured the gold and blue and radiant rose of childhood, so that all who read may feel again the forgotten glory." As a personality she has rare charm. Her coming here was considered a real achievement for the bureau.

Joyce Kilmer's oft-quoted poem, Trees, and Mrs. Kilmer's Little White Moon, both of which have been set to music, were beautifully sung by Mr. La Fontaine. Miss Leverone, who on April 4th, will broadcast from station WEAF, New York, manifested her extraordinary skill as a pianist.

EDWARD T. LEARY DIES AT NORWICH THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 26—Edward T. Leary, 35, a local undertaker, son of Patrick Leary, 54 Freemont street, died tonight at Norwich State Tuberculosis hospital. Besides his father he is survvied by two brothers, William Leary of New London and Attorney Arthur Leary of New York. Mr. Leary developed tuberculosis of the throat about five months ago and underwent treatment for the affection at a New London hospital where he was operated upon and later received treatment at a Hartford hospital. He entered the Norwich institution about three months ago, but his decline was rapid. Mr. Leary was well and favorably known and was employed by local undertakers, prior to entering into business for himself.

FINED ON CHARGES FOR GAMBLING PLACE

Found guilty of maintaining a gambling house in a room on the top floor of the Carroll building, Main street, Peter Frost, colored, who represented himself as secretary and treasurer of the Hardig Athletic club, was fined $15 and costs in the city court Thursday morning by Judge Arthur F. Libby. Five of the nine men who were in the room when the place was raided about 11:15 o'clock Wednesday night by Officer Peter Driscoll were fined $5 and costs. All paid, the individual bills totalling $7.50. Four of the men in the room at the time of the raid got away but the other five were gathered in by Officer Driscoll and marched to police headquarters. The five frequentors fined were: James Bush, colored, 42; Le-Roy Lacey, colored, 27; Anthony Norre, white, 23; Benny Wisniewski, white, 20; Leslie Santos, colored, 19.

A local man fined $5 and costs for intoxication, couldn't pay his bill and went to jail. Another man who created a disturbance on Main street about midnight Wednesday was fined $5 and costs for intoxication. A third man was fined $5 and costs for intoxication.

In a snowstorm on the frozen lake at St. Moritz recently, men on skis were towed by an airplane at the rate of forty miles an hour.

Whole World Contributes to Medicine

Ginger from India—Iodine from Chile—Olive Oil from Italy—Epsom Salts from England—Menthol from Japan and roots and herbs from almost every country in the world contribute their share towards alleviating the ills of the race. No other medicine, however, compounded from roots and herbs has ever attained such a marvelous record for success as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For over fifty years it has been overcoming some of the most stubborn ailments of womanhood, and is constantly growing in popularity and favor.

You just KNOW she's Well.
Your child, too, can be gay, cheerful and light hearted
You just know she's NOT Well.
There is no reason for her to look or feel this way

CONSTIPATION means SICKNESS

More human suffering, physical and mental, has resulted from constipation than from any other source. The entire future life of a child can be ruined by lack of attention to the proper daily movement of the bowels. If the bowels do not act at least twice daily it means constipation—that means the bowels are clogged up with the accumulated residue of five to fifteen meals or more with consequent pollution, poison and disease.

Dr. Caldwell's
SYRUP PEPSIN
The Family Laxative

—relieves constipation. It is a combination of Egyptian senna, pepsin and aromatics prepared in liquid form, inviting to the taste, and smooth, pleasant and easy in its action. It is the kind of a prescription a good doctor will give you. Used nationally over 30 years.

Pleasing As Honey To Take! Easy As Nature In Action!

For both baby and grandma. Syrup Pepsin quickly brings relief to the most severe cases of constipation and the doses may be gradually reduced as Nature resumes her proper functions. 10,000,000 bottles used annually prove its effectiveness.

It is sold everywhere medicine is sold—and guaranteed. Try it at our risk. Your druggist will return your money if it fails to do as promised.

BOWKER'S FERTILIZERS

BOWKER'S FERTILIZERS

The right fertilizers for New England soils

PRACTICALLY every farmer in New England knows the name Bowker. For Bowker's Fertilizers have been an important factor in the agricultural progress of New England for half a century.

Bowker's Fertilizers are based on years of study of the particular requirements of New England soils and short seasons.

They are especially well adapted to New England money-crops. The plant foods they carry are selected with particular reference to quality yields.

They have a sustained crop-growing record that has never been excelled in the history of the fertilizer industry.

These are powerful facts. They leave no doubt as to what fertilizers will best serve you.

"For the Land's Sake" use Bowker's.

Rupture Expert Coming

Demonstrate the Famous Rice Method Free to Callers at Hotel

If you are ruptured, your big opportunity has now arrived. If you want to be free from the slavery of gouging, chafing trusses that make life a burden and misery, then HERE and NOW is the time to act.

D. J. BOOMER

expert in ruptured cases, trained under the personal direction of W. S. Rice, of Adams, N. Y., originator of the famous Rice (Non-Surgical) Rupture Method, will be at Wauregan Hotel, Norwich, Conn., Monday, March 30, also at the Crocker House, New London, Conn., Tuesday, March 31, to give free demonstration and trial of his safe and painless Method to every man, woman and child who is ruptured.

You have, no doubt, heard and read much about this famous Rice Rupture Method and the wonderful cures which thousands have reported from it. Now, you have the chance to find out all about it—to have it personally applied to your own rupture and learn just what it can and will do in YOUR OWN case. Just call at the hotel and this expert will give you his personal attention, best advice and complete demonstration entirely free.

Are you tired of that binding, hampering, uncomfortable old truss? Would you like to be done with truss wearing forever? Then investigate this Rice Method and learn the wonderful opportunity for help and cure it offers. Remember it is different from everything else and is accomplishing wonderful results where all other treatments, and even operations have failed. It is modern, up-to-the-minute, abreast of the latest scientific developments. It is the one Rupture Method you are not asked to take on faith alone—the one Method that is positively demonstrated to you right on your own rupture, without any charge whatever.

Don't let this great opportunity get away from you. Your call on the Rice expert is sure to prove one of the best things you ever did. He will be there only one day then your opportunity will be gone. Remember, you do not spend a penny unless, after having a complete demonstration, you decide this is the Method for you, and you—you alone—are the sole judge of that.

Call any time from 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m., or 7 to 9 evenings. Simply ask at the hotel desk for the Rice Expert and they will do the rest. Don't miss seeing the Rice Expert.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

BREAK AS MARKET CLOSED.

New York, March 26.—Widespread circulation of rumors that the New York Federal Reserve Bank would increase its rediscount rate this afternoon which later proved to be unfounded, precipitated another sharp break in prices toward the close of today's stock market, many issues cancelling their gains of the last two days and dropping to new low ground.

Selling pressure was directed chiefly against Baldwin, which was hammered down seven points to a new low record at 111 1-4, or nearly 35 points below the high record established just one month ago. Other standard industrials yielded in sympathy. United States Steel common was hammered down two points to 117, duplicating the year's low established a few days ago. American Can broke from 173 1-4 to 168 1-4, and then rallied half a point, showing a net loss of nearly 3 points on the day. General Electric, which had crossed 270 in the early trading, slumped to 263 and then rallied to 264, off 3 1-4.

Opening prices were firm, the maintenance of record freight car loadings and a reduction in the daily average of crude oil production for the week ended March 21 apparently having a bullish effect on sentiment. Early trading, however, was relatively dull with traders showing a disposition to await the outcome of the Wabash dividend meeting before extending their commitments. The announcement that payments would be resumed on a 5 per cent. annual basis brought about a flurry of buying in the early afternoon but large blocks of stocks were offered for sale at the higher levels and the rally failed to make much progress.

High price stocks received little support in the reaction which took place in the last hour, American Car and Foundry, American Locomotive, The Commercial Solvents issues, Texas Gulf Sulphur and United States Cast Iron Pipe breaking 3 to 6 points. Nash Motors was a conspicuous exception, closing 5 points higher at 139.

Maxwell Motors "A" was elevated to a new high for the year at 89 7-8 but later fell back to 87, where it was off more than two points on the day. Associated Dry Goods, Bush Terminal, Foundation company, International Business Machines, International Harvester, International Paper, Pacific Gas, United Cigar Stores, Ward Baking and West Penna. Power were among the relatively few issues to show net gains on the day, all closing a point or more higher.

Speculative interest in the railroad group was confined largely to the Wabash and Van Sweringen issues. Wabash Preferred A was run up to 66 1-2, or within a fraction of the year's high price, and then slipped back to 64 1-4, up 3-8. The Preferred B closed two points higher at 45 on a small turnover. The common closed nearly a point lower at 23 3-8 after selling as high as 24 7-8.

Buying of the Van Sweringen issues was stimulated by the decision of a Virginia court denying the petition of minority stockholders of the Chesapeake and Ohio for an injunction restraining a meeting to consider a lease of that road to the "Nickel Plate" system on the understanding that the merger will not be completed pending a final decision of the Virginia courts. The Erie preferred issues were bid up about two points each but were unable to maintain all their gain. Union Pacific closed fractionally higher at 137 1-4 after selling as high as 138 7-8.

Call money renewed at 3 1-2 per cent and then advanced to 4 and 4 1-2, closing at the top. The run-up was attributed in some quarters to the withdrawal of funds in preparation for month-end requirements. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

The foreign exchanges displayed a strong tone with the Norwegian and Danish currencies attaining new peak quotations for the year. French francs also, registered a substantial advance by touching 5.29 cents. Demand sterling held fairly steady around $4.78 1-4.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Harvey of Norwich visited Mr. Harvey's mother and sisters here, Saturday afternoon.

E. C. Payson purchased a heavy team horse at the Amos Lillie auction at Lebanon Center last week.

Rev. Louis L. Harris' pet dog, Mack, which was sent to him from Westport, Tuesday disappeared Friday night while Mr. Harris had let him loose a short time. He came back Sunday evening and made himself known by barking at the door for admittance after Mr. and Mrs. Harris had retired.

The 1 1-2 story dwelling and wood house belonging to and occupied by John Arson and family was destroyed by fire early Monday evening. The furniture was saved, also a barn. It was situated about half way between Liberty Hill and Lebanon Center on the road leading to Exeter. About one-quarter of a mile from Liberty Hill and Lebanon highway. The house and farm was formally owned by George Nye. It was insured for $1,500.

A revolver and a steel trap and chain were found in a large tree cut down at Norborne, Md. They had been placed there years ago, and the tree had grown around them, leaving no evidence that it was carrying concealed weapons.

WOMAN'S LEG BROKEN WHEN TWO AUTOS CRASH AT HARLAND CORNER

About two o'clock Thursday afternoon a Buick touring car registration 57-336, driven by E. J. Graham, school superintendent, accompanied by his son while coming down upper Washington street, headed toward the city, while rounding the curve at Harlands corner collided with a Ford touring car, registration N-2334 operated by Rev. William C. Prentiss, of Plainfield, which was proceeding up Washington street. It was reported that both cars were running slowly, although their position when brought to a standstill was directly across the sidewalk, side by side, facing the stone wall in front of Miss Elizabeth Huntington's property.

Mrs. John Tracy of Town street, who was walking on the sidewalk at this location was struck and pinned against the wall, receiving a broken leg and severe shock to her nerves. Walter H. Gallup who was waiting for the city-bound trolley car, witnessed the accident, and immediately rushed back to his home, nearby, and telephoned the Backus hospital for aid. The ambulance was at once sent out on the call, but Mrs. Tracy had already been removed before its arrival, which was in a very short time.

Shortly after the accident happened, Dr. Harrison Gray and Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve who had been in consultation on a case, were driving toward the city from Norwich Town. They stopped and took Mrs. Tracy into the automobile and to her home at 70 Lafayette street. Mrs. Tracy received attention from both doctors at intervals during the afternoon. Upon examination, it was deemed advisable to have an X-ray taken, which showed that the left leg was broken in two places below the knee.

Both automobiles were damaged. The Plainfield car received a broken steering gear and front spring, also a bent mud guard and a demolished running board. The school superintendent's machine received broken head lights, front fenders smashed, and the motor damaged to such an extent it would not run, while the other car went off under its own power. Both cars were removed to the same garage for repairs.

A large number of automobiles were congregated near the scene, as well as a large number of people. The location was not cleared until two hours later, because of the congestion.

COMPENSATION AWARD IS GIVEN BY COMMISSIONER

A workmen's compensation award has been made by Commissioner J. J. Donohue in the claim of Mrs. Hannah [illegible] Nicholson of 161 Franklin St., for the death of her husband, John Nicholson. He was an employe of the J. B. Martin Co., where on Nov. 29, 1924 he received an injury which required the removal of one of his eyes. On Dec. 21, 1924 he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and his death followed on Jan. 4, 1925.

The commissioner states that the respondents shall pay to the claimant such compensation on a total disability basis which may not have been already paid up to date of the death of deceased, namely Jan. 4, 1925, also $100 shall be paid toward the funeral expenses, and assume payment of all reasonable medical, surgical and hospital bills incurred because of said injury of Nov. 24, 1924. It is also awarded that the respondents shall further pay to the claimant the sum of $1,657.07, representing 104 weeks compensation at the rate of $16.61 per week for the loss of the decedent's eye, 12 weeks of the period from Jan. 4 to March 28, 1924, both duties inclusive not being commuted as it is already due the estate, the balance of 92 weeks being commuted at 4 per cent. and that compensation at the rate of $16.61 per week shall be paid to the claimant directly for a period not to exceed the 312 weeks provided by the act in fatal injury cases accrued payments from Jan. 4 1925 to March 28, 1925, inclusive amounting to $199.32, to be paid at once in a lump sum to the claimant.

On Nov. 29, 1924, while standing on a step ladder at the plant of the respondent employer in the city of Norwich, putting a new water glass in the boiler, the glass broke after turning on the steam, and a piece of the glass struck Nicholson in the left eye, causing an injury necessitating the removal of the eye the same day. It is found, Commissioner Donohue says, that said injury arose out of and in the course of the decedent's employment, without any serious and wilful misconduct or intoxication on his part contributing thereto.

CONNECTICUT THIRD HIGHEST STATE IN ELECTRICITY

Connecticut ranks third in the United States in the percentage of homes equipped with electric service, according to a survey of there percentages in every state in the Union, made by a well known electrical magazine. The ratio of the number of electrified homes to the number of people in every state was determined and the leading ten states ranked in order. Only Utah and California were found to lead Connecticut in this field. The percentage of electric homes in Connecticut at the close of 1924 was 78.8 per cent., which means that at present about 221,200 out of a total of more than 280,000 homes in this state enjoy the use of electricity.

The ten leading states together with their percentages now rank as follows: Utah 98.; per cent; California, 86.5; Connecticut, 78.8; Illinois, 73.3; Michigan, 72.5; Washington, 68.8; Massachusetts, 67.6; Maine, 66.9; Vermont, 66.3; and New Jersey, 65.8 per cent.

Divided into its natural geographic sections, the United States is led in home electrification by the three Pacific coast states, while the six states in the New England group are ranked second. The average percentage for the Pacific group is 85.7, while the New England average is 62.2 per cent.

The average percentage of electrified homes for the entire United States is 50.5 per cent. which means that about 13,100,000 homes are equipped for electric service.

GAS SERVICE WAGONS ANSWER FIRE ALARMS

When the fire alarm rings in any Connecticut city, its streets are soon filled with a dozen or more whizzing and siren-screeching fire engines hurtling their way through traffic to the scene of the conflagration. At the same time another motor vehicle, seldom noticed, is dashing through the streets with no siren to demand the right of way, yet headed for the same destination as the fire apparatus. It is the service wagon of the local gas company.

The service wagons of every gas company in Connecticut must answer every fire alarm. Many times the gas service crews beat the fire apparatus to the blaze. The gas men places themselves at the command of the fire chief or marshal and co-operate with the firemen in every way possible. Sometimes it is necessary to shut off the gas supply, but more often the gas is left on to furnish light for the firemen to work. Electric wires are often damaged by the flames or by water leaving only gas illumination available to the firemen for light.

The theory that illuminating gas adds to the dangers of a fire is based upon ignorance, for there is yet to be recorded a case in Connecticut in which illuminating gas added materially to the damage done by a fire. Gas explosions which sometimes occur are due almost always to the combustible gases generated by the fire itself.

HONORS AT SMITH FOR MISS BLACKEDGE

Miss Marian Blackedge of Prospect St., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Blackedge, is on the dean's list at Smith college. This honor is consequent on attaining a high average for the sophomore year, and carries with it the privilege of unlimited cuts for the last semester. Miss Blackedge is spending part of her vacation in Cambridge and Beverly, Mass.

STATE AID HIGHWAYS TRUNK LINE AUXILIARY

Establishment of a system of state aid highways, similar to and serving as an auxiliary for the present system of trunk line highways is anticipated in a bill which the roads, bridges and rivers committee of the legislature has voted to report favorably. The bill instructs the highway commissioner to report to the general assembly of 1927 on a "secondary system of state aid highways." Another bill which will be reported favorably and which will probably result in further definition of the highway policy of the state instructs the commissioner to report to the 1927 session on a survey of the state roads on the basis of the volume of traffic and the volume of loading on each.

A move to check the flood of bills to establish trunk line highways is seen in another bill on which the committee has taken favorable action, providing that no highway shall be accepted as a part of the trunk line system unless the right of way is 100 feet wide. This bill authorizes the highway commissioner to make surveys and place markers.

Preservation of the present highways is the object of another bill to be favorably reported providing unauthorized excavation or obstruction of a state highway. The first offense is punishable by a fine of $100 and the second offense, by a $500 fine and 60 days in jail or both.

Proposes New System.

A third system of roads was proposed by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald at a meeting of the Farmers Association of the legislature yesterday morning, although he said that it was not the subject of a bill at this session. He would have minor town roads placed in condition under a system similar to the present state aid plan, except that the state would pay one-fourth instead of three-fourths of the original cost and the town, instead of the state, would pay for the upkeep. He suggested that the three-fourths paid by the town be divided so that one-third of the town's share be paid by general taxation and the remainder be divided among the property owners on both sides of the road. Vigorous opposition to this scheme of payment was voiced by those present, but the highway commissioner met the cry that some properties would have to pay more than they were worth by saying that values would be increased by better roads and if the property could not stand the assessment, the road by it was not worth building.

Commissioner Macdonald said that if trunk line highways were built on the basis of the traffic on them, there would be no trunk line roads in the country district. He called attention to the fact that the Boston Post road, from the New York line to Bridgeport, was the most used road in the state and was not used more, because it could not carry any more traffic. It will take 15 to 20 years to build the trunk line roads now authorized and, in addition, there are 206 miles of road in the state that should be rebuilt this year and 436 miles which should be rebuilt next year. Traffic on the state roads has been increasing 20 per cent. a year since 1917, but there was less foreign truck traffic than was generally supposed. Less than one-fourth of the Post road traffic was from out of the state.

According to the commissioner, the famous Roman roads would last only a matter of days were they forced to bear the automobile traffic which goes through Connecticut. He was not in favor of bonding the state in order to pay for roads, he said, in response to a question. He called the Plainville-New Britain road, recently finished, the best road in the United States and said that if that road did not last 25 years, no road would.

Newman Erb, president of the Ann Arbor railroad, died in the Roosevelt hospital, New York, after an operation.

Rub It On At Bed-Time

For Deep Chest Colds

All colds should be treated with vapors, for vapors alone can carry the medication DIRECTLY to the air passages and lungs.

Vicks is a "vapor" treatment in salve form. For deep chest colds you first apply hot wet towels over throat and chest to open the pores, then massage briskly with Vicks for 5 minutes, spread on thickly and cover with a flannel cloth.

Vicks not only penetrates like a poultice or plaster, but the ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long.

This double action usually checks the most stubborn cold overnight.

RICHMOND HOUSE AT EAST LYME BURNED

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight B. Richmond, Niantic road, East Lyme, was totally destroyed by fire early Wednesday evening, but the furniture was saved by the work of the Niantic fire department and friends. The loss is estimated at $2,500, partially covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered at about 6 o'clock when Mrs. Richmond, who had left home 15 minutes before, was returning. As she approached the house she saw smoke issuing from beneath the eaves in the ell and called her son, Roy B. Richmond and the fire department.

Within 15 minutes members of the Niantic fire department had arrived and also gathered at the scene were nearly 3,000 villagers and friends of the Richmond family, who immediately started helping the fire fighters to check the flames and save the furniture. A vain effort was made with the pumper to draw water from the well. The next best source was in the mill brook some distance away, and in order to reach it, the firemen were required to borrow 1,500 feet of hose which was loaned by the Niantic Manufacturing company.

Twenty-two hundred feet of hose were laid before the firefighters were able to get a stream onto the house and by that time, the house was already well consumed and all hope of saving the building was gone. Every piece of furniture was saved from the burning building by volunteer friends and firemen. It was removed to the home of Henry Hudson, who offered his residence nearby for its storage until other disposition could be made.

Mr. and Mrs. Richmond and their daughter, Helen, were also taken in by friends after their home had been razed.

The cause of the fire has not been definitely established. It is believed, however, that it was either due to an overheated stove pipe or a leaky chimney although the family knew of no defect in the latter. While the loss is estimated at $2,500 members of the family declared that to rebuild the residence would cost between $3,000 and $4,000.

STOECKEL ASKS REMOVAL FROM CAPITAL BUILDING

Removal of the motor vehicle department from the capitol as the only means of securing the proper amount of room and facilities, is suggested by Motor Vehicle Commissioner Stoeckel in his biennial report, submitted to Governor Trumbull. "It would seem as if the needs of this department and others absolutely require the erection of an adequate state administration building, the ground floor of which would be assigned to this department, so planned that the thousands of citizens who deal with it might do so with expedition and dispatch," the report says.

The report is in 52 pages, and thoroughly covers the activities of the department while offering many suggestions for better traffic and accident safeguard conditions.

On Traffic Courts.

The subject of traffic courts, as a means of relieving the present congestion in courts of the state, is discussed and the plan advocated as a means, toward promptness and efficiency in a greater degree than is now possible. "If, however," the report says, "the plan is not practicable at this time, then it is proposed that the commissioner invite a conference of judges and prosecutors and have a general discussion of the subject, especially with regard to discipline, in an attempt to attain more uniform court procedure."

Statistics of the past two years, the report says show that court action has been characterized by more leniency toward non-wilful offenders, except where carelessness was manifest, and to more severity in cases of criminal intent.

The report advocates flat rate fees on pleasure cars.

Under the direction of the department, all pleasure cars should be rated either by weight or engine power, of both so that they would classify as small, medium or large vehicles. Flat rates of whatever amounts deemed necessary could be adopted. For example, small pleasure cars might be registered for $9, medium sized ones for $12, and large ones for $15 each. An estimate (based on the number of pleasure cars registered in the calendar year 1923) of the fees which flat-rate fees would produce amounts to $1,500,000, which is less by approximately $1,000,000, than was raised by cubic inch piston displacement fees during the same period.

On the question of regulation and education for safety the report says: "In taking up the proposition of safety on highways and a consideration of what steps can best be taken to better conditions, it seems apparent that the subject matter ought to be divided into several sub-heads. One is actual construction and betterment of the highway system. In making such a statement this report perhaps trespasses on the province of the highway department to some extent. It has long been recognized that certain physical features which naturally exist in every highway system are dangers from the standpoint of the causation of accidents. In the early building of highways long before the potentialities of an automobile for danger were thoroughly understood and largely because money had not then become available in sufficient amounts, and perhaps because the whole problem of highway building for motor vehicles was in its infancy, special attention was not given to safety engineering.

Elimination of Danger.

"Within the last six years, however the principles of safety engineering have become recognized as essential to the prevention of accidents and especially during the last two years the state, through application of these principles, has remedied many hazardous conditions. Dangerous curves have been straightened, obstructions to sight lines have been removed, fences have been erected, guiding lines have been painted and in general a thorough recognition has been given to the fact that the highway department, in the building and maintenance of its roads, owes it to the public to provide a safe right of way. It is conjectural, of course, as to how many accidents have been prevented by these improvements, but now all state highways in Connecticut are viewed from the angle of safety and are subject to plans for immediate or future developments to that end.

"The Connecticut highway system has made progress beyond the most sanguine hopes of safety experts and has become as safe a place as possible for the operation of vehicles. In the future the subject of pedestrians on state highways needs to be considered. There are places in the state where it is still necessary for persons to walk on a state highway. In the opinion of the writer any pedestrian while he is on a state highway is in constant danger.

"Provision should be made in the future, in the way of sidewalks or bypaths, to accommodate travelers on foot. Recognizing that this convenience cannot be universally perfected, for years to come, it is suggested that future highway engineering be so planned as to include this most desirable adjunct, especially in the outlying portions of populous centers, where sidewalk systems are non-existent or incomplete. The pedestrian is entitled to state protection as much as is the driver of an automobile and so far as safety engineering can be applied to his needs it should be done."

STATE GRANGE FAVORS WHEELER ENFORCEMENT BILL

Allen B. Cook of Niantic, master of the state grange, this week sent to State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn of Hartford, who is chairman of the committee of state attorneys in charge of the so-called Wheeler prohibition enforcement bill, a copy of the following resolution which was recently passed by the grange.

"The legislative committee of the state grange of Connecticut places itself on record in favor of law enforcement and believes that senate bill No. 433, now pending in the general assembly, or a similar bill which has for its object the enforcement of the 18th amendment to the Constitution of the United States, should be adopted."

GIVES PARKING TALK BEFORE LIONS' CLUB

With the usual large attendance the weekly meeting of the Norwich Lions' club was held Thursday at the Wauregan hotel with President C. Edward Carpenter in the chair. Lion William O'Neil acted as song leader for the meeting. Rev. Robert B. Day, recently returned from Europe, offered grace and there were group and club songs. Secretary Edward Rich read a communication calling attention to the Tri-State conference of Lions clubs to be held at New York April 1st. The states to be represented in the gathering are Connecticut, New York and New Jersey.

Rev. Mr. Day briefly expressed his pleasure at being with the club again after his visit to England. A prize offered during the attendance contest was awarded to Secretary Rich, this being a gold piece donated by President Carpenter.

The entertainment committee then took charge of the meeting and Abner Schwartz introduced as the speaker Lion J. B. Caron who spoke on Automobile Parking in Norwich. In part Mr. Caron said:

One of the great problems facing every city today is that of parking. The development of the automobile industry, and the constantly increasing number of automobile owners, has created a condition such as the people of a single generation ago never dreamed of. Today, throughout the United States, according to statistics, one out of every six people owns an automobile.

For the most part, all city streets are narrow. Especially is this true of those cities which were built many generations ago. Consequently the crying need of the hour, and the great problem now existing, is how to accommodate the number of automobiles that come to the city on business or pleasure. As you know this is particularly true of Norwich.

We are the largest community in eastern Connecticut. We are the banking and business center of eastern Connecticut. Therefore we should, as progressive citizens of a progressive community give serious consideration to the planning of our city for taking care and making parking provisions possible and adequate for those who come here for business or pleasure.

Unfortunately our principal business streets are narrow and we cannot change existing conditions. This I know from my own experience. Having been two years on street committee I personally know the task we are up against. But we can and should prepare for the future now. Norwich cannot afford to allow the business of the surrounding country to slip from us and go elsewhere where it is possible to shop, trade and barter.

We need all the available parking space that can be secured adjacent to the business center. We need the greatest possible supervision of the down town parking regulations. We need to awaken the local public consciousness to the realization that parking of cars locally owned on the public streets in the business section for long periods of time should be stopped. The streets of Norwich belong to all the people of Norwich. Nevertheless I suppose we should not make the parking spaces for private individuals only.

If we members of the Lions club would take the lead in this local matter of street parking and each of us resolve that we members of the Lions club at least, will be loyal to Norwich and her interests by positively refusing to disregard the parking ordinances; by keeping our cars in our local garages as much as possible, and by urging our friends and acquaintances to do the same. Fellows, let us be true to Norwich, our home city. Her success is our success. Adequate parking spaces and enforcement of the existing parking regulations are needed. Let us get into the movement with all the enthusiasm possible and make a better and more inviting city for people to come and trade, and by so doing am sure that all merchants will profit by it. I thank you.

A brief talk on 100 per cent. attendance at the club meeting was followed by a talk on Taxation in Norwich, by Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce. Mr. O'Rourke urged all to take an an active interest in the matter of equalization of taxes in this city. The speakers and the entertainment committee were given a vote of thanks. Mr. Caron, chairman of the entertainment committee for April announced the programme for that month as follows:

April 2, Current topic speaker, Rudolph Henschel; song leader, Louis Hawkins. April 9, Current topic speaker, Fred Watson; song leader, William Anderson. April 16, Current topic speaker, Charles Frink; song leader, Herbert Corey. April 23, Current topic speaker, William R. Frisbie; song leader, George Cramer. April 30, Current topic speaker, Pete Ethier; song leader, Tom Savard.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, followed by the salute to the flag.

Workmen's Compensation

The following workmen's compensation agreement has been approved by Commissioner J. J. Donohue:

MAKING GOOD PROGRESS ON "BISHOP" SCHOOL

Contractor W. S. Spencer had the sign "The Bishop School" painted on a large board the morning the announcement was made in the paper—telling everyone passing that the new school—now in the process of erection on Main street, East Side, had received the honor of bearing the name of the late Nathan L. Bishop,—a name revered in school circles throughout the state.

And the school is rapidly showing how it will look in September for the opening. The brick work is laid to the roof, roof forms are being placed. All cement floors have been poured and a force of twenty-five men is constantly working towards completion of the building. It will be an addition that will gratify the most exacting people.

CHARACTER EVIDENCE IN THE CHAPMAN MURDER TRIAL

Accused Became All Intent As Witnesses Told Of Interesting Sidelights Of His Career—Two Dozen Witnesses Testified to Having Seen Shean and Chapman Together In Springfield And Meriden On the Saturday Preceding the Murder Of Policemen Skelly In New Britain On Oct. 12, 1924.

Hartford, March 27.—(By The A. P.)—Some of the "color" that goes to make Gerald Chapman an interesting figure nationally was put into the day's court records today, the fourth of the mail bandit's trial on a charge of having murdered a New Britain policeman last October 12.

Twenty-four witnesses, residents of thirteen communities, some of them widely separated, took the stand in rapid succession and recited a chronological tale that State's Prosecutor Hugh M. Alcorn says will convict the prisoner of murder. The recital, as a whole, produced some interesting new lights on Chapman, who abandoned his pose of boredom of the first days of the trial to actively assist his counsel in the conduct of the trial.

The day's last witness, Frank Kuzas, and Lillian Knell, both of Meriden, soon left the stand after having taken the state's story up to the night preceding the crime. Saturday, October 11. Both testified the Chapman was the man who appeared at the Old Colony inn, Meriden, of which Kuzas is manager, that night in company with Walter Shean. The two had their dinner there, and engaged rooms for the night, both said.

Walter Shean is the Springfield, Mass., man, son of a wealthy hotel owner, who confessed to the New Britain police that he was one of two safe crackmen who entered the department store of Davidson and Levinthal, at dawn Sunday, October 12, and looted the place. Police surprised them at their job and Shean fled. His companion shot his way to freedom, killing Patrolman James Skelly in making his get-away.

The gun-man, Shean told the police was Chapman, who had declared Shean's story to be false. More than half of Alcorn's two dozen witnesses today told of having seen Shean and Chapman together in Springfield as well as at Meriden, Conn., 44 miles away, on the Saturday preceding the crime and on a number of other occasions during last September and October.

Alcorn painted for the jury a careful and minutely detailed picture, getting much of his evidence into the record only over the vociferous objections of Frederick J. Groehl, Chapman's principal counsel, who accused the state's attorney of attempting to envelop the prisoner in an unfavorable atmosphere. But Judge Newell Jennings overruled most of the objections and picture was allowed to stand on Alcorn's insistence that he later would show the testimony to be competent.

Several witnesses had a hand in bringing out the Chapman "color." Three librarians, for instance, told of books found in Chapman's possession which had been stolen from Ohio libraries. Chapman had been painted as a man of intelligentsia. It was interesting to learn that two of the three books dealt with paper making and the manufacture of printing ink. The subject matter of the third was not revealed.

The librarians who testified were Jane M. Powers, Cincinnati; Frederick H. Cook, Bayton, Ohio, and Martha Gamble, Lima, Ohio.

Another rather thick splash of color was daubed by James Hance, a dairy farmer of Wheaton, Ill., 31 miles from Muncie, Indiana, who testified that Chapman, known to him as Tom Miller, affected tailor golf togs at a time when he was interested in three shot-guns, a wicked-appearing automatic pictor, an electric drill, and burglars' tools of various descriptions.

Hance said that Chapman and two companions whose names he did not know engaged three rooms in his farm house and occupied them at intervals from April to August of last year. The shot-guns and the burglars' tools, as well as the golf togs and books later identified as having been stolen, were in Chapman's room at the Hance farm house, the witness said. Frequently, according to Hance, the three took two and three day trips in Chapman's car—trips which never were explained to him.

Groehl made a hard fight to keep this testimony out. It was this, particularly that he declared to be solely designed as "atmosphere." Groehl subjected the Indiana farmer to a searching cross examination, and succeeded in causing him some embarrassment over some of his identifications of Chapman's property. He admitted that he had been convicted of a harness theft and that a sentence of from one to fourteen years was on him.

The Rev. Arthur W. Bailey, Congregational minister, of Pawtucket, R. I., and formerly of Holyoke, Mass., testified to having started to sell a house in South Hadley, Mass., to Chapman, known to him as George L. Shelburne. This was last September. Dr. Bailey said Chapman introduced a man he called Waldo W. Miller as a witness to the transaction. Chapman, he said, later left the man known as Miller to make the purchase.

The minister, shown a photograph of "Dutch" Anderson, convicted with Chapman in the $2,400,000 mail truck robbery in New York, identified it as that of the man Chapman had introduced as Miller. This was done under cross examination by Groehl. The defense claims that Waldo W. Miller was one of Chapman's numerous aliases.

James H. Snelder, of Steubenville, Ohio, where he conducts the Stanton Motor company; Catherine Boorn, bookkeeper for the firm; James W. Brown, Detroit, engineer in the Ford plant, and William B. Ellison, Bergholt, Ohio, testified with reference to an automobile Chapman was alleged to have stolen in Steubenville last April. Shean was arrested as he was getting into this car.

George Bedoir and Henry Wessell, Springfield garage men, testified to having tuned up the engine of Chapman's car and delivering it to him and Shean the Saturday before the New Britain shooting.

The Knell girl, a 17 year old child seemingly little sophisticated, testified that ont of the two visitors to the Meriden inn the Saturday night preceding the crime had asked her for an alarm clock. This she provided, she said. She identified Chapman as the man who requested the clock. She did not again see the pair as she does not sleep at the hotel, she said.

Her next sight of Shean was the next day, after he had been taken into custody by the New Britain police. It was the police who summoned her to New Britain on Shean's statement that he had passed the night at the Old Colony inn.

The girl was frightened when she took the stand and on the verge of tears on several occasions. Her voice was so low that the jurors could scarcely hear her and the court often admonished her "to speak up." Under cross examination, she denied that the New Britain police had coached her in her witness stand recital, or had told her to identify a photograph of Chapman as Shean's companion at the hotel.

GEN. LORD RAWLINSON DIED IN DELHI, INDIA

Delhi, March 27—General Lord Rawlinson, commander-in-chief of the British forces in India, died tonight.

He would have expired in November. His successor General Sir William Birdwood, who has just been promoted to be a field marshal, was named by the British war office on March 20.

Lord Rawlinson's death followed an operation for appendicitis on March 25. At first it was thought the operation was successful as the British commander-in-chief seemed to be recovering.

General Lord Henry Seymour Rawlinson, commander in chief of the British forces in India since 1920, was one of the best known British generals during the World War. He was born February 20, 1864 and was educated at Sandhurst, entering the army in 1884.

He was given command of the fourth army corps in October 1914, and commanded the fourth British army during the battle of the Somme. He achieved important success there and was promoted general in recognition of his services.

Gen. Rawlinson's army played a prominent part in the storming of the Hindenburg line and in the subsequent victorious advance eastward.

When the British war honors were distributed General Rawlinson was raised to the peerage as Baron Rawlinson of Trent and received a grant of £30,000. In the latter part of 1919 he was sent to North Russia to conduct the withdrawal of the allied troops from Archangel and Murmansk, and on his return was commander at Aldershot for a year.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The shipping board held hearings on bids for five large ships in the Pacific trade.

President Coolidge appointed a commission to study the question of disposing of Muscle Shoals.

Former Governor Morrow, of the Panama Canal Zone, was appointed as American member of the Tacna-Arica boundary commission.

Secretary Wilbur ordered court martial proceedings against a number of officers as a result of the recent liquor raid on the transport Beaufort.

Senator Wheeler, of Montana, Edwin S. Booth, former solicitor of the interior department, and Gordon Campbell, oil land operator, were indicted by a federal grand jury.

Senator Couzens of Michigan, denied that other former minority stockholders of The Ford Motor Co., has signed waivers to permit reconsideration of their tax assesments.

WISCONSIN SOLONS TO CLEAR "DRY" SITUATION

Madison, Wis., March 27—State Senator Ben Gettleman of Milwaukee, sought legal counsel here today in anticipation of federal action being brought against him for statements made before a state senate committee relating to the manufacture of wine in his home. He had a typewritten statement by R. W. Jackman, attorney, regarding his case. It defended his stand on the ground that the prohibition against home brew and wines made for home consumption only was unenforceable.

State Senator James Barker, who echoed Senator Gettleman's remarks before the committee, declared he was "not afraid" of any investigation and that "perhaps it will do good in clearing up the prohibition situation."

The Gettleman statement held that neither state nor federal officers could enter private homes to search for liquor if there was no sale on the premises.

COURT MARTIALS MAY RESULT FROM LIQUOR RAID

Washington, March 27.—A number of court martials, probably involving five or six officers, will be ordered as a result of the liquor raid conducted recently on the naval transport Beaufort upon her arrival at Norfolk from the West Indies.

The trial of a civil suit concluded in Boston after occupying the court for 187 days was the longest jury trial on record in any country, with the single exception of the celebrated Tichborne case in England, which exceeded it in length by just one day.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Protest Lord Balfour's Visit.

Jerusalem, March 27 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—A manifesto protesting against Lord Balfour's visit to Palestine signed by Ujoar Bittar as president of what is termed the Moslem-Christian committee, has been circulated among the Arab population in Palestine and cabled to the league of nations and to the British press. The manifesto also protests against sir Herbert Samuel's administration in Palestine, and the attitude of the British government.

PLANS FOR TRANSFER OF BODY OF ADMIRAL DEWEY

Washington, March 27—After resting for nearly eight years in a mausoleum surounded by dead comrades of the Spanish-American War and close to the memorial mast of the Battleship Maine, the body of Admiral George Dewey, hero of Manila Bay, will be transferred with full military honors from Arlington national cemetery and placed temporarily alongside the famous dead in Bethel Chapel of Washington Cathedral.

A company of marines and one of bluejckets, together with the navy band, will be stationed at the Cathedral grounds to do honors on the arrival of the body from the cemetery. Until an adequate memorial is constructed in the Cathedral, the body will rest in the crypt of Bethel Chapel, with that of Woodrow Wilson, and several noted churchmen.

The honorary pall-bearers, all of whom served with Admiral Dewey at the Battle of Manila, were announced tonight by the navy department as follows:

Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, retired; Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman, retired; Admiral Edward W. Eberle, chief of naval operations; Rear Admiral P. Jones, chairman of the naval general board; Read Admiral Spences S. Wood, retired; Brigadier General Dion Williams, U. S. marine corps; Rear Admiral Colvocoressens and C. C. Glover, Washington banker.

Transfer of the admiral's body is being made at the request of Mrs. George Dewey, his widow, who desires that her husband lie in the church because of his interest in Episcopal affairs during his life. Admiral Dewey for many years was a member of the chapter of Washington Cathedral.

SUIT OVER ADVERTISING OF DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN

New York, March 27—Suit and counter-suit were filed in supreme court today by the Democratic National Committee, which conducted the John W. Davis campaign last year, and Van Patten Inc., an advertising agency which specializes in sky-writing.

The committee asked the Van Patten firm to account for a $50,000 cash advance last fall and to return any amounts dut. It charged that the firm failed to place certain advertising in various papers, as agreed.

Van Patten Inc., countered with a claim for $84,220, asserting it spent $9,220 over and above the original $50,000. The balance of the claim represented commissions it claimed to have been deprived of on an additional $600,000 contract, of which the committee expended only about $100,000. The commission was 15 per cent.

The committee in its answer said it owed Van Patten nothing, and had fulfilled all its obligations.

L. A. Van Patten said today the advertising was intended to show the Democratic party was thoroughly united I nsupport of Davis and Bryan. Therew as an "unexplained lull in these efforts after $75,000 in advertising had been released, he said, and after that therew as "so much discord on the subject of advertising" that the remaining $525,000 never went out.

AMERICAN WOMAN TO SUE COL. DENNISTOUN

Paris, March 27—The identity of an American woman who, it is declared by her counsel here, purposes to bring a suit for breach of promise and defamation of character against Lieut. Col. Ian Onslow Dennistoun of England, is being kept a strict secret for the present.

Dudley Field Malone, an American who is practicing law in Paris and who is counsel for the American woman, today made public what he declared were the main facts in the case. These are said to be in no way connected with the recent suit of Dennistoun's divorced wife against him in London. The evidence, Mr. Malone, said, embraces letters written the American woman by Dennistoun before he married the Dowager Countess Cadmarvon. They contain uncomplimentary remarks regarding the Countess, he added.

Mr. Malone said that he was purposely withholding details which might aid the public in determining who his client is.

PLAN GREAT CONVENTIONS OF TEMPERANCE ORGANIZATIONS

Westerville, O., March 27—Conventions of seven temperance organizations I nthe United States and of several in Canada will be held jointly in Detroit and Windsor, November 12-18, Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the world league against Alcoholism, announced tonight.

The American organizations include the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, the Michigan State W. C. T. U., the Independence Order of Good Templars, the Anti-Saloon League of America, the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association and the Scientific Temperance Foundation.

The Canadian group, whose sessions will be held in Windsor are the Dominion Temperance Alliance the Dominion W. C. T. U. and the Ontario Temperance Alliance.

It will be arraiged, Dr. Cherrington said, to hold conventions of all organizations except the world leaugue against alcoholism in the forenoons and then in the afternoons and evenings all organizations will meet with the world league.

EXPERIMENTS SHOW BOYS ARE BORN GENTLEMEN

Philadelphia, March 27—Miss V. Cunningham, Executive Secretary of the Institution of Child Research, Teachers College, Columbia University, in announcing before the convention of Pennsylvania schoolmen today the results of a series of experiments on boy and girl babies, said that men are born gentlemen "and can't get away from it, whether they like it or not."

Fifty three pairs of infants of opposite sexes, Miss Cunningham said, were placed in inclosures together before one boy baby could be found who would be so ungentlemanly as to take a toy away from his female companion. She did not say in how many instances the girl babies confiscated the toys of the boys, nor were any deductions made thereon.

"Tin Lizzie" Stock A Veritable Gold Mine

Surplus of Ford Motor Co. Increased By More Than $100,400,000 In Past Year.

Boston, March 27.—An increase of more than $100,400,000 in the surplus of the Ford Motor company in the year ending this month is shown in a statement of condition filed by the company with the secretary of the commonwealth of Massachusetts. The statement places the present surplus at $542,476,496.39 as against $442,041,081.12 in March 1924.

The total assets show an increase of $76,522,828.94, the figures jumping from $566,101,639.16 in March, 1924, to $644,624,468.10 as of this month.

The real estate value increased from $93,100,049.79 to $112,030,754.89; machinery and equipment $87,689,441.03 to $115,089,362.88; merchandise $94,328,306.48 to $95,264,936.28; accounts receivable, cash, securities, etc., $271,618,668.20 to $300,285,845.98; deferred charges $847,187.84 to $1,455,082.25.

Account payable have been reduced from $71,214,937.36 to $56,430,618.40. The reserves total $28,307,853.31 this year as against $37,436,120.68 last March.

Capital stock remains the same at $17,264,500 as does the good will figure, $20,517,985.82. The company still has no notes payable and the figures for the funded debt remain the same, $145,000.

The total amount of capital stock authorized stands the same at $100,000,000 consisting of 1,000,000 shares of common stock, each with a par value of $100. The number of shares outstanding is 172,645 and the total amount paid in thereon is $17,264,500.

"WOMAN IN BLACK" HELD FOR DEFRAUDING STORES

New York, March 27—The "woman in black" still concealing her identity, today was araigned in police court and then returned to jail, in a default of $5,000 bail, to await hearing on charges of obtaining $93.00 from a Fifth Avenue storeb y returning goods not bought at the store.

The woman, listed in the police court as "Jane Doe," is suspected of being the director of a group of women who have defrauded storekeepers by means of bad checks, shoplifting and by returning goods purchased or stolen elsewhere. She was arrested last night after detectives had trailed her for several weks through the Oyster Bay district on Long Island.

Fishing Schooner Was Burned At Sea

All Aboard Were Saved—All Were Exhausted From Exposure And Exertion.

Provincetown, Mass., March 27—The entire crew of 27 of the fishing schooner Emerald, which was burned and sunk after an explosion off Georges Banks last night, have been brought here, including the captain, Lawrence J. Norris of Boston.

Two dories, containing the last eight men rescued, arrived here tonight in tow of the Schooner Marjorie Packard, of Boston, which picked up the boats seven miles north of Race Point. The other nineteen men had been brought in by coastguardsmen from Cape Cod stations where they came ashore in five other dories.

Five dories reached caostguard stations or were brought in by coast guard rescue craft. Two boats, contain four men each, each reached Highland Light; one containing three men, was picked up by a motor boat from Wood End; another boat with four fishermen reached Peaked Hill; and a fifth, with four men, was brought into the station at Pamet River.

According to the men, the schooner took fire from an unexplained explosion in the cabin yesterday and they were forced to abandon her at five o'clock taking a few of their effects and a small amount of food in the dories. They rowed for twenty-four hours over a distance between 100 and 150 miles, they estimated, from the northern tip of Georges Banks to the Cape, all were exhausted from exposure and exertion upon arrival.

RELEASED ON CHARGE OF IMPERSONATING POLICE

New York, March 27—Thomas Wills Beet, of Atlantic Highlands, N. J., John J. Walsh and Joseph A. Landon of the Bronx, charged with impersonating police, were released in the court of special sessions today.

It was alleged that at midnight on August 27, they entered the apartment of Mrs. Ethel Jackson Baynes, who sang the principal role in "The Merry Widow" some years ago, and "arrested" Marcus H. Howes, an oysterman of Barnstable, Mass., who was visiting her.

Howes, in a letter to District Attorney Banton, said he did not care to prosecute the case and suggested that it be dismissed. He said he learned after the "arrest" that the men were detectives seeking evidence for a divorce for Mrs. Baynes' husband, but that his attorneys had decided "not to use the testimony."

"IF I ONLY HAD KNOWN"

Two women went out to buy a certain expensive labor-saving device for the home. One was greatly disappointed, when a few days later, they compared notes. She had bought the same product that many of her friend had owned.

The other woman secured a greatly improved, new product-costing less, but of much more value.

"If I had only known there was a better one," the first woman said. "I wounder never have bought this old one."

"I had just read about it in an advertisement," explained the wise buyer.

MEETING OF NATIONAL FIRE WASTE COUNCIL

Washington, March 27—The national fire waste council at a meeting here today named Indianapolis the grand winner of the fire prevention contest for 1924 conducted by the council and the United States Chamber of Commerce. The competition was held in four classes, the Indiana city being in the first class—cities or more then 100,000 persons.

Springfield, Mass., was second in the first class and Portland, Ore., third.

Winners in class two were Fresno, Cal., first; Hoboken, N. J., second; honor cities, Terre Haute, Ind.; St. Joseph, Mo.; New Britain, Conn.; Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Findlay, Ohio, was winner in class three with Battle Creek, Michigan, second.

The class four winner was Albany, Ga., with Billings, Mont., second, honor cities were El Reno, Okla.; Laconia, N. H.; Oceanside, Calif.; and Duncan, Okla.

An aggregate reduction of $4,000,000 in the fire loses of 265 cities entered in the contest in 1924, compared with 1923, was reported. These cities, with a total population of 10,000,000 showed a reduction of 10.8 per cent., though the property losses for the entire country increased. Their per capita loses last year was $3.10 compared with $3.86, the average for the preceding five years.

$300,000,000 FOR ELIMINATION OF GRADE CROSSINGS IN N. Y.

WARMEST MARCH WEATHER ON RECORD AT SARANAC LAKE

Saranac Lake, N. Y., March 27—This section is experiencing the warmest March weather on record. During the past 48 hours, the mercury has reached summer heights and at night failed to drop below freezing. Furs have been discarded for the first time in months.

SENATOR WHEELER IS INDICTED FOR CONSPIRACY

Washington, March 27—Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, independent vice presidential candidate last fall; Edwin S. Booth, former solicitor for the interior department, and Gordon Campbell, a Montana oil operator, were charged in an indictment returned by a grand jury here today with conspiracy to obtain illegal use and possession of government oil land.

The grand jury, which has had before it for two months an investigation of the granting of oil land leases to Campbell and his associates, terminated its proceeding by the action. Assistant Attorney General Donovan and special government counsel summed up the testimony at a brief morning session.

Senator Walsh of Montana, attorney for Mr. Wheeler, arranged for arraignment and placing of $1,000 bond for his client. The defendant senator issued a statement expressing surprise that an indictment had been found and predicting that "when the case comes to trial the public will be convinced of my complete innocence." Neither of the other defendants was in the city. Mr. Booth, like Senator Wheeler, appeared as a witness before the grand jury in its proceedings and waived immunity.

ARGENTINA EXPERIENCED A DISASTROUS TORNADO

Buenos Aires, March 27—Advices from the zones of the Province of Santa Fe which were swept by a tornado last night indicate that although property los will be large, the number of fatilities will not be as great as had been indicated by earlier despatches.

A relief train, sent from Rosario, arrived at Classon, one of the stricken cities, this morning. The railway station was completely destroyed, and the tracks were buried under such a mass of debris that firemen had to work for several hours to clear the way before the train could pass. Many houses were unroofed.

Official advices from the tornado zones later tonight show that many persons were injured, but no one killed.

These advices add that Classon was the only point to suffer important damage.

WOMAN WAS SLAIN AS HER BABY GURGLED IN CRADLE

Mysterious Tragedy Was Enacted in Little Ghetto of Greenwich Village, New York—Victim Had Several Knife Wounds In Back And Had Been Nearly Decapitated—Neighbors Heard Screams During Terrific Struggle That Preceded the Woman's Death—Body Was Found Prone Beside Cradle—No Clue To the Identify Of the Murderer.

New York, March 27—In a tiny apartment in the Little Ghetto of Greenwich Village, detectives today found the mutilated body of Amelia Casenlia, 25, a maker of artificial flowers.

She lay amid a profusion of the waxen blossoms, her body extended beside a cradle where her baby gurgled as it clutched a make-believe lily.

A terrific struggle had preceded the young woman's death. Scarcely 15 minutes after neighbors heard screams issuing from the tiny apartment into the din of the Village, detectives crowded into the place.

In that brief time Mrs. Cassenlia had been nearly decapitated, as though with an axe. Seven ugly knife wounds had been inflicted in her back and her slayer had escaped without leaving any immediately apparent clue.

Neighbors had seen her at a nearby shop only a half hour earlier, lightheartedly gosiping as she accumulated the supper menu for her husband, Daniel, who had not yet returned from the Bronx piano factory where he worked.

She told how many roses, lillies and carnations she had made that day, to eke out the income her husband earned. She became enthusiastic over the fact that her baby had taken his first toddling steps this very morning. She could hardly wait for Daniel to reach home to tell him the news, she said.

Detectives took nearly a score of the slain woman's friends to headquarters for questioning, but without gaining a single clue to the identity of the murderer.

All knew of her as a supremely happy wife. None knew of any clandestine love affair that might have culminated so tragically.

A brightly polished hatchet found in the Cassenlia kitchen was taken to be photographed for possible fingerprints that might betray the slayer.

HEART AILMENTS AMONG YOUNG IRISH IMMIGRANTS

Washington, March 27.—Although immigration bureau officials here appeared puzzled today over rejection of a relatively large number of young Irish immigrants because of heart ailments, officials of the public health service, which is charged with physical examination of aliens attempting to enter the United States, attributed the abnormally high heart disease rate found among these applicants to local conditions existing in Ireland since 1914. These conditions, it was explained, brought about prolonged fatigue and extreme muscular effort, which resulted in cardiac affections. Another cause is found in the condition of the applicants' teeth.

The public health officials pointed out that discrimination against Irish immigrants as a clas was extremely unlikely, since many of the health service examiners are themselves of Irish descent. Immigrants from England, too, they added, are being rejected because of heart troubles. The climate of the British Isles is particularly conducive to tonsilitis, and its aftermath, rheumatism, with resulting strains on the heart.

Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumings said a comparison of statistis shows that an adult ages, from 20 to 64, and mortality rates from diseases of the heart in the United States was uniformly higher among the Irish than among the English, Welsh, or Americans. Available knowledge suggests, he said, that persons of the Irish race are somewhat more prone to die of organic diseases of the heart than either the English or the native American, and that this condition is for some reason aggravated after they have come to the United States.

JURY CHOSEN FOR TRIAL OF DOROTHY ELLINGSON

San Francisco, March 27.—A jury of nine men and three women was chosen today to determine the fate of 16-year-old Dorothy Ellingson, charged with murder for killing her mother in the bedroom of their house last January, after a quarrel over the girl's mad pursuit of pleasure.

Judge Louderback instructed counsel to begin the selection of two alternate jurors. Witnesses were excused until Monday. The regular jury was sworn over objections of the defense, which declared that the court had committed error in reopening the interrogation yesterday after both sides had approved the tentative jury.

Mrs. Blanche La Coste, a young housewife, was one of the alternates selected Dorothy Ellingson fainted for the second time today as she was being taken from court for a recess. She had been trembling and agitated and had difficulty in getting out of her chair.

TAX STATEMENT MADE BY SENATOR COUZENS

Washington, March 27.—Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, who was assessed an additional tax of nearly $11,000,000 on his minority stock holdings in the Ford Motor company, today characterized as "absolutely untrue" the statement credited in press reports to Secretary Mellon that waivers already had been obtained from the other minority stockholders.

"I do not charge Secretary Mellon with knowing that this was an untrue statement," Senator Couzens said, "but I do know that Commissioner Blair said on March 7 they had no waivers from the other minority stockholders except the Dodge Brothers, and this was a general waiver of all disputed matters."

STORM WARNING ISSUED BY WEATHER BUREAU

Washington, March 27.—The weather bureau late today issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 4.30 p. m., northwest storm warnings displayed Cape Hatteras to Provincetown, Mass. Disturbance increasing in intensity and it will be attended by strong northwest winds and probably gales tonight diminishing by Saturday morning."

NEW YORK TO REDUCE THE STATE INCOME TAX

Albany, N. Y., March 27.—The senate today concurred with the assembly in the passage of a bill providing for a 25 per cent reduction in the state income tax.

Governor Smith said earlier in the day that if he received the measure today he would affix his signature immediately.

OPINIONS EXPRESSED AT BIRTH CONTROL CONFERENCE

New York, March 27.—"Every child has the right to be well born or not to be born at all," Owen R. Lovejoy, executive secretary of the national child labor committee, declared today in an address to the sixth international neo-malthusian and birth control conference.

He insisted that a child "have a fair chance in the race of life, or else be spared the tragic fate of an existence which will mean to him nothing but suffering or failure, and to the race only disaster."

"We catapult children into the world by the accidental explosion of passion and ignorance, and erect legal stockades to prevent the truth from entering," he said.

"Then we doom whole armies of them to child labor, disease, overcrowding and hunger.

"It is a ghastly confession of human inefficiency and industrial cannibalism, which has to feed on its young to live."

Mr. Lovejoy expressed the opinion that the most potent cause of child labor is "large families, beyond the capacity of one person to support."

Dr. Morris H. Kahn, of New York, said he did not believe promiscuity would be increased if birth control advice were given by physicians. He said, however, that the fear of some physicians that this would happen, together with religious prejudice within the medical profession, is a of legal trouble and of indecency, and ignorance of contraception are the principal obstacles to the giving of birth control information by physicians.

Dr. Rachelle S. Yarros, of Hull House, Chicago, predicted that the woman of the future will determine how far she wants to sacrifice herself to bear children.

SUSPICIOUS FIRE IN DWELLING IN HARTFORD

Hartford, March 27.—A suspicious fire of undetermined origin starting simultaneously in the front and rear of a cellar about 3 o'clock tonight threatened the two-story frame building at 36 Liberty street and drove out four families. Edward H. Richardson, whose family occupies the first floor apartment in front, was first to smell smoke. He discovered his kindling pile in a blaze and running to the rear found a second fire in the rear wall close to the foundation. Two small children of Mrs. Henrietta Weinstein and Mrs. Arnold Westley, who jointly occupy the first floor rear apartment narrowly escaped suffocation and burning while asleep in a bedroom of which the burning wood formed one wall.

The fire in the rear wall of the building rapidly made its way to a blind attic beneath the roof.

Firemen arriving on the scene raised ladders to the window from which the smoke was issuing and smashed their way in. Others attacked the blaze at its source with chemical and water lines. The situation was under control soon after but not before damage, estimated at $500 by Deputy Chief Keena, who directed the work, had been done.

BUILDING TRADES TROUBLES IN THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

Washington, March 27.—Possibility of a far reaching controversy in the local building trades was indicated today when the Master Masons association decided to lock out the Stonecutters union.

The lock out order was approved at a meeting of 100 financiers, real estate operators and contractors, which formed a committee to combat further wage increases.

Organizations already on record as demanding higher wages include the stone cutters, the painters, steam fitters, plumbers and an important section of the carpenters. The stone cutters were given notice that their return would be permitted only on an open shop basis.

DROPPED DEAD IN HUDSON-MANHATTAN TUBE TRAIN

Hoboken, N. J., March 27.—William J. Evans, Jr., 41, president of the Evans Fibre Box company of Chicago, dropped dead today in a Hudson-Manhattan tube train under the Hudson river.

WILLIMANTIC

Friday and today (Saturday) are five days for the striking operatives of the American Thread Company. In reply to invitations from textile workers' locals from several towns in Eastern Connecticut some fifty collectors, mostly young women was sent out Friday to Jewett City, Norwich, Greenville, Moosup, Dayville and Middletown. Upon their return later in the evening they reported having met with the utmost courtesy in these towns and turned in substantial sums as a result of the day's work. At the strikers' headquarters Friday, the noon meeting in the morning was in charge of Miss Amy Hunter, local president. Miss Mary Kelleher, national organizer spoke briefly, and again warned against the spreading of rumors. Rumors are dangerous, she said, and if heard should at once be reported to headquarters from where an investigation will be made. Miss Kelleher called for a large attendance at the mass meeting this (Saturday) morning when Horace Reeves of Manchester, N. H., will speak in French and English.

Patrolman Officer Arthur Hurley proved himself a sleuth and again upheld the record of the local police department for having an extra good detective when it comes to stolen cars, when he arrested three young men, Arthur Spitzer, 17; Arthur VanDyke and Austin Rogers all of Whitinsville, when they arrived in this city about four o'clock Friday morning in a Ford sedan that was owned by Silas Frees also of Whitinsville. In addition to noticing their suspicious actions Officer Hurley noted that the floor of the car was filled with bedding and personal apparel. He entered the driver, young Van Dyke to step and found that no one in the party possessed a driver's license. The boys admitted stealing the car and said that they were headed for parts unknown when they had lost their bearings in Windham. Chief Thomas Cullen of the Mansfield and Officer John Regan of the Whitinsville police department came to this city and returned to that town with the three culprits and the stolen machine.

Eight members of the Boy Scouts attended a rehearsal held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Alguire in Mansfield Depot when it later developed that the day marked the birthday of Mrs. Alguire. After rehearsal the party sat down to a fine luncheon of club and cheese sandwiches, cookies, cake and coffee. Dancing and singing were enjoyed with Mr. Galbraith at the piano.

At the home of his parents in Windham Center, funeral services for Arthur Wealing Roberts were held this afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. Clarence H. Graham officiating. Burial was in the Windham cemetery. Avery and Van Zandt had charge of the arrangements.

Assistant Jailer Walter Tripp of Brooklyn jail received a well known acquaintance for a sixty days' stay at the institution Friday, when Bobbie Fitzgerald, 22, (colored) was taken there to work out a sentence imposed upon him in the local police court. Fitzgerald was charged with vagrancy and when Deputy Judge Curtis Dean asked him why he did not work he replied contemptiously that there was no such thing as work to be found these days. After a free night's lodging in the local lock-up Wednesday night the young man was dismissed but he remained about town until late the next night, when he was arrested.

A dog, the owner of which has not been discovered, was killed Friday afternoon when its neck was broken under the rear wheel of an automobile owned and driven by Edward Cote of 31 Roosevelt avenue, Norwich. Mr. Cote was driving in from Windham and when his attention was drawn to the dogs playing in the road. He sounded a warning and was bringing his machine to a stop when one of the canines dove under the car and was killed. Inquiry in the vicinity but failed to locate the owner. The matter was reported to Chief Allan McAllister.

At a joint meeting of the Brotherhood and the Grex club of the First Congregational church held in the church house Thursday evening, Rev. Arthur B. Wheelock delivered an address on "Religion and War." Rev. Mr. Wheelock was chiplain overseas during the World War and he related many interesting experiences in connection with his work along the front. The ladies society served a supper.

The Knights of Everlasting Pleasure, an organization consisting mainly of married men who make their headquarters in this city elected Edward Donnelly their president at a meeting this week. H. Friedman was made secretary and treasurer.

Dr. W. S. P. Keating has disposed of his residence on Walnut street to Mr. Hester M Bowsell of South Coventry.

News In General

Miss Edna E. Stoughton has returned from an attack of grip and resumed Friday to her duties at the office of the American Thread company.

Clifford J. Alpaugh is confined to home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Dondero with their daughter, Lois, are in New York for the week end. Their daughter Gertrude who has been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey Wallace will return with them.

Mrs. A. E. Muirhead is in Fall River, Mass., to join her husband, Rev. A. E. Muirhead who is attending the Methodist conference in that city.

Miss Lena Fullerton of Mt. Holyoke college is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fullerton for the spring vacation.

The agency, conducted by the late David E. Strong was sold from the estate Friday to Louis H. Arnold.

Mrs. Robert Dziomba has as her guest her sister, Mrs. Adelaide Noyes of Hartford.

Mrs. Frank Rousseau is visiting her sister, Mrs. Martin French in New Britain.

Miss Mary Duggan of No. 124 High street, has been in Boston, attending the funeral of a relative, Patrick J. Sullivan of Jamaica Plan, father of Rev. Charles J. Sullivan, D. C. L.

ARBITRATION COMMITTEE AIMS TO SETTLE STRIKE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 27—A representative committee was appointed Friday by Acting Mayor George W. Hickey to decide on the feasibility of bringing into conference parties interested with a view of settling the strike at the American Thread Company mills. The committee comprises George W. Hickey, acting mayor; James P. Bath, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Harry W. Standish, president of the Rotary Club, T. Frank Cunningham, president of the Business Men's Association, Russell A. Andrews, first selectman, John R. Pickett, assessor, James J. Lee, alderman, Charles A. Gates, county sheriff, H. N. Bullard, newspapers. The committee organized with T. Frank Cunningham, Chairman; secretary, First Selectman Russell A. Andrews; honorary chairman, Acting Mayor George W. Hickey. At 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon the grievance committee of the strikers was invited into conference. The strikers explained their standing regarding the present situation and their remarks were noted for future reference. This (Saturday) morning the committee will invite officials of the American Thread Company to meet them in conference when their version of the condition will be considered. After hearing both sides of the question some form of arbitration will be studied to present as a suggestion to a joint conference of the representative committee, the strikers and the company officials.

BOOZE UNDER THE BED AND IN THE HAYSTACK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 27—The large farm owned by Raphael Glass in Hebron yielded a vast amount of liquor evidence from its many hiding places Thursday afternoon when raiding by Federal Prohibition Enforcement Agents, William S. Congdon and Stanton L. Briggs of this city and Constable Joh Riley of Colchester. The diversified stock of evidence was found in many sectins of the property. In a hay stack in one shed was found 50 gallons of mash. In another shed the officers searched through more hay and came upon a ten gallon keg filled with moonshine. Another keg of five gallon capacity, also full, was found carefully hidden under the bed of one of the rooms in the house. Six gallons of cider brandy was found in two quart jars hidden about the place and in the cellar was a 25 gallon still which bore evidence of recent operation. The coil and an eight foot connection, part of the still, were located in still another section. Following this exhaustive search the officers took Glass before Justice of the Peace Miss Ann Clark. Her father, E. Frank Clark was grand juror. Glass was fined $100 and costs which he paid. A thirty day jail sentence was also imposed, but suspended on condition that Glass abied by his promise to mend his ways.

HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPALS HOLD THIRD CONFERENCE

Willimantic, March 27—The conference of high school principals of Connecticut and school superintendents which opened Thursday night with a dinner and an address by Dr. Frank E. Spaulding of New Haven, followed by a discussion on the growth of education, resumed sessions at nine o'clock Friday morning. The conference is the third annual meeting and is being attended by about eighty-five school superintendents and state district supervisors. The program will close with a luncheon this (Saturday) noon. F. E. Pierce, state supervisor of secondary education and successor to Dr. Jesse B. Davis, now professor of secondary education at Boston University, is in charge of the conference.

Group meetings held Friday were: 1—"The new Course of Study in English Composition and Literature: Principal Homer K. Underwood, Bulkeley High school, New London. 2—"The General Intelectual and Moral Tone of a School as a Paramount Factor in Determining its Efficiency." F. E. Pierce, supervisor of secondary education. 3—"The Examination as a Reliable Factor in Determining Student Ability:" Principal Henry A. Tirrell, Norwich Free Academy.

The Entire Nous general meeting was conducted by Dr. A. B. Meredith, state commissioner of education.

Speakers at the luncheon were: Dr. Barnhart, director of the bureau of vocational education at Washington, D. C.; and Dr. Joseph E. Harry, formerly professor of Greek language and Literature at the Sorbonne, Paris, whose subject was, "Attitude of the European Student Toward His Work:" "A Comporison With the American Student."

Regarding the elimination of girls' interscholastic basketball competition, a question which has held high interest, Supervisor Pierce stated that as the conference was a body for discussion he did not believe that any action the secondary schools' athletic associa would be taken on the matter. The proper body for such action would be tion of the state.

At another general meeting held at two o'clock Friday afternoon, Professor Clement C. Hyde, principal of Hartford High school spoke on, "How We May Improve The Quality of Scholarship of Our High School Pupils." Group meetings were resumed at three o'clock in this order: 1—"Objectives in Modern Language Instruction and How to Realize Them in the Classroom:" Dr. Joseph E. Harry. 2—"Educational Guidance;" Prof. Arthur F. Payne, professor of educational sociology: Teachers' College, and Wooster Warren, assistant superintendent of schools, Bridgeport; A dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock in the evening with a program in charge of Walter E. Spencer, principal of New Haven Commercial High school.

CAPT. HENRY A. CROCKER, NEW LONDON LEAVES BULK OF ESTATE TO WIFE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 27.—The will of Capt. Henry A. Crocker, whose death occurred a fortnight ago, was admitted to probate at a hearing in the probate court today. The instrument was drawn Aug. 19, 1912, and was witnessed by Dr. Frank S. Norkett, Lewis Crandall and Arthur B. Calkins. The amount of the estate has not been inventoried, but it is believed will be large for Captain Crocker owned valuable waterfront property. In Shaw's cove, where many big yachts were moored during the winter and fitted for cruising in the spring. The will provides for a bequest of $1,000 to testator's son, William Crocker. The residue of the estate, no matter of whatsoever nature or wheresoever located, is bequeathed to testator's widow, who is named as executrix without bond.

Councilor Edward L. Streeter Jr. and Policeman Patrick Sheehan have not yet come to clinches, by their controversy over the alleged conduct of Sheehan in having been imbibing several times in the six years that Streeter has been a member of the police force. Sheehan, like Oliver Twist, soon came right down out of the mess, acknowledged his breach of discipline and accepted his punishment as a good soldier. Then Mr. Streeter objected to the penalty [illegible] Sheehan and brought the matter before the council, declaring [illegible] privilege and his duty to [illegible] action of the city manager [illegible] as the lines of "The Mikado" declare, "the punishment did not fit the crime." Mr. Streeter declared before the city council that the city manager was letting the officer down easily.

To date, Mr. Mack [illegible] time for the hearing on the request of Sheehan, but [illegible] to get the facts [illegible] week he will bring the accused and his accusers before him, that they may have the chance to state their cases as they [illegible] policeman Sheehan [illegible] party who is understood to have accused him and he would have interviewed that party but for [illegible] was given to [illegible] matter in an [illegible] gin at the source of [illegible] low members of the police force with Sheehan are anticipating a hearing when the matter comes to adjustment. They are expecting that the hearing will be open to the public, that all may know what is said and what is offered in testimony in defense.

The police are convinced today that if the home of Harry Wolfe, 1 Grand street, was burglarized early Thursday morning, as was reported by Wolfe when he made [illegible] police that a [illegible] $1 and receipts had been [illegible] his trousers pocket [illegible] the robbery was committed [illegible] one in the Wolfe house and not by a person who gained entrance to the place for the commission of theft. The robbery was reported to the police yesterday forenoon when Wolfe alleged that the pocketbook had been placed on the trunk in his room and that the trousers were then placed on the stairs leading to the rear entrance to the house, where they were found by Wolfe, following the discovery of the alleged theft.

This forenoon Patrolman William Graham reported at the station police that he had visited the Wolfe residence and that he had ascertained that the trousers were not found where Wolfe had stated they were recovered, but were found on a [illegible] way leading to the Wolfe bedroom. The officer also stated that a son of Wolfe, aged 9, had returned home yesterday afternoon with the pocketbook, which the youth declared he had found in a barrel on Hone street, when he was on his way to school and that the boy [illegible] pocketbook because [illegible] the boy to his father. In the pocketbook were the receipts but not the $1. Officer Graham also stated that in a bureau drawer in the bedroom of Wolfe was another pocketbook containing $5 and two watches, while [illegible] a pocketbook containing [illegible] ther of the purses was disturbed nor were the two watches. The [illegible] declare that had a thief entered the house and made a search for plunder he would not have stopped at the mere taking of the wallet containing the dollar, leaving Wolfe's watch in the garment, to say nothing of not searching the bureaus where the $62 and two other watches were to be obtained.

The store in the Cronin building, State street, long occupied by Leon & Ewald, which is to be vacated April 1st, has been leased for a term of years by Samuel Hansen, proprietor of the New [illegible] Store, 3 Main street.

The amount of [illegible] pay is said to be $6,000 annually.

Frank Foster, of Ocean avenue; Mrs. William Keyes, Shaw street; Mrs. David Reagan, Truman court; Mrs. Fred Burdick, Williams street, and Hans Fleckinger, U. S. Coast Guard, were patients dismissed at Lawrence Memorial hospital today.

There was not a case that necessitated a trial in the police court today. Charles Donohue, Montville, was charged with a breach of the peace, but the fellow who complained and caused the arrest of Donohue did not wish to press the charge and appear to secure the penalization of the accused man. The [illegible] a row in the Coney Island Lunch on Bank street, and began over a request for a loan, the police said. Sergeant Hick made the arrest and Donohue deposited a bond of $[illegible] today. He did appear and [illegible] was returned to him [illegible] plaint was nolled after [illegible] prosecutor asked for it [illegible] to the court that neither of the parties was anxious to take the case to trial.

State Police Officer Giles Watson, stationed at Groton barracks, who was operated upon at Home Memorial hospital a month ago for [illegible] tained recently while [illegible] to jump his motorcycle, [illegible] leave the institution today and return to the barracks.

Other patients dismissed [illegible] the institution were Mrs. Louis Kowalski of Quaker Hill, Waterford, and Mrs. Nina Costa, Westerly.

Lieut. Commander F. H. Young, is a patient in the Mitchell Ward of Lawrence hospital, suffering from influenza. Lieut. Commander Young is in command of section base, 4, United States Coast Guard, located at the state pier.

It is understood that within a few days the many slot machines which were placed in stores throughout the city several months ago, will be ordered removed by the state police of the Groton barracks. There are about 100 of these machines in stores, pool rooms and hotels and restaurants and they have been a source of considerable revenue to both the owners of the machines and the proprietors of the places. It is known that the machines have been taken from places in other cities and towns of the state and recently they were taken from stores in Groton, the machines being declared a public nuisance when they could not be alleged to be gambling devices.

A very slight improvement was manifest tonight in the condition of Lafayette Star, former New London and Norwich resident, who was struck by an automobile owned and operated by Joseph Whitelaw, Lyme, in Waterford, several days ago.

A public whist is being held at the residence of John Eldridge on Montauk avenue this evening.

A gasoline combination car that has been running between New London and Norwich has been withdrawn and sent to the line between Webster and Woonsocket. The New Haven railroad is reducing the operating expenses of the road as much as is consistent with good service and this is one of the means of attaining that result.

The taxi men report a heavy reduction in their business during the past few weeks, but the number of cars in the service has by no means diminished.

The season of bonfires is here and householders who are cleaning up their premises are burning the refuse collected. There is a strict law against the starting of bonfires without permission of the fire warden even on one's own premises, but that ordinance is not observed in many cases. The state found it necessary to enact a statute that prevents the starting of bonfires in the highway because of the damage these fires occasioned to the macadamized highways. That statute is more generally observed than is the ordinance covering the same subject in the city. Recently boys have been disciplined for starting grass fires, but they did only what many a householder has also done and escaped penalty.

There are fewer barges, coal-laden, in the harbor at present than have been noticed at any time other than in midwinter. Indeed there are often more barges here in the winter months than are at anchor here now. A great deal of coal is being hauled by the railroads, though.

MRS. HEIKEL EXONERATED OF BLAME FOR GIRL'S DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 27—Coroner J. J. Desmond, of Norwich, has exonerated Mrs. Ruth Heikel, 361 Broad street, of criminal responsibility for the death of Sophie Goldstein, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Goldstein, who received fatal injuries several weeks ago when she was struck by the automobile operated by Mrs. Heikel, on Jefferson avenue, and within a few yards of the child's home.

The child had been to a cobbler shop opposite her home and had a coat over her head. Emerging from the store she darted into the street and because of the coat over her head, she was unable to see the approach of Mrs. Heikel's machine, with the result that she was struck, sustaining a fractured skull from which injury she died a short time after having been admitted to Lawrence hospital.

TWO ALLEGED RUM-RUNNERS CAPTURED FRIDAY MORNING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 27—As a result of the great activity of the rum-chasing fleet in Long Island, Block Island and Fisher's Island sounds, two more alleged rum-runers were captured this morning. One of the craft, the gas screw launch California, one of the speed boats, did not have liquor aboard, but the craft was seized and the crew charged with violation of the prohibition laws. The other craft, the M. S. Quay, of Philadelphia had approximately 500 cases of liquor aboard.

This afternoon the crews of both craft were presented before United States Commissioner Earl Matthewson of Norwich at the customs house and were released on bail pending their hearing next week, the masters being held in bail of $1,500, each and the crew on bail of $500 each.

The California was seized when the crew of the CG-225 came upon the craft alongside the Belgian supply steamer Denise at Rum Row, Montauk Point. The California, it is believed was about to receive a supply of whiskey and alcohol. When her master, Julius Lisman, of New York, observed the rum-chaser, he started his craft for the shore. Signals were given for the California to stop, but they were not heeded, so two shots were fired across her bow, and the craft hove to. A search of the launch failed to reveal liquor, but she was taken in tow and brought here to be held pending the trial of the crew. The launch hails from New York.

The Quay had received her cargo and was headed through Long Island sound when sighted by the crew of the CG-324. Signals were given Capt. John Smith, Greenport, to bring his craft to a stop and when he did so the Quay was boarded and the liquor found.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

The high school seniors, chaperoned by Principal Tower and Miss Agnes Cole, left on the 5.26 p. m. train Friday for New London where they took the boat for New York and will leave New York this (Saturday) morning for Washington, D. C. Miss Wheeler and Miss Hodges of the high school faculty were also in the party.

Miss Helen Avery, one of the seniors, was unable to go on account of scarlet fever in her family.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Brick have moved into the Nothwick house on Grant avenue.

John Tenon has purchased the South Cushman place. It will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Lane.

The new pavement which was put down on Main street last fall and which showed considerable damage after the winter, is being patched. The pavement cost the borough $55,000 and there are already misgivings as to its durability.

Mrs. Louise Fellows and daughter of Lawrence, Mass., are visiting relatives in Staffordville.

WRANGEL PREDICTS OVERTHROW OF REDS

Gen. Wrangel, who was recently appointed acting "commander-in-chief of the Russian army" by the Grand Duke Nikolai Nikolaievitch, is giving color to the reports that the monarchist emigres are planning a campaign against the bolsheviks for the present year. In a message to officers, soldiers and sailor who still recognize his authority he says:

"Away with doubts The worst is behind us. The red mist which enveloped the world is dispersing. The day is near when the red star will set, and the rending of the red veil will disclose the face of national Russion. • •

• The coming year will bring an end to the period of tribulation, the Russian regiments will gather under the leadership of the supreme commander-in-chief and the wounded Russian eagle will spread its mighty wings."

What purported to be details of the belligerent plans of the Nikolaist section of the Russian monarchists were printed a few days ago in a Munich paper. It was stated that "a fresh Judenitch expedition" was to be set on foot, with the help of France, Poland, Czechoslovakia and the Balkan States. Poland was to be rewarded for her assistance by receiving part of the Ukraine. It was further stated that the White Army was to concentrate on German soil. As the paper quoted is known to be in touch with the circle of the rival Russian monarchist leader, the Grand Duke Cyril Vladimirovitch, doubtless the statements repeated above come from his supporters. They may, therefore, have aimed only at discrediting Nikolai Nikolaievitch by representing him as ready to betray his country to Poland, detestation of whom is the only bond which at present unites all Russians.

STANDARIZING BIG CRANES IS BEGUN BY MAKERS

Experience has proved that from the point of view of simplification there is no essential difference between carpet tacks and 40-ton locomotive cranes. The crane manufacturers have found that they have too many types and sizes, for which they are spending good money wastefully, and under the tutelage of the Department of Commerce they are preparing to get them down to an economical basis.

"After dealing with bricks, bottles blankets and similar items," says the report, "the simplification of 35 and 40 ton cranes is much like petting the elephant after a romp with the canary, but it is apparent that there can be too many varieties of locomotive cranes as well as too many sizes of carpet tacks.

"Another project just launched will reflect itself in savings to nearly 15,000,000 of our population—that of the proposed simplification and standardization of spark plugs, piston rings and brake linings. The automotive industry has long been outstanding in its endeavor to simplify these parts and components which will make for greater economy and accommodation to the vast army of autoists in this country, and yet there has been no stagnation in the design or development of cars since this policy has been followed.

"The astonishing thing, however, is the slowness of many lines still loaded with duplications and excessive varieties in awakening to the advantages and economies which would come from such a general housecleaning."

Socialist Bakery Fails.

The Austrian Social Democrats, who [illegible] founded the Hammer Bakery in Vienna, to destroy what they called the "capitalist monopoly." of bread production, now see themselves compelled to sell the establishment, being unable to compete with capitalism any longer. This bakery was exclusively owned by the Socialist party until after the war, when 40 per cent. of the shares were sold to Herr Rosel to repay debts to Dutch bankers.

Buying Art Works.

It is not surprising that an occasional protest appears against the sales of English works of art to Americans when it is realized how many of the treasures of the Old World find their way across the Atlantic. During the last two years the sales of works of art to American purchasers in London have reached the huge sum of $10,000,000 annually. It is a compliment to American taste in art that the demand seems to be increasing, and it is usually an American bidder who has the last word before the fall of the hammer.

The more brains a man has the less chance of his head's swelling.

"I met the issue squarely"

Lots of Knit Jackets being sold today. Pretty much all the same, though—nothing really different about any of them. Yet, that's what I think most men want—something different!

So, I've produced the CUB. It's unlike any knit jacket I've ever seen. It's made of my own exclusive fabric—Star-Kloth. Like a sweater in warmth, unlike a sweater in weight. Snug but smart, comfortable rather than cumbersome. At a price range that's easy on the pocket-book.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

At 4:45 Friday evening an alarm from Box 32, at the corner of Main and Reynolds streets sent the firemen scurrying into that section to find that they had responded to a false alarm. It developed later that some one, seeing sparks shooting out of a chimney at the J. W. Gallup house on Main street, figured the chimney was afire and pulled in the alarm. Chief A. P. Woodward later ascertained that the momentary rush of sparks was due to the fact that some oily papers had been put into the stove at the Gallup home. There was much excitement but nothing doing.

St. Alban's parish is to have a new parish house. This was decided at a special parish meeting held Thursday evening. The meeting voted to accept the report of the committee that has been looking into the advisability of erecting the structure, the report being favorable, and also voted to authorize a plan for raising the necessary money. A committee of fifteen has been named for this undertaking. The cost of the parish house to be erected in the rear of the church on Broad street, will be in the neighborhood of $7,000. It is not unlikely that the building operations will be undertaken within a few weeks.

Bonus certificates continue to trickle through the mails to former service men resident in Danielson and vicinity. Some of these certificates call for nearly $1,600. Though these certificates have been coming through since the first of the year all the men here who will eventually get them have not yet received them.

Senior class assignments for the graduation in June of Killingly High school students have been announced. John Moody will deliver the address of welcome. The honor essays will be by Mariette Paine and Amy Wells. Alma Forcier will also present an essay. The history will be by Frances Tillinghast, the prophecy by Arthur Heaney and the presentation of the gift by Harry Boyd.

Misses Madelyn Cronin and Dorothy Lague and Andreas Havelas will arrange the programme. The ode committee is made up of Mariette Paine, Frances Tillinghast and Thelma Kinney. On the motto committee are Eunice Storer, Philip Armington nad Amy Wells. The gift committee personnel is Faulin Mettled Dorothy Smith and Alma Forcier.

Dorothy Aitkens has been appointed to be marshal. The head ushers are to be Ella Sheffield and Denton Gallup and their assistants include Miss Ruth Litch, Flora Keach, Helen Keach, Mildred Tillinghast, Leslie Conklin, Douglas Logee, Elmer Major, Robert Fulton.

In carrying out necessary repairs, the electric current is to be shut off Sunday for a period in the forenoon and a period in the afternoon, as announced elsewhere in the paper this morning, in the territory the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company serves in Plainfield — at Plainfield, Moosup and Central Village. In Danielon the power will be off from 12.30 p. m. to 3.30 p. m. This arrangement will not apply to other parts of the town of Killingly served by the same company. The repairs herein referred to will be made if the weather permits.

Perhaps the most successful and satisfactory of the Mi-Creme parties of the Social club was held Thursday evening with practically all of the 48 members in attendance. This single gathering of the club during the Lenten season opened with a whist party in the apartment of Mdme. L. J. Morin, in the Cyr building. Honors were won by Mrs. Joseph Bousquet of Dyer street, who had the highest score, Mrs. Frank Mailhot, who was second, and Miss Clare Allerie, who received the consolation award.

Following the whist the club adjourned to their quarters in the Hyde block, where a delightful surprise awaited them. The hall had been handsomely decorated in red and gold, the club colors and tables arranged for the serving of a delicious chicken salad supper. All of this had been secretly arranged by the committee in charge. Music during the supper period was by Miss Olive Burns, violinist, and Miss Alice Vachon, pianist.

Approximately half the membership of the club were gowned in styles of ye olden tymes, the prize for the most unique costume being awarded Mrs. Fortier, of Dayville. The costumes proved an added delight of the evening, so quaint and unusual did they seem in this modern day.

As a token of appreciation of the amount of interest they had shown and the effort they had expended in behalf of the club during the season, Mdme. Morin, for the members, presented Miss Blanche Lacas, club president, Mrs. Amadee Bernier, chairman of the entertainment committee, and Mrs. Amadee Boulais with bouquets of beautiful roses, the handiwork of Mdme. Morin. Mrs. Boulias also received a special additional gift of a case of toilet articles.

The Danielson Hi-Y club basketball team will participate at the Putnam armory this (Saturday) evening in a basketball tournament. The tournament will be to pick the champion team to represent the Windham County Hi-Y in the state basketball tournament. The teams entered to appear at Putnam tonight in addition to Danielson are the Putnam and the Woodstock Hi-Y teams and the North Grosvenordale Comrades group. The public is invited to attend the tournament, to which admission will be free.

In Brooklyn, ten owners of dogs have been presented before Justice Frank M. Bedard and fined for violations of the law that included having unregistered dogs or dogs without tags. C. B. Ganung, special deputy commissioner of domestic animals, came here from Hartford to work up the cases. Eight of those presented were fined $1 each and costs, a total of $12.41, and the other two paid fines of $5 each and costs, a total of $16.41. Deputy Ganung canvassed the entire town of Brooklyn in working up the cases, as he also has done in Killingly during the present week.

Eight garages in Danielson and its vicinity have entered into a compact, effective April 1, for giving no more free battery service—testing and filling with distilled water. Garages were posting on Friday notices to this effect. Abuse by some of the free service opportunities of the past has made it seem advisable for the garage operators to make a carge for a service that occupies time of garage employes. There are motorists who would have a battery tested every day, though many car owners who ask for such service at reasonable intervals. It is understood that even under the new arrangement the garages will make no charge if a car owner appears and does his own testing and puts the water in himself.

Nine o'clock is the hour fixed for the appearance in the town court this morning of persons involved in 32 dog cases that are to be considered.

P. A. Reeves has so far recovered from a recent illness as to be able to be about town.

Hydrants about town were given tests Friday morning by representatives of the Crystal Water company as is done occasionally. The flushing of the hydrants was the cause of discolored water running out of house faucets for a brief time.

William H. Shippee, long a resident of this place, observed his 81st birthday at his home on North street Thursday. All the members of the family were present for the occasion.

A rummage sale by the Killingly Women's club at a store in the Jordan block attracted attendance and produced sales.

A degree was conferred upon a class of candidates of Dorcas Rebekah lodge at Odd Fellows' hall Friday evening.

Mrs. F. H. Keach had the members of the Sewing society of St. Alban's church at her home for a meeting on Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gallup, who have been in California for some time, are expected to return here about the end of the coming week.

A recent death at Ashton, R. I., was that of Mrs. Frances V. Rawson, formerly a resident of Goodyear, and a member of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., of Danielson.

The town of Brooklyn has a special meeting warned to see what action will be taken by the voters relative to purchasing a tractor for use in doing highway repair work of the town.

Rev. Abraham M. Ribbany, of Boston, is to address the WKillingly Women's club next Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist church. Hopes and Fears for the Present Social Order will be the topic.

Excavating for new water mains to be run in Mechanic street by the Crystal Water company will begin Monday. At the beginning this work will give employment to a dozen or fifteen laborers. Pipe for the line was received here during the winter and distributed.

In view of the fact that April 5th falls on Sunday, your deposits, if made in the savings department of the Windham County National bank, Danielson, Conn., on or before April 6th will draw interest from April 1st.—adv.

Development of a secondary system of trunk line highways in Connecticut is almost certain to witness the making of such a route through Broad street from Davis park to a point between Central Village and Moosup via the Green Hollow road.

These are the days when Town Clerk Frank T. Preston is receiving many applications for fishing liceses. With the trout fishing season opening next Wednesday morning getting a licenses seems a pressing necessity for many.

A number of Danielson people who have been spending the winter season in Florida are expected to return within the next ten days.

PLAINFIELD

The biggest mass meeting the town has ever held and which is of vital importance to all citizens of the town, is to be held Monday evening at Grange hall under the auspices of the local fire committee. The committee is inviting everybody to get interested and it is up to the townspeople to be present at this meeting. The big question is whether new equipment is to be purchased or not. Everything is ready and all that remains is for the people to voice their opinion.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Gilbert Charon Thursday night there was a surprise party in honor of Stanislaus Charon who celebrated his 61st birthday. Sixty-one relatives and friends sat around the table and a regular pot pie supper was enjoyed. Speeches were made by several of the guests and a local orchestra furnished music. Old-fashioned square dances followed the feast.

Eczema On Hands For Two Years Cuticura Healed

"For about two years I suffered with eczema on my hands. It started with small scales and then turned to a rash and was very sore and red. It itched terribly at times and kept spreading until my fingers were covered with it. I could not put my hands in water nor do any work. I did not get much sleep at night on account of the irritation. I used other remedies without much success. I saw Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and sent for a free sample. After using it I purchased more and in a month's time I was completely healed." (Signed) Lawrence Chauvin, West Chazy, N. Y., Sept. 27, 1924.

Make Cuticura Soap and Ointment your every-day toilet preparations and have a clear, sweet skin, soft smooth hands, and a healthy scalp with good hair. Cuticura Talcum is unexcelled in purity.

In the State Y. M. C. A. Indoor door Track meet held at Meriden, William Aldrich of the Putnam High school class of '27 won first place in the running high jump, 5 feet and 2 inches and Donald Child second place in the same event in the middle class. Both young men are members of the Putnam Hi-Y group.

Headquarters Company of the 43rd division, National Guard, Captain J. McGarry commanding, will continue drills as usual notwithstanding that there may be delay in the payment, or no pay at all for the last three months of the fiscal year. This is due to President Coolidge's order to hold up the $3,074,000 National Guard deficiency appropriation approved by him March 4 pending the result of an inquiry to determine the necessity of the action. So great was the interest displayed by the members of the National Guard, however, that last January it was seen the appropriation would be insufficient. All of the units of the Connecticut National guard, when told of the situation voted to continue the regular drills without pay, for the more than three months of the fiscal year remaining. Captain McGarry said that Headquarters company will continue drilling.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Second Congregational church is to hold its April meeting Tuesday after which there will be a social in the church. The meeting will be in the evening.

At the annual State conference of the Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution held this week in the Congregational church at Ansonia by invitation of the Elizabeth Clarke Hull chapter of Ansonia, members of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter present were: Mrs. Mary B. Bishop, Mrs. C. H. Sharpe, Mrs. Charles F. Hopkins, Mrs. John P. Sabin, Mrs. George M. Sampson, and Mrs. Leon T. Wilson. Mrs Bishop was one of the state officers and gave her report as tate consulting registrar, also a report on Genealogical Research. The Putnam delegation were entertained at the home of some of the members of Elizabeth Clarke Hull Chapter.

John Love, 61, a resident of North Grosvernordale, will have completed next July 52 years' employment with the Grosvernordale company. He entered the service of that company when a boy of nine and his name has been on the pay roll ever since and for nearly all of that time he has worked in the carding room. Mr. Love has never married and since the death of his mother a few years ago has lived alone. He is well known and highly respected by all the residents of North Grosvernordale.

There will be no service in the Methodist church Sunday as the pastor is attending the conference at Fall River. Mr. Saunders, the church treasurer, reports all bills paid for the year and a small balance on hand.

Jacob Alpert of the S-A Amusement company of this city, was re-elected treasurer of the Eastern Connecticut Theatre Owners' association at their annual meeting. The other members of the association comprise the greater number of the theatrical owners of the state. The other officers are President, John R. Pickett of Willimantic and secretary, Joseph S. Nejime.

Strong opposition to the proposed amusement bill, which would make it unlawful for boys under 14 or girls under 16 to attend a theatre unless accompanied by parent or guardian, was expressed at the meeting. In the opinion of the theatre owners, the bill is too drastic and a committee consisting of Hyman Schwartz, Joseph S. Nejime and Edward McEvoy was appointed to confer with Senator Lee Roy Robbins, of Norwich, with whom they are to discuss particularly the age limit and the jail sentence penalty provided for under the bill.

Mrs. Ada Austin who has been the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Gertrude Austin of Woodstock avenue has returned to her home at Webster, Mass.

Miss Katherine Brady of the Bugbee and Wulf store, has been in Boston on a business trip as has also Isaac Champeau of the same store.

Alonzo Trezebant Folger, Jr., is to be manager of the Putnam Inn when it is taken over by the Knott Hotels, instead of John J. Hyland. It was planned for Mr. Hyland to come here but different arrangements were made lates.

The Knotts company will take over the inn from E. C. Rogers April 1st when the additions and alterations to the house, which have been going on for nearly a year will have been completed, Mr. Fogler is already here getting acquainted with local conditions. He is an experienced and capable hotel man. Prior to his coming here he was with the Hotel Earle, Washington Square, New York.

The newly installed elevator is completed, the cab having been put in a few days ago. The capacity of the house has been almost doubled, 96 rooms instead of 50, with elevator service all are easily accessible. A conspicuous feature that adds to the attractiveness of the building is the three powerful lights that have been put in position on the top of the piazza.

The third recital of the Lenten season will be given in St. Phillip's Episcopal church Sunday afternoon, at 4:30. Miss Elizabeth Byrne will be the organist and Thomas J. Haworth will sing. They will give the following programme:

MOTORCYCLIST DIES—
RAN INTO LOCOMOTIVE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, March 27—Stanislaw Duszlak, 40, a resident of North Grosvenordale, whose motorcycle collided with a New Haven locomotive at the crossing at North Grosvenordale Wednesday afternoon died Friday morning at the Day Kimball hospital from his injuries, which consisted of a fractured skull and a broken arm and leg. He was driving the machine and his son-in-law, Philip Boulac, 21, was riding in the side-car.

From the best accounts obtainable they reached the crossing south of North Grosvenordale on the road to Putnam just as the northbound New Haven train passed. Whether the driver saw the train too late to divert the direction of his motorcycle, or was confused, cannot be known. The machine crashed against the locomotive and was almost demolished. Both men were hurled several feet. Boulac has a broken arm and a broken leg but he will probably recover.

JEWETT CITY

Joseph Rosenberg has made an appeal for aid for the Gartska and Osgo family in the following letter:

To the People of Jewett City and Surrounding Towns:

Help is urgently needed by the two families of Mr. Gaska and Mr. Osga, who lost their lives in a terrible accident that happened in Slater's, when these two men were burned to death so tragically.

Both women were left in a pitiable condition, with helpless little children and no means of support. In the name of humanity, I appeal to the people of this community to show the bereaved families that they have the sympathy of all their townspeople and this can only be done by giving them help financially. It is a moral duty to see that they be provided for.

Give as much as you can, for you will be giving for a godo cause. Neither creed nor religion should be in the way of succoring these needy families.

People of Jewett City and surrounding towns: Please see that this appeal should not be made in vain. Remember that he who gives quick help gives double help.

The men carried only small insurance policies, and, unless aid is forth coming their families will be destitute. Nearly all the children are too young to work, and neither of the mothers are in a condition to work to support the families. It is a case where help is needed right here at home and Mr. Rosenberg shows a commendable spirit in taking up the case. The names of contribution will be printed in this column each day. Rev. J. W. Payne, as treasurer, will receive any gift. The list Friday night included the following names: Joseph Rosenberg, $15.00; Morris Gittleman, $5.00; Joe Glowacki, $10.00; Joseph Jaskiewicz, $5.00; William McNicol, $1.00; John W. Payne, $1.00; Nick Capidias, $1.00; William Perry, .50; Ed. Jodoin, $5.00; John A. Hourigan, $10.00; D. F. Finn, $5.00, William Davis, $1.00; Willis Terry, $1.00; Dennis Barnett, $2.00; Lionel Boucher, $5.00; E. Gaudette, $1.00; Parquette & Guillet, $5.00; George Rocheleau, $1.00; Hazard Arremony, $1.00; Charles R. Carey, $2.00; Thomas Barnett, $2.00; Stephen Tourtellot, $1.00; Charles Downing, $1.00; James Dolan, $1.00; Anna Falvey, $1.00; Philip Melady, $1.00; Chester Dudkowski, $1.00; John T. Barrey $1.00; Mike David $.50; Paul Elthier, 11.00; W. Lachapelle, $1.00; E. S. Hiscox $1.00; George Tormey $1.00.

Ed. Barry 1.00, John Barnet 1.00, T. A. Rioux 5.00, A. Zegeer 5.00, L. Cyr .50, Wm. E. O'Brien 1.00, Ben Schliefer 2.00, Mrs. Samuel Polinsky 1.00, Alphene Le Claire 1.00, Gilbert Miner 1.00, Mrs. A. A. Young, 50.00.

Amateur night at Finn Opera House drew the usual large and enthusiastic crowd Thursday night. The pie-eating contest was the big attraction. Four juicy huckleberry pies from Sol's were placed on two tables, and Henry Webster, Pat Mondor, George Howes and Joseph Skaradowsky, with hands tied behind them tackled the job. They did not exactly swim, but they were a sight to behold. Skaradowsky ate his pie in two minutes and twenty-five seconds and won the five dollar prize. Howes was a close second and received two and one-half dollars. Johnny Brown, the seven years old jigger, is some dancer. George Howes played harmonica selections.

About 200 attended the Pachang Community Club entertainment on Thursday evening, and enjoyed a fine program. Community singing opened the evening. Solos were sung by Miss Sadie Thompson and F. D. Ballon and played by Miss Viva Richardson, each receiving an encore. Mrs. J. P. Richardson and Miss Richardson, were the accompanists. Arthur L. Peale of Norwich gave a most instructive talk on Indians in Connecticut, which was illustrated by stereopticon views. L. D. Howe of Jewett City gave a talk on his trip through the Shenandoah Valley, and this was illustrated by pictures upon the screen, which he secured during the trip. Potato salad, rolls, cake and coffee were served. The committee was Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Montgomery, Mrs. George Briggs, Mrs. Jane Lester, and Fred Edmonds. The committee for the next meeting is Mr. and Mrs. George Edmond, Everett Whipple, Mrs. John Peckham, and Mrs. Albert Dawley. The executive committee elected for 1925 includes Mrs. Raymond Krug, Elsie Lard, Mrs. Benjamin Goldstein, Mrs. Arthur Park and Leon Young.

SALEM

Mr. and Mrs. Ewing, Mrs. Carrie Granger and Miss Eliza Martin were visitors at John Rathbun's Sunday.

Miss Elinor Moore a student nurse at the Lawrence hospital New London, spent Saturday at her home here.

Mrs. Charles Malona and Alice Ritz were in Colchester Monday.

Week end callers in New London were Mrs. Arthur Chapman and Mrs. Louis Chapman, Gladys Chapman, Margaret Mitchell, Mrs. Lois Rowe, Grace Ames, Beltie Hampton, Mrs. Julia Spencer and son, Lawrence.

There was only a half-day school Monday as the teachers attended a teachers' meeting at Flanders.

Miss Martha Moore who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is much improved.

The Charles Staplin's property has been sold to John Purcell.

A flock of wild geese was seen flying over here early Wednesday morning.

Ralph Halt who was operated on for appendicitis is improving.

Charles Brown of Colchester was a caller here Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Darling were callers in Colchester Monday.

Far North Flying Base

A flying base at the junction of the Peace, Finland and Parsnip rivers has been established. This marks the first step in the aerial invasion of the mineralized triangle bordered by the Yukon, North West Territories and Alaska, and is the result of 17 years' long prospecting by Frank Perry, engineer, of Vancouver. He says he has found large deposits of coal and iron; one coal seam, he says, measures 800 feet across the strike, while the largest iron seam met with ran to about 200 feet. He also says he has discovered a semi-tropical valley close to the Yukon boundary, fed by hot springs and rivers of hot water which do not permit freezing. Perry tells of having found also gold, silver and copper close together, but in different formations.

STANDING BY THE LAW.

It is unfortunate thing that the [illegible] of exceeding rights in the [illegible] employed in getting appropriations from congress should have [illegible] in connection with the naval [illegible] regardless of whatever [illegible] been said concerning such [illegible] there is much [illegible] upon them and for [illegible] they are necessary.

[illegible] asserted that there will [illegible] in connection [illegible] appropriations for the national [illegible] any other purpose, and [illegible] which has come to light [illegible] with this deficiency appropriation is just what there has been an effort to overcome through the budget system. It has been a practice in the past to pay little attention to appropriations. If they did seem large enough the scheme was on for deficiency appropriations. This was not restricted to any particular department but it comes to a head in connection with the naval program, of which the appropriation was fixed and the failure to keep within it resulted in an appeal for more funds through irregular channels.

[illegible] agree that the national [illegible] be weighed, but [illegible] unbalancing irregularities in one direction for the minute [illegible] done it establishes a precedent and when no one provides funds in another just such situations [illegible].

[illegible] judge in holding up the [illegible] is standing to [illegible] as he sees [illegible] no reason to wink at [illegible] which are not approved, and [illegible] has previously been [illegible] that the appropriations was [illegible] and properly acted upon.

[illegible] question in the mind of [illegible] whether the national [illegible] is exempt or entirely [illegible] case of meeting the [illegible] has been disposed [illegible] of standing by the law.

A RECESS APPOINTMENT.

[illegible] President Coolidge sent the name of Thomas F. Woodlock to the senate for confirmation as a member [illegible] interstate commerce commission [illegible] for the purpose of [illegible] which was thoroughly [illegible] and the kind of [illegible] the board is going to [illegible] requirements of that organization. The name of Woodlock for [illegible] has the picked [illegible] for attorney general [illegible] the supreme court, for the [illegible] that he has naming [illegible] others for positions of trust [illegible].

[illegible] to have the nomination action [illegible] the senate failed, and apparently [illegible] no better reason than a desire of the senate that the [illegible] should come to someone else. [illegible] didn't come to a vote in [illegible] but that body was in no [illegible] give approval to men with [illegible] the wishes of a certain group were not complied with.

[illegible] that Mr. Woodlock is [illegible] the technical ability to [illegible] needed service to the commission [illegible] president has given him a [illegible] appointment, after ascertaining [illegible] he was willing to accept [illegible] Mr. Woodlock is a democrat [illegible] was named as such to the board [illegible] the election of a democrat [illegible] was given to the man [illegible] a man to be measured up to the duties that go with such an office. The recess appointment will mean [illegible] he will be able to serve until congress assembles when favorable or unfavorable action must be taken on the nomination.

In the naming of a democrat or a republican to such a commission it is of much importance whether the appointee is a man who will render the highest type of conscientious service or whether he will give first consideration to his political affiliations. The democrats in opposing Mr. Woodlock held that he is not the right type of a democrat. They want a southern democrat which of course means politics first. It will be a sad mistake if the senate fails to confirm an acknowledged expert for any such reason.

BOARD OR CORPORATION.

Whether Commissioner Haney of the shipping board sends in his resignation, or whether he refuses to stand for reelection when his term expires, it seems highly probable that either outcome will result in clearing up some of the obstruction which the administration has been experiencing in getting at the solution of some of the merchant marine problems.

It has long been known that the administration desired the separation of the shipping board and the fleet corporation. In fact it would seem that the dual control of the corps ought to be ended in the interest of getting the waste and getting more efficient results. Instead of piling up the deficits each year the aim has been to reduce them through the introduction of better methods. The big protection to the public cutting of red tape and the use of business principles. Certainly the results obtained by the corporation under the direction of President Palmer have been highly pleasing. Deficit haven't been ended but they have been heavily cut and even greater cuts are promised.

When the board voted to turn over part of its duties to the corporation, Commissioner Haney was the one who voted in opposition. He was of course entitled to take such a stand but it becomes evident that he is not in sympathy with the move and therefore it is not improbable that his contemplated action would be in the interest of harmony in the board.

If as a matter of fact there is no further need for the shipping board it would appear timely that legislation was adopted that would end its existence and turn its remaining duties over to the corporation or to the commerce department for administration. Results are desired and if it is through the corporation rather than the board that they can be obtained that is the organization to which authority should be given. There can be no desire to maintain organizations which are working at cross purposes.

UNPICKED APPLES.

A decision that cannot fail to attract attention is that given by a judge in Reading, Pa., when he directed a jury to find a verdict for the defendant in the case brought against a young man charged with stealing apples by a fruit company. It was declared by the judge that inasmuch as the apples were unpicked they were attached to the land and do not become personal property until they are picked. Only personal property, he said, could be stolen.

If the taking of apples off a tree is not theft, according to the court's ruling, it will of course be decidedly interesting to those who are disposed to raid the fruit orchards or that region. Under the same line of reasoning it may be felt that trees being attached to the land can be taken away without such an act being regarded as theft, that potatoes and other crops being attached to the land can be dug or picked and carried off without any danger of arrest for stealing.

This will be looked upon as a new interpretation of stealing, a discrimination in favor of the raider and against the property owners. This decision in view of the inclination to carry on such practices wholesale, even to the extent of getting produce for the purpose of selling it, indicates that if that is the correct statement of the law it is time that there were immediate steps taken to give better protection to the man who raises apples and other produces of the soil.

AMERICAN AGRICULTURE.

Secretary Hoover isn't disposed to look on the dark side of things. Rather is he inclined to go below the surface for the facts and express himself in keeping therewith. Thus when he says he sees no reason for any pessimism in connection with the future of American agriculture he can be relied upon as giving expression to his views based upon conditions as they exist.

Speaking to a southern audience he pointed out the fact that there is not an increase in acreage brought under cultivation in keeping with the increase in population and for that reason it is inevitable that this should mean a better return for the acres which are being cultivated.

His argument is that the yearly increase of a million and a half of population each year is creating a correspondingly increase in the demand for the products of the soil, and if the acres under cultivation are not keeping pace with that greater demand the increase must be met by through greater production from the cultivated acreage.

This must of necessity impose increased responsibilities on the farmers but he doesn't despair of that if they will do their part in taking advantage of the opportunities that lie before them, and when he points out that there are $800,000,000 worth of farm products imported which could for the most part be raised here he shows the possibilities are not by any means visionary.

There is no better doctrine than the American market for the American farmer, and there should be no reluctance on his part to go out and make the most of it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Spring fever and baseball fever seem to go along hand in hand.

Now an ultimatum has been sent by Poland to Lithuania. Spring sets many things in motion.

If things develop as intimated the president will have named a Woodlock to end a deadlock.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The recent death of Charles Howard Shinn brings to light a man who did not stand in the white light of publicity, but who nevertheless quietly did a work that is more and more bound to become recognized as civilization advances. This man, whose death occurred last December, spent fifty years of intelligent service in advocating the preservation of our American forests. Back in the seventies he lifted up his voice and made use of his pen in trying to show the public that our wasteful habits in the use of timber, and no provision for future growths, could only end in national disaster. For awhile it was only "a voice crying in the wilderness," but with a stout heart he kept at it until at last it struck the intelligent part of the people as very reasonable. It aroused action in the mind of such men as Gifford Pinchot and Theodore Roosevelt, and from that moment intelligent action was assured.

The frightful tragedy of last week in the middle west in which more than eight hundred lives were lost, more than twice as many injured and causing a property damage that will probably run up into the millions revives the old question of the identity of such disasters with Divine Providence. "If God is perfect in his goodness and absolute in his power why does he not prevent such catastrophies?" is often asked. Why the Almighty does not interfere with the laws he has made is beyond man's knowledge. We have a right to presume that a better natural system than the one we have we cannot conceive of. During the vast eras in which animal life has been on the earth it has been fostered and protected in a marvelous way. To our limited minds there seems to be now and then some out to this working of law. Ever since the world began there has been some bitter mixed with the sweet. Why does God permit sickness, disease, accident, sin and death? Who will answer?

The Scientific American has recently published a bold and able article, written by its associate editor, Albert A. Hopkins on "The Bugaboo of Racial Inferiority." One may not agree with every position that Mr. Hopkins takes, but he certainly makes clear his main contention. His claim is that our discrimination between the different races on the ground of relative inferiority is absolutely without scientific justification. No race does now, or ever has, represented the sum total of all human excellence. He says that, as a fact of careful scientific examination, human excellences are pretty well distributed among the various races. No race ever came to our shores from whom we cannot learn something. We are least of all excusable in discriminating between different branches of the white race.

The various drives that are made for worthy benevolent objects are dependent for their success on a certain psychology of the mind. The basal underlying fact in all of them is that money exists in sufficient quantity in all our towns and cities to meet every human need. When the people are made to see and feel the urgency of that need the money is forthcoming. Hence the main thing in propaganda that will stir up the enthusiasm and if that is successful the victory is won. This is seen when an every-member canvass is made by our churches either for benevolences or for current expenses. A love for the church is deep-seated in the lives of its adherents, but it is apt to be of a latent form. Something is oftimes needed to make it an operative force. But when the people wake up to see that a proposed amount is necessary to make their church function properly they usually rise to the occasion. It sometimes takes real genius for the people to see this.

It is well that our churches, irrespective of denominational lines, should in some way pay respect to the sainted memory of Fanny J. Crosby, the blind hymn-writer, whose birthday was last Tuesday. Born in New York she lived till 1915, lacking a little more than a month of ninety-five rich, full years. Probably no writer of religious songs of the last century contributed more to the success of evangelism during that period than she. Her name was a household word in all those homes, as well as churches, where religion was magnified through song. She is said to have composed more than eight thousand hymns during her long life, but out of such a vast number it is not strange that many of them do not have much literary value, while some will live just as long as devout souls come together for social worship. The churches do well to honor Fanny Crosby.

Within the last six or eight months there has been in the vicinity of this city an outbreak of carefully-planned mutilation of dumb beasts, mostly cattle: a species of heartlessness and cruelty that is hard to understand. It is generally believed to be the work of a degenerate. We certainly hope it is not the deed of one who is perfectly normal in mind and morals. It is difficult to understand why such crimes should be done because you cannot impute to it any rational motive. In case of theft, large or small, one can easily see the motive, and even there is a reason for murder, in nearly every case quite apart from the mere love of killing. But to purposely inflict pain upon a useful beast, that has little power of self-protection, merely for the love of killing, is almost inconceivable, apart from the act of a degenerate. May every effort be made to get him, and put him in a place of safety.

We see radicalism everywhere, and in itself it ought not to be condemned because it is one phase of progress. If we are old fogies we will say that all progress is radicalism, because it goes to the extreme according to our ideas. And our ideas of the extreme are apt to be the static standpoint. Take for instance architecture and we shall have what conservatives call radicalism. Look at the college of yesterday with its campus and rows of three storied buildings arranged in quadrangular style. Compare that with the proposed single building that is to house the University of Pittsburgh. The building is to have a base of 360x260 feet. It is to be 680 feet high consisting of 52 stories; situated in a park of 14 acres in the center of the city and will accomodate 12,000 students. For radicalism can you beat it?

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

GOD ALONE

Some years ago a young pastor was called to his rest, after a brief life of devoted service, dying in "the full assurance of faith." Just as he entered upon his ministry he formed the habit of planning at the head of every letter he wrote "God Alone," words which he had deliberately chosen as the motto of his life. It is nots always that Christ's disciple learn so early this deep lesson that God is all-sufficient, that He is to be chosen as the spirit's life and home, and that, having Him, we have all. Abram left his father's house at the divince bidding, became "very rich in cattle, and in silver, and in gold," won a great victory and gained a famous name before the Lord came to him and said, "Fear not, Abram, I am thy shield, and thy exceeding great reward." Jacob also, had left his father's house, and was a wanderer, when God appeared to him and said, "Behold, I am with thee," adding large promises, and thus awaking the grateful vow, "Then shall the Lord be my God." What a cold, dry name is this to the thousands who do not know Him? They speak of a mother giving all her love to her child, in the phrase, "She makes a god of him," but how seldom is the Creator's name invested with the thought of love. Likewise the Divine Father never has His right place in our affections and will, until we make a god of Him, giving Him freely our sweetest thoughts, the treasures of our love, the best of our life.

Many true disciples imagine that this is an experience all to high for them, reserved only for the select few, but God loves all His children alike. He is "rich unto all that call upon Him," and to those who really chose Him, He gives Himself, saying, "I will be to them a God." Those who choose! Alas, how many are content to live on a lower place, and to find their bliss in other things beside God. So with many of us it comes to this, instead of choosing Him as their portion because of His excellence and love, because that choice is the highest and best, they have to be driven to Him by trials and sorrow, as a ship is driven into a quiet harbor of safety by stress of weather. Happy are they who in their brightest days spontaneously say, "The Lord shall be my all in all"

"Blessed are they," says Fenelon, "who throw themselves blindly into the arms of the God of mercy and Father of all comfort!"

HOW TREE HUNT YIELDED LEPROSY "CURE"

Release of four lepers as "cured" from the National Leprosarium in Carville, Louisiana, after treatment which included the use of chaulmoogra oil, is the climax of an adventurous chapter in plant exploration.

Joseph F. Rock, leader of the National Geographic Society expedition to Yunnan Province, China, is the plant hunter who braved tigers, crocodiles and wild elephants to get seeds from the chaulmoogra tree so plantations might be established in Hawaii which would yield the healing oil.

Recounting his experiences during his tree hunt in southeast Asia Dr. Rock writes to the National Geographic Society:

"Chaulmoogra oil is obtained from the seeds of a tree known as Taraktogenos Kursii king, named by Sir George King in honor of its discoverer, Kurz.

Treatment Known to Natives

"The natives of southeastern Asia have long known of the curative properties of Chaulmoogra seeds in skin diseases and especially in leprosy. They relate in their pre-Buddhistic legendary history that one of the Burmese kings exiled himself voluntarily and retired into the jungles, making a hollow tree his abode. Here he partook of the fruits and leaves of the Kalaw tree (Taraktogenos Kurzii), and in time his health was restored.

"Owing to the high price of the oil in the United States and the probable scarcity of it in the near future, due to its successful application in the treatment of leprosy in Haiwaii, I was authorized to obtain seeds of this species, to be introduced into Hawaii and our tropical possessions, with a view to establishing Chaulmoogra plantations."

(In his search for the Chaulmoogra tree Dr. Rock went first to Siam, entering that country by way of Singapore. He proceeded by rail to Bangkok, thence to Chiengmai and back to Korat, then to Chiengmai again, down the Meh Ping River to Raheng, across country by way of Mesawt, Kawkareik, and Kyondu to Moulmein, to Amarapura, Sagaing, and Monywa by rail, up the Chindwin river to Mawlaik, then eastward through forest and over mountain to Kyokta, where the seeds were finally obtained.

Swims in Crocodile Waters

"At Chiengmai I chartered a houseboat for a journey down the tortuous Meh Ping river to Raheng, and thence overland to Moulmein, Burma. I left Chiengmai December 2, 1920, on a commodious house-boat manned by a Lao crew, an interpreter, a would-be cook and boy. Many times during the day I would stop the boat and climb the mountains to explore the forests and collect plants.

"The river at this season being low, it was difficult to make a landing. We tarried only long enough to dispose of many bags of rice, the cause of our consantly grounding on sand banks. Once I lost patience and, being in negligee, I quietly jumped overboard and swam ahead of the boat, expecting it to follow soon. Anxious calls from the captain urged me to return to the boat, quite a difficult matter against the current. The waters, I learned afterward, are said to be infested with crocodiles.

"When I called on the governor of Mesawt he was holding court for the trial of elephant thieves, who carry on a prosperous business near the border. Leaving his chained prisoners sitting on the floor, the magistrate accompanied me to the rest-house where Siamese officials stop when en route from Raheng.

By the Old Moulmein Pagodas

"Our path lay across the Kawkereik Hills, which are covered with glorious verdure, and it was in this region that I first encountered Taraktogenos Kurzii. Unfortunately, it was not in fruit. I was informed by a Burmese village quack that July is the month in which the Chaulmoogra fruits ripen. We hurried on and finally reached decadent but beautiful Moulmein on Christmas eve.

"My next point of venture was the Kalama range of the Martaban Hills, where the natives said Kalaw, or Taraktogenos Kurzii, could be found.

"The mountains rise abruptly from the plain, are strewn with huge boulders, and are intersected by numerous rocky creeks on whose banks grow a species of Hydnocarpus, later identified as H. castanea, and called by the natives Kalaw, but it was not the long-sought-for Taraktogenos Kurzii.

"I made a last trip into the hills of Oktada and found that Mr. Shwaloo, my interpreter, was correct as to the presence of tigers, for there were fresh tracks leading not far from our camp to the top of the ridge. Only a few hours before the big cat had stalked over the sandy trail to his haunts in the dense, low, bamboo forest which we had to penetrat in a bent position in order to reach the Kalaw trees.

"In all our rambles for three days we found only one tree with some 150 mature fruits, which I secured and the seeds of which I forwarded to America.

First Trees Found

"After two days' marching through dense forest and crossing the Khodan stream many times, we reached Khoung Kyew. Here I found my first genuine Chaulmoogra tree, some miles distant from the village proper. Wild elephants live in herds in these jungles and often come to bathe in the stream in the daytime. First we entered a dense Dipterocarpus forest, then one of bamboo (Cephalostachyum pergracile), and finally we reached pure stands of the genuine Chaulmoogra tree, Taraktegenos Kursii; but, alas, no fruit!

"The headman of the village informed me that there had been a very poor crop of seed here, but added that a village some miles farther had had a very good one the year before, and so I decided to proceed thither.

"I sent my magic piece of paper ahead by special messenger, and when I arrived at Kyokta, the village in question, I found a bamboo mat spread in the village square near the Poongyi Khoung, or little pagoda, with an old and only chair in the center and the peasants sitting around the mat.

"I made myself as comfortable as possible in my little camp on the edge of the jungle, for this village is surrounded on three sides by dense forest. The next day I started out with 36 coolies, determined to come back with Chaulmoogra seeds. We had five or six miles to walk, always following a dry creek bed through the dense forest. These creek beds are as flat as a floor, with no rocks visible. For miles there was only fine quartz sand, which made marching easy.

"We passed through vegetation similar to that at Khoung Kyew until we struck the Chaulmoogra forests. There we separated into smaller parties and the seed-collecting began in earnest.

Bears and Tiger Tracks

"While thus engaged we met a mother bear with her cub. With wild shouts from the natives she was driven off, leaving behind her young, which my Burmese coolies insisted on taking to the village.

Loaded with seeds we started down the steep hillsides, which are covered with Chaulmoogra trees, glad at heart that at last I had been successful.

"When we reached the stream bed up which we had come a few hours previously, we found that a large tiger had followed us into the jungle, for there were its footprints so clear and distinct that I stopped and photographed them. We had no arms with us; only a camera and quantities of Chaulmoogra seeds."

SICK 3 YEARS WITHOUT RELIEF

Finally Found Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Columbia, S. C.— "Your medicine has done me so much good that I feel like I owe my life to it. For three years I was sick and was treated by physicians, but they didn't seem to help me any. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got strong enough to do my housework, where before I was hardly able to be up. I have also taken the Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and it has left me in good health. I recommend it as the best medicine for women in the Change of Life and you can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. S. A. HOLLEY, R. F. D. No. 4, Columbia, South Carolina.

Why suffer for years with backache, nervousness, painful times and other ailments common to women from early life to middle age, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will bring relief?

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 200,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Viscount Cave, one of the special commission appointed by the English Privy Council to undertake business of state during the king's absence abroad, is the present Lord High Chancellor, a post to which he was appointed after a brilliant career at the bar and as a cabinet minister. A Londoner by birth, he was educated at Merchant Taylor's school and at Oxford, after leaving the university he studied law at the Inner Temple, becoming Master of the Bench in 1913. In the early part of his professional career he held the position of standing counsel to Oxford university and of Attorney general to the Prince of Wales. In the Coalition government he succeeded Sir F. E. Smith as Solicitor-General, and then became Home Secretary in Mr. Lloyd George's ministry. Viscount Cave is a great lover of the open air, and his favorite recreations are rowing and riding.

Reddy Decides He Doesn't Want a Rabbit Breakfast

'Tis most convenient you will find,
To have at times a change of mind.
—Reddy Fox.

It hadn't entered the mind of Reddy Fox that Peter Rabbit would go into the house of Johnny Chuck. He hadn't thought that Peter would dare do such a thing. So he had felt sure that at last he was about to catch Peter Rabbit. He had Peter cornered. At least he thought he had. That stone wall right there was too high for Peter Rabbit to jump over, and nowhere was there a space big enough for Peter to squeeze in between the stones of the wall. So Reddy licked his lips as he thought of the rabbit breakfast he was to have.

Reddy paid no more attention to Johnny Chuck, who sat in his doorway

And then Peter had dived headfirst through the doorway of Johnny Chuck's house. Reddy had had a parting glimpse of Peter's long heels and then Polly Chuck's twinkling black heels had taken their place as she followed Peter. Almost at once Johnny Chuck filled that doorway and began to scold angrily and growl and snarl and work himself into a great rage. Reddy lost his temper for a moment or two. Perhaps it was because of his surprise and disappointment. He knew that even had he wanted to he couldn't dig open that home for the entrance was between two big stones. In that house Peter Rabbit was perfectly safe from him.

So Reddy lost his temper for a minute, and because there was no one else to quarrel with he began snarling back at Johnny Chuck. But it was only for a minute or two. Reddy's wits are quite as quick as Peter Rabbit's, and in the midst of that quarrel it popped into Reddy's head that it wasn't at all likely that Polly Chuck would allow Peter Rabbit to stay in her house, especially when he hadn't been invited there. In that case what would Peter do? He would go out the back way, of course. There must be a back door. Johnny and Polly Chuck were too old and experienced to make a home with only one way in or out. But where could that back door be? It probably was more or less hidden. There wouldn't be any sand on the doorstep to give it away.

Reddy paid no more attention to Johnny Chuck, who sat in his doorway. He sat down and studied the situation. He made up his mind that there was no back door on that side of the old stone wall.

"It is on the other side, of course!" exclaimed Reddy to himself. "How stupid of me not to have thought of that at once."

With this he leaped up on the old wall and hastily looked all about for a glimpse of Peter Rabbit. But Peter was nowhere to be seen. Reddy jumped down, and as he did so he heard a faint, scolding voice that seemed to come out of the ground. He cocked his black ears and listened. Then he softly stole over to a low place in the old wall and there, between some stones he discovered the back door. The scolding stopped. Polly Chuck had heard or smelled him.

Reddy put his keen little black nose to the ground. At once he smelled Rabbit. Then Reddy knew that Peter had escaped. He knew that while he had been quarreling with Johnny Chuck on the other side of the wall Peter had come out of this back door and had by this time found a safe hiding place between the stones farther along in the old wall. It was a great disappointment, of course. He had counted on a Rabbit breakfast. But, after all, a mouse breakfast would do very well. In fact, he wasn't sure but that he would prefer a mouse breakfast, comg to think of it. He could have the Rabbit breakfast some other day—perhaps. So Reddy trotted off down on the Green Meadows and there he must have breakfasted very well indeed, to judge by the satisfied look on his face as a little later he started for his home.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

TEN MINUTE LENTEN SERMON

By the Rev. Charles Emerson Burton, D. D.

CHRIST THE WORLD'S SAVIOR

Sermon topic, Self-denial: "Sell that ye have and give alms."—Luke 21:33.

The man—or woman—who cannot practice self-denial is lost. Self-denial has a real place in the Christian religion.

Is Lenten self-denial foolish? That depends on whether we do it foolishly or not. Denying oneself just for the sake of self-denial is rather a cheap form of religion. There may be some value in it, but it is to be doubted. But self-denial for an end; that is, to what the Lord God would have done, is high and holy.

Certain it is that genuine self-denial fosters unselfishness. The germ of sin is in selfishness, therefore whatever fosters unselfishness is far from foolish.

The East Indian saints who sleep on beds of spikes or load themselves down with hundreds of pounds of iron are pitiable objects of misdirected self-denial. Why not have an equally vigorous spirit of self-denial in the interest of human kindness and unselfish ministry to other men?

In this sense it is true that "self-denial is only self-love living for the future." Such self-love is like that of the Christ who "for the joy that was set before him endured the Cross."

Self-denial fosters self-mastery. The athlete puts himself through a rigorous course of self-denial in training in order that he may win in the contest of strength. That may be worth while. How much more worth while is it that one should practise self-denial with a view to that self-control without which no man is a saved man. He who is the plaything of every passing whim, the toy of every evil companion is a lost man.

If therefore Lent calls upon us for self-denial the very fact of that self-denial performs a real function. The robber who would not crack a safe during Lent practised self-denial that might be the opening gate to ultimate character; but most of us should call upon ourselves to practice a self-denial in Lent which shall be practised perpetually thereafter. This is the season of the year when we may well examine ourselves to see what ought to be left off, and particularly what ought to be left out of our lives for our moral and spiritual good.

More important, self-denial fosters the Christ-like character. The man who denies himself loves other men more easily than the man who pampers himself. So simple self-denial is the first step on the way to the Christ-like character which will bear the Cross itself if that is the way the Spirit leads. Only when one has a Christlike character he is saved.

We are not saying he has worked out his own salvation, but that in the practice of Christ-like virtues he has let the spirit of Christ become dominant in his life. So as the child said, the Cross of self-denial is "the thing we climb to heaven on."

Now if you would know real self-denial and find in it not drudgery and dread, but joy, become acquainted with Jesus Christ in reality.

Sioux Falls, S. D. March 27—Prairie fires, which swept Western South Dakota yesterday and last night, were brought under control today after having left in their wake miles of blackened prairies and smouldering ruins of ranch homes and haystacks.

Hidden For 70 Years

After being stored in two wooden chests at a bank for 70 years, a collection of etchings, including 300 by Rembrandt, saw the light of day at auctions in London recently, and realized $170,865. The highest individual price paid for a Rembrandt was $18,000 for "Arnoldus Tholin." Three others entitled "Christ Healing the Sick," "Christ Before Pilate" and "The Three Crosses," each brought $5,775. Dutch buyers eagerly competed with English collectors for possession of these almost forgotten works of the old master. The collection had been made in the early part of last century by Edward Rudge of Abbey Manor, Evesham, whose outlay is believed to have been little more than $2,000.

METHODIST CONFERENCE ACCEPTS INVITATION TO SOUTH MANCHESTER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Fall River, Mass., March 27—After brief devotions and the reading of the journal of Thursday's sessions, the business session of the New England Southern conference was opened a little past nine o'clock. The character of each of the effective elders in the New Bedford, Norwich, and Providence districts was passed with approval by vote of the conference after the district superintendent in each case had answered in the usual way,—"Nothing against him."

The roll of the retired ministers was called and interesting letters from some of them and remarks from others of them were presented. The following were continued in the retired relationship and their characters approved: Joseph B. Ackley, William H. Allen, Amos W. C. Anderson, Edward J. Ayers, Edward C. Bass, Samuel M. Beale, James Biram, Robert E. Bisbee, John S. Bridgford, Walter F. Buck, William F. Davis, Robert D. Dyson, Louis M. Flocken, George A. Grant, Erastus W. Goodier, Almon E. Hall, Thomas A. Hodgdon, Augustus W. Kingsley, William E. Kugler, George H. Lamson, George R. Locke, Warren A. Luce, Jesse A. Martin, Edward P. Phreaner, Benjamin T. Raynor, Henry D. Robinson, William J. Smith, Charles A. Stenhouse, David C. Thatcher, Thomas Tyrie, William T. Ward.

The supernumerary ministers were named as Harvey E. Door and Gibson C. Mosher both of whom were passed in character and continued in this relationship for the 5th year.

The question, Where shall the next conference be held? was taken up. Invitations were extended from the church at South Manchester, Conn., and from Trinity church, New Bedford. By vote of the conference showing a considerable majority, it was voted to accept the invitation from South Manchester. This vote, after the count had been announced, was at once made unanimous.

The annual dividends representing the share accredited to this conference from the profits of the book concern amounting to $2,904 and from the chartered fund amounting to $35 were presented and accepted by the conference.

Mrs. Lucia Ames Meade of Brookline, Mass., was presented and she addressed the conference in behalf of the movement to banish war from the world.

Miss Clementina Butler spoke in the interest of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society, and Mrs. Frederick W. Coleman of Newport, R. I., in behalf of the Woman's Home Missionary society. Rev. Dr. Charles M. Meiden, of New Orleans, Louisiana, a former member of this conference, now president of one of the schools for negroes, was introduced and spoke to the conference concerning conditions in the south.

Several of the local clergymen of other denominations, who are pastors in Fall River, were introduced to the conference.

The service of worship was opened by singing "I Need Thee Every Hour." Prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Leslie of the New England conference. The speaker was Rev. W. E. Plaxton of Hazardville, Conn. He read passages from John the 4th chapter and announced his text from Luke 10:2 "The harvest indeed is great but the Laborers are few." His subject was "The Lure of the Unfinished" and his earnest and thoughtful message made an excellent impression. Bishop Anderson followed with a few additional words and the hymn "Rescue the Perishing" was sung. Prayer was offered by Revs. J. E. Lacount and L. C. Harris.

Vote For Unification

The order of the day was taken up viz., the vote on two amendments to the constitution of the church which had been submitted by the general conference. The vote on the amendment for Unification of the Methodist Episcopal church and the Methodist Episcopal Church south stood as follows: Yes—84; No—1.

On the amendment for the admission of laymen to the annual conference as members, the vote as taken once as members, the vote was taken after a stirring debate which called out the oratical talents of the men in a very interesting manner. The result stood as follows: Yes—30; No—54.

The long electoral conference met in the Central Congregational church at 10 a. m. The vote on the Amendment for Unification of the Methodist Episcopal church and the Methodist Episcopal Church south stood as follows: Yes—72; No—1.

On the amendment admitting the laymen to membership in the annual conference: Yes—71; No—3.

Thursday Afternoon Session.

A business session was held at 2 p. m. The singing of the Hymn "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" and prayer being offered by Rev. W. F. Ward opened the exercises.

Rev. J. H. Buckey presented a few items concerning the conference claimants fund and the present movement to increase its size.

It was voted to send a telegram of sympathy to Mrs. Quayle whose husband, the late Bishop W. A. Quayle and, the late Bishop W. A. Parayle, has recently died and to Bishop Blake whose wife has recently died. G. G. Scrivener and J. F. Bartholomew were named as the committee to attend to this matter. Bishop Anderson asked permission to have his name included in the signature as the presiding bishop and because he came into the Episcopal office in the same class with Bishop Quayle. Further action was taken concerning certain of the men who are detained at home on account of illiness and a message was ordered to be sent to Rev. J. M. Potter, Hocknum and Rev. C. W. Ruoff, Baltic, both of whom are in this class.

Miss Ethel V. Glandon, Superintendent of the Providence Deaconess Home, was allowed five minutes in which to represent the Home and its value in the work of the church. Miss Gaudon gave a very touching and captivating address in presenting this matter.

Rev. James A. Beebe, dean of Boston University School of Theology, presented the expanding work of this school, and the strenuous needs that demand a greater financial support from the churches. His address made a profound impresion and was followed up by a vigorous appeal from the Bishop.

This session concluded at 2:50 p. m.

Rural Ministerial Association.

The Rural Ministerial Association of the conference held a public service at 3 p. m., in the interest of its work. Rev. H. H. Crawford, President of the Association, was in charge. The Scripture was read from John 15 by Rev. Geo. O. Richardson and prayer was offered by Rev. Samuel T. Lippincott. The speaker was Dr. George E. Gilbert of the Berkeley Divinity School, Middletown, Conn., and a contributing Editor of the "Rural New Yorker." He proved a ready speaker and urged the importance of the rural town and village. He said that out of every 100 missionaries, only 15 were furnished by the large cities and the other 85 came from the country towns and villages. He urged that the rural churches and ministers have a task that no one needs to laugh at, a task that demands the highest type of manhood that can be found. The speaker proved himself to be a live wire and gave illustrations from his own experience for he finds time to hold services in some rural fields and evidently with great sucess. He advocated making the church a community center and ministering to the temporal needs of the people and their children as a very effective means through which they may be awakened to the sense of their spiritual needs.

Evening Service

The evening service was a combined anniversary of the board of education, the speaker being Dr. P. J. Mayeety, and of the Board of Foreign Missions, the speaker being Dr. John R. Edwards. Rev. M. J. Creeger, presided. The church quarrette sang "Rock of Ages." The hymns "Lead on O' King Eternal" and "The Morning Light is Breaking" were sung by choir and congregation. Both speakers delivered able addresses making an excellent impression.

Personal Mention.

Rev. Frederick W. Coleman who has served a six years pastorate in Newport, R. I., expects to be changed to another pastorate this year, although there is an effort being made on the part of the church to retain him for another year. Mr. Coleman is remembered in Norwich where as pastor of Trinity church, he served a six year pastorate. He is one of the outstanding man of this conference who has held several of the best churches and one of its most cultured masters of sacred oratory.

Rev. Samuel J. A. Rook who has served the Quarry St. Church, Fall River, the past two years is among those who will move this year. Mr. Rook has been successful in building up his Sunday evening service which has shown a gradual gain throughout the year. Mr. Rook began his ministry in Norwich in 1896 and since then has had many good pastorates.

Rev. Chas. H. Van Natter has enriched many of the services of the conference by his rendering of musical selections upon the pipe organ. It is fortunate for the conference that it has a man who possesses this ability. Mr. Van Natter, who is also a former Norwich pastor, has served the Franklin St. church; Brockton, Mass., for the past four years.

Rev. S. F. Waine, one of the former pastors in Norwich and a former pastor in Uncasville, has completed two years of successful labor in Phenix, R. I. Mr. Maine is one of the plodders of the conference who keeps continually at work and whose record always shows something accomplished. He expects to be returned to Phenix for a third year.

Rev. Warren A. Luce, pastor at Norwich Sachem St. church, 1876. 77, was among the retired ministers who were present and addressed the Conference Friday morning. Mr. Luce was admitted to the Conference on trial in 1875, just fifty years ago.

Conference Notes

It appears, as the week progresses that a larger number of men are to move this year than in any year before for several years back. This fact, coupled with some reported complications as to adjustments, indicates that the Bishop and the district superintendents will have a harder task than is usual in the final arrangement of the appointments.

The method of caring for the entertainment of the preachers this year is as follows. The homes furnish lodging and breakfast and each ministers is furnished a meal ticket for each dinner and supper which is honored in any one of four designated restaurants to an amount state don the ticket for any kind of food which the individual may choose. This allows each man his own choice in food and is proving a very satisfactory arrangement for all.

ST. PATRICK'S MEN ORGANIZE TO WELCOME MGR. W. H. MAY

An enthusiastic and largely attended meeting of the men of St. Patrick's parish was held Friday evening after the Lenten services, to complete plans for the home-coming reception for the rector, Mgr. Michael H. May. After the Stations of the Cross, the men assembled in the basement hall and elected Rev. Myles P. Galvin chairman of the meeting. John P. Corcoron was secrecatry.

All committees made very favorable reports. At the close of the conference the meeting had appointed the following committee chairman for the event anticipated with such general interest:

Reception committee, to meet Mgr. May at the steamer in New York, Former Mayor Timothy C. Murphy, chairman, Dr. James J. Donohue, Attorney Charles D. James, William J. Fitzgerald and Henry H. Vignot.

Committee to meet Monsignor May and the above committee at New London, returning to Norwich by automobiles, James J. Finnegan, chairman.

Chairman and marshal of parade committee, to meet the automobile line at Thames Square, Michael J. Kelly.

Committee on exercises in the church, John B. Tarrant (church trustee) chairman.

Entertainment committee, for big reception and presentation of testimonial in church assembly hall, Alexander Kilroy (church trustee) chairman.

Comittee on invitations, Thomas H. Beckley, chairman. On decorations, John P. Corcoran, chairman.

The members of the committee of the escorting parade from Thames Square, proposed and the project was proved, extending a formal invitation to the presidents of the women's societies of the church to participate in this feature. These officers are: Miss Annie G. Stanton, president of the Rosary society; Miss Loretta Belleflueer, of the Children of Mary society; Mrs. Daniel J. McGillicuddy, of the Catholic Women's club, Mrs. Thomas McVeith, of the Ladies of Columbus and Mrs. Julia Brock, county president of the A. O. H. auxiliaries. They will form an auxiliary committee.

As Mgr. May was for twelve years pastor of St. Andrew's church, Colchester, and its mission church, St. John's, Fitchville, also later of St. Bernard's church, Rockville, members of these parishes have notified Father Galvin of their intention to attend the big welcome reception.

Two Men Before City Court

There were but two prisoners before Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Friday morning. Both were charged with intoxication. One a southerner, made a plea for a chance to make good. He was allowed to leave town. The other man had his case continued until April 3rd until he can raise money to pay his fine amounting to $14.50.

"We find the system of pew rents is dying," says a Church Assembly Committee's report, which adds that of nearly 6,000,000 sittings in Great Britain only 262,633, which is about 4 per cent, have been rented.

MRS. TRACY'S CONDITION REPORTED FAIRLY GOOD

Following the automobile accident Thursday afternoon about 2 o'clock at Harland's corner, near the junction of Washington street and Town street, Mrs. John Tracy, who was pinned against the Huntington wall, receiving serious injury, was removed to her new home on Town street, not Lafayette street as formerly stated.

The Buick touring car, registration 57-236, which was coming down Upper Washington street headed for the city was owned and operated by Rev. William C. Prentiss of Plainfield. This was the car which received broken head lights, front fenders smashed, and motor damaged to such an extent that it would not run.

The Ford touring owned by Superintendant of Schools, Edward J. Graham and driven by his son, Edward J., which figured in the collision, while proceeding up Washington street, had for its registration, N-2324. The damage to this car was broken steering gear and front spring, also a smashed mud guard and a demolished running board, yet it proceeded under its own power to the garage where both cars were removed for repairs.

Mrs. Tracy was reported on Friday to be resting as comfortable as possible, although suffering much pain as the result of the double break in the bone to her left leg, below the knee.

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy who formerly resided on Lafayette street, moved a few weeks ago to their new bungalow on Town street, opposite "The Pines," which was built for their occupancy.

Had the brakes been applied on the Prentiss car, it is stated the accident would probably have been avoided, but it came around the corner and struck the Graham car's front wheel without slackening speed, carrying both cars over against the wall. Mrs. Tracy was caught and pinned against the wall by the Plainfield machine.

HELD MOST SUCCESSFUL SUNDAY SCHOOL SOCIAL

One of the most successful Sunday school socials ever held for the Central Baptist school was that conducted Friday evening, making a most entertaining programme for the more than 250 present. It was under the general direction of the committee, comprising Arthur F. Wyman, Mrs. Harry Kromer, Mrs. C. C. Gildersleeve, and Mrs. Charles A. Hagberg, who announced a variety programme by "all star" artists.

The numbers were as follows: Violin solo, by a young artist of note, Earl Swan.

Grandma's rose Jar, by a group of popular young buds: Marion Royce, grandma; June Woods, June; Dorothy Spencer, American Beauty; Dorothy Stewart, pink rose; Mary Stewart, white rose; Barbara Taylor, yellow rose; Marion Denison, Jack rose; Marion Pendleton, wild rose.

Piano solo, To a Wild Rose, by a celebrated young pianist, Dwight Richardson.

Examination Day, by a group of promising young artists. Teacher, Helen Denison; school committee, Laura Shields, Myra Peckham; scholars, Charlotte Palmer, Helen Hastings, Frances Bushnell, Katherine Adams, Mary Hargreaves, Susie Hargreaves.

Duet, by two gypsy girls—Dorothy Gildersleeve, Amie March.

Novelty sketch, by a star group—Beulah Whitely, Helen Christ, Chrystal Whitney, Harriet Williams, Lila Allen, Hilda Holmberg, Alma Carpenter, Genie Dean.

The Goup, the only living specimen in existence, Herbert Lowe.

Finale, The Star Spangled Banner, by the ensemble, with the audience.

Ice cream and fancy cakes were served at the conclusion of the programme and there was music by an orchestra consisting of Beni. Palmer Jr. Douglas Hunt, Daniel Grieco, James Bradley, Edward Smith, Reginald Ashbey, Miss Grace Taft, Ralph Marsh, Gerard Gallup, Robert Otis Jr. and Reginald Laubin.

CLEMENT IS WINNER IN DUWELL PINOCHLE

H. Clement with a total score of 82,690, finished first in the Duwell club's pinochle tournament which came to a close Friday evening at the club rooms. Second place went to F. Moll, score 82,220, and third place to J. Peduce, 81,260. High score for the evening's play Friday was 7,960 and was credited to G. Clement. H. Millea made second highest score of the evening, 7,520. The scores made Friday evening follow:

follow: G. Clement, 7,960; H. Millea, 7,520; J. Peduce, 7,170; W. Shaw, 7,110; A. Spalding, 6,920; A. Botham, 6,760; D. Peduce, 6,730; W. Peduce, 6,730; P. John, 6,580; C. Dicheuman, 6,530; E. Cramer, 6,520; R. Woodmansee, 6,500; W. Dunion, 6,480; C. Barber, 6,480; J. Riley, 6,430; F. Moll, 6,320; T. Iacol, 5,750; H. Clement, 5,720; H. Congdon, 5,680; F. Tremblay, 5,520.

The final standing is as follows: H. Clement, 82,690; F. Moll, 82,220; J. Peduce, 81,260; H. Congdon, 80,490; W. Dunion, 79,330; D. Peduce, 79,240; A. Botham, 78,770; R. Woodmansee, 78,540; E. Cramer, 78,270; T. Iacol, 77,950; C. Barber, 77,850; C. Dickenman, 77,380; P. John, 77,370; A. Spalding, 76,990; H. Millea, 75,550; G. Clement, 75,050, T. Tremblay, 74,760; J. Riley, 72,980.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE AT LINCOLN AVENUE DRIVEWAY

The automobile driven by Dr. C. G. Gildersleeve, with his wife and his mother, Mrs. Mary E. Corbin, as passengers, was struck from the rear Friday afternoon about 2 o'clock by the machine driven by Mrs. A. S. Comstock as the doctor's machine was turning into the driveway at his home, 28 Lincoln avenue.

Mrs. Corbin, who is 86, was the only one injured. She received cuts about the face and head and on one hand from the broken glass and was attended by Drs. R. R. Agnew and David Sussier.

Both machines were going the same way along Lincoln avenue, with the doctor about to turn to the right to enter his driveway and Mrs. Comstock following him at the rate of from 20 to 25 miles an hour. According to the report that was made, the doctor swung off to the left and then to the right as he reached the driveway and Mrs. Comstock's car hit his, although she put on her brakes, but is was found they did not hold properly, although Mrs. Comstock stated they had recently been inspected.

The Gildersleeve car had glass broken and the Comstock car a front bumper bent.

Attended Surgical Section Conference

Dr. J. J. Donohue was in attendance Thursday and Friday in New Haven at the conference of the New England section of the American College of Surgeons. The meetings were held in the hospital and in Sterling hall.

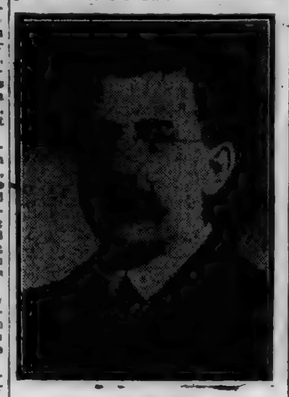
DEATH OF J. A. M'GREGOR, AT ATHOL HIGHLANDS

John A. McGregor, who was president of the Hopkins & Allen Co. of this city while it had a Belgian gun contract during the war, died early Thursday morning at his home in Athol Highlands, Mass., where he was president of the Union Twist Drill



J. A. McGREGOR

Co., and one of its most influential citizens. He had been ill for a considerable time.

Mr. McGregor was born in Brockville, N. S., Aug. 11, 1856. In 1873 he went to Providence to learn the machinists' trade with Browne & Sharpe, remaining there 20 years until he went to Philadelphia as vice president of the E. Harrington & Sons Co., then to New Bedford for ten years as general superintendent of the Morse Twist Drill & Machine Co. In 1905 he bought out a business in Athol, which he subsequently developed into the Union Twist Drill Co. Mr. McGregor was interested in race horses and was one of those to whose interest in track events was due the establishment of the beautiful Athol fair grounds.

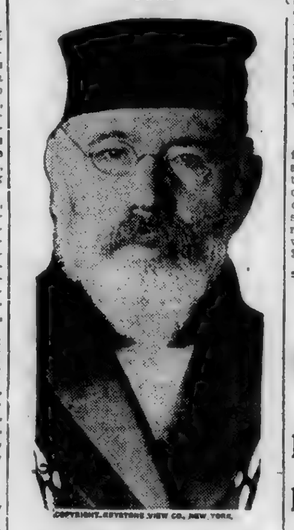
Mr. McGregor leaves a widow, three daughters, Miss Janetta McGregor, Miss Annie McGregor and Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson of Athol; two brothers, James and H. R. McGregor of Providence, R. I., and a sister, who resided in Nova Scotia.

STOLEN PROVIDENCE CAR IS RECOVERED HERE

A Moon automobile, P-9, R. I., taken from a garage in Providence Thursday night was found in this city by Officer Albert Lamphere about 5.30 o'clock Friday morning. Two men in the machine, George Ramsey, 34, Providence, and Albert Myers, 18, Attleboro, were arrested by the officer after a chase and were locked up at police headquarters.

About 4 o'clock Friday morning Officer Lamphere while patrolling his beat in the neighborhood of Franklin square was approached by Oreance Levesque of No. 79 Progress street, Providence and Levelle asked him if he had seen anything of a Moon car which had been taken from his garage in Providence by two young men. Levelle said he had tracked them here from Providence and believed the machine was in this city. The officer located the missing machine and arrested the men, who were held here until Friday afternoon when the owner and a Providence officer came here and took the whole outfit back to Providence.

Tells How Soviet Persecutes Jews



Rabbi Moses Eisenstadt, for 15 years Chief Rabbi of Leningrad, who is now in New York to arouse American Jews to the realization of the plight of their brothers and sisters under Communist rule in Russia. Social and political rights have been taken from them, and their religious activity is considerably stopped. Jews are not even allowed to vote under Soviet ruling, which really places all power in Soviet hands.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED TO NORWICH WOMAN

Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court at New London Friday morning, heard the uncontested divorce suit of Mary Madeline Kelley Torrance of this city against Russell Howard Torrance of Springfield, Mass., a former trolley motorman in this city. Judge Brown granted the divorce on the ground of adultery and gave Mrs. Torrance the custody of her one-year-old son.

The couple was married July 19, 1921. In the evidence presented in court was a court record against Torrance when he was arrested in Waterbury with a woman who was not his wife and a deposition from Springfield people to show that Torrance lived for two weeks from Feb. 21 to March 1924, in an apartment there with a woman who was not his wife.

Gold and Silver About Equal

Statistians compile some enormous figures at times when they are seeking a total for something, as, for instance, the amount of gold and silver in circulation in the world, or if not in circulation, accounted for. They have set forth that the value of gold is, roughly speaking, $18,100,374,538, whereas the value of silver is about $16,256,913,158

SUB. BASE TEAM WINS EASTERN CONNECTICUT TRACK AND FIELD MEET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 27.—With more than three score and ten athletics entered in the first big Eastern Connecticut track meet held under the auspices of the 85th Brigade Headquarters, C. N. G., Captain Allen B. Lambdin commanding, the first meet proved a success from every point of view. The Submarine Base won the meet as an organization. Pitted against six teams, the Sub Base with a few second and third places with an additional first place had a total of points for the meet.

Every event was hotly contested from the spectators' point of view and the athletes. The feature of the entire programme, the 880-yard relay run was one of the best relays for all round interest in it and other features. The three athletes from Bulkeley, and the same quartet which entered the high school relay team at Hartford recently, took the field far ahead of its nearest competitor, Chapman Technical High. The time of the Bulkeley relay was 1 minute, 36 and 1-5 seconds. But it was announced at the termination of the meet that this quartet which shoed their heels to all the competitors was disqualified with the other teams, the K. of C., Coast Guard, Submarine Base and the Dixie Boys. The time of the Chapman Tech relay team was five seconds less than that of the Dixie outfit.

The relay team with Bulkeley and Chapman Tech entered in it had a mutual acquaintance inasmuch as the two schools have severed relations in all sports. The Bulkeley team was not allowed to participate under high school names, but the Dixie name was substituted. It was a thrilling race from the beginning with a host of rooters from both schools cheering their teams to a victory. Sheffott was going off for the Dixie quarter gaining a short lead over the Y. M. C. A. Chapman Tech lead off men who passed him in the first heat. Byt the time the anchor man on the Dixie quartet finished he had a comfortable lead of nearly twenty yards to the good. The race showed that Bulkeley was the better of the two teams in the relays.

The order of the events and their respective winners:

100-yard dash—Sheffott first, time 3 seconds; Hawes, Sub Base, second; [illegible] third.

Relay run—First, Vibber of Chapman Tech, time 5 minutes, 47 seconds; second, Flesher; third, Joe [illegible] of the K. of C.

Shot put—Garret, Sub Base, first, distance of 41 feet 6 1-2 inches; second, [illegible] of the Y. M. C. A.; Rowe, of Sub Base, third.

440-yard dash—Davies, Chapman Tech, time of 1 minute 16 2-3 seconds; Griswold, Kaceys, third; Majewski, [illegible] Le Blanc, fourth.

Broad jump—Winner Garret first with jump of 19.9 feet; second, Sheffott 19.4 feet; Moore, Coast Guard, third, 18 feet.

880-yard run—First, Murphy of the Sub Base, time 2 minutes, 46.7 seconds; Caruso, Chapman Tech, second, Vibber of Chapman Tech, third.

Grammar school relay—Won by the [illegible] Hale school; second, St. [illegible]

220-yard dash—Courbois of Chapman Tech, first, time of 24.4 seconds; [illegible] Brown of Chapman Tech; third Murray of Coast Guard.

High jump—Garret of the Sub Base won with jump of 4.10 3-4 inches. Second Pullin of the Sub Base; third, Bowerman, Coast Guard.

One-mile relay—Dixies (Bulkeley), Chapman Tech, Y. M. C. A., in the order they finished. Time of winner, 3 minute, 36 1-5 seconds.

Individual honors were won by Garrett of the Submarine Base who captured two first places in the shot put and the high jump. His other performances also outstanding. Courbois of Chapman Tech a Norwich boy led the field in the 220-yard dash, finishing first out of two heats in this event. Sheffott was the fastest man on the day, when he captured the 25 yard dash by a good three feet from Hawes of the Submarine Base. Sheffott's time for the distance was three seconds flat.

The success of the meet was shown by the number of athletes who entered the meet and the number that participated in each event. At least twelve were entrants in the events, and in some instances a score and more entered.

The committee in charge of the meet were judges at the finish, Edward S. Nellan, Frederick Burdick, Walter Ward and George Tracy. Timers, A. B. Dawson, H. W. Rafferty, [illegible] Hedquist. Starter, Arthur T. [illegible] Field judges, Arthur I. Illing, Albert Weaver and Kenneth Shea. Clerk of course, Lieut. A. E. Bartlett. Scorer, William R. Canty. Assistant clerk of course, Lieut. Harold Blessing. Assistant Scorer Arthur Shuttle. Announcer, James G. Hammond. Assistant Joe Barry. Press Steward [illegible] Hetherington.

CHAMPION BARBER WANTS CHANCE TO DEFEND TITLE

[illegible] Barber of Danielson, for many years bowling champion of Eastern Connecticut made a visit to Norwich Tuesday evening and in discussing the bowling situation in the eastern part of the state said that he considers himself still the champion. To substantiate his claim to the title he said that he won last year in the tournament to get the title to Chip Dugas, won in a post tournament and retained the title from Dugas. As he has done very little bowling of late season being unable to get matches with the leading bowlers in this section he said that he issued a challenge to all and every bowler in the eastern part of the state bar none. The statement was made by Mr. Barber as he considers that any champion should put his title at stake every year. The champion he states that he will meet all comers for a purse of from $200 a side in a home alley to $500 on neutral alleys, three out of five games to count.

Mr. Barber stated that if the bowlers in the eastern part of the state thought that he (Barber) was too fast for them he would take Roy Fillmore or any partner in a double match and each will bowl two men for the same purse under the same conditions.

It is the opinion of bowling fans that Barber will hold his title for another year as there seems to be a strong lack of courage to tackle the champion and to date practically all of the possible contenders for the title have run out of matches with the champion. Barber has issued challenge after challenge to certain bowlers in the eastern part of the state and these have been turned down flat.

The present two man tournament closes in two weeks and after talking with two of the most logical contenders in an individual tournament it appears as though the prospects of an individual tournament are very slim. It is understood that neither the Peerless or Lawrence will enter a man in the individual nor will the Aetna.

PLAINFIELD WINS FROM COTTON CITY FIVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Plainfield, March 27.—In one of the fastest and cleanest basketball games ever played on the chalk line court at the Plainfield Community house the Army and Navy club defeated the champions of the Cotton City, the American Thread five of Fall River, 43 to 30.

The basketball fans got the thrill of their lives in tonight's game as both teams worked like machines. The ball hardly touched the floor, the play was perfect and real basketball was played The visitors started the fireworks by looping three baskets in the first minute of play. Plainfield settled down a and put their trick plays into effect and it was a nip and tuck game from the first whistle of the referee. With the addition of Bristle of South Manchester, the local team showed the visitors that they were out for victory. Higgins of the Thread Mill team was the stellar player. At half time the score stood 18 to 17 in favor of Fall River. The second half opened with a burst of speed and action by both clubs and the Army and Navy seemed to have the edge on the visiting team as the half waned.

The final score stood 43 to 30 in favor of the home club. The summary:

Plainfield
Normandin, rf	5	0	10
Dessinger, lf	2	1	5

In the preliminary game the Buddies of Plainfield defeated the Old Buddies 22 to 6 in a fair game.

RICHARDS NOT TO COMPETE IN INDOOR TOURNEY

New York, March 27.—A new national indoor tennis king and possibly the first foreign racqueter to annex the honor, will be crowned in the annual tournament opening here tomorrow.

Vincent Richards, youthful holder of the winter net laureis for the last two years, has decided to remain out of the competition. With no other members of America's ranking first ten in the field of 62 starters. Tennis followers see strong indication that the title quest of Jean Borotra of France, winner of the 1924 Wimbledon tournament will be gratified.

Borotra has been practicing industriously since his arrival in this country. If the sea voyage and the change of climate have not dulled the edge of an attack that was able to subdue Richards in the Wembledon event, net critics believe the title will go to the European as the first non-resident indoor champion.

A renewal of the rivalry between Richard and Borotra on this side would have added a colorful attraction to the tournament for net fandom, but with Vincent out, American opposition must be entrusted largely to Watson Washburn, Herbert L. Bowman, Metropolitan champion, Frederick C. Anderson, Jerome Lang, Percy Kynaston, Irving Weinstein and players of less distinction.

The French entrant will not be the only championship treat from foreign courts in the tourney. M. Harad, the Japanese player is also a starter.

The indoor championship has been contested since 1906, the former champions, all Americans, being J. A. Allen, Holcombe Ward, J. P. Paret, W. C. Grant (five times), E. B. Dewhurst, T. R. Pell, (three times), G. F. Tuchard, (four times, R. L. Murray, S. Howard Voshell (twice.) A. T. Tilden, 2nd, Frank T. Anderson, Francis T. Hunter and Vincent Richards (three times.)

METRO INDOOR TRACK SEASON CLOSES TODAY

New York, March 27.—New York's phenomenal indoor track season comes to a close tomorrow night with the Morningside A. C. games and the long heralded 10,000 metre walking race between Ugo Frigerio of Italy, Olympic champion at this sport, and Willie Plant, the American heel and toe title holder.

Frigerio has been defeated by Plant three times during the past winter, but they have never met at a longer distance than 5,000 metres. The Italian has contended that a 10,000 metre walk found him at his best, inasmuch as he won his Olympic laurels at this distance at Antwerp four years ago, successfully defending them at the Paris games last summer. Plant was unable to compete in the 1924 Olympic race because he strained a tendon while training on the trip to France.

Willie has won eighteen of his 22 starts this season, and has established six new world records.

Frigerio's performances in the United States have been rather erratic. He had little trouble in winning his first race in Madison Square Garden, but the field contained neither Plant nor Phil Granville, the husky Canadian who beat him Thursday night in a 6,000 meter race at Buffalo.

OSBORN BREAKS WORLD'S RECORD FOR HIGH JUMP

COAST GUARD TEAM LOSES FIRST GAME AT DETROIT

(Special to The Bulletin)

Detroit, Mich., March 27.—The long string of successive victories hung up by the Coast Guard Cadets came to an end in their first game of the National Y. M. C. A. played here yesterday. The team to break the string of victories was the Detroit Y. M. C. A. quintet gaining decision by a score of 33 to 23. The Connecticut State champions were no match for the better working combination representing the state of Michigan and were forced to submit to this early defeat.

At half time the Detroiters held a 15 to 5 score over the Nutmeg state representatives, and flashed a much weaker game in the next half, allowing the Coast Guard to hold them on even terms. It was the first half which was detrimental to the chances of the New Londoners, and once in the lead the Detroit five was reluctant to slip from the top.

French proved a sensation for the losers with continual accurate heaves from the center of the floor which numbered seven. He was high scorer for both fives with a total of 17 points, representing 7 field and 3 foul goals. Linholm, Coughlin and Thiele showed up to advantage.

This defeat does not eliminate the New London five, but the team from Connecticut will oppose the Wisconsin champions today. The final contest of the tournament will be played Saturday afternoon and the Coast Guard five will trend homeward arriving in New London on Sunday evening.

ANNUAL ROWING CLASSIC ON THE THAMES TODAY

London, March 27.—(By the A. P.)—Underground trains, buses and London trams are preparing to carry a crowd of 500,000 to see tomorrow's is unlikely that the crowd or the crews Oxford-Cambridge boat race. But it will get much fun out of it, or if they do it will not be without suffering from uncomfortable wind and water. All prospects are that the weather will be cloudy and very cold, with strong winds whipping up the waters of the tidal Thames on its bending course between Rutney and Mortjake.

The start and finish of the four and a quarter mile race through rough water, the experts say, will favor Oxford. Cambridge will start the favorite if by any cpance it is calm.

"Y" GYM MEMBERS GETTING READY FOR ANNUAL CIRCUS

Practice has begun among the Y gym members for their fifth annual "Barnyard and Baleha" gym circus which they hope to give in the association building some time next month. Some lively stunts are being arranged and the gymnites promise to make this season's "white top" attraction the best ever, and to supply everything in true circus style, from the chalk faced clown and elephants down to the side show ballyhoo men, pink lemonade. Various committees have been appointed to develop the different departments of the circus, and much interest is being manifested in trying out the various stunts and "thrillers." The circus has become an annual occasion at the local association, and marks the close of the physical department's winter program.

THOMPSON AND REED TO MEET IN THE FINALS

St. Augustine, Fla., March 27.—Kenneth M. Reed, New York, defeated George Moss, Rutland, Vt., 4 and 2 in the semi-finals of the Ponce De Leon championship tournament today.

Stanley Thompson, Canadian amateur, won his way to the finals by a one up victory over Eddie [illegible] leck, Garden City, N. Y.

C. F. C. vs "Y" Emps

A lively basketball contest is scheduled for the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium for tonight when the fast C. F. C. quintette clashes with the Y Emps. Both teams have played some good matches this season and are anxious to capture tonight's contest owing to the fact that considerable friendly rivalry has developed among the players. The game will begin at 7.30 p. m.

That 20,000,000 acres of arable land in the Peace River county of Canada could be opened by the construction of additional railway lines was reported at a recent conference.

TAFTVILLE WINS SERIES FROM BALTIC IN CLOSE AND FAST ENCOUNTER

The Taftville Army and Navy club took the final game of the series with the Baltic Wanderers last night at the Parish hall court by a scant margin of 2 points. The game was a duplication of the second encounter which was won by Baltic by a solitary point. It was a nip and tuck battle from start to finish and it was won by Taftville in the last four minutes of play.

The first half ended with the score of 15 to 8 in favor of Taftville, but the Wandered came back strong in the second half and ran the score up 21 to 21 with four minutes to go. Taftville scored one field goal while Baltic was unable to score.

In the preliminary game the Seconds defeated Red Burelle's All Stars 25 to 18. The scores:

Will not some generous person be willing to provide the cot and mattress which are urgently needed. If so telephone 879-2, family welfare department of the United Workers, today, if possible.

Breed Theater

Every element of suspense, every thrilling incident, and every stunt that sends delicious chills of terror along an audience's spine is said to be embodied in the Roland West production of The Monster, the Metro--Goldwyn picture which comes to the Breed theater Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday.

There are ghostly hands that stretch forth menacingly, there are sliding panels in which queer faces appear, there are skeletons in closets, and a demented surgeon who fascinates his victims with hypnotic power. There is an exciting story of a mysterious disappearance, there are two young men in love with the same beautiful girl and their desire to win her by their boldness and courage, there are breath-taking moments that are said to make spectators hold on to their chairs in suspense.

Lon Chaney and Johnny Arthur are the featured players. Others in the cast are Hallam Cooley, Charles A. Sellon, Walter James, Knute Erickson, George Austin, Edward McWade and Ethel Watson, the heroine.

Roland West adapted Crane Wilbur's stage success to the screen, and directed the production, which was photographed by Hal Mohr. The scenario is by Willard Mack and Albert G. Kenyon, and the titles by C. Gardner Sullivan. The Monster, is a Metro-Goldwyn picture, produced by Roland West Productions, Inc.

Topics of the Day, a cartoon and a comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Todays bill consists of Harry Carey in Soft Shoes, the fourth chapter of The Iron Man, the Pathe news and an Educational comedy. Continuous show today from 1:30 to 10:30 P. M.

Busses running from London to Bristol "stop for luncheon and tea" according to announcements.

Indian from India at Y. M. C. A.

An unusual opportunity is offered the public by the local Young Men's Christian Association on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when K. Appasamy, a native of India will deliver an address illustrated by stereopticon, that will surely interest his audience. Mr. Appasamy was born in Palamcottah, a town in the extreme south of India, his father being a convert from Hinduism; he had been mostly educated in mission schools and colleges established in and around his home town by the Church of England. He came to America primarily to obtain an industrial training, he took an electrical engineering course at the University of Pittsburgh, Pa. Mr. Appasamy is an attractive speaker, and the fifty pictures he will show on "Life in India" will add much to his address. The public generally is invited, though children under fourteen should be accompanied by adults.

Palace Theatre.

One of the best variety shows ever assembled on a local stage is presented at the Palace theatre for the remainer of the week. This all star program is gathered together to please everyone, and contains about every form of entertainment, which can be put on at one time.

Opening the stellar vaudeville bill is Charles Fletcher, the wizard of equilibrium. A contortionist of note, Charlie shows his theatregoers the twists and shapes, which bring forth mirth and laughter, of the human body.

Charles Forsyth & Co., in "shades of harmony," entertain royally with his varied vocal selections, and certainly can hand out some sweet harmony.

McGreen and Leon in a comedy skit "Bright and Olly," afford plenty of laughter.

George Lilly, black-faced comedian and eccentric dancer, with a basso voice, has a snappy line of stories and songs, the kind that hooks you.

Heading this super bill are the Seven Brown Girls Jazz Band, every one an artist; every one a soloist. You certainly can't miss seven comely maidens tooting their stuff, and in one of the cleverest feminine jazz syncopated hits pulled off here.

Then we have Miss Rice, and her $1,000 harp. Just a little bit of Ireland is transported to the Palace stage. An act that can't be beat.

"Laugh and the World Laughs With You," so says Sid Hall, assisted by Edith Vaughn, in one continuous roar of from "Fish to Nuts," in their comedy offering.

And then ending this perfectly, balanced show comes the "Three Landons," the sensation of the year. They say that flying machines are only things that fly, but wait until this act is reviewed, and then someone will probably write a book about "Flying Through the Air, With the Three Landons." An act that positively can't be beat. Above all they are a treat for the most cosmopolitan audience.

On the screen is Fifth Avenue Models. Elaborate sets eloquent of luxury; sets indicative of poverty; stunning gowns; beautiful women; fine acting by star and supporting cast. Such are the principal factors that go to make a great motion picture of "Fifth Avenue Models." Universal-Jewel staring Mary Philbin, which opened Thursday in this Palace theatre.

Broadway Theater

A French civil wedding ceremony, performed by the mayor of a small town who has celebrated the nuptials prematurely with a bottle of cognac, is the starting point of a bewildering series of comedy incidents in "Miss Bluebeard," Bebe Daniels second starring picture for Paramount, which will be the feature at the Broadway theatre Sunday.

Miss Daniels plays the part of Collette, a French actress, bound for London on a holiday. The early scenes of the picture are shot in the compartment of a French railway train, where Collette makes impromptu acquaintance with a couple of young Englishmen, returning from Paris.

The whole picture proceeds at farce tempo, giving Frank Tuttle an opportunity to develop his theme with deft touches and swift action. Incidentally, it reveals Raymond Griffith at his hilarious best.

Robert Fraser has the leading male role, opposite Miss Daniels.

Others in the cast of the picture, which was adapted by Townsend Martin from the stage play, "Little Miss Bluebeard," by Avery Hopwood which ran on Broadway for more than a year, are Kenneth MacKenna, Martha Madison, Diana Kane, Lawrance D'Orsay, Florence Billings and Ivan Simpson.

Short subjects include a comedy and Kinograms.

Mon., Tues. and Wed. will see a special program of seven great big Keith acts.

James M. Pendleton, town treasurer and tax collector of Westerly vs. Stephen DiPerry.

James M. Pendleton vs. Francesco Vuono.

vs. Mary Thibault.

vs. Zephir Davigna.

As the above cases for uncollected taxes were called, Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr., asked that a hearing be granted and the cases defaulted. Later in the court session Miss Mary E. Quinlan, in charge of the town treasurer's office in the Westerly town hall testified to the amounts due the town of Westerly and the cases were declared defaulted.

John O. Mills vs. Ralph A. Gardiner. Defaulted.

Clifton D. Hall vs. Angelo Pucci. Continued to April 3rd.

Granite Street Garage vs. C. H. Marsh. Placed on the nisi docket.

A. L. Castritius vs. Earl Barber, Reader.

John M. O'Connell vs. Solomon Rockatash. Defaulted.

H. Conway vs. Thomas Buell. Continued one week.

Edgar R Sweet vs. Daniel Webster Jackson. Ready.

A large and appreciative audience witnessed the presentation of "Over the Hills," a three act drama with a cast of some fifteen local young people in the vestry of the Pawcatuck Congregational church Thursday evening. Numerous rehearsals under direction of Mrs. Ralph Larkin had given the play a smoothness almost professional. The humorous character of Jerry Goslings, a merry heart, taken by Mrs. Annie Duffies, the serious Deborah Underhill, the old mother by Mrs. Maud Larkin, the vagabond, Enoch Rone, an outcast, Archie McKenzie; John Underhill, J. Thompson and the unjustous Guntus Todd, the sheriff, Walter Snyder together with Lowzzy Jovony Austard, the village gossip, Mrs. K. Robinson; Charlie Underhill, the elder son, A. Rice; Brother Jonah Quakerbush, J. Rae; Isabell Simpscott, Mrs. A. Rice; Sukey Pindle, Mary Brown; village choir, Mrs. Dugald, Mrs. Brown, Miss Kilgour; pianist, Mrs. Ruth Wilcox and the leader of the choir, Widder Bill Pindle, Glorianta Perkins, Mrs. E. Kemp, Mrs. M. Stenhouse, all were well received.

Between the acts a number of Musical selections were given.

For the benefit of the Crippled Children's Home in New York city, a repetition of the play by the same cast is to be given in the Westerly High School hall during April.

The death of Mrs. Alice Barber Maxson, 58, wife of Albertus R. Maxson, residing near the junction of East avenue and the Watch Hill road, occurred early Thursday morning at Jamestown, R. I., where she had been receiving special medical care. Previous to this time Mrs. Maxson had been a patient at the Lawrence hospital in New London. Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, Albertus R. Maxson, Jr., of Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Rose C. Bush, 64, wife of Thomas J. Bannon, died at her home Thursday night, following an illness of several weeks. She was born in Providence, the daughter of Stephen and Jane Bush, in 1860, she married Thomas J. Bannon, and in May, 1896 they came to Westerly to make their home. She has been a resident of the town for the past 29 years, during which time she has made many friends. Up to her recent illness, she was always a faithful worker in numerous activities at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, William J. and Thomas E. Bannon, a daughter, Miss Rose Bannon, all of Westerly, a brother, William Bush of Providence, and two sisters, Mrs. William Garvin of Providence and Mrs. Margaret McLaughlin of North Chelmsford, Mass.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly Town Clerk are the following transfers of real estate:

Mar. 24. John A. and Ellen J. McDougall to Lucy Clarke a lot of land No. 43 Fairview Park.

25. Mary C. Scanlon to Norman N. Hill of East Hampton, Conn., a lot or parcel of land, Nos. 59 and 60 at Pleasant View.

26. Elmer L. Macomber to Eugene A. Bennett and wife a tract of land, one and one half acres on the west side of the Langworthy road highway from Dunn's corners to the Shore road, adoining property of the Town of Westerly, Jennie D. Thompson to Alexander G. Thompson an undivided one half interest in a parcel of land with buildings and improvements on the east side of Chester avenue. Harry Ainsef to Sam Silver an undivided one half interest in two parcels of land on the east side of East avenue.

The New England express was delayed some time Friday morning in leaving the Westerly station of the New Haven railroad for Providence. The delay was caused by a hot bearing on the rear end of the locomotive and was remedied by cutting off the engine and replacing it with the locomotive from the work train in the Westerly freight yard. Considerable difficulty was experienced by the lighter locomotive in starting the long heavy train of solid steel Pullman cars.

Some twenty-five friends and neighbors joined for a surprise party to Joseph U. McFarland, 7 Chase street, Thursday evening, the day being the thirty-eighth birthday. Mr. McFarland received a gold watch chain with Elks' emblem. The refreshments included a birthday cake decorated with thirty-eight candles. Bridge whist was played, prizes being won by C. L. Westcott and Miss Helen Sullivan, 1st; Daniel Ashworth, and Mrs. Daniel Ashworth, Jr. 2nd.

Relatives and friends of Francis Beattie, including representatives of the local Paving Cutters' union, paid tribute to his memory Thursday afternoon, attending in great numbers the funeral service held for him at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Warren T. Sheffield, 76 Cross street. Rev. E. E. Morrill, pastor of the awcatuck Congregational church, conducted the service. He was assisted by Rev. A. L. Schoning, pastor of the Broad Street Christian church. Burial was in River Bend cemetery. The bearers were John Ferguson, Sr., James McKenzie, Sr., James Fidesd and Archibald Beattie, the last two representing the Paving Cutters' union. There were beautiful flowers from the union, as well as tributes from relatives and friends. Among those from out of town attending the funeral were Francis Beattie, Jr., of Norwich, son of Mr. Beattie, and his wife and three children also two nephews, William Dean and James Bisset of Orland, Me.

The Sons of Veterans, who were recently awarded by the town the two muzzle-loading brass cannon that have been stored away in the basement of the town hall, now face the problem of finding a suitable location for them. R. J. Rooney, who was named by Amos P. Chapman post to obtain the two field pieces and turn the mover to that organization, is seeking a place where they may be kept permanently on display. Mr. Rooney hopes that some individual or organization will offer a sit for them so that they may be set up prior to Memorial day. Through the efforts of the late Congressman Warren O. Arnold, the brass cannon were awarded Westerly by the national government about 25 years ago. For some years they were stored by the G. A. R. until that organization obtained quarters in which to place them. Later the G. A. R. turned them over to the town in the hope that they would be placed on the lawn of the town hall. Recently, with the consent of the G. A. R. and at the request of Mr. Rooney, the town council voted to transfer the field pieces to the Sons of Veterans. Mr. Rooney will formally present them to Amos P. Chapman camp at that organization's meeting on April 16. At present the cannon are at Holdredge's where they are being repainted.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Bal Lihme and Miss Anita Lihme of Watch Hill, who have been spending the winter at the Everglades club, Palm Beach, plan to leave Sunday for the north. After remaining in New York for a fortnight, they will sail for Europe about April 15. They expect to open Norman Hall, their Watch Hill estate, early in July.

The motor in the rum runner Barbara wrecked on Fishers Island some days ago, was removed by Capt. Richard Davidson of New London and shipped to that city. The captain and his crew hope to salvage the engine from the fishing schooner Viking which was also wrecked on the island a week ago. The machinery from the rum chaser will be confiscated by the government.

Among local members of the K. of C., who assisted in the exemplification of the third degree of the order at Danbury, Conn., Sunday afternoon, were: Daniel M. Cogan, T. F. Lenihan, Daniel W. Kelleher, M. J. Spellman, James Neville and Charles W. Conners. On their trip to Danbury, they stopped for a short visit with Rev. J. J. Fitzgerald at Naugatuck, formerly of Westerly.

A Raw, Sore Throat

Eases Quickly When You Apply a Little Musterole

And Musterole won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Just spread it on with your fingers. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It is fine for quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest. Keep it handy for instant use.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

35c and 65c, jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00.

Hearts and Dollars

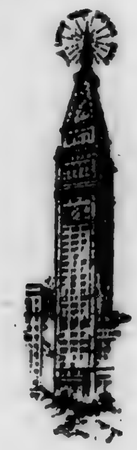
Two Statements—one of which has to do with Health and Welfare, the other with Financial Strength



AN OPEN LETTER

(Name on Request)

Mr. Haley Fiske, President
Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.
New York City

My Dear Mr. Fiske:

Why don't you publish a Heart Statement along with the regular Financial Statement you put out each year?

Any company can publish impressive figures of financial strength, financial growth, etc. But figures don't stick. All I remember from your last year's Statement is that the Metropolitan has several million policyholders and is the biggest life insurance company in the world.

I've been following some of your magazine advertisements lately that tell of work you're doing to help people live longer. It isn't entirely clear in my mind just how you're doing it or why you do it, but since you are doing it, give us the facts and figures on that. Call it a Heart Statement or a Welfare Statement, or anything you like, but—give us the facts.

Perhaps other Metropolitan policyholders like myself would be interested in a Statement of that kind.

Very truly yours,
C. N. S——.

WE are indebted to Mr. S. for his suggestion. It is an excellent one. We publish an annual Business Statement of the Metropolitan, not because we think that the figures will be remembered, but because they offer conclusive evidence of unusual growth and strength to its 22,000,000 policyholders.

And it is this extraordinary financial strength that makes it possible for the Metropolitan to carry on a nation-wide campaign for better health and longer life.

People now live longer

Records kept by the Metropolitan show an extraordinary decrease in the death rate among its policyholders. Compared with 1911, for example, there were nearly 62,000 fewer deaths in 1924 among its Industrial Policyholders than there would have been if the 1911 death rate had prevailed.

While the average life span in the United States is 5½ years greater than it was 12 years ago, the life span of the Industrial Policyholders of the Metropolitan increased nearly 8½ years—a betterment of three years over the general average—in the same interval.

These increases in longer life are due in large part to the Metropolitan's Health and Welfare Work among its policyholders.

You are the gainer

You and all the other 22,000,000 policyholders—one out of every six people in the United States and Canada—reap the benefit through better health and decreased cost of insurance.

The wealth of the Metropolitan belongs to you and to no one else. The Metropolitan has no stock and no stockholders. It is owned solely by its policyholders. You, as one of the policyholders, share in the ownership of all its investments; in its railroad bonds, its real-estate mortgages, its loans to farmers, loans to states, cities and towns for public improvements and similar enterprises.

You, as a part-owner of over $1,600,000,000, should read the two statements on the left with a feeling of pride in what your company has achieved.

The efforts as well as the assets of the Metropolitan are dedicated to protection against future want—to greater happiness, better health and longer life.

Haley Fiske
President

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Political conventions and a big republican rally were the outstanding events in Norwich fifty years ago this week. The Eighth democratic convention and the democratic probate convention of the Norwich district were held here that week. The republicans held a big rally at Breed Hall and the speaker was J. L. Barbour of New Britain. The same week the local A. O. H. held a meeting and elected officers for the year with P. W. Pratt as president. Interesting extracts from the files of The Bulletin of March, 1875 are as follows:

Monday, March 22, 1875—The funeral of the late John W. Murphy took place yesterday from his father's home on Ann and Asylum streets. There was an immense crowd present and a very large procession followed the remains to the grave.

The convention to organize a state sportsman's association will be held Tuesday morning at Central hall, Hartford.

Westerly people are greatly excited over the reported discovery of a silver mine on Quarry Hill. A local assayer has tested the ore and reports the presence of silver in paying quantities.

Stafford will have another National bank with a capital of $100,000.

The Bulletin of this date carried a supplement containing the names of the voters of the city with a list of "to be maden."

Tuesday, March 23, 1875—The ice in the Thames is still heavy in places, though in others a clear channel is open. Steamboat men think it would be easy to open a passage to the city with a heavy propellor.

The Rev. W. H. Stetson, presiding elder of Norwich District, will preach in the M. E. church in Greeneville, this evening.

The supply of coal in town is very small, scarcely any of the dealers having more than a few tons on hand.

The selectmen admitted about 225 new voters yesterday. One applicant was denied admission having been convicted of a fenony.

A tombstone lay on Franklin square yesterday with only the words "Here lies". It was supposed to be one ordered by the democracy for use after the 5th of April, though the appropriateness of the inscription led many to believe it was intended for use as a democratic banner during the campaign.

Wednesday, March 24, 1875—Eighth District Democratic Convention—The convention was called to order by J. M. Bunnell. S. S. Thresher of Norwich was appointed chairman and William Legate of Preston, secretary. On motion of Ira Lewis of Griswold an informal ballot was taken for candidate for senator and resulted as follows:

Whole number of votes cast	20
James A. Hovey,	14
Henry Lyon,	6

On motion of C. T. Hazen of Sprague James A. Hovey was nominated by acclamation.

Democratic Probate Convention—The democratic probate convention for the Norwich district was called to order by Welcome H. Browning of Griswold. R. H. Harvey of Preston was appointed chairman and F. I. Champlin, secretary. On motion of Mr. Gallagan of Preston an informal ballot was taken for candidate for Judge of Probate, which resulted as follows:

Whole number votes cast	26
D. P. Otis	12
S. S. Thresher	8
J. B. Coit	1

On motion of Mr. Roath of Norwich, Mr. Otis was unanimously nominated. Ebenezer Parker of Norwich and W. A. Browning of Griswold were appointed district committee, and the convention adjourned.

Thursday, March 25, 1875—A heavy snow storm commenced about noon yesterday and continued until after dark. There was a large fall but no accumulation.

Notwithstanding the storm last evening quite a large company attended the "pound party" in the vestry of the Universalist church, and enjoyed the musical entertainment. It was decided to continue the entertainment this evening, when all of the packages will be sold at auction. Cake and ice cream will be supplied and a good time may be expected.

A. W. Prentice and Co., have an exhibition a very handsome lot of the Wesson rifles including the Creedmoor, sporting and shoulder pistol. The first is adapted to close shooting and is the handsomest finished piece we have seen.

The excitement in Westerly over the discovery of silver ore continues. The property is owned by S. L. Dickens, who has received numerous offers for it but will not sell. It is said that one assay of two pounds seven ounces of ore, yielded two ounces of pure silver.

Friday, March 26, 1875—The lamps on Preston bridge have been lighted for the last two nights, a circumstance so extraordinary that people conclude it was the work of a drunken man.

It is now stated that the Horse Railroad to Norwich Town will be put in order as soon as the weather shall permit; and that the route will be operated this summer as formerly.

Forty-six divorces were granted in Windham County last year. In thirty-one cases the wife was the petitioner and in fifteen cases the husband, which goes to show that the men up there are only a little more than twice as bad as the women.

The propellor Utility, owned by J. M. Huntington & Co., made an attempt yesterday to open a channel in the Thames to Norwich. She got as far as "Long Beach," about two miles above Allyn's Point, but was unable to proceed farther and turned back.

Saturday, March 27, 1875 — At a meeting of the A. O. H. last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year; P. W. Pratt, president; Patrick Maher, vice president; John F. Moran, recording secretary; Patrick J. Kelly, financial secretary; P. D. Murphy, treasurer; Patrick Cassidy, sergeant at arms.

The second republican rally of the campaign was an immense demonstration. Breed hall was filled with a crowd that flowed over into the aisles, jammed the vestibule and blockaded the stairs. A noticeable feature of the meeting was the presence of a large number of ladies in the galleries.

After music by Lewis' band, Amos W. Prentice introduced J. L. Barbour of New Britain. Mr. Barbour is one of the most popular stump speakers in the state and at once took the audience with him.

Foster and Adams will give the last of their exhibition games in Foster's parlors tonight, beginning precisely at half past eight. Mr. Adams has a number of new fancy shots.

The Norwich Rose club, an organization of twelve of our colored residents, gave a concert in Lebanon Thursday night and netted $50. The association sing all the songs of the Jubilee singers and sing them well.

Work on the Race Rock Lighthouse will be resumed as soon as the weather will permit and the corner stone of the edifice will be laid at an early day.

CANTERBURY GREEN

The meeting last Sunday evening was a Fanny Crosby memorial service. Many of the hymns composed by her were sung and a collection was taken.

The cottage meeting this week was appointed at the home of James Towne.

The Ladies' Aid society was entertained Tuesday by Mrs. Addie Waldo. The usual program was followed. More orders for quilts have been received and work upon them has commenced. The next meeting will be with Mrs. James Lathrop.

Carlton Lovell, of New York, is spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lovell.

Mrs. James Lathrop returned home after several months' absence.

News has been received of the death of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Beausoliel, of Clayville, R. I. Mrs. Beausoliel, who was Miss May Lecraw, is well known here where she attended school when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lecraw lived at their Hyde street home.

Rev. Ralph E. Knight one morning recently discovered the loss of three of his hens from his small flock that had been securely shut up the night before. It would seem that some one had a craving for chicken pie. One of his Black Hill parishioners took it upon himself to make good the loss and giving one himself and soliciting two others from neighbors presented the pastor this small donation of birds.

The auction at the Babcock farm, Tuesday, called forth the usual crowd. Mrs. Setphen Babcock and family have now moved to their new home in Plainfield village. Mrs. Frances Babcock, who has been spending the winter with her daughter and was at Mrs. Bradford's in Plainfield earlier in the winter, is now with Mrs. Exley.

The people at the Green are pleased to hear of improvement in the condition of Clifford Williams, of Canterbury Plain, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia.

POETRY

The Way They Singest

Ah! I have heard a meadow-lark
Sing o'er the growing corn
In notes of passion and desire,
All eerily prophesying morn—
So full and rich and sweet,
My heart with rapture beat,
And for remembered years
Up sprang the tears. . . .
And here—and now—
So singest thou!

And I have heard—and seen—the notes
Of a brief summer rain
Burst into budden, lyric gold
Upon the window-pane—
When the sunset's lucent flames
For one sweet instant came—
Born of the rain's desire
And the sunset's fire. . . .
And here—and now—
So singest thou!

I dreamed I heard an angel sing
With rapt and lifted eyes;
With marvel in his voice and look
And in his heart surprise
That the angels leaned from sleep
To hear the boy and weep,
Thinking of ones loved so
Of earth below. . . .
And here—and now—
So singest thou!

—Ella Higginson.

The Forbidden Lure

"Leave all and follow—follow!"
Lure of the sun at dawn.
Lure of a wind-paced hollow,
Lure of the stars withdrawn:
Lure of the brave old singing
Brave perished minstrels knew:
Of dreams like sea-fog clinging
To boughs the nights sifts through:

"Leave all and follow—follow!"
The sun goes up the day;
Flickering wing of swallow,
Blossoms that blow away—
What would you, luring, luring,
When I must bide at home?
My heart will break her mooring
And die in reef-flung foam!

Oh, I must never listen,
Call not outside my door,
Green leaves, you must not glisten
Like water, any more.
Oh, Beauty, wandering Beauty,
Pass by; speak not. For see,
By bed and board stands Duty
To snatch my dreams from me!

—Fannie Stearns Davis.

The airplane has displaced the canoe as first assistant to engineers. No longer is the slower means of travel used to any extent to survey untraveled country. Instead, the engineer hops into a plane and is carried over the trackless highlands, covering a route in a few hours that formerly took many days by canoe and on foot. Such is the romance of engineering as recently enjoyed by H. K. Wickstead in locating a railroad across western Quebec, remarks the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

SUNDAY BILL WILL BE BROUGHT UP IN LEGISLATURE AT TUESDAY'S SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, March 27—As usual but one committee was holding hearings today, the judiciary hearing before them.

Resolution appointing Herbert A. Ross recorder of the city court of Hartford to fill a vacancy; resolution appointing Herbert A. Ross, recorder of the city court of Hartford, resolution appointing George H. Day, judge of the city police court of Hartford; Senate joint resolution, resolution appointing Nathan A. Schatz judge of the city police court of Hartford.

As there was no opposition to these appointments, the meeting was short.

Next week promises to be an active one. With the "Sunday Bill" bill made the order of the day for Tuesday at twelve o'clock there will be a hard fight for and against the bill. The bill will be supported by the members from the cities and larger towns, and opposed by those from the rural sections. The bill is under constant discussion in the lobbies.

Tuesday the appropriations committee will have before them several bills asking for appropriations for repairs, alterations and additions to state armories, for the state military camp at Niantic, appointment of a joint commission for the purchase of land in the vicinity of the state camp at Niantic, and for a fireproof storehouse at the state camp.

On Thursday April 2nd, the "Wheeler Fedetion" bill will be before the judiciary. Friends of the bill are sanguine of success at this session.

The subject has been under discussion by different associations and action in some form is generously favored.

The house concurred with the senate in passing a bill that provides for the appointment of a commission of five citizens for a suitable memorial to those who lost their lives in the world war.

The bill allowing the borough of Groton to issue refunding bonds to the extent of $150,000, which has been on the table for some time, was called up and after explanation by Mr. Burrows it was passed. It provides that they shall bear not more than 4 1-2 per cent interest.

The committee of judiciary made quick time this morning in considering the Hartford judgship appointments. Reversing the usual order, the chairman called upon those opposed to speak. No one spoke. He then asked those in favor and a number of prominent Hartford lawyers arose. When one of these started to speak in support of the nominations, Chairman Alling quickly said, "Hearing closed" and that was the end of it.

Acting upon its decision to hear none of the petitions for restoration of license to practice medicine, which had been revoked, as they should be considered by the courts and not by the legislature, a batch of them were rejected in the house and senate this morning. A bill is being drawn that will permit those who neglected to appear to do so now if they so desire.

SENATE.

There were 14 senators present this forenoon at 11.20 when the senate was called to order by Lieutenant Governor Brainard. In his prayer Chaplain Ayers remembered the leader of the senate, Senator Cronin, who is ill at his home in New London. Mayor Stevens of Hartford was present.

The committee on the judiciary reported favorably on the appointment of Herbert A. Ross as recorder of the city court of Hartford to fill an unexpired term and for a full term; and George H. Day and Nathan A. Schatz to be judges of the city police court of Hartford. Senator Shaw said no one appeared at the hearing in opposition to the nominees to the judgeship mentioned in the resolutions and a number of prominent lawyers of Hartford had appeared in support of the resolutions. The resolutions were passed under suspension of rules and transmitted to the house.

The committee on the judiciary reported unfavorably on the petitions of the following for the validating of their licenses to practice medicine and surgery: Isaac W. Cornwall, Michael M. J. Anthony, Frank W. Webb, Frank E. Gavies, Etamar A. Mower, Anthony R. Camp, Frank P. Trapani, Joseph M. De Gaetini, Harry Silverman, George D. Noeling, William Feldman, Raymond C. Prisque, William D. MacCormack, Nicholas L. Ferri, Monte Val Robinson, Louis F. Desaunier, Samuel Slabotsky, James Beckman, Philip S. Dabbay, Anthony R. Campo, Roy A. Long, James Kelso, Etamar A. Mower, James W. Cotner, Harry Chainson, Samuel Lerner, Gerald A. Richardson, Samuel Lilienthal. The reports were accepted and the bills rejected.

The committee on the judiciary reported unfavorably on the bill which provided that no public service corporation shall increase or decrease its rates without a public hearing by the public utilities commission. The bill was rejected.

The senate adjourned at 12.01 to Tuesday next at 11.15 a. m.

THE HOUSE.

The house accepted the unfavorable reports from the judiciary committee on 11 bills validating certificates of as many deposed doctors to practice medicine in Connecticut. The bills rejected validates the certificates of the following: Frazier S. Whittington, Benjamin C. Williams, Franklin I. Flagg, Clyde R. Cowan, Frank Lacata, Ellis Mitchelson, Roy H. Shattuck, John Hraba, Aloysius James Cregg, Samuel Slabatsky and Simeon Cohen. Concurrence was voted with the senate in the appointment of Herbert A. Ross as recorder of the city court of Hartford; George H. Day as judge of the city police court of Hartford, and Nathan A. Schatz as judge of the city police court of Hartford.

Under suspension of the rules and to help the borough of Groton to meet its notes due April 1 the house passed bill No. 7 authorizing the borough to issue $15,000 refunding bonds to take up a water bond issue.

Favorable reports tabled for calendar: Public health and safety, bill No. 407, concerning qualifications of applicants for license to practice optometry. Roads, bridges and rivers, bill No. 934, providing for a second system of state roads.

Favorable reports from the committee on roads, bridges and rivers tabled for calendar and printing were: Bill No. 935, providing for classification of trunk line and state aid roads by highway commissioner; No. 932, prohibiting excavation and structures in state highways without a permit from highway commissioner.

The house adjourned at 12.08 until Tuesday at 11.30 a. m.

GOSHEN

At the Sunday morning service a fitting tribute was paid to Fanny Crosby, the great hymn writer by the pastor Miss Lydia Hartig. The collection for the day was contributed for the Rest Home that is to be built in Bridgeport, a memorial to the gifted writer of sacred songs. The beautiful and inspiring songs Miss Crosby wrote was used entirely in the church services Sunday.

Mrs. James R. Case and daughter, Miss Grace Elizabeth Case of Danbury with the former's sister, Mrs. C. H. McCall and son, Robert ... McCall, of Colchester, were guests of friends here Tuesday.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

This week's meeting of Norwich grange, No. 172, on Wednesday evening in Steiner hall was Camp Fire night for the entertaining feature at the lecturer's hour with the Tatapochan and Owenoco camp fires conducting a ceremonial under the direction of Mrs. A. C. Freeman and Miss Gladys Newbury. Camp Fire stunts made an interesting part of the demonstration.

In the business part of the meeting, it was voted to secure 150 new badges as the growth of the grange makes this necessary, and it was also decided to have light refreshments at each meeting hereafter. The feast committee for the second quarter of the year consists of Leonard Staubley, Sr., chairman, Carl W. Brown, Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Lamb.

The basketry class under the home economics committee, Mrs. Ida Richardson, chairman, held its first meeting Wednesday afternoon with an attendance of eleven and a very successful session under the instruction of Mrs. Myers.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

The members of White Cross council, No. 13, Knights of Columbus will make their annual Easter communion at the 7.30 o'clock mass at St. Mary's Memorial church tomorrow (Sunday). The members will assemble in the hall of the church at 7.15 and proceed in a body to the church where seats in the center aisle will be reserved for them. Following the mass there will be a communion breakfast served at the Wauregan house and the speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Daniel Shea of Hartford, past grand knight of Hartford council. Dr. Shea has an excellent reputation as a speaker and it is expected that he will have a message of considerable interest for members of the order. The members of the local council usually turn out in large numbers on occasions of this kind and it is expected that the attendance on Sunday will be larger than ever and that the facilities of the dining room of the Wauregan house will be taxed to capacity.

ODD LADIES, M. U.

The social committee of Loyal Victory lodge, I. O. O. F., M. U., met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Hunt in Taftville. The whist of March 18th proved a big success. The committee expressed their willingness to help Hugh H. Osgood lodge make their dance of April 25 in Ponemah hall also a success. After a busy meeting dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Dorothy Hunt and Miss Betty Lamphere. On account of the convention which takes place April 1 in Bridgeport and Easter following, the degree team will not meet for two weeks. Among those to attend the convention are Mrs. Cooper of Plainfield, Mrs. Sewart of Baltic, Mrs. Greig of Waterford, Mrs. O'Brien of New London, Mrs. Addison and Mrs. Armitage of Taftville, Mrs. Joseph Wooley, Sr., and Mrs. Partridge, of Norwich.

ODD FELLOWS

Palmyra Encampment No. 4, I. O. O. F. worked the royal purple degree on a large class of candidates at Odd Fellows hall Thursday evening. The degree work was preceded by a supper served at 7 o'clock. There was a large attendance at the meeting.

GROTTO

Plans for the staging of The Ritz Revue by Nemrod Grotto are progressing rapidly and the members of the cast, all local talent have been selected. Rehearsals will begin next Monday evening and will be conducted by Torry McKenny of the Harrington-Adams Co., Inc. The revue is to be staged at the Palace theater April 14th and 15th and indications are that the theater will be packed for the production. There are about 150 in the cast and a number of special features will be introduced.

EASTERN STAR

The regular meeting of Sachem Chapter, No. 57, was held Wednesday evening at the Masonic Temple with the worthy matron, Mrs. Ella H. Barbour, in the chair. Supper was served from 5 to 7 o'clock by the men of the chapter, Worthy Patron George D. Fillmore in charge. The menu comprised:

Roast Turkey
Mashed Potatoes Mashed Turnips
Cranberry Sauce
Rolls Pickles
Celery Cake
Coffee
Ice Cream

Following the supper the business meeting was called to order. Routine matters were transacted and several condidates were initiated. The chairman of the entertainment committee, Mrs. Villah Altar reported on the whist held recently at Grotto hall. The next meeting of the sewing circle will be held with Mrs. Ernest J. Jones at her home on Bliss Place.

JUNIOR MECHANICS.

Buckingham Council, No. 14, met in regular session Wednesday evening with Past Councilor Howard Eddins presiding. The meeting was held in Odd Fellows' hall to accommodate out-of-town visitors.

The newly-formed degree team initiated a class of 25 candidates and after the degree work a splendid supper was served by the Daughters of America in Buckingham Memorial.

The entertainers were an orchestra and a black-face comedian. The dining hall was taxed to its capacity.

The speakers of the evening were introduced by State Secretary Wellington who acted as toastmaster. Among the speakers were State Councilor Marshall, Past Councilor Fred Shappee and Degree Master George Faulkner. Mr. Shappee is one of the oldest members of this council and is also one of the most active members.

There were visitors present from many councils in this state and Rhode Island and also a member from New Jersey.

B'RAI BRITH

The Rose of New England auxiliary, No. 40, and the Rose of New England lodge, No. 398, held their second cultural programme, Thursday evening in the Buckingham Memorial. The programme which follows was arranged by Mrs. Herman Sears, chairman for the evening:

Welcome, Sister Betty Pasnik; Invocation, Monitress Bessie Smith; Music, America, by all; Reading, A bit of old New York, Sister Pasnik; Solo, Sister Sara Trattenburg, accompanied by Sister Manes and Brother D. Tractenburg; Reading, Ideas of Work and Workingmen, Sister Emma Sears; Music, Hatikva, by all; Music, Trio, Brother Alex Pasnik, David Tractenburg, Sister J. Manes.

One act play presented by the following:

"Modes and Manners"

Gertie Gay, a saleslady in the Makemuch millinery dept., Mrs. E. Tractenburg; Mary Mocker, a saleslady in the Makemuch millinery dept, Miss Lee Shershevsky; Miss Ann Thorpe, who needs no label, Mrs. E. Smith; Miss Waver, a typical shopper, Miss Augusta Shershevsky; Miss Mabel Waver, her friend, Miss Anna Rabinovitch; Mrs. Eminence Blont, a modern mother, Mrs. A. Manes; Francesca Blount, the latest thing in daughters, Mrs. A. W. Curland; Miss Optimist, a humorist unafraid, Mrs. Rose Markoff; Mrs. Daniel Cheery, an old fashioned lady, Mrs. Simon Mandell. All characters portrayed their parts very well and won great applause from the onlookers.

The programme concluded as follows: Recitation, Brother Max Hanover Poem, Women, Elkin Smith; Sketch, Brother Kersh; Remarks by Brother President A. Schwartz; Song, Star Spangled Banner, all.

After the programme ice cream and home made cakes were served by the ladies.

President Sister Pasnik presented to Mrs. Alexander Manes, in behalf of the other sisters from the auxiliary, a beautiful Menorah for her good work and able assistance. Mrs. Pasnik said in a few words that the sisters wishing to show their appreciation were presenting Sister Manes with this remembrance. The next cultural programme will be taken care of by the men's lodge.

FORESTERS OF AMERICA

Chief Ranger Joseph C. Callahan presided at the regular meeting of Court City of Norwich, No. 62, Foresters of America, on Tuesday evening when several applications for membership were read and referred to the different committees. The by-laws committee reported that the new by-laws had been printed and distributed to the members and as their work was completed they were discharged. Several changes have been made and they are to go into effect April 1st. Among the communications read was one stating the condition of the order throughout the state and one announcing the state convention to be held in Waterbury May 12 and 13.

The following delegates were elected to attend the convention: Joseph C. Callahan, F. J. Murtha, Henry Clement, Edward McNerney, George B. Fox, Robert Chapman and J. R. Portelance, Jr. The alternates are: William H. Callahan, C. J. Downes, James H. Casey, George Clement, William LaFage, Joseph Cormier and Elroy Bolduc. Considerable discussion took place relative to permanent headquarters and it seemed to be the opinion of the members that headquarters should be secured and with that end in view a committee was appointed and they will meet the first of next week for organization and to perfect plans for this campaign, and it is expected that the committee will receive the earnest co-operation of all of the members in this undertaking.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

The regular meeting of Sedgwick Corps, No. 16, was held Friday afternoon at Buckingham Memorial with the president, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, in the chair, when the usual reports were read and approved. The charter of the corps was draped in memory of Emma Stark Hampton, senior past president of the National W. R. C. The American creed was repeated.

An invitation received from Sedgwick Post to attend a camp fire, April 8 at Buckingham Memorial was accepted by the corps. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock. It was voted to conduct a rummage sale and a supper, the last of the month and a masquerade social the latter part of April.

The meeting closed with the salute to the flag and the singing of America.

GALES FERRY

A business meeting of the Village Improvement association was held in the Country club house, Monday evening at 8 o'clock with a good attendance. The president, the Rev. Allen S. Bush, presided, preceding the election. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Everett Noyes.

D. R. Povey reported for the entertainment department, on the birthday party of the association March 17, and announced an entertainment to be held after Easter. The treasurer, Walter M. Buckingham, gave his annual report, audited by Miss Jennie G. Perkins. A vote of thanks was extended Mr. Buckingham for his work in behalf of the association. Rev. George Smith Brown was elected to membership. The president named Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, Everett Noyes and Walter T. Clark, a nominating committee. Upon their report the following were elected to office: President, D. R. Povey; vice president, Rev. George Smith Brown, Mrs. Everett Noyes; secretary, Walter M. Buckingham; treasurer. The newly elected president, not desiring to accept the office, resigned, and the former president, Rev. Allen S. Bush, was continued for another year. Volunteers for spreading gravel on the sidewalks were asked to meet on Saturday afternoon of this week, at 2 o'clock. The possibility of having a water supply for the village was discussed and an investigating committee of three was named, Rev. Mr. Brown, D. R. Povey and Walter M. Buckingham.

The Methodist church, has no services Sunday, March 29th, as it is Conference Sunday.

The grammar school, Miss Evelyn E. Whipple, teacher, is having the spring vacation of one week. The pupils perfect in attendance for the month of March were: Ruth (excused once), Barbara Burdick, Joseph DeRusha, Helen DeRusha, Eleanor Smith, Anna Mae Duffy, Jay Price, Rose Norcross, Robert Allyn, William McNaught.

Perfect for the term: Eleanor Smith, Robert Allyn.

The primary school, Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt, teacher, that had a vacation last week, continued also this week, owing to the prevalence of whooping cough.

A field of about four acres, near the village, formerly a part of the Harlan A. Newbury estate, now the property of his daughter, Mrs. Latham E. Smith, is being plowed and put in condition for the planting of an apple and peach orchard.

Mrs. Frank A. Aplin, who has been a week in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Irwin, returned the first of the week.

Horace Taylor and grandson, Harold Taylor, of Westerly, were the guests, Monday, of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Avery Main.

About five acres of pasture land was burned over on the farm of Edmund B. Lewis at Allyn's Point on Sunday afternoon. Deputy Fire Warden D. R. Povey was called and others responded from the village and the fire was gotten under control by the use of savins, to beat it out. It was stated that the fire started from a cigar stub thrown from a passing automobile.

Miss Ethel Woodward, from Connecticut Agricultural College, Storrs, was a caller in this place Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Lewis and son Edmund, Jr., who motored to Santa Fe, Mexico, about six months ago, returned Monday to their home at Allyn's Point.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Brooks of Hartford motored here Sunday, to the home of Mrs. Brooks' mother, Mrs. Delphine Fish. Mrs. Fish returned to Hartford with them that afternoon to spend some time.

The song sparrow is now heard at Gales Ferry and robins and blue jays have arrived. Wild geese are seen and heard honking on their journey to the north.

NOANK

A number of the members of Washington Cuncil No. 7 of the village went to Norwich, Wednesday evening to visit Buckingham Council, No. 15, who were putting on the degree. There were twenty-eight initiated and nearly three hundred men present. Those who went were Fred Buddington, Wilfred O'Brien, Walter Wolverton, Elbert and Robert Palmer, Charles Oles, John Bentley, Halstead Brown and Elbert Rathbun and Lloyd Brown.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

The Path in the Sky

The woods were dark and the night was black,
And only an owl could see the track:
Yet the cheery driver made his way
Through the great fine woods as if it were day.

I asked him, "How do you manage to see?"
The road and the forest are one to me."
"To me as well," he replied, "and I Can only drive by the path in the sky."

I looked above, where the tree tops hail
Rose from the road like an ebon wall,
And lo! a beautiful starry lane
Wound as the road wound and made it plain.

And since, when the path of my life is drear
And all is blackness and doubt and fear,
When the horrors of midnight are here below
And I see not a step of way to go,
Then, ah! then I can look on high,
And walk on earth by the path in the sky.

—Amos R. Wells.

An Easter Anthem

Go forth to the mountain with shouts of Hosanna
Sing aloud the joyful tidings, and be not afraid,
For the glory of God has shone o'er mount Zion.
And lo her great King cometh in majesty arrayed.

The beauty of Carmel and Sharon shall gather.
To brighten the path that the Monarch shall tread,
His hand holds the scepter of Judah in triumph.
The crown of the victor enriches His head.

He cometh from Edom in royal apparel
In greatness of strength He is mighty to save.
On earth He hath wrought out a perfect salvation
He has risen victoriously over the grave.

Come not with the perfume or spice of anointing
Seek not in the tomb for Messiah today.
Lo, Angels the tidings have brought, He is risen.
The stone from the door has been rolled away.

Unfold ye gates of glory your radient portals
Join ye Angles of light in glad triumph the strain
To praise Him who suffered who died and has risen
Our Savior immortal in glory to reign.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

BEE: Letter sent as requested.

LORINDA: Card sent as requested.

GOLDEN MOON: Name recorded as changed.

POTLATCH: The flowers from the Corner garden started 14 years ago are thoroughly appreciated.

PEDESTRIAN: Letter sent as requested.

WHIRLWIND: Card forwarded as directed.

BALSAM FIR: Matter attended to.

QUEENIE: Your name has been added to the Social Corner. If the slight change—made to avoid conflict—is not satisfactory select another.

N. B. G.: Your name has been listed as a Corner Member. Pen name selected belongs to another so please make another choice.

NEVER FORGET THE SCHOOL-DAYS

Dear Corner Members: I will try and write a few lines again to help keep the Corner full as it is a pleasure to see it full and overflowing. The first thing I want to thank the one that sent me the pretty calendar if it is not too late. I have it hanging up where I can see it every day.

We are having some very nice days just now a reminder that spring is nearby. I think the peeping frogs seem the most like spring of anything and they have been heard several times. Someone spoke about old schooldays. I can remember well when I first went to school I was about four years old and remember that I went from one bench to another in school time and the teacher didn't say anything to me. There was one good woman that most always came out with her apron full of apples, and didn't they taste good! It seems but a dream now to look back to those good old days so free from care. I often look at children and think they are taking a lot of bomfort and don't realize it. I always remember one of the teachers that taught when I went to school. He would take my book when I recited and when I took my seat I would find a piece of candy inside. Such things like that you never forget.

I want to speak about the recipe that I sent in for the two egg sponge cake. I guess the sister who spoke of it thought I must have a queer way of cooking with out flour, but if she will put in two small cups of flour she will have a pretty good cake.

Anna Z: Hope you are feeling better.

Historian: Where have you gone? You don't write. Little too early to go to the beach.

Free Air: One more puff and I guess I would have blown away after reading your letter. It doesn't bother me if some one is all through housecleaning. That is their good luck but I keep right on smiling.

I will close off and give some one else a chance.

With all the best luck to all.

SOCIAL CORNER PINS

Following a manifest desire on the part of the Social Corner members for an inexpensive pin that will indicate Corner membership, The Bulletin has obtained a supply for distribution among the members.

The pin is one which has met with the endorsement of members in the various clubs and through Corner letters. It is round, seven-eighths of an inch in diameter, with a yellow background and Social Corner in black letters.

The pins will be distributed to those members who want them and who indicate their desire for such in their letters written for the Corner page.

SOCIAL CORNER EDITOR

GREETINGS FROM THE FAR NORTHWEST

Dear Corner Folks: One does not wish to be considered a slacker—and yet it looks as though I may be one. I could make many excuses, but the main one is I have been having such a jolly time petting my right arm, which has been foolish enough to have a touch of neuritis for some time. It is anything but Neu-now, so will call it eldritus and just forget it for a short time and say hello to the Cornerites.

We are surely growing in numbers, and some have gone on down the trail. Many more are nearing God's Sunset, but not one is forgotten, and we are, 15 years old this March! The Corner has been of interest to me and found me a few dear friends who were lost after so many years away as I left my native state, old Connecticut many years ago. The Corner letters are ever interesting and full of useful suggestions and recipes. I wish to thank the Corner Member for the pretty calendar I received—The Old New England Home.

I am not going to write a long letter this time, but have a little chat with you all this beautiful morning. The sun is shining bright over the waters of Puget sound and the snow caked mountains are beautiful as the sun shines upon them.

Mt. Rainier especially. I wish you all could see the grand works of Mother Nature out here. We sure are blessed with its beauty on every side of us. We have had a wonderful winter. Although the first of December we had a snow storm and two weeks of very cold weather for western Washington.

There are many flowers blooming here now, the early varieties. And the meadowlarks are singing, telling us life is beautiful even though we must pass under its shadows some times. We can understand we have many hard lessons to learn, as we journey along life's path way, knowing God's laws are always good and never change.

I would love so well to come and join you in your Social clubs, but many times my thoughts are with you, especially with the few I know, Who is who. So let me shake hands with those old pals. How are you Joan, Balsam Fir, Rural Delivery, Crimson Rambler, Bo-Peep, Pekay Anne, Aunty No. 1, Kentucky Wonder, Sally Sycamore and Papa's Boy? Now I am going to bow to the rest of you, so many of you, — all strangers—yet Corner Tillicums.

To the editor I say, "I thank you."

GREETINGS FROM ANNA Z

Dear Sisters: The man of the house is sick abed with a very bad cold so think I will write a letter as I have to stay at home.

Bon Ami: Am wondering if you live in Manchester, the town where it is made?

Bud: You say you have my number. I guess I will have to do some guessing before I get yours. Couldn't you give me a hint or two?

Peggy Anne: You can tell Mrs. P. that I went to school to her at Tobacco street school and the school by the Baptist church and also at one time at her house. Tell her I was the little dunce that never could remember any thing. She was my first teacher and the only one that ever whipped me with a lead pencil on the hand. How it hurt and how I did cry, and I didn't know what was hurt the most my hand or my heart. Now if they can't guess I can tell some more yet.

Rural Aunty: I am better thank you but not as good yet as I wished I was. But am in hopes to get down that way again sometime.

Crimsonn Rambler: I think you will get a letter soon.

Mavis: Were you surprised to see me? I see one sister was asking who wanted pins. For one I would like very much to have a nice pin but guess they are not welcome for some reason as no one has anything to say on the subject, I think it would be very nice for there are so many sisters we would be sure to meet one now and then.

Since the roll call how every one has taken so much more interest and shown more activity than ever before! And we always have such a nice full page. I see there aren't many of the sisters who put down the town they live in. I think it is so much more interesting to see the town for the sisters seem to be every where.

MARCH

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Individual cakes can be made for March decorated with aries (the ram) the sign for this month and made in the following manner: Cream together 3-4 cup of butter and one of graulated sugar, add four eggs beating them in one at a time, one cup flour in which one teaspoon of baking powder has been sifted, a dash of salt, preferred flavoring. Bake in fancy shapes and ice in white. Decorate each cake with a single violet, the month flower, and if the cake is made pointed tip each point with a violet and the zodiac sign, the sign and flower and stems in green and the violet in purple shades.

The stone March is a blood stone.

PETERKINS.

GIVING AN EASTER PARTY FOR LESS THAN $10

Dear Corner Members: An Easter party is one of the prettiest affairs for children, and is sure to prove the most enjoyable coming as it does midway between the summer and winter holidays. With a little planning a small amount of money may be made to go a long way toward giving the little folks a good time.

In the case I have in mind the invitations were put inside a little white box containing a tiny chicken and on his neck was tied a card bearing the invitation to attend the party at such a date.

What is needed is 1 dozen paper mache napkins, $1.20 prizes $1, candy and nuts $2, chickens for invitations 50 cents, refreshments $3, eggs for three dozen I manufactured from cotton and wool with small stone in the center of each to give it weight. These I manufactured for a "hunt". Prizes for the one who won were lolly pops.

Take a sheet and place on this a likeness of a big bunny standing on its haunches with its mouth wide open. Stretch this across the room and they can have great sport by taking a basket containing the number of wool rugs and letting children try to "feed" bunny by standing on a given line and throwing eggs into his mouth. Allow 12 shots to each one and at the close of the game, the child who has been most successful was given a rabbit pin cushion for a prize. These I made from a rabbit with crepe paper filled with cotton. They are certainly unique.

Now take 12 Easter pictures and paste them on light weight cardboard and cut into irregular pieces. These puzzles were distributed among the children and 20 minutes was given in turn in trying to piece these together. To the guest who first completed her puzzle was awarded a daintly framed picture suggestive of the Easter season.

This is pretty for the table. A little chariot, shaped like half of an immense egg-shell and drawn by six fluffy yellow chickens. The driver of the chariot was an imposing white rabbit sitting very erect and holding the white ribbon reins and tiny whip with a truly coachman-like air. Yellow shade candles shed a soft light over the table, and at each plate have a rabbit wearing a big yellow bow.

These bunnies you can make from paper mache and fill with nuts and candies.

Refreshments can be of cocoa, oval shaped egg and chicken sandwiches on a bed of lettuce. Cocoa is served in dainty china cups. Have your ice cream molded in the shape of an egg and have little oval cakes with yellow icing.

Easter songs and a story brought the happy afternoon to a close and when at last the little guests departed they declared they never had a better time.

Of course these games are old fashioned but I haven't read anything any better. Have you?

A FINE DAY AT LEBANON

Dear Members All: Last Thursday was too late to write and tell you of the gala days before and have it get in Saturday's paper, so here I come new.

When sister called up and asked if I could go with her to Lebanon, wasn't I delighted, for we had wanted to go always.

Her hubby took us to Willimantic, where we took bus to Lebanon, and arriving at the store we went on foot over to the church which did not look to be far aff, but we learned was a mile distant, and what fun we had.

Oh! what a welcome was given us, by Olga, Lonesome Pine, Chore Girl, and Don't Worry, who were some of the hostesses.

Such a dinner, and oh so attractive, baked beans, cold meats, salads galore, escalloped potatoes, macorni, a fine Mexican dish, pickles, conserves, cakes, pies and coffee.

After dinner we found out "Who was who," and Damoris, I'm glad you found out too, for a few years ago, Roxanna. Wince had same desire to meet me you had. Ha, Ha.

I must write you, so we can finish the conversation we were having when the car came. Father is interested in it, as I told him your really truly last name.

After the social hour, followed the program, of readings, music and stories. It is a never to be forgotten day, and I congratulate Lebanon, on its cordiality, fine dinner and your perfect organization.

Let me tell you, sisters, their secret. Everyone was ready to take hold and help, when the first guests ladies were through and the second set, a new corps of waiters came on to help, also some one in the kitchen all of the time, so when ready for the program everyone was ready.

I think Calla Lily would appreciate such support after her years of effort.

Some Norwich sister I see thought she'd lost my address. I'll look it up and send.

Hear the rest of my story now. In case you go to Lebanon, busses leave at one and six P. M. unless you make special arrangements. So when we left the bus, it was the first time we knew our return was six instead of four P. M. We trusted to luck, and we surely had it. Thanks to Don't Worry, she took us to Williams' Crossing, where we had a pleasant chat. The Willimantic trolley came and we arrived in Willimantic, after all our anxieties one half hour ahead of time and met several Willimantic sisters on the street.

You see we made more changes on this trip than going to Europe, and it was fully repaid in pleasure, and kindnesses.

Some surprised Aunt Sarah, to know Don't Worry, married your son. I'm wondering if he remembers me at W. H. S.

When you meet again, we shall be with you in mind at Lebanon.

Wish sisters who made conserve and Mexican dish would send in recipes, also for some of those delicious salads.

We are glad each week to get a report in the paper about Red Clover. I shall write her again soon.

Love and sympathy to those in sorrow.

As ever,

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY.

THE FIRST PEACOCK I EVER SAW

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: We have been quite interested in those reminiscence stories of childhood days given by the sisters recently in the Corner page. I am reminded of an incident which occured in my early life. When I was about seven years old my people lived on the outskirts of the city, and about a mile farther on lived a family named Hubbard, who were well-to-do farmers. They had a fine house, nice barns, and quite a good supply of stock. Among the fowls, that were kept on this farm was a peacock, which was about as rare to find in those days as it would be in these times. I had heard great stories about the wonderful plumage of a peacock, and had seen pictures of them in my reading book. Of course my curiosity was aroused to see a "live" peacock, so after some persuasion, my father took me over to Mr. Hubbard's house. I remember, so well, it was a summer morning. When we got there, the peacock was nowhere in sight, but as Mr. Hubbard was out in the front yard, (and my father being well acquainted with him) he told him the object of our call. I distinctly recollect how Mr. Hubbard told us that the peacock was shedding his feathers at this season, and that his tail was all gone, and that he was so proud and vain, he kept in some hiding place. However, Mr. Hubbard took us out to the wagon shed, and he went in and drove the peacock out from under a cart, where the bird was all alone. Sure enough the peacock was minus the tail feathers and I was somewhat disappointed in not seeing its principal beauty.

Mr. Hubbard was very kind and considerate to explain to me, a child, the habits of this unusual bird, and that when the new tail feathers were grown out, he would strut around in the front yard where he could be seen, and that he considered himself so superior to everything else on the farm. For all, that Mr. Peacock was so vain, he had other good qualities, for he made a peculiar noise that frightened hawks, or any thing that would do harm to little chicks; thus he protected their safety. This is the first peacock I ever saw, (and never saw many since then) but I have thought there are some lessons we can learn about false pride and vanity. In the Morgan Memorial, on Main street in Hartford, may be seen a beautiful specimen of a mounted peacock. There it stands in full plumage, its long tail feathers spread like a wonderful fan, resting on the floor. Perhaps from our point of view the peacock may be justified in its pride over all others in the feathery race.

Best wishes to all.

DOING OVER OLD FURNITURE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: First let me thank the editor for admitting me to the Corner and also for my pen name. What's in a name?" I certainly felt I was a full fledged member when the birthday cards began to come. I thank you all so much for the kind thought of me.

When the editor started the roll call, I noticed some didn't respond at once and I though now I will be prompt when my name is called. I guess I am the very last. Present! I am trying to do so many things this spring in the way of doing over old furniture that Ma of Greene Gables has gotten way ahead of me. I thank her for wishing I were done. I had an old dresser with the old veneering on it and it looked like a wreck when I brought it from the garret with lots of the veneering gone. But it must be fixed. First I took off coat after coat of varnish, with "bull dog" varnish remover, then I rubbed it down with steelwool and varnished; wiped off dust and then the veneering came. How was I to remove it from an old picture frame. I tried various ways at last I took a dripping pan and put it on the stove with boiling water, it soon loosened and I had the whole sheets to work with. You can cut it with shears. I took paper and creased on bad places and got my pattern of places I wanted to fill in and used iron glue. I varnished it and rubbed it down again and it looks pretty good. I am much pleased with my effect. Also took varnish from an oak chiffonier and that is as good as new. The porch chairs are being done over now. I congratulate Ma of Green Gables on being thorough. I'll try and do better next year.

I am so sorry for the dear sister that had the fall at Franklin hall. What a pity there hadn't been something at the stairway for protection! May God comfort her in this time of need. Human sympathy is good, but Divine aid is better. May she have both. We were there in our day. I would suggest a cake each month. Let us stop and count our blessings. Do you know of any paper that gives what we are getting—a full page—not once a month, but once a week? Some one will say she is a new member and better keep quiet but my happiest moments have been when I had something to give to some one else.

Long live the Corner.

WAYS TO USE RICE

Dear Cornerites: Those who cook will be interested in these ways of using rice.

Chocolate Rice Pudding: Scald 1 cup of milk, add to it one third cup washed rice and a pinch of salt. Cook together until rice is soft. Remove from the fire, add one tablespoon of butter, one half cup of sugar. One finely shaved quarter of chocolate and one half teaspoon of vanilla. Stir until well blended, then fold in the stiffly beaten white of one egg pour into buttered baking dish. Bake until firm in a moderate oven.

Try these for luncheon. Use equal parts of mashed potato and minced meat (any kind). Have the potato warm (you can make it of warmed over potato.) Season well and add one beaten egg. Make into balls, dust in flour, fry in deep fat.

Rice With Tomato: Put one can of tomato in a double boiler, add 3 tablespoons of real well washed rice, tablespoon of green chopped pepper, 1 teaspoon of onion, 2 teaspoons of sugar, 1 teaspoon salt. 1 tablespoon butter and cook about two hours.

Puff Ball Doughnuts: 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 pint of milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 heaping teaspoons of baking powder with flour enough to permit the spoon to stand in the mixture. Beat well until light and drop by spoon into boiling fat of some kind.

These are all tried recipes.

IMOGENE GRAET.

TOBACCO DUST FOR ASTERS

Dear Social Corner Readers: One of the writers last feek, (I think it was Student,) asked for the best way to raise sweet-peas and asters. I had no luck with sweet peas but asters I did have success with, but find a little advice given by an old florist of great help. Mix plenty of tobacco dust with soil of bed and scatter it among flowers, several times. It can be bought at seed stores. I got mine at Barstows. Five pounds will go a good ways. It is good for all flowers, but larkspur; never put it around that. It keeps cut worms from pansies. Hope you have good luck with your flowers. It is my fad just now, with pansies and gladioli my favorites and columbines a close third.

BECOMES CORNER MEMBER

Dear Social Corner Editor: May I join the fast filling ranks?

Although I have never attended any of the meetings I have always been very much interested in the Social Corner.

Though I know I can never write the interesting letters so many of the members do, I will do my best to be helpful and entertaining if I may be allowed to became one of the crowd.

Was especially interested in Aries letter as I am an Aries subject myself, March 27th being my birthdate.

Before writing more will wait and see if the "welcome" on the mat is meant for me.

Will sign myself,

N. B. G.

OFFERS DAILY DOZEN FOR REDUCING

Dear Members of the Corner: As it's some little time since I have written I'll just write a few lines to keep in practice. I was very glad to see in the Corner lately so many old members saying welcome to the new members as I am a new member of a few months. It somehow gives one a good and joyous feeling to know we are welcome to such a large family.

Quite a few weeks ago some member sent in a diet for reducing. Now if some of the sisters think a great deal about the good things to eat and hate to give them up, I can tell them of a little daily dozen that will make slender lines, eat or no eat. Just a matter of 15 minutes a day. Is it worth while? If any member thinks it is say the word and I will send it along to the Corner. Just a few minutes a day will take many inches away, simple and easy.

Here is a cake recipe that is found in the Bible and which is very good.

Scriptural Cake Recipe: 4 1-2 cups 1 Kings IV-22 1 cup Judges V-25 (last clause), 2 cups Jeremiah VI-20, 2 cups I Samuel XXX-12, 2 cups Nahum III-12 cut in pieces, 2 cups Numbers XVII-8 chopped, 2 teaspoons 1 Samuel XIV-25, 6 of Jeremiah, 1-3 cup of Judges IV-19 (last clause), 2 teaspoons of Amos IV-5. Season to taste of II Chronicles XI-9 (Will keep indefinitely.)

Best wishes to the Corner. May the page be filled in the future as we see it now each week. With such helpful things.

IN THE MAKING OF COFFEE

Dear Social Corner Friends: I hope those who go to the Better Homes exposition this week in the state armory will enjoy it as much as I did this afternoon.

About three weeks ago there was a demonstration for better coffee by the tricolator, or pure food method and the result was the best coffee beverage ever brewed. The tricolator is something like a percolator but the coffee strainer is perforated only at the bottom and these holes are covered with an oval parchment paper on which the finely ground coffee (a spoonful allowed for each cup intended) are put on for the pot, which for best results should be chipa and not metal. The cold water in the coffee should be briskly boiling as it is poured over the finely ground coffee beans and allowed to drip into the coffee pot but the water must not run through the ground coffee but once. The grounds and the fats or oil from the beans which are indigestible and injurious to some people are thrown away and the result is a pot of coffee clear of all sediment, a bright golden brown in color and the aroma and taste is delicious. The aroma of coffee is developed from the fats in coffee which must be burst and released by furiously boiling water else the aroma is lost. The tannin in coffee like the tannin in tea is increased by allowing the substance to stand too long in the liquid. Caffeine is the usual name for the tannin in coffee.

This week I started to help in house cleaning but my hands chapped and hurt so I had to give it up. Perhaps it is too cold yet in early morning and I guess the soap was helping the mischief so I bathed my hands in a little olive oil and then I held my hands in water as warm as I could stand it and the oil and heat penetrated and softened the skin so that they were comfortable in a very short time.

I want to tell you what a pretty scarf can be made with beads following a motif stamped on the two ends but I will leave that for another letter.

It is fine to see so many new members coming in and I guess we would all be made happy to see their letters also coming in with the letters of the older members.

The more the merrier! I see we have had our fifteenth anniversary.

ALOISE JANET.

RECIPES BY WEE WEE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: It is rather late to answer present to the roll call, but they say better late than never.

Last year I had a cold and could not attend Club No. 1's anniversary. Had to disappoint Theoda for I could not help at the February meeting Theoda comes along and says I want you to help me in March at the 15th anniversary. But it was the same old story I was sick and could not help. Could not even go.

Now I think that is a joke on me for as a rule I am very well. It was a great disappointment to have to miss the good times we always have.

I wish to thank the sisters who sent me cards.

I have been asked to send recipe for Grape Nut Bread: 2 cups of sour milk, 1 cup grape nut, soak in milk ten minutes, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 cup sugar. 1 egg, 4 cups flour, 4 teaspoons of baking powder. This is just as good with sweet milk but only use a little soda.

Rice Pudding: 2-3 cups of rice, 2 quarts of milk, 1 1-4 cups of sugar, 1 cup of raisins, salt, nutmeg, little cinnamon. When pudding is nearly done take from oven, let cool a bit, then add 3 eggs, return to oven and brown.

Cracker pudding, 2 1-2 quarts of milk, 1 cup sugar, 3 eggs, 5 crackers rolled, bits of butter on top, salt.

Best wishes to one and all.

WEE WEE (July 25.)

IN DAYS THAT WERE AT YANTIC.

Dear Social Corner Folks: There seems to be a few of the Corner who once lived in Yantic and who are still interested in hearing of the years ago so I venture once more to write.

N. O. T.: I think you have me by quite a few years as your playmates might indicate. Arthur and Bill Bennett were men when I was but a boy and I well remember Bill Bennett with one cheek sticking out with a mouthful of tobacco (for he used to eat it) sending me to old Mr. Keables for a round square, and Joe Blicq, who used to make the pastry and candy for the village, joining in the fun. At that time Henry Dobson, Arthur and Elmer Gleason, John Parkhurst, Will Harrison, Lou Luffy, Dan Lyons, Charlie Carpenter, Edward and Lawrence Collins were what I considered big men.

Ed Collins is in Norwich and I see him often. You have my name among the list you mentioned but you see I was perhaps one of the saucy kids of your day so you paid little attention to me. I cannot say that I was first to introduce a lamp to William Backus, but he was using a candle when I first called on him. I induced him to let me bring in a small lamp. It was filled and lighted and as it didn't seem to burn just right he took the chimney by the top to remove it and pick the wick as he was used to the candle. I imagined it burned him for he said, "D——n that's hot," and I noticed he used the candle after that.

Joan: You are a few years ahead of my day as I remember only the Keables family and they lived on "Depot Street" known then by us boys as "Cat Alley," or "Cat Hollow."

Jack's Wife and Silent Partner were a few years ahead of my day and though I knew them could not call them playmates.

Calla Lily: I have your number also, but you don't come to our church very often.

As I am writing I hear J. E. T. has met with an accident being struck by two autos that came together in trying to dodge one another and pinned her against the wall.

UNCLE CHARLIE.

UNCERTAIN ABOUT SHORE LINE CLUB

Dear Social Corner Members: As I have not written in quite a while think I will just drop a few lines. Some one has asked that some of the members tell why they selected their pennames. I first took the name of Pansy, but afterwards noticed that another writer was using that name so I took my present penname thinking that perhaps would not be duplicated and I don't know that it has been. I think the club meetings must be very enjoyable for those who can attend but I live too far away to be eligible to any of them.

Bee has suggested a Shore Line club, but I doubt there being enough members in this locality to form a club as I know of no one who is a Social Corner member.

GREETINGS FROM PAPA'S BOY

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Brothers: I like a good rainy day to write letters, so I am taking today to write to our Corner.

Maple Leaf: I wonder if you are the sister I see go by every week and sometimes you have M. G. with you. She lives down below me on the right hand side in a white house. Am I right?

Gypsy: At the last meeting the man in uniform told me you and the other sister rode over with him. I was sorry not to be able to be with you again.

Polly Peppermint: Glad to hear you are recovering and I hope it will be fast for your sake.

Diamond: Better wait till good going before you try the country again. Catch on?

Rural Delivery: I owe the letter as usual. Cheer up, you will receive it as soon as I can get to it.

Gadabout: According to what I hear your name doesn't fit you right. Guess folks can find you at home all the time.

Jim: Congratulations! Some surprise.

Chelsea: I will be glad when your little girl can come up here and romp and play with some other little girls.

Triplets: Saw you on the trolley yesterday (Monday.)

Crimson Rambler: Did you get your radio when I saw you in the bus station? I think they are nice.

Enuf said for this time.

"PAPA'S BOY."

GREETINGS FROM E. L. M.

Members of the Social Corner: Well what a nice time you Lebanon sisters must have had at your club meeting! I hope Dorinda was able to be present.

Willing Helper: I wonder if I know you. Give us a clue.

A Certain Party: I had to laugh about the two friends you wrote about as I have some much the same. It surely seems the moderate may get more out of life but we are not of the same temperament and I know that some seem to get more fun out of rushing along although it may shorten their life. It can not be very agreeable to either for two of that kind to work together. It would be like hitching a quick horse with a slow one. With myself if I have anything to do I have to get it done and no matter how tired it makes me it would not be so bad as getting tired going at it in a slow way. How nice it would be to strike the happy medium.

O. D.: I mean to try your way of making pie crust but have forgotten every time until I have put the water in.

Ma of Greene Gables: Of course you are glad your house cleaning is all done and of course we all wish ours was. Once on a time I was as smart as you but that's a thing of the past, but it's not my fault. You will have some family to care for. What is the breed?

E. L. M.

YESTERDAY AND TODAY

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I want to thank some dear sister for the dainty calender sent me. It is sweet to be remembered and now I want to tell the memories the 20th of March recalls. That was the time when we children, my two sisters and myself had to go to bed as soon as it was dark. No sitting up by lamplight after that time. I remember how I hated to go, but my parents believed in the Franklin advice "early to bed and early to rise" etc. I guess it made us healthy anyway. And now the difference. Children are prowling around in this section till late in the night. Their parents never having a thought for them, where they are or what company they are in. Bad company has spoiled many a child or grown up, too. A little motto in my writing book at school "Keep good company and be one the number" made a lasting impression upon me.

Parents themselves are setting bad examples in many cases. If we only could have a few more well ordered homes and a little discipline enforced how much better many communities would be.

LORETTA.

ECA'S BROWN BREAD

Dear Social Corner Friends: I am glad I am one of the happy family.

Crimson Rambler: I sure had a lovely time at your home Saturday.

Savilla: Hope you and True Blue arrived home safely. Come and see me.

Maple Leaf: How is the arbutus? Is it blossomed yet? I to have a lovely rose bush. I am sending my brown bread recipe and I hope some of the sisters try it as I think it very good.

Brown Bread: 1 cup corn meal, 1 cup graham flour, 1 cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in milk, 1-2 cup molasses and fill cup up cold water, 2 tablespoon sugar and a little salt. Steam hard for one hour.

Best wishes to all.

RAISIN PIE

Dear Social Corner Members: At last I have found time to write.

Twice Twenty: I am sending the recipe I promised you at our dinner party at Bee True's.

Raisin Pie: 1 cup seeded raisins, 1 1-3 cups hot water, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, small piece butter, 1 tablespoon vinegar, pinch of salt. Boil together, cool and bake in double crusts.

Will someone please send in a recipe for a pineapple pie?

Peggy Alder: Is your son still making autos? I am coming up to find out someday.

Esmaralda: Do you think it is safe for me to come and see you again?

GYPSY WANDA.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: As I have attended several of the meetings at the Buckingham and like them very much, I would like to join. Will take for my pen name.

QUEENIE.

DATE CAKE AND MOCK CHERRY PIE

Dear Friends and Editor of Social Corner: To my mind the most beautiful season of the year, spring, is just around the corner and is always welcomed by everybody.

I am sending a recipe for

Date Cake: 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon of butter, 1 egg, 1 cup boiling water, 1 1-2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup nut meats 1 cup chopped dates, salt to taste. Sprinkle the soda over the dates and pour the boiling water over them. Let stand until cold, and then add to the other ingredients. Beat the whole together well and bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes.

Mock Cherry Pie: 1 cup cranberries (halved) 1 cup raisins, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, 1-2 teaspoon of vanilla. Baked open like a tart with whipped cream added, or between two crusts.

Good luck to all.

ECLIPSE.

SUGGESTS CHEER FOR RED CLOVER

Social Corner Sisters: Perhaps you would like to know that Red Clover is in Backus hospital with a broken leg. Perhaps if we could send cards to her she would enjoy a little cheer. We are very sorry she had such an accident. Our sympathy is extended to her. We won't forget to cheer her when we can.

Crimson Rambler: Make it a good days job when you come to see me. Don't forget it either.

Thought I would write a lot before spring cleaning and rush work come. I have begun already.

A happy Easter to you all.

DEARIE.

HOW TO WASH BLANKETS

Dear Corner Sisters: First I wish to thank Social Corner Member for the very pretty calendar she sent me at Christmas time—a kind thought and I appreciate it very much indeed.

I suppose lots of the sisters are starting in house cleaning and by what I read some are all finished. I've been thinking of it for sometime, but have decided to wait for warmer weather. But this is nice weather for washing blankets, and almost everybody has one or two to launder so will tell you how I do mine.

The first step is to make a rich suds as follows. Into the washing machine put three-fourths cup of mild soap flakes, pour over these a gallon of hot water, whisk the soap flakes into a rich lather, then add more hot water and sufficient cold water to make the suds luke warm. Now put the blankets into the suds and turn machine ten minutes. Turn the blankets and operate the washing machine until they look clean. Inspect them closely to see if any soiled spots remain; if any are found, rub soap directly upon the spots and work up and down until they disappear.

If one is not fortunate enough to possess a washing machine, the blankets may be washed in an ordinary wash tub. Work them up and down in the suds by squeezing or kneading motion, but never rub on a wash board, as that destroys the air cells in the nap of cotton blankets, and makes woolen blankets stiff and matted.

After they are clean rinse two or three times in clear soft water the same temperature as that in which they were washed. A tablespoon of glycerine put into the last water will make blankets soft and fluffy. Never wring blankets by twisting them; run through a loose wringer or squeeze dry with the hands.

It is best to hang over two lines as this allows for a free circulation of air.

Lucy Acorn: Was disappointed in not seeing you at the B. M. March 4th. I hope you weren't sick.

Best wishes to all.

MARIGOLD.

THE HOUSECLEANING PROBLEM

Dear Social Corner Members: How I would like to shake hands with you, Ma of Greene Gables as what you said in your last letter on housecleaning was just what some people need, as no matter what they say they all wish they were through I bet. For a good many years I had my house of a good many rooms all cleaned by March 15 and many times much earlier and many of my neighbors thought I was crazy but, as you say, when the nice days came I was able to get out and enjoy them before the extreme hot weather came, while some of those who thought I was a "little off" would be sweltering in a final clean up about May 30. Oh! what a good thing it is that we are not of all of the same mind in every thing and in every way for how monotonous and tame life would be. All the same, cleaning house is mighty hard work at the best and it is for each one to do it the easiest way at the most convenient time. What gets on my nerve is to see someone who has five or six rooms and probably no breakfast to get and with plenty of help from the man of the house make such a time over it while perhaps their neighbor has more than one meal to get at both breakfast and supper to suit the workers in the family and then clean a big house with very little help and not make half the fuss over it even though she is not near as strong as the woman who has ther few rooms. I have known of more than one case like this and I always wish those women had to change places if for only through one house cleaning time.

Billie: Your card received and when the opportunity comes I shall accept your invitation to call now you have given me your street and number. I am going to try your recipe for scalloped clams. I used to make a salad much like yours but used chicken instead of fish.

Tafts: I look the Corner page all over every week to see a letter from you. Nothing doing yet.

BEE.

CREDIT BELONGS ELSEWHERE

Dear Social Corner Editor: I think there has been a mistake in giving me credit for sending in a poem on the Devil. It certainly is a good one and I should like to have the member who sent it to have the honor. Hope I shall know before many weeks who it was and if it is anyone I am acquainted with.

Best wishes to all for a pleasant Easter.

ANNE D.

A RED LETTER DAY

Dear Social Corner Members: March 18th goes down on my calendar as a red letter day. A day full of surprises. First, surprised myself by thinking it at all possible for me to get to Lebanon. Another surprise when I asked Neighbo? Eveready if she could go and she said "No." Not like her you know but a little coaxing changed her mind. After we decided to go, how to get there was the question.

After much telephoning we found we could go from Willimantic by bus and we understood we could return at four o'clock. So we started on our way rejoicing. As we neared Lebanon we casually asked the driver what time in the afternoon we could return to Willimantic to which he replied, six o'clock. That was a big surprise for we expected to meet hubby in Willimantic at 4:30. However we were bound for the Baptist church and on we went. The mile walk from the postoffice just added the finishing touch to our appetites and the dinner we sat down to was wonderful. I ate so much I guess I really ought to be ashamed but the hostesses and everyone else gave us such a hearty welcome. I felt right at home. After dinner a very pleasing program followed and we did enjoy it so much.

We didn't have to worry at all about getting home. Don't Worry was there with her Dodge and very kindly took us to the trolley. So as we went to Willimantic and home. Many thanks to Don't Worry and the others who gave us such a good time.

Olga and Lonesome Pine: Next time we will come better prepared. I feel awful about it. Wish you would let me do what I wanted to. However, I know you won't proclaim it from the housetops.

A card sent to Rest Awhile would give her so much pleasure. Address Mrs. A. A. Cole, Hampton, Conn.

Best wishes to you all

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY'S SISTER.

SIGNS OF SPRING ALL ABOUT

Dear Social Corner Friends: Just a few lines this beautiful morning. The robins and bluebirds' sweet notes, along with the welcome caw of the crows, makes a body thoughtful they are living. I rejoice to be enjoying good health and only wish everybody else could. But I have not gotten housecleaning done yet. Only wish I had. I was pleased Ma of Greene Gables has hers out of the way.

The snow is going fast and the lake ice has begun to show signs of breaking up.

I wish you could go with me to the gulch where a body can stand on the level with the lake and look 25 feet below and see the silvery streams, trickling out of the bank looking like silver for they never freeze up.

I went out yesterday. It is about one-half mile from the house. The warm sun shone down on such a wonderful picture as no artist could paint with ever so much snow on banks thickly wooded with white pine.

It does seem good to get out into the woods again for it is the first place I think of going in the spring. Grass begins to look good and green.

You certainly are a very busy woman Grandma Gray.

Sorry to learn of our sister who is in the hospital but it is really the best place to be when a body is out of health. I am still busy with my patchwork.

Interested Reader: Do you hook rugs? I sure was delighted with my square. Ever so many letters to answer. Thanks for same.

Delilah Deal: You sure have my sympathy in your hours of sickness. Trust you will soon be over it. Only wish I lived nearer so I could help you. I would and don't you forget it.

Kochis: Your letters were fine. Do come again. I remember hearing my father tell about your home town. Sometime I will tell you about it.

Thank you, Rural Delivery, for favor.

No, Rosy Posy, I seldom get hurt when I tumble down but get a good shaking up though.

I must close as I am to visit my invalid friend today. Did not get my Courier of March 10th so cannot comment on letters. But did wish I had been with you on the anniversary.

Cretia: I trust you are not ill. You do not often write the Corner.

Evelyn Burr: How are you enjoying your new home? I always liked the location. Trust Mr. is much better now he is where he can work in the soil.

Trust that all are well as usual.

Keziah Doolittle: I have mislaid your address.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET FLUCTUATED

New York, March, 27—Stock prices opened firm, broke sharply before noon when selling pressure was renewed against the northwestern rails and standard industrials and then rallied sharply, closing quotations generally showing net gains ranging from small fractions to 2 1-2 points. The recovery was impressive in view of the fact that it was conducted in the face of another collapse in wheat prices and the heavy calling of brokers' loans which sent the call money rate up to 5 per cent.

The publication of the February earnings report of the Chicago and Northwestern, showing net operating income of $341,000 as compared with $1,298,394 in the corresponding month of last year, furnished another excuse for a bear raid on the Northwestern railroad shares. Chicago and Northwestern was hammered down nearly 4 1-2 points to a new low at 52 5-8, as compared with the year's high of 75 3-8, and then rallied about a point from the low. Omaha preferred broke 10 1-2 points to 88 on one sale.

Other railroad stocks to break through their previous resistance points were Canadian Pacific, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Chicago and Eastern Illinois preferred, Gulf, Mobile and Northern, Reading, Jersey Central and "Nickle Plate."

United States Steel common was depressed to a new low at 116 3-8 and then snapped back to 117 1-4, up 1-4. Baldwin crossed 114, broke to a new low at 10 3-4 and then rallied to 12 3-4, up 1 1-4 on the day.

Heavy accumulation of Pan-American B, based on the announcement that the first step towards the segregation of its Mexican properties had been taken, and rumors of an increased dividend evidently the curse to the market upward. Pan-American B stock was bid up from 74 3-4 to 79 and then slipped back to 78 where it was up 3 1-2 points on the day. Total transactions in this issue approximated 100,000 shares, or about one-twelfth of the day's business.

Substantial recovery was also registered by American Can, American Locomotive, General Electric, Dupont, Cocoa Cola, International Harvester, the Maxwell Motors issues, Savage Arms, Sears Roebuck, Closs Sheffield, Postum Cereal and Worthington Pump, all of which closed at net gains of about 1 1-2 to 3 1-2 points.

Laclede Gas soared 9 points to a record high at 172 and then yielded to 170 on profit taking. United States Steeling responded to the resumption of dividends by closing a point higher at 35.

Call money opened at 4 per cent., advanced to 4-12 and thence to 5. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

The foreign exchanges turned slightly reactionary in response to the increased offering of bills from European centers. Demand sterling fell back about three quarters of a cent to $4.77 1-2 and French francs eased to around 5.28 cents, substantial recessions took place in the Scandinavian currencies.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, March 27——Toppling down of prices in the grain markets today went to the extent of 7 1-3c. A bushel for what, as compared with 24 hours previous, Uneasiness over possible results of the government investigation about recent sweeping changes which values had undergone was apparently a leading factor in the persistent selling that broke prices anew. Wheat closed heavy, 1 1-3 to 7 1-8c. Net lower, May 157 1-4 to 157 1-2 and July 142 1-4 to 142 1-2, with corn 1 7-8 to 2 3-4c. off, oats 1 to 1 3-8c. down, and provisions showing losses ranging from 10 to 40 cents.

At first, the majority of wheat traders paid little heed to talk relative to government action which might develop from official conferences at Washington today concerning the wild movement of prices of late. On the contrary, attention here turned chiefly to continued unfavorable crop reports from the southwest and west and to the fact that Liverpool quotations were relatively higher than had been looked for. Indications, however, that wet weather would put an end to drought which had been menacing much of the domestic winter crop led soon to a material decline from the early advance which had been witnessed.

It was after mid-day before the wheat market gave way in earnest, and the execution of numerous orders to stop losses on the part of holders pointed to Washington reports as a chief disturbing influence at this stage. the descent of the market became rapid, with buying confined almost altogether to previ

THE WEATHER Conditions

The disturbance that was over Ontario Thursday night has advanced to Quebec. Pressure is relatively low east of Newfoundland and it is relatively high from Nova Scotia southward to Bermuda.

During the last 36 hours, showers and thunderstorms have occurred quite generally from the Mississippi Valley eastward.

Temperatures have fallen decidedly over the lower lake region, the Ohio valley and the interior of the Middle Atlantic states.

The outlook is for fair weather Saturday and Sunday in the states east of the Mississippi river, except that there will be showers on Saturday in New England.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic coast from Hatteras to Eastport.

Advisory storm warnings ordered 11 p. m., New England coast, Provincetown to Eastport. Disturbance over New Jersey increasing in intensity and moving north-northeastward will cause strong southeast winds tonight shifting to northwest Saturday.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook—Strong southeast shifting to northwest and weather overcast and rainy Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras—Fresh to strong northwest, and weather overcast and showery Saturday.

Forecast

Southern New England: Unsettled Saturday; probably showers in morning; slightly colder in northeast portion; Sunday fair.

GREENEVILLE

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's church held a meeting in the guild room on Thursday afternoon, with a large number present. Mrs. William Mabrey presided at the meeting, the afternoon being spent in sewing.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Andrew's church had a successful food sale at the People's Store on Friday morning at 10.30. Those in charge of the sale were Mrs. Edward Risley, Mrs. William Taft and Mrs. Fitch Dolbeare.

TAFTVILLE

The members of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor gave a very interesting entertainment entitled The Old Family Album, in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church, Friday evening. There was a large attendance to view the entertainment, which consisted of a series of tableaux. Miss Mary Tag gave was the reader who described the various personages as they were seen in the inner pages of the family album. Those taking part were Miss Elizabeth Houston, Miss Bertha Mosley, Miss Mary Greenhalgh, Miss Anna Krodel, Miss Selena Adams, Miss Mildred Yerrington, Miss Dorothy Hunt, Miss Edith Heap, Miss Betty Houston, Miss Melba Monty, Miss Fidelia Krodel, Miss Isabel Barritt, Miss Rachel Taggart, Fredrick Handy, Ralph Hunt, Laughlan Alexander, John Archibald, Victor H. Hanna, Jack Houston, Robert Schmidt and Irving Archibald. During the evening there was a piano duet by the Misses Mildred and Charlotte Hanna, and a piano selection by Miss Helen Lee. Harold E. Linderson played a violin number, accompanied on the piano by Miss Nellie S. Howie, organist at the church. After the tableaux, refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Helen Bogle, Mrs. Eugene N. Monty, Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis, Miss Bertha Monty, Miss Mary Greenhalgh, Miss Isabel Barritt and Miss Elizabeth Houston.

Fire Department, No. 2, responded to an alarm for a grass fire near Goyette's blacksmith shop on Norwich avenue, Friday morning.

Lenten stations of the cross and benediction of the blessed sacrament, composed the Friday evening devotions at Sacred Heart church.

John Kane of Norwich was a business caller in the village Friday.

George H. Young of North Third avenue and Harry E. Prentice of Norwich were visitors in Boston, Mass., Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis St. George of south second avenue are leaving today (Saturday) for Canada, where they will make their future home.

Mrs. Arthur Letendre of Norwich spent Friday at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lambert of North B street.

The cast that produced For the Love of Johnny to a standing room only crowd last Sunday evening in Parish hall, will present the play in St. Joseph's hall in Occum this coming Sunday evening. The players will probably be accompanied by many local people who did not have the opportunity of viewing the production last Sunday.

HEBREWS TO CELEBRATE OPENING OF UNIVERSITY ON MOUNT SCOPUS

Norwich Zion district perfected plans at a recent meeting at the Hebrew Institute for the celebration of the opening of the Hebrew university on Mount Scopus, Palestine. The general committee consists of Rabbi Max Stamm, chairman; Abraham Strom, treasurer; M. I. Silverman, secretary; Rabbi J. N. Rosenberg, Samuel Taylor, Michael Levine, Abner Schwartz, Max Hanover, Morris Sussman, Abraham Cramer, Aaron Gordon, David M. Gordon, Israel H. Mandel, Simon Rosano, Joseph Reichman, Samuel Kadish, Louis Rancher, David Pfeister and Simon Blum.

The celebration will be held at the Community House, Norwich, on Wednesday, April 1, at 7.30 p. m. Invitations were extended to Rose of New England Lodge, No. 898, Independent Order of B'nai Brith, Independent Norwich Lodge, No. 309, Independent Order of Brith Abraham, Hebrew Benevolent Association, Rose of New England Ladies Auxiliary, No. 46, I. O. B. B., Norwich Chapter of Hadassa, United Brothers Synagogue, Brothers of Joseph Synagogue, Young Men's Hebrew association and Young Women's Hebrew association.

Invitations were also extended to Mayor Milo R. Waters, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, Henry A. Tirrell, the principal of the Norwich Free Academy, Mr. Edward J. Graham, superintendent of schools, and Arthur E. Story, president of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce. All invitations were cordially accepted.

Dr. Abraham Tannenbaum, leader of the Young Judean of America, has accepted the invitation to come to Norwich and address the gathering. Dr Tannenbaum is an orator of national repute.

The music of the evening will be furnished by the Royal Italian band.

Abner Schwarts and Max Hanover were delegated to visit the heads of the local churches and invite them to include in their Sunday sermons a word about the significance of the opening of the Hebrew University in Palestine.

Similar celebrations will be held in almost every city in the United States and throughout the entire civilized world.

Facts About Hebrew University.

On the historic Mount of Olives, towering above Jerusalem and overlooking many of the most sacred localities in the Holy Land, the Hebrew university is being built as the climax of the Jewish homeland movement. The university, designed by Prof. Patrick Geddes, noted architect and town planner of the University of Edinburgh, is one of the principal projects of the Palestine Foundation Fund, the chief financial instrument for the rebuilding of Palestine. The fund draws its principal support from American Jews.

Many world-famous scholars have already joined the faculty of the university, whose first departments began to function a year ago, and whose latest college, the Institute of Jewish Studies, has just been opened under the presidency of Dr. Judah L. Magnes, a former well- known Jewish scholar of New York. Felix M. Warburg, American banker and philanthropist, contributed $100,000 toward the institute.

Dr. Albert Einstein, of relativity theory fame, heads the distinguished faculty. He will be a member of the science department as will Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist organization, and a noted chemist. Dr. Weizmann was chief of the high explosives laboratory of the British government during the war, rendering distinguished service to the allied cause.

The medical college and hospital of the university are being built by a group of American physicians, headed by Dr. Nathan Ratnoff, a noted New York obstetrician. The chemical and microbiological departments of the university have been functioning for about a year. A number of agricultural experiment stations, connected with the university, have made valuable contributions to the agricultural development of the country, which is the major activity of the Palestine Foundation Fund.

Dr. Albert Einstein says about the Hebrew University: "A university is a place where the universality of the human spirit manifests itself. Science and investigation recognize as their aim the truth only. It is natural, therefore, that institutions which serve the interests of science should be a factor making for the union of nations and men. Unfortunately, the universities of Europe today are for the most part the nurseries of chauvinism and of a blind intolerance of all things foreign to the particular nation or race, of all things bearing the stamp of a different individuality. Under this regime the Jews are the principal sufferers, not only because they are thwarted in their desire for free participation and in their striving for education, but also because many Jews find themselves particularly cramped in this spirit of narrow nationalism. On this occasion of the birth of our university, it is hoped that our university will always be free from this evil, that teachers and students will always preserve the consciousness that they serve their people best when they maintain its union with humanity and with the highest human values."

THE FIRE BY THE LAKE WAS SPEAKER'S TOPIC

The fifth in the series in the noon Lenten meetings was held Friday at the Y. M. C. A. the usual good number of men attending. Edmund A. Prentice presided at the meeting, Harold S. Burt offered prayer and Hugh Kinder rendered sweetly a vocal solo. Dr. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London gave the address on the topic, The Fire by the Lake. The speaker spoke in part as follows:

"Christ had risen from the dead and was appearing to his disciples at different places and times to give them their final lessons and the great proof of his abiding life. It was by the lake of Galilee that most of them had been called to follow him. They were very much at home there. Fishing was their work and their joy in the past. They went back to it now for a little while and we can well imagine with what peace the still hours of night on the water filled their hearts.

In the morning they saw the little glimmer of a fire on the distant shore. A human figure was dimly seen by it. A voice asked, "Children, have ye any meat?" They told their poor success. He told them to try again and the net was filled to breaking. They recognized their Master. In a few minutes all were with him and he gave them the breakfast his own hands had prepared for them. Then followed such conversation as could only be in such a company with such a Master.

By the fire in the palace Peter had three times denied that Lord. By the fire by the lake Christ three times asked him if he loved him. Three times in return for the most earnest avowals of love that Christ told him to feed his lambs, feed his sheep.

Greater than the fire was he who had kindled it. People are more important than things. And the greatest of all souls that ever walked in clay was there and so great a love had been shewn by him for us and all mankind, that all our lives may well be spent in showing by our thought and word and deed that we love him. So many lambs, so many sheep of his here in this world that need the tending and the feeding which his blest spirit alone can inspire human hearts and human hands to give. We need and have our share in that blest work, in his name and for his sake, because we too love him.

LOOK FOR RE-ELECTION OF WILLIAM J. MULLIGAN

The Knights of Columbus of Connecticut will hold the thirty-second annual convention in New Britain, on May 12th. The headquarters of the delegates will be at the Hotel Burritt and the delegates to the convention will assemble in the local Knights of Columbus hall. While the order has been in existence forty-three years, yet it is only thirty-two years ago since it began holding state conventions. State Deputy William J. Mulligan of Thompsonville will preside over the deliberations and due to the prominent place he holds in the order at large it is expected that he will be unanimously re-elected state deputy.

The national convention will be held in Duluth, Minn., the first week of August, when national officers will be elected. The forthcoming state report will show a large number initiated during the year as well as increased activity on the part of all subordinate councils.

Attended Eastern Star Meeting.

Miss Mary Dolbeare, Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Geer attended the meeting of Baldwin chapter, No. 85, O. E. S., at Deep River, on Wednesday evening, it being the visitation of the worthy grand matron, Helen I. Williams. Mrs. Crowe sang a beautiful solo which was enjoyed by all.

1,209 NON-RESIDENTS HAD THEIR LICENSES SUSPENDED

The right of 1,209 out-of-state operators to drive in Connecticut was suspended during the past year, according to announcements made at the state motor vehicle department. This was more than one-seventh the whole number of operators suspended by the department in 1924. Such suspensions were effected in different ways. In the case of non-resident drivers found to have operated motor vehicles in Connecticut in a manner raising a question as to their fitness to drive, the Connecticut department secured their suspension by the motor vehicle authorities of the states in which they were licensed, under reciprocity agreements that exist between many of the states. In other cases, where people residing out of the state held Connecticut operators' licenses, suspensions were made directly by the Connecticut department.

Connecticut motor vehicles figured in 459 accidents which occurred outside this state during the year, it is shown by the department records. Fifteen of these proved fatal. Two of these 459 accidents occurred in Canada, three in Maine, 199 in Massachusetts, 8 in New Hampshire, 6 in New Jersey, 131 in New York, 3 in Pennsylvania, 11 in Vermont, 1 in Virginia and 96 in Rhode Island. Reports of such out-of-state accidents are kept in the Connecticut operators' driving record file the same as is done with regard to accidents occurring within the state limits.

Non-resident owners registered 3,213 motor vehicles in this state during 1924, 2,813 of which were passenger cars and 405 commercial cars. Most of the non-resident registrations came from New York and Massachusetts.

NEW YORK PASTOR FOR UNION SERVICE PREACHER

The sixth in the series of union Sunday night services under the auspices of the churches and the Y. M. C. A., will be held in the Central Baptist church at 7.30 o'clock, when the sermon will be preached by a nationally known clergyman, Dr. William P. Merrill, who is the popular pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church of New York city. Dr. Merrill is not only an able pulpit orator but a writer of note, and Norwich is certainly highly favored in having a man of his abilities in the series of Sunday evening services. To this service the public is cordially welcome, and doubtless a very large congregation will greet Dr. Merrill.

STILL AND HOOCH ON FARM IN HEBRON

A 25 gallon still found concealed in the rear part of the cellar of the farm house of Raphael Glass of Hebron, 25 gallons of hooch and 50 gallons of mash was the evidence of his violation of the liquor law secured in a raid upon his place Thursday afternoon by Constable John M. Riley of Colchester and Federal Agents S. L. Briggs and W. S. Congdon.

Glass was fined $100 and costs, which he paid when he was presented before Justice of the Peace E. Anne Clark on the liquor violation charge.

Girls Say They Stole Here

According to a telephone message received from the Chicopee, Mass., police, two young girls, about 19 years of age, arrested in that city, claimed they stole goods in this city. The girls claimed that the dresses they were wearing were stolen in this city. No complaint of the theft of goods from local stores have been lodged with the police. It is understood the girls operated in Norwich, New London, Holyoke and Springfield.

Pipe used in connecting the oil fields of Barrabes Bermeja, Columbia, with Cartagena Bay, will weigh nearly 30,000 tons.

ALANSON P. LATHROP HEAD OF AMERICAN L. & T. COMPANY

The Commercial and Financial World, New York, in its issue of March 14th, had the following complimentary reference to a man of Norwich Town birth, Alanson P. Lathrop, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jabez Lathrop, of Washington street. The publication says:

An event of extraordinary interest at this time on account of its national character and general commercial importance is the annual report of the American Light & Traction Company, showing results of operations for the year ended December 31, 1924. In fact, it is no exaggeration to say that this statement is evoking more genuine interest in leading financial and industrial circles than any corporate announcement released since the first of the year.

The income statement shows net earnings of $4,827,715.52, as against $4,309,654.43 in the previous year. This large increase in earnings over the previous year was due to economies in management and to the increase in gas and electric sales. The total cubic feet of gas sold during the twelve month period amounted to 29,492,912,400, compared with 26,541,981,600 the preceding year. Electric sales last year were 146,467,070 cubic feet, as against 137,152,633 the previous year. The surplus and reserve account was also increased by $1,278,512.36 to $12,256,298.91. The income statement also shows the Company's cash position to be especially strong, with $1,266,590.23 on hand.

The excellent report of the American Light & Traction Company is much more favorable than that of any other public utility company which we have reviewed since the first of the year. This report is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that 1924 was not generally a prosperous year for business, many of the country's larger industrials showing severe reverses as a result of their operations in 1924. There can be only one explanation for the Company's excellent showing, and that is the high character and ability of its management.

So satisfactory have been the results of the year's operation and so favorable the position of the Company, that the Board of Directors, along with the regular preferred dividend, have voted a dividend of 1 per cent on the common, plus a stock dividend to holders of the common stock, at the rate of one share of common stock on every one hundred shares of common stock outstanding.

President Lathrop, has long been one of the outstanding leaders of American industry and it is hardly necessary to compliment him upon the high type of ability and the wise foresight he has displayed in the administration of the diversified affairs of the American Light & Traction Company but it is well to point out that, while he is the active and titular head of this great enterprise, the continuance of its activities along the most constructive lines is assured.

With its sound financial structure, its excellent cash position and the present healthy state of its business, the American Light & Traction Company will no doubt make a very impressive showing in 1925. And this is a most conservative estimate.

Alanson P. Lathrop is brother of Miss Helen Marshall Lathrop, of Norwich, now making her home in New London.

POTTER TOPS LIST IN FOX HUNTING SEASON

The fox hunting season closed March 15, as far as local fox hunters are concerned, and has been a fairly successful one for the followers of the sport.

The furs as a whole have not been up to standard for this section owing to a mild winter.

"Bill" Lathrop brought in the two best hides and was fortunate in getting them both the same day. He splits the honors of two in one day with "Mike" Pounch who was skillful enough to outwit two of the wily fellows one morning.

"Dusty" Miller leads in the number shot at as his team, Hunted and Daw, brought 7 of the red ones within shooting distance.

"Lew" Young was able to get to the woods only a few times during the season but he made a very good showing for the number of trips out.

"Rube" Potter admits he had a chance to make a double, one day, but failed to score on the first one, making a clean kill on the second however. He claims great credit in his score from the fact that his work interferred greatly with his hunting during the best of the season. He feels doubly pleased in spite of this great handicap to be able to head the list on the number of kills.

The score for the season is as follows:

	Shot at	Killed
Potter	6	5
Lathrop	5	4
Miller	7	3
Pounch	3	3
Young	3	3

The hunters will recount experiences of the season at their annual banquet and then lie low with their dogs until the season opens again on the first of October.

Ceiling Fell in School.

Two girls in a line coming down the stairs in Broadway school Friday as the scholars were passing out at noon were struck and slightly hurt when a small patch of plaster fell from the ceiling over the stairway. About 35 children were passing down the stairway at the time, but only two, Wanda Petuskey of the Falls and Fannie Nelkin of Franklin street, were injured, although most of them were sprinkled by the falling plaster.

When the Indian Government took over a number of railway lines this year, each line was split into four divisions and a divisional superintendent placed in charge, in place of the system of all management being from the central office.

NEW YORK WOMAN ADDRESSES MISSIONS DEPT.

The March meeting of the missions department of the Woman's guild of the United Congregational church, was held at the Community House, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The first hour was devoted to the making of surgical dressings for the hospital at Greenwood, S. C. At 3 o'clock there was a short business meeting at which routine matters were transacted.

Following the business meeting Miss Chase of the Home Missionary Society of New York city, was introduced as the speaker. She spoke very interestingly of missionary work in the south. Last summer she was a student missionary worker in the country districts of Georgia and she related some of her experiences in the southern state. At the close of the meeting tea was served by Charitable Circle.

DEGREE WORK, BANQUET AND FINE ENTERTAINMENT

Members of Franklin Council, No. 3, R. and S. M., enjoyed a rare treat at the Masonic Temple, Friday evening, when, after the work in the degree was completed, a fine turkey supper was served and a delightful entertainment program provided under the direction of T. I. M., Cladius V. Pendleton.

Work in the degree for the evening was started at the usual time and the lodge room was filled to capacity. At the conclusion of the work adjournment was taken to the banquet hall where a turkey dinner was served.

During the banquet Thumm's orchestra rendered a group of the latest popular dance numbers receiving hearty applause for their fine program. As an extra treat a short vaudeville program was carried out by Hartford entertainers. The Quigley Sisters appeared several times in song and dance numbers and proved themselves to be royal entertainers. C. L. Martel in whistling and song numbers made an instant hit and his impersonations brought forth well merited applause. The program by this group of entertainers was as follows: Rockabye Baby Days with encore numbers, Quigley Sisters; Somewhere a Voice is Calling, Marchetta, and an encore number, O Where's My Sweetie Hiding, whistling numbers by C. L. Martel; Hexham Rackum Daisy, song number, dance number and quick change dance number, Quigley Sisters; imitations, impersonations of a dope fiend, song ensemble, All Alones C. L. Martel and the Quigley Sisters.

Following the banquet and entertainment the members again met in the hall upstairs where another treat was in store for them, featuring quartet numbers by the Colonial Quartet of Hartford, soprano solos by Mrs. Josephine Koch and readings by Miss Dorothy McCormick. These numbers were rendered in fine voice and the artists were repeatedly recalled for encores.

The opening group, John Peep, Andrews; Juanita, Kratz; and The Musical Trust, Hadley, was interpreted by the Colonial Quartet, Maurice Wallen, first tenor; Raymond Grant, second tenor; Charles B. Beach, baritone and Harry Coe Olmstead, bass, who held their audience in these numbers as they did in the other selected groups that followed.

My Love Is a Muleteer, Dinegero, and The Wind's in the South, Scott; comprised the group sung by Mrs. Mrs. Josephine Koch, whose beautiful soprano voice and charm of presentation won her instant favor. As an encore, Mrs. Koch rendered The Answer.

The third group on the program was by the Colonial Quartet, and comprised three numbers, Beauteous Night, Offenbach; Suppositions, Lowden, and Absent, by Metcalf, after which Miss Dorothy McCormick kept her audience in almost continuous laughter with her clever impersonations during her recitations of An Idle Woman's Busy Day, Nora Has Her Picture Taken and Betty at the Baseball Game. As an encore number Miss McCormick favored with Mose Gets Religion.

The closing numbers of the program were This Is She, Rogers; Carry Me Back to Old Virginia, Bland Mrs. Koch and Colonial Quartet; and The Sextet, from Lucia de-Lammermoor, Donizetti, the last selection giving the quartet an opportunity to to show off to best advantage in nicely blended harmony.

WHAT THE Norwich Used Car Exchange, Inc., Is:

The NORWICH USED CAR EXCHANGE, INC., although essentially a used car market, has a vital interest in the new car buyer. It is owned and controlled by dealers of new cars and is in simplest terms one department of Norwich's largest retail business.

Heretofore the buyers of used cars have been subjected to a system of "hit or miss" merchandising entirely uneconomic and not in keeping with the rapid growth of the Automobile industry.

By consolidating the used car departments of the new car dealers, a useless duplication of effort is done away with, resulting in economical operation. The many savings that have been effected are reflected both in the allowance for trade ins and the price of reconditioned used cars.

When the exchange receives a used car it is sent to the dealer who holds the franchise for that particular make of car. Worn or broken parts are replaced and on its return to the exchange a ready market is found. Those cars that have gone through the better years of their life, and whose cost of reconditioning is excessive, are either dismantled, sold "as is," or sent to the scrap heap. Other cars are made to run and look like new and these cars may be bought with the same confidence as in the purchase of new cars.

Every facility for the ready marketing of used cars has been provided and our patrons are accorded the utmost courtesy. Cars are priced as near at cost to us as modern accounting methods will allow. A small percentage is added for our actual overhead. Financing terms have been arranged whereby time payments may be made at the lowest cost consistent with safety and security. Used cars that are taken in trade on other used cars are put through the same routine as the cars that come to us from the new car buyers.

EXPRESS MESSENGER WAS HELD UP ON N. Y. C. TRAIN

Two Robbers Got Loot Estimated at Between $50,000 and $100,000—Presented a Forged Permit to Ride With the Messenger—Boarded East Bound Train From Chicago to Buffalo—Bound and Gagged the Messenger and Escaped at La Porte, Ind.

Chicago, March 29.—Loot estimated at from $50,000 to $100,000 was obtained by two robbers who late last night held up the express messenger of the New York Central passenger train No. 23, eastbound from here to Buffalo, N. Y., and escaped at La Porte, Ind.

They boarded the express car at Englewood, Chicago suburb, and presented to Howard Young, the messenger, a forged permit to ride with him to La Porte. Inside they threatened him with pistols, bound and gagged him and rifled the unlocked express safe of its contents, including currency and two pouches of newly coined silver money.

The men, who appeared to be foreigners, Young said, were met by four others in a touring car at La Porte to fleet with them in the direction of Chicago.

Officials said a definite estimate of the loot could not be given as the robbers took the express waybills.

William E. Rigg, chief special agent of the American Railway Express, said that all the stolen packages were sealed and that "a great deal of currency" including, he said, bank shipments, was probably lost. "Also, I believe there were some railway remittances, some of which were negotiable. We are certain there were no newly-minted silver coins and no silver ingots."

Agents of the express company pointed out tonight that Young had violated the first rule of the company agents "permit no one to enter your car under any pretext or for any purpose."

Search was being made tonight for a maroon colored automobile reported to have disappeared from in front of the La Porte station immediately after the train arrived there and said to have been seen heading to Chicago.

A description of the robbers which tallied with that given by Young, was furnished today by J. M. Doherty of the New York Central intelligence department. Two men, he said, had tried to buy tickets at his office and he had referred them to the Englewood agent.

It was said tonight that the express messenger, Howard Young, would be questioned as to why he violated the rule in allowing the men to enter the express car, although according to his statement they presented a written permit to ride in his car. Railroad officers also said that the robbers might have made a mistake in boarding the car, as there was a shipment of great value forwarded on another train last night.

The robbers boarded the train at the Englewood station, eight miles south of the railroad terminus and gained admission to the car by rapping on the door and presenting what purported to be a permit to ride as far as La Porte. This permit has not been found.

Young said that he proceeded with his work, chatting at times with the two men. After the train was outside Chicago, he turned around to face revolvers and a command to hold up his hands. He said the robbers then tied him in a corner of the car and proceeded to search the express package.

When the train halted at La Porte, the first stop outside Chicago, the robbers left the car on the side opposite the station. Attention was attracted to Young's car when no response was made to the local express agent. Trainmen then entered the express car and found Young bound in the corner.

A maroon-colored automobile was seen to drive away rapidly toward the west but there was no effectual pursuit. After a hasty survey of the car in which it was estimated that the loss might run to $50,000, the train proceeded eastward. Young was taken off the train at Cleveland for questioning by officers of the express company and the railroad. The express messenger repeated his story of the robbery but could not say what had become of the permit by the thieves.

After a further investigation, the express company announced that the loss could not have been great as the valuable shipments of the night had gone on another train. The Chicago police made little progress today in running down the robbers as the only clue they had was a statement made by Young. They have requested that Young be returned to Chicago to aid in solving the holdup.

ROBBERS OBTAINED LESS THAN $1,000 IN CURRENCY

Cleveland, March 29—Two robbers who held up Howard Young, Buffalo, New York Central express messenger, last night, obtained less than $1,000 in currency, M. F. Muldoon, special agent of the American Railway Express company, announced here tonight.

Muldoon said he had advices from Chicago headquarters that no currency other than New York Central railway remittances had been shipped in the car. It was this, Muldoon said, which the robbers took.

Young assisted Muldoon and other express officials in checking up the contents of his car. No attempt was made to hold the messengers, the officials exonerating him from any blame. He has been employed by the company for eight years.

SUSPECTED OF HAVING RECEIVED STOLEN GOODS

New York, March 29.—Mrs. Lillian Lewis, 32, and Mrs. Edith Pummell, 29, were arrested early today on suspicion of having received stolen goods from James E. Walters, the so-called "Lone Wolf," confessed burglar held in Boston in $9,000 bail. The women were apprehended, the police said, after information had been furnished by Walters to the effect that he had disposed of stolen goods to them.

The women told police they each had purchased a fur coat and jewelry from Walters but denied any knowledge that they were stolen. The court refused to admit to bail, on the ground that they might be of assistance in the investigation into scores of robberies to which Walters is said to have confessed.

SMELT RUNNING STRONG IN CONNECTICUT RIVER

Hartford, March 29—The word has gone out to fishermen that the smelt run is on in full force. This little fish which is so popular just now as a table delicacy is ascending the fresh water streams from the sea for spawning. It is one of the anadromous species, the same as the shad which spends most of its life in the ocean but always enters fresh water during the spawning season.

Reports of good catches are coming in to the office of the state fish and game commission. At Westport, one fisherman secured 500 pounds of smelt, which brought him 25 cents a pound. Slightly earlier sales brought 40 cents. A steady price of 32 cents is maintained at Norwich and other places.

SOUTH NORWALK MAN WAS HELD UP IN BRIDGEPORT

Bridgeport, Mar. 29—John Barton, of 127 South Main street, South Norwalk, was held up, and robbed by two men who threatened him with guns early this morning. Barton told police he lost a diamond ring valued at $200 and $118 in cash.

Fred Knabling of 151 Lee Avenue, who was passing the scene of the hold-up, Railroad avenue, near West avenue, at the time, attempted to help Barton but was stabbed by one of the bandits on the right side of his face.

Police claim both men were somewhat intoxicated when they reported the hold-up, but stated that the holdup was real enough. No clues have yet been found.

FEAR TWO MEN ARE LOST IN EVERGLADES OF FLORIDA

Sebring, Fla., March 29—Fear that Captain R. A. Smith, and E. P. Lott, aerial photographers of New York, were lost in the everglades, was expressed here today when no word had been received from them since they left Saturday morning for a one day trip.

The two went to make photographs for drainage maps and expected to return Saturday night. Though both were experienced fliers, serious concern was expressed for their safety should they be forced to make a landing in the everglades.

WOMAN EITHER LEAPED OR FELL FROM HOTEL ROOF

New York, March 29.—Miss Daisy Lucas, 24, either leaped or fell to her death from the roof of the seven story Grenoble hotel today. She was an advertising writer who lived with her mother and sister in rooms on the second floor of the building.

The young woman had been despondent, according to her mother, Mrs. Aida Lucas, ever since her fiance, Duncan Wood, a member of a prominent family was killed in an explosion in Philadelphia. Her daughter had suffered a nervous breakdown and had been in the care of a nurse, she said.

BULL DOG AND TWO CANARIES SUFFOCATED

Hartford, March 29—A bull dog, and two canaries were suffocated and one woman was carried out of a fourth floor apartment by a fireman in a second alarm fire for a blaze in a four story apartment house on Garden street here this afternoon, which did damage estimated by firemen at $2,500. George Lacava, owner of the building, was showing apartment in it to a prospective tenant when the sons of one of the occupants told their father they saw smoke coming out of the cellar windows. The damage was chiefly to the cellar and an unoccupied apartment on the first floor.

INCREASE IN OUTPUT OF ARTIFICIAL LEATHER

Washington, March 29.—A 116.8 per cent increase in the value of the output of the artificial leather industry was announced today by the census bureau in making public figures for 1923, compared with those of 1921, the preceding biennial census year.

The bureau's survey shows that the 1923 production had a value of $33,567,634, against $15,515,739 for 1921. Of the 17 establishments reporting for the year, six were in New Jersey, four in Massachusetts, and the remaining seven in six other states.

LAKE CHAMPLAIN IS PRACTICALLY FREE OF ICE

Plattsburgh, N. Y., March 29—Due to heavy rains, Lake Champlain is practically free of ice, the breakup occurring about two weeks earlier than last year. Floods have caused the Saranac River to rise about five feet here, but no damage has been reported. The lake shore state highway between Plattsburgh and Ausable Chasm is flooded and impassable about a mile north of the chasm. Traffic has been diverted to the Peru highway.

COL. CHARLES R. FORBES STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS

Boston, Mar. 29—Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former director of the United States veteran bureau was suddenly stricken with paralysis Friday night at the home of his sister, Mrs. Harry Judkins, in the Brighton district, and is now in a serious condition at a local hospital, it was learned tonight.

Damage By R... In New H...pshire

Three Story Brick Building in Manchester Collapsed From Weight of Water.

Manchester, N. H., March 29. — The Mercantile block on Elm street, a three story brick structure, collapsed early this morning under the weight of several thousand pounds of rain water which had accumulated on the roof during the 36 hour rain storm.

Two clerks in the drug store on the ground floor were the only occupants in the entire building and they escaped to safety.

Stock in store in the various business establishments in the block was damaged to the amount of thousands of dollars.

Boston, March 29.—Rivers and the Boston and Maine railroad in western New Hampshire, were reportstreams along the Bristol branch of ed steadily rising late today, it was said at the Boston and Maine offices here.

A northbound passenger train was held up by a wash-out just south of Grafton shortly before two this afternoon, but proceeded at four o'clock when gravel ordered by special train from Westbrook had been laid down. Messages from dispatchers said there were numerous "soft spots" on the Bristol branch, but with no serious danger to the right of way.

RAIN PARTLY CRIPPLED RAILROAD COMMUNCATIONS

Concord, N. H., March 29.—Heavy rainfall in New Hampshire today partly crippled railroad communication and resulted in swollen rivers which threatened to curtail railroad service further. Highways were reported to be washed out or covered with water in several places. Rains are still falling tonight with no indication of cessation before tomorrow.

High water near Canaan and a washout at Grafton, in the Mascoma river district, caused temporary suspension of services on the main line of the Southern Division of the Boston and Maine railroad between Concord and White River Junction, Vt. The Boston and Maine dispatcher's office here reported also that water had risen over the tracks of the Bristol branch between Concorn and Bristol and that suspension of traffic tomorrow might be necessary.

At Claremont, on the Sugar river the water was reported nearly over the tracks. Unconfirmed reports reached the dispatcher's office of floods near Braintree, Vermont.

At Concord, the Merrimac river was rising tonight as a result of a two-inch fall of rain since Saturday noon. At Bow Junction, three miles south of Concord water was over the highway. Two highway washouts were reported near Concord, one near the Souccook river and the other north of the city.

FIGHTING FLOOD WITH FIRE AND DYNAMITE

Randolph, Vt., March 29.—Citizens fought with fire, dynamite and impromtu levees to stem the flood which raced through this town today carrying away four barns and storehouses, bursting dams, causing $50,000 loss and deriving several manufacturing concerns of power by carrying out a new channel for the branch of White river.

The waters from torrential rains and melting snow made wild things of both the Dog river and the second branch of the White river, both of which join the larger stream south of this town.

Dynamite was freely used to blast a flood channel through the N. N. Morse & Sons mill dam when the water threatened serious property damage as it swept through the gorge it cut beside the dam. With the undermining of the river banks, four barns, two buildings of the Sargent, Osgood and Roundy factory, together with the dam which provided the power, slipped into the stream. The company lost much in stock.

Efforts were concentrated on saving, the new cement main street bridge which was seriously threatened. Part of one abutment and the roadway approach were washed out, so that the bridge piers would not have to bear the weight of the Messer tenement block, which had been partly undermined and threatened to close the stream, the structure was set on fire.

A hastily constructed levee of sand bags, boughs and baled hay saved most of the bridge structure. The flood crest passed through here shortly after noon and the waters have begun to subside, very little rain falling during the afternoon.

RAINS CAUSE STEADY RISE IN HUDSON RIVER

Business Activity In New England Steady

Preliminary Reports Show Higher Rate Than at This Time Last Year.

Boston, March 29.—Business activity in New England continues at a higher rate than at this time last year and not much below the peak reached in the early part of 1923, according to the monthly review of industrial and financial conditions prepared by the federal reserve bank of Boston and made public today.

"The bank's index of business activity was slightly higher in February than in January, making due allowance for the shorter working month and the normal winter slackening in some lines," the report said. "Preliminary reports covering the early part of March show that activity remained at substantially the February rate.

"New England mill consumption of both wool and cotton during February was less than in January, but cotton consumption was higher than in February last year, while wool consumption was lower. New England show production increased in February but was less than a year ago.

"The building industry has been more active during this past winter than in either of the two previous years. There was an increase in the value of contracts awarded for all types of construction in February, as compared with January, whereas normally there is a seasonal decrease. Approximately 50 per cent of the contracts were for residences. Several of the building trades in Boston have made new agreements extending the present wage scale for three years.

"The number of workers employed at representative establishments increased in February, and a larger proportion of the employes were on full time schedules. The demand for workers at the public employment offices, however, was relatively small, due perhaps to the open winter.

"Net sales of representative department stores in February were less than in the same month last year, but in March there was an increase, partly due to an extraordinarily small volume of sales in March, 1924 * * * Retail trade has really been improving since last autumn, following the improvement which began in general business activity last summer. The trend of department store sales usually lags a few months behind the trend of general business.

"Money rates strengthened slightly during March, continuing the increase of the previous four months. The volume of commercial loans of New England member banks has remained almost stationary since January, at approximately the highest level reached since early in 1921."

READY FOR TRIAL OF DOROTHY ELLINGSON

San Francisco, March 29—Counsel for both sides indicated today that the trial of 16 year old Dorothy Ellingson, charged with the murder of her mother, would proceed tomorrow, though persons in close touch with the case saw a strong possibility that the defense would present a formal motion to end the trial, and empanel a new jury to determine whether the girl is insane at present.

Dr. Fred P. Clark, superintendent of the state hospital for the insane at Stockton, has issued his judgment on close observation of her behavior in the courtroom. It was understood that other alienists, subpoenae dby the defense, were examining the girl at the county jail today.

Sylvester J. McAtee, of defense counsel, said he had not yet had formal reports on the girl's condition and would not predict whether the trial would be interrupted. Her present condition, if it is brought into the case, will involve a new issue, he explained.

BURGLARS GOT $1,100 IN MARKET IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., March 29—Crackmen working at leisure Saturday night and this morning looted the safe of the Weybosset Pure Food Market in the heart of the down town section of $1,100 in cash and made a clean getaway. They abandoned work on an inner compartment containing between $14,000 and $15,000. The break was not discovered until the middle of the forenoon.

The jimmies and steel drills left behind bore no finger prints and the methods used indicated a professional job. The crooks probably hid in the store during business hours Saturday night and after the closing went to work on the safe in a second floor room. The president of the store will make an appeal to banks to keep open Saturday night for the deposit of large sums taken in by stores after banking hours.

YOUNG MERIDEN WOMAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Waterbury, Mar. 29—Mrs. Louise Stafford Pierce, 21 years old wife of Walter Pierce, a young Meriden millionaire, was killed early this morning in an auto accident on the Cheshire road. Walter Pierce, her husband, who was driving the car escaped uninjured and reported to the police that blinded by the head lights of an approaching car, he had allowed his car to get off the road and after a run of about 100 feet in the ditch, he crashed into a pole and the car turned over. Spencer Miller, of Meriden and Miss Mary Smith, of this city, who happened along just after the smash, found Mrs. Pierce lying on the ground and her husband sitting in the car dazed, and took them both to the hospital where the woman was found to be dead.

FIVE MASKED MEN SHOT TWO GUESTS IN HOTEL HOLDUP

Wayne, N. J., March 29—Five armed and masked men opened fire on a score of patrons of Wilkie's hotel early today, wounding two men. After stripping the patrons of approximately $5,000 in cash and jewelry, they escaped in an automobile.

Patrons of the hotel, who made no show of resistence, said the bandits began firing as they entered the door.

Charles Manganey and his brother, Gus, both of Paterson, are in St. Joseph's hospital, suffering bullet wounds in the legs. Gus was shot twice.

This robbery was the ninth holdup of hotel patrons in Wayne within six weeks.

SOCIALISTS SHOW STRONG IN ELECTION IN GERMANY

Dr. Jarres, Candidate of the Nationalist and Conservative Bourgeois Parties, Leads All Candidates—As Majority is Necessary in This Presidential Election, it is Likely That no Choice Will Result—A New Set of Candidates Will be Put Forward by the Nationalist Bloc For the Election on April 26.

Berlin, March 30—The returns in the presidential election at midnight credit the three Republican, or Liberal parties, represented by Otto Braun, Socialist, Former Chancellor Marx, Centrist, and Dr. Hellpach, Democrat, with a lead of 20 per cent. over the joint vote polled by Dr. Jarres, standard bearer of the Nationalist and Conservative Bourgeois parties, Dr. Held, Bavarian Peoples Party, and General Ludendorff, the Fascist champion.

Ernest Thaelmann, Communist, is conceded slightly les sthan two million votes in the final count.

Although Dr. Jarres will lead all the other candidates, his showing, nevertheless, is viewed as disappointing, inasmuch as he presented the concentrated efforts of the Nationalistic and Conservative elements in Germany, and he has even received active support from the rank and file of the Ludendorff Fascist party.

In view of the inconclusive termination of the election it is assumed that a new set of candidates will be put forward by the Nationalist bloc and the three constitution parties for the election on April 26.

The outstanding feature of the voting was the substantial gains scored by the Socialist party, which again established its title as the strongest individual party in Germany.

Incomplete returns received up to ten o'clock from the Rhineland, Berlin, Hamburg, Bremen, mid German and metropolitan centres, indicated a heavy increase in the Socialist vote, with corresponding losses for the Communists.

Comparisons with the vote in the Reichstag election last December reveal a large percentage of stay at homes, due to the indifference of the voters and the conviction that a second election is inevitable. The vote polled by Dr. Jarres failed to indicate the expected inroads by the National Conservative Bourgeois bloc in the vote of the Liberal parties, and, if the present average is maintained, he will not obtain a majority. Although he led all the other candidates in his home town of Duisburg, Dr. Jarres received only 46,802 out of a total of 110,000 votes. Braun polled 29,957 and Marx 31,810.

Dr. Jarres did not poll the vote conceded to him in the Rhineland and it is realize dthat he is the victim of his Rhineland policy, as Dr. Marx is outstripping him there and in sections of the Ruhr.

Political leaders freely predict that he will not be elected in the second balloting in April and that the National Conservative bloc will be forced to put up a new candidate in the face of the strong showing mdae by the Liberal parties.

Dr. Karl Jarres, the candidate of the combined National and Conservative Bourgeois parties, led the poll with 10,787,000. Otto Braun, the Socialist nominee, polled 7,838,000 and former Chancellor Dr. Wilhalm Marx, Centrist, 3,988,000.

Approximately 37,300,000 votes were cast or 3,000,000 fewer than in the parliamentary election last December. This is equivalent to about 70 per cent of the electorate.

BUSINESS SURVEY FOR THE YEAR PROMISING

New York, March 29.—A business survey of the national industrial conference board made public today states that a "stable, sound and even flow of business" for the rest of the year is forecast in opinions given by industrial leaders and estimated in the light of business conditions during the past five years.

During the remainder of 1925, the report says, business will probably be conducted under conditions of rising interest rates for loans, with a tendency toward lower prices in some other industries, and generally stationary wages.

"While there is no expectation of a boom," the report says, "this is considered as advantage rather than otherwise, a steadier movement of business being felt to be more conducive to sane and dependable conditions."

Sounder business conditions, the report says, have been brought about by the following achievements of the past five years: More stable employment in relation to changes in production; greater conservatism in extending production in relation to price changes; shortening of the line of distribution from manufacturer to consumer, and greater dependability to transportation service.

While good business is predicted for the railroads, and in the electrical, automobile, coal and lumber industries, the steel industry is judged "a little weak," the woolen industry has experienced "a distinct setback" and the agricultural situation is felt to be dangerous.

According to the report, one prominent executive feels that the long sustained depression of farm produce prices indicates "something fundamentally wrong," which will eventually be felt by industry. Industrialists are urged to "take a constructive interest in the situation, because of its possible political as well as economic consequences."

POLICEMAN USED GAS MASK TO CAPTURE BURGLAR

Boston, March 29—A squad of police used modern methods of warfare, including gas masks and bullet proof vests, to capture a robber in a drug store in the Roxbury district early this morning.

Patrolman John Bartell found the store door open when he made his rounds. He entered but was ordered out by a stern voice which threatened to shoot. He obeyed, took up a covering position behind a post and fired his revolver twice to bring aid.

The aid came in the form of the patrol wagon, the police gas squad and scores of citizens roused by the shots. The wagon was thrown across the street as a breastwork. "Tear bombs" were thrown into the store. An interval of quiet followed.

Then an officer wearing gas mask and bullet proof vest walked gingerly in and picked up the unconscious form of Joseph Burke, 21, of Roxbury. Physicians at the city hospital, hours later, informed Burke he was under arrest for breaking and entering.

8 CONVICTS ESCAPED FROM WESTERN PENITENTIARY

Pittsburgh, Penn., March 29—Eight convicts in the Riverside branch of the Western Penitentiary, serving sentences for offenses ranging from robbery to second degree murder, escaped through the roof of the institution late today. One was shot in the leg by a guard and fell to the street outside the wall, breaking his ankle. He was recaptured.

A second prisoner was recognized on the street by police and recaptured. Six men are still at liberty, having driven away in a stolen automobile.

The escape, it is believed, had been planned for weeks, as a rope had been constructed of scrap wire. Whether outside help was obtained had not been learned by prison officials tonight.

The prisoners recaptured were Lawrence O'Leary convicted of robbery, an alleged member of the Blue Bandanna gang, and Harry Bernstein, brought here in April, 1923, from the Eastern Penitentiary.

He was convicted in connection with the robbery of a bank in Reading, Pa.

ATTORNEYS CONFER ON DEFENSE OF CHAPMAN

Hartford, March 29.—(By The A. P.) —Gerald Chapman, mail looter and jail breaker, continued to read Joseph Conrad's books today while his attorneys held a final conference to polish off their plans for his defense against the charge that their spectacular client murdered Patrolman James Skelly in New Britain last October 12.

With the end of the conference, attended by Frederick J. Groehl, of New York, and Nathan O. Freedman, of Hartford, Chapman's two chief counsel announced that the two-day court recess had resulted in developments which promised to furnish some surprises when the defense begins to put in its case.

Although Groehl spent a part of the week end in New York, Freedman devoted a great deal of time in mysterious visits in and out of the city in his motor car. Groehl returned today in time to go into conference with Freedman, later announcing that the two-day holiday had been "a profitable one from our pointof view."

The state's attorney, Hugh M. Alcorn, who has spent several weeks in preparation of his case against Chapman, remained at his home throughout the day, resting in anticipation of a strenuous day tomorrow when he will continue the presentation of evidence. Twenty-eight witnesses already have been put on the stand by the state, 24 of them following each other in a veritable parade to and from the little witness' pen on Friday.

The twenty-eight told a carefully pieced together tale mapping out Chapman's movements since early last April until the night of Saturday, October 11, the eve of the New Britain crime, when two of them placed him in the Old Colony Inn at Meriden Conn., within a hour's motor jaunt of Davidson and Leventhal's department store in which Skelly met his death.

Both witnesses positively identified Chapman as having been at the inn that time with Walter E. Shean, the Springfield, Mass., advertising agency operator who told the New Britain police that it was he and Chapman who had looted the department store's two safes and that it was Chapman who had killed Skelly in shooting his way to freedom. One of the two, Lillian Knell, a 17-year-old servant, testified that she had supplied Chapman with an alarm clock, at his request before the two made their way to bed rooms they had reserved earlier in the evening.

Tomorrow, Alcorn told Judge Newell Jennings, a number of New Britain police will take up the story as it was left off with Friday's adjournment. Their tale, Alcorn has announced, will get into the court record the history of the shooting, the escape of the murderer, and the arrest of Shean as he was about to deposit a portfolio in the Lincoln motor car which previous witnesses have traced, in Chapman's possession, from Steubenville, Ohio, to the Old Colony inn.

Attaches of the state's prison at Wethersfield, near here, reported that Chapman had spent his Sunday in apparent unconcern over the coming week's court proceedings, which will mean lofe or death to him. He took his usual light exercise in the yard manacled to the guard who never leaves him out of his sight, sleeping or walking.

3,500 NEW YORK POLICEMEN AT COMMUNION BREAKFAST

New York, March 29—Governor Alfred E. Smith and his staff attended the communion mass of the 3,500 members of the Holy Name Society of the police department celebrated in St. Patrick's cathedral by Cardinal Hayes this morning.

Both the cardinal and the governor addressed the society at the communion breakfast, held following mass, at the Commodore Hotel. Beniamino Gigli, Metropolitan Opera tenor, sang.

"We appreciate what you are doing in the police department," the Cardinal said, "and so do all right thinking people. Policemen must have the patience of Job, the wisdom of Solomon, and the courage of Daniel in the lion's den."

The Masquerade dance at Lemus on Saturday night was most successful. Mi-Careme affair. The parade was of unusual nicety and first prize was awarded Miss Betty Buck as Little Red Riding Hood, leading a police dog as the wolf. Second prize went to Miss Flossy Gregnon, formerly of Providence, now of this city, who took the part of a Japanese doll. The judges were Leroy Dimmock, Eugene Root and Mrs. Al Bacon. Clifford Lamoude was announcer. Miss Grace Rogers of this city delighted the audience in a Scotch dance. Music was by the Lemus orchestra, A. Raymond Young, leader.

The sharp turn which marks the approach to South Chaplin bridge once more became the location of an automobile accident just before midnight Friday night when a Nash touring car owned and driven by Charles D. Balch of 28 North Elm street, Manchester, collided with the state fence in making the turn, knocked over two posts and then, instead of pulling and toppled over coming to rest bottom-side up. The impact smashed and dislodged two large boulders as it overturned. Balch and a man found were pinned under the car and after some difficulty gained their freedom. Balch was given a shaking and the friend sustained cuts on the face and a deep gash on the hand. They were taken to this city in a local man and the injured man went to a physician. The car's top was smashed, the tonneau was crushed on the left side and the steering gear was broken. In the rear of the car was found an engine which was being taken to Middleboro, Mass., to be rebuilt in a machine shop.

Captain Frank P. Fenton, local agent for the Connecticut State Hu[illegible] accompanied by County Detective William E. Jackson was summoned to Ashford Friday to investigate the case of an eleven year old boy alleged to have been severely beaten by a woman in whose care he had been placed. The parents of the boy are divorced, the father now residing in Norwich and the mother in Providence. It is understood that the child merited some form of punishment. The boy attended school as usual the next day but bore marks of the beating. Conditions were such that no action was taken by Agent Fenton and the matter was settled to the satisfaction of all concerned.

RAIDERS RESCUE BOOZE THROWN INTO THE RIVER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 29—A shallow river, a floating jar of alcohol and wet trousers made up the combination of circumstances under which local police and federal agents secured evidence for the arrest of Mike Moritko, of Brickten Road, about three o'clock Sunday afternoon. The raiding squad, headed by Chief of Police Allan McArthur comprised Captain Grady, Lieutenant McLean, Officer Bombria, Federal Agents William S. Congdon and Stanton L. Briggs and County Detective William E. Jackson.

The Moritko home is located on the Windham Center side of the Horseshoe Bridge in lower village and is on the shore of the Willimantic River.

After receiving numerous complaints that liquor was being sold at the place the officers prepared for the raid. As their automobile appeared in the lane leading to the house Moritko's son rushed to a hen-coop back of the house. He came out with a burlap bag which he threw into the river. Federal Officer Briggs and Patrolman Bombria rushed headlong into the river and rescued the bag, which contained a jar in which was over a quart of alcohol. While Officers Briggs and Bombria were taking their early Spring plunge, the remaining raiders entered the house and caught Mrs. Moritko in the act of spilling out the contents of a teapot. The pot was taken from her before being completely emptied of its contents of home-made alcohol. Moritko was taken into custody and will be charged with violation of the liquor law in police court Monday morning. He was given his freedom Sunday, under a bond of $1,000 furnished by Stanley O'Bara.

PRINCIPALS' CONFERENCE CLOSES WITH LUNCHEON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March29— With a luncheon at noon Saturday in the residence hall of Willimantic State Normal School, the third annual conference of the principals of secondary schools of Connecticut was closed. F. E. Pierce, state supervisor of secondary education was in charge. Carl Nutter, of Stamford High school delivered an address of interest at the Saturday morning session, his subject being, "The Manual of Social Studies." In his talk he traced the development of social studies in the secondary school system of the state and directed attention to the importance of these subjects in the education of the young. Group conferences were then held. Superintendent S. E. Butler, of Litchfield, led in a discussion on The Social Science Course, and Principal Clarence P. Quimby of South Manchester High school gave a talk on, "Scientific Basis of School Administration.

THREAD COMPANY'S SIDE OF STRIKE EXPLAINED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 29—The local arbitration committee, representative of the City of Willimantic and civic and social organizations, continued in its effort to make overtures to the operatives and officials of The American Thread Company after meeting with the strikers' committee Friday and conferred with Agent Don H. Curtis and Assistant Agent Carlton S. Pollard of the local mills Saturday. The committee members were courteously received at the office of Agent Curtis at 10 o'clock in the forenoon and remained in conference for two hours. The committee received a statement from Agent Curtis as to the conditions which brought about the 10 per cent wage cut on January 12th last and the subsequent strike. This statement, dashed the hopes of the mediators in the last paragraph which read: "We hope that before long the employes of this company will return to work and we are ready to meet with them at any time to discuss resuming operations, but we regret that we cannot make any general increase in the wages now being paid, even if it should result in this plant being closed for an indefinite period."

This sentence, in a measure, sums up the results of the conference but the committee remains optimistic and this (Monday) morning will once more convene at the Chamber of Commerce rooms to meet with Miss Mary Kelleher of Scranton, Pa., national organizer of the Textile Workers and Miss Amy Hooker, president of the local textile council. It is believed that the committee has found several loopholes in the situation which enables it to continue in its arbitration work with a reasonable hope for success.

In opening his statement Agent Curtis says: "The American Thread Company regrets as much as anyone else, the present situation in Willimantic and it is needless to say that the strike which is now in progress is embarrassing and costly to the company as well as to the operatives and to the general business of the city."

Extracts from the statement show that since 1916 and during the war the company, in line with other textile concerns in New England, increased wages by a total of 169 per cent. A general 33 1-3 per cent. reduction took effect January, 1920 and was followed in April, 1922 with a 25 1-3 per cent increase made in New England in spite of a slump in industry. That the local plant followed the lead of Fall River and New Bedford in the adjustment of its wages is mentioned in several instances.

With the last decrease of 10 per cent. the present scale of wages over 1916 is 106 per cent higher. Mention is made of keen competition from fifty or more other thread manufacturers in this country which make it necessary for the Thread Company to follow in line in the wage changes. The statement goes on: "We are entirely willing now as in the past to discuss matters pertaining to the general welfare of our employes and have never refused to take up with them any individual grievances. Prior to the present disagreement a committee representing employes met with us twice and requested that we reinstate the wages which were in force previous to the 10 per cent reduction and that we also reimburse them for the wages they had lost since the reduction was made. These demands the company refused. We have made a careful study of rates paid by our competitors in the thread usbiness and find that the earnings of our Willimantic employes, at present rates, are higher than those generally paid and we believe them to be entirely fair. Had we been in a position to meet the demands of our employes regarding a reinstatement of the 10 per cent. we should have done so before the strike occurred, rather than at some future time."

National Organizer Speaks

"Sticking together for 10 per cent. Restoration and 100 per cent. Organization," is the new slogan of the striking operatives of the American Thread Company plant. The slogan was submitted to them by National Organizer Horace Riviere, of Manchester, N. H., who delivered a stirring address, given first in English and then in French, Saturday morning, at one of the most successful mass meetings hel since the strike was declared. "In my talk I will draw but one conclusion," said Organizer Riviere. "Can the American Thread Company defeat the workers in Willimantic?" They cannot if the workers refuse to be divided and not listen to propaganda." He went on to warn against "ticks" sent among strikers to break the ranks and other methods generally used by employers to end strikes. "This is not a fight only between employer and employes," said the speaker. "It is a fight between the American Thread Company and the entire City of Willimantic." "Your strike has reached a national aspect," he continued. "Travel in any direction and you will hear of the clean fight being waged by the strikers in Willimantic. You have proven yourselves a very high clas of operatives by the quiet, refined manner in which you conduct yourselfs also spells "resolution." Your strike is making history. You are proving and are going to prove further that the reputation of the textile worker as a one-day striker has been broken forever. Submission only comes from a weak heart. And remember that your labor is your personal property to be sold by you at your price and under your own terms." The speaker was given a rousing cheer at the conclusion of his talk. The local president, Miss Amy Hooker was in charge of the meeting.

JEWETT CITY

The southbound 5.03 p. m. trolley, Sunday afternoon, sailed by the railroad station at a 2.40 clip, with the pilot and motorman screwing at the hand brake for all they were worth. The car was brought to a stop at the crossing and was backed to the siding. The trouble was caused by something in the compression pump that failed to function. Thanks to the skill of an ingenious pilot, the trouble was remedied and the car proceeded, 45 minutes off schedule. There was some nervous talk at the station regarding what would have happened, if a big freight had been waiting on the main line. Had such been the case, the driver would have thrown his motors into the reverse gear, and the stop would have been decided and somewhat sudden. The case of Sunday required no such radical action on the motorman's part. He saw a long stretch of clear iron and preferred to stop with the hand brake, and cause no inconvenience or shock to his passengers.

The World Wide Guild girls gave a fine entertainment Thursday evening in the Baptist vestry. They presented a Japanese play, Chee Moo's Choice. The scenes were laid in a room at college, and the parts were taken by

NEW LONDON DEPUTY FIRE CHIEF GOING TO NEW YORK TO GET POINTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 29—Deputy Fire Chief Thomas H. Shipman is to attend a school of the firemen in New York, early in April, to get instruction in methods firemen are supposed to be well informed about. The city manager asked the council to send Mr. Shipman to get the experience he will receive in the supposedly best managed and equiped fire department in the United States. The expense iwll not be large for Mr. Shipman will live in a fire house in New York except for the matter of meals. These he will get outside the department. He is a younger man than is Chief Rose and for that reason he is sent to New York. The procedure is something new for New London. There was a time when Mayor Hugh H. Osgood of Norwich sent Chief Engineer "Joe" Carrier of Norwich to the national conventions of the fire departments of the United States and paid the bills that such attendance necessitated from his own pocket. That was a generosity that New London firemen always envied, but they had no one here with the generosity of Mayor Osgood. Now they are to have a representative under instruction in New York. They look for the introduction of new ideas when Deputy Shipman shall return and for innovations that will be for the benefit of the local department.

The city council will be advised at its meeting, Monday evening just what the rights and privileges are in the matter of criticising and advising the city manager in his duties or in his falure, if his acts are regarded as such, in the way of administering his office.

The charter of the city under which the council is in existence provides that the city manager shall be responsible to the council for the administration of his duties and gives him the authority to make all appointments in the administrative service. The charter says in so many words that "neither the council nor any member, nor any committee shall dictate nor attempt to dictate any appointment or in any way interfere with him or prevent him from exercising his own judgment in appointing or removing officers or appointees from office." On that ground the city manager stands firm and he has told the council that if it is aggrieved at his action it has two courses open to redress. He told them they could bring charges against him or they could suspend him from office pending a hearing of the charges. That was pretty firm talk but the city manager appeared to resent the attitude of Councilor Street and willingly consented to securing a written opinion from the director of law, ostensibly feeling certain as to what that opinion will be. The city manager holds that the councilor is too free with dictation, rather than suggestion, as to what course shall be pursued by the city manager, who does not object to the expression of opinion from councilors not acting in their official capacity. It is claimed that the councilor has said while the investigation of the police department has been in progress that "the city manager was as much to blame for existing conditions as anybody," intimating that he should have known all that was going on in the police force and that he should have remedied any abuses that cropped out.

It is claimed that the director of law has unofficially made it known that the city council has no standing in the attitude that its members can criticise the city manager for acts or in any way interfer with him in the administration of his office as to the penalty he shall impose on offenders against the discipline they are under. The director of law did not take kindly to a movement started in the council, but not carried to consummation, to prevent the director of law from serving other clients who might have a grievance against the city—not as clients who brought suit against the city. Whether he advised the council against passing any resolution or ordinance that would have the purpose in view that the proposed ordinance had is not known, but the proposal was shelved and has not since been brought out for action.

It is declared now that the police probing committee will make its report and submit changes in rules and establish a code of discipline that in the future will avert any such situation as has now developed, at the meeting to be held on the 6th of April. The committee has been delving into police department management during the past four months and has contracted an expense that will use up $1,000 in its delving. No matter of police management has ever disturbed the city as this one has. Councilor Fox has more than once declared in the council meetings that the situation came about from idle talk that was heard and from talebearers who have peddled their grievances to members of the council. That statement is said by friends of Councilor Fox to have been made cold-bloodedly and with knowledge that the members of the probing committee have been informed by ambitious officers who seek this way of climbing to preferred positions on the force. When the police probers make their report to the council, there is said to be indications of the warmest session the council has yet held. The last meeting was not of the iceberg nature, but the report that is made is likely to bring even a hotter session.

Jennie Manning, wife of Arthur H Buffum, retired livery stable proprietor, died at her home at Oswegatchie, Westford, Saturday noon following an illness of two years. Eugene Royal, 39, a farm hand in the employ of Morris Cohen, of Chesterfield, came to New London Saturday night and desired the companionship of females. He met Patrolman Edward Daniels at the corner of Green and Golden streets and insisted that the officer provide him with Royal's desired company. Daniels finally became annoyed at the persistency of Royal and locked the farmhand up. This evening he was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $50 and will be given a hearing in the police court this morning.

Esther Hochman was taken into custody late this afternoon charged with breach of the peace when she attacked and administered a severe beating to her sister-in-law, Fanny Hughes. The thrashing the Hochman woman administered to the Hughes woman was such that the latters attire was agreatly disarranged and her face greatly disfigured for the Hughes woman suffered numerous scratches about the eyes. The two women met between John and Douglass streets on North Bank street and near where the husband of the former woman conducts a bakery. Harsh words were exchanged and in a few seconds the two women were battling in the seret and with no one to interfere with the combat. Finally pedestrians reached the couple and separated them. The Hughes woman was so badly beaten that she visited the police station and lodged complaint against her sister-in-law and the latter was taken into custody by Patrolman Howard Sloan.

City Manager William A. Holt today visited the Ipoice station and quizzed Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman Augustus Ray relative to the condition of Patrolman Sheehan the night some time ago that Sheehan is alleged to have been brought to the police station in an intoxicated condition. Besides quizzing the two officers, City Manager Holt interviewed Acting Lieut. James D. Gaffney at the latter's home on Colman street, as Gaffney was in charge at the police station the night in question.

MILLS CHARGED WITH MISBRANDING HOISERY

Washington, March 29.—A complaint charging the Chipman Knitting Mills of Easton, Pa., and the Charles Chipman's Sons Company, Inc., of New York, with misbranding hoisery, was made public tonight by the federal trade commission.

The complaint charged that the companies advertised hoisery as "full fashioned," when it was not "full fashioned" in the usual meaning of the term, that it was knit as a flat piece of cloth and fashioned to the shape of the leg by a seam in the back.

The companies are given 30 days in which to answer the charges.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Thirty-three dog cases were considered by Judge W. Fenner Woodward and Prosecuting Attorney Arthur G. Bill in the town court Saturday morning. Thirty of those presented paid the fines assessed against them, two pleaded not guilty and the other case was nolled. In cases where dogs were found to be without tags a fine of $1 and costs, a total of $5.99, was assessed. In the cases where the dogs were found not registered, the fine was $5 and costs, a total of $16.09. The cases were worked up during the past week by C. A. Ganung, a special deputy of the commissioner of domestic animals.

Many were the wails and varied the explanations as to why dogs that were not registered or had no tags were found in such numbers about the town. In the two cases where pleas of not guilty were entered, the contention of the dog owners is that their dogs are under six months of age and, therefore, not required to be registered. The cases of these two owners will come to trial on Saturday of this week, when the state likely will have an expert witness on hand to testify as to the age of the dogs involved.

One man whose appearance in court was due to the fact that his dog has no tag asserted that the fault is not his, as he sought to get a tag here and found none available, the supply being exhausted, according to his version. Another man who bought a dog a week ago Sunday, worked all day Monday and did not have time to go after a tag was served Thursday with a summons to appear in court and did so.

The dog cases in Killingly are in addition to ten similar cases prosecuted in Brooklyn the past week and ten in Woodstock during the same period, Deputy Ganung working up all these cases.

Saturday, the body of Mrs. Mary Bodo, 48, wife of Moses Bodo, was brought here from Providence in charge of Undertaker A. F. Wood. Mrs. Bodo died during Friday night in St. Joseph's hospital in that city. She left here last Wednesday and on Thursday underwent a serious surgical operation.

Mrs. Bodo, a native of Canada, had lived the greater part of her life in the United States and for many years had been a resident here. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Martin.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Bodo leaves her mother, resident in New Bedford a daughter, Mrs. Delia Robert s, of Danielson; a grand-daughter, Miss Eva Roberts of this place; three sisters, Mrs. Delia Gay and Mrs. Joseph Rieze: of Danielson and Mrs. Delia Wood of New Bedford, and four brothers, Henry, Odelon, Dumas and Joseph, all of New Bedford.

Stockholders here of the Connecticut Mills company have received, along with notices of the annual meeting of the corporation, a consolidated balance sheet as of January 30. The meeting is to be held in Boston on Tuesday of next week, April 7, and the business before it will be to fix the number of directors—not fewer than three nor more than nine—for the ensuing year, to elect directors, a clerk and treasurer. The meeting also will elect a committee of three stockholders who are not directors to examine an auditor for the ensuing fiscal year.

The meeting will consider and act upon the matter of approving and ratifying all contracts, acts and doings of the directors since the last annual meeting.

The consolidated balance sheet shows assets of $4,086,938.29 which includes $250,835.33 in cash, $675,772.16 in accounts receivable and $759,858.21 in cotton, stock and merchandise. Real estate and machinery is listed in the estate and machinery are listed in the account of assets at $2,299,019.67.

The liabilities include such items as accounts payable amounting to $60,123.08, first mortgage bonds of the Taunton Cotton Mills company $335,-700, and the following capital stock issues: First preferred at 7 per cent., $1,425,500; second preferred at 8 per cent $1,065,100; common class A, $612,500; common class B, $90,500; surplus, $501,515.20.

All dividends in arrears on the first preferred stock have been paid. The unpaid cumulation dividends on the second preferred stock, much of which is held in Danielson and vicinity, as is also much of the other issues, amounts now to $320,378.66. No dividends have been paid on the second preferred stock since 1920.

The Connecticut Mills company, with plants here and at Taunton, Mass., is operating steadily, but not at full capacity production.

John F. Lewis, after three months spent mostly in California, has returned here, reporting a delightful experience on the west coast. While in Los Angeles Mr. Lewis, former owner and operator of the Orpheum theatre, purchased some house lots that promise to pay a big return within a few years, being located between Los Angeles and Venice, the beach resort for the premier city of California.

Principal Ernest R. Warren of Killingly High school and Mrs. Warren had as guests over the week end Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Perkins and Miss Elizabeth Perkins of Lille, France, and Mrs. Perkins' mother, Mrs. W. J. Price of Dallas, Texas. Mr. Perkins is plant engineer at Lille for the International Harvester corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. Geroge H. Call, of Broad street, after a winter spent in Florida, have returned to their home.

A bicycle stolen from where it was left near St. James' school Friday was recovered in the cellar of a home on Morin avenue by Chief John McFarland. The bicycle is the property of Henry Bedard of the Wauregan road.

Why Bend Your Back 900 Times?

UP-DOWN, up-down—keep on doing that 900 times and you will have pumped 180 gallons of water.

But your work has just started—you have to lug the water to where you use it.

That's just the amount the smallest of the Goulds Water Systems will pump for you in one hour.

Chief McFarland has taken up with the prosecuting attorney the matter of considering the case of the youth who is alleged to have taken the bicycle, and later said that he thought it was the property of a boy who sometimes loans him his wheel.

It was stated here Sunday that Rev. H. H. Conklin, who has been pastor of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church for the past year and a half will not return here after the Southern New England conference now being held. Mr. Conklin's successor will not be known until the conference appointments are made public.

A retreat for the English-speaking members of St. James' parish will begin on Tuesday evening of this week.

MR. AND MRS. R. R. MARRIOTT CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, March 29—Not in many years has there been such general interest in a golden wedding anniversary observance at Oneco as on Saturday evening, when 250 guests gathered at the town hall of Sterling in that place to pay honor to Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Marriott, who were married in North Sorrel, England, in 1875.

There was the usual reception and felicitations a programme of entertainments and presentation of gifts, among other things, to make the anniversary all that it deserved to be in doing full honor to a couple who have made their home in Oneco for the past 35 years.

Mr. Marriott is the head of the firm of R. B. Marriott and Son, operators of the quarry near Oneco, from which stone for many well known structures has been taken, including the mills at Arctic, Baltic and Natick, R. I., among many others.

Gifts presented Mr. and Mrs. Marriott were valued at several hundred dollars, the gold pieces presented amounting to $136.50. Mr. and Mrs. Marriott are among the best known and most respected residents of the town of Sterling. Mrs. Marriott is particularly well known as a leader of social, religious and charitable movements. James Marriott, a son, is the representative in the legislature from Sterling. Guests were in attendance from various sections of eastern Connecticut, and those representing more distant points came from Providence, New Jersey and Georgia. Mrs. Marriott has four children, sixteen grand-children and six great-grand-children.

FIVE CARS ARE WRECKED COMING DOWN EVANS HILL

Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, March 29—Five wrecked automobiles were in local garages Sunday and two people are confined in Rhode Island, as the result of a series of five motoring accidents occurring within 30 minutes of each other, Saturday afternoon, on Evans hill, a section of state highway between Brooklyn and Hampton, about six miles west of here.

Eugene St. John, of 1054 Lonsdale avenue Central Falls, R. I., suffered a broken leg, and Miss Anna Lamoureaux of 651 Huntington street, Providence, a dislocated shoulder from their experiences in the wreck. They were removed to Rhode Island in public service cars hired here.

A slippery highway surface caused by rain occasioned the first accident and the others—four in number—appear to have been due to the fact that the drivers, upon seeing the overturned car that first got into trouble and noting the presense of State Officer Edward Stephens, who was directing up the accident, either applied their stakes too forcibly, or did some other thing that caused their cars to be smashed in an effort to stop.

The first car to over turn was a Dodge owned in Enfield. Officer Stephens, happening along on patrol, was checking this accident, when a Dort sedan driven by Aaron B. Tattersmell of 57 Charon street, Hartford, came shooting down the hill. Tattersmell evidently became flustrated when he saw the wreck of the Dodge and in trying to stop ditched his car, breaking down the right rear and right left wheels.

The next machine to come to grief was a Ford coupe driven by Annie C. Smith, of 25 Albert square, Bridgeport. The Smith car had hardly gone wrong when a Nash touring car owned and driven by Wilhelmina Lamoureaux of 651 Huntington avenue, came along and met the fate of the others, as an effort was made to bring it to a stop.

And to make a climax the next few minutes brought the fifth wreck, when Eugene St. John, driving a Buick roadster, in which two other men were riding, was tipped as he tried to bring it to a stop.

Excepting St. John and Miss Anna Lamoureux, who was riding with her sisted, none of the passengers in the cars were seriously hurt.

The wrecked machines presented a variety of damage. Fenders, wheels, windshields, tops and tonneaus figure in the damage caused, amounting in all to several hundred dollars. Miss Lamoureaux's car has a hole in the tonneau, where a fence post went through it.

This strange series of accidents happened at a place where few such occurrences have taken place. The hill is not a dangerous one, but is part of a down grade nearly two miles in length and drivers are prone, as a general rule, to let cars roll along at an accelerated speed while coming through that section. Trying to check the speed of the four cars that were wrecked, following the wrecking of the Dodge that first got into trouble, very probably caused the other accidents, which happened with a bang, bang precision. It is not to be taken from this that any of the drivers were proceeding recklessly, but that going at good speed, an effort at a sudden stop proved disastrous.

In the mass of work that so unexpectedly piled up for Officer Stephens, working alone, the name of the driver of the first car wrecked—the Dodge—was not obtained, but will be checked up today, as the machine is here

PUTNAM

Barney Clancey of this city was found dead in a lodging house in Hartford on Friday morning. The Putnam police were notified and asked to furnish the address of relatives, but this they were unable to do. Those who knew Clancey best say that he never was heard to speak of any relative in this country.

Clancey came to Putnam some fifteen tears or more ago. No one knows from where. He has worked as a laborer for the telephone company, as a freight handler at the Putnam freight depot and as a laborer on farms in the outlying section. Clancey had an enemy in drink, has spent much time in the jail at Brooklyn and has frequently been before the city court. However, there was nothing vicious about the man. He was a good man to work and had many acquaintances in this section.

The medical examiner gave the cause of death as illuminating gas poisoning. A letter was found in his pocket reading "Dear Father—Please say masses for my father and mother."

The children's band of the Israel Putnam school furnished part of the program at the meeting of the Putnam Rotary Club. This musical company, made up of sixteen boys and girls from the first grade room taught by Miss Gertrude C. Warner, played two numbers 'Blue Eyed Sally" and "Officers March" with John Payne as conductor. Xylophones tamborines, jangles, cymbals, clappers and drums were included among the instruments of the band. Two solos by Wilhelmina E. Wheaton, chairman of the program committee also made a hit with the members. The program was different from that of usual weeks, in that music replaced a speaker.

At the meeting of the Social Circle of the Second Congregational church held at the home of Mrs. George Bradley on Grove street after a short business session Mrs. Eric Johnson, chairman of the program committee, introduced the speaker, Miss Sylvia Holt of Woodstock, who gave a most interesting account of her recent trip to England. She dwelt upon personal experiences which she related in a most pleasant manner as she contrasted the customs and manners of the two countries. Mrs. Robinson sang three numbers one of which was given with a violin obligato by Mrs. Charles L. Tower. Refreshments were served.

School Superintendent Ralph C. Jenkins has received the resignation of Miss Ernestine O. Franklin, to take effect at the close of the present term. Mrs. Franklin has been the teacher of the opportunity room at the Israel Putnam school since September. To complete the school year in this room Mr. Jenkins has secured Mrs Beatrice W. Wilbur of Putnam, formerly of Hartford. Mrs. Wilbur is a graduate of Barnard College and has had considerable teaching experience, her last work being in an opportunity room at a Hartford grammar school.

Mrs. Joseph C. Hoppin is closing her Boston home April 1st, after which she will spend a few weeks at the Hotel Gladstone in New York City.

Dr. and Mrs. T. Morris Murray are sailing soon to join their son Edward Murray in London, where he has been continuing his art studies during the past year.

A party was given for Walter Wheaton Jr., at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wheaton of Bradley street. Games were played under the direction of Miss Helen Wheaton, who assisted her mother as hostess. There was music, dancing and refreshments. Those present were Misses Judith Sabin, Madelyn Houghton, Phyllis Tatem, Lillian Fisher, Alice Perry and Majorie Steere, also Paul Sherlock, Augustus Wilson, Thomas de Beradinis, Edward Spellacy and George Wheaton.

Members of Cargill Council, K. of C., held a smoker at their rooms on Union street and listened to an interesting talk by William J. Mulligan, State District Deputy, of Thompsonville. During the evening there was vocal and instrumental music by members of the council and refreshments were served.

A a special session of the city court held in chambers, a young girl was committed to the House of the Good Shepherd, Hartford. The girl, some months ago, appeared in the city court as the victim in an assault case.

Mrs. Wesley Amas, formerly Miss Maria Marlowe of Putnam, died at her home in Torrington, Friday morning after a lingering illness. Three years ago while on her way to visit her sister, Mrs. Henry Apply, here she was taken with a shock and was confined to her bed for six months, since that time sh has had several shocks. Besides her husband, she leaves a son and a daughter, her sister and two brothers, Louis L. Marlowe and Thomas J. Marlowe, the last named of this city.

The engagement of Miss Martha Euvrard, farmerly of Pomfret, for a number of years an employe in the office of the Putnam Light and Power Company, was announced on St. Patrick's day at Pasadena, California, where the family now rasides. Miss Euvrard is a graduate of the Putnam High school. Her father, J. A. Euvrard, was for some years engaged in the plumbing business in Putnam.

Under the caption, "Engagement is revealed to friends," a Pasadena paper carries the following announcement:

"Entertaining in honor of the Research Club of Pasadena, Miss Marjorie Lorimer of 450 North El Molino avenue was hostess at a St. Patrick's dinner at her home last evening when friends of Miss Martha Euvrard and Walter Richards were surprised when their engagement was cleverly announced in the flower favors given to the guests.

"Miss Euvrard is the daughter of J. A. Euvrard of 1404 Palm Terrace, formerly of Putnam, Connecticut. Mr. Richards is the son of Mrs. James Richards of 545 Jackson street. He is a graduate of the University of Redlands and of the University of Southern California Law School and is connected with the law firm of Hahn and Hahn.

"The date of the wedding was not announced."

Alexander Gilman was in Boston last week on a business trip.

Mrs. A. D. McIntyre was a Worcester visitor last week.

Mrs. Howard C. Bradford spent Friday at Providence.

Mrs. Walter Chandler of Bridge street has been visiting her mother at Oxford, Mass.

William Warren and Elbert C. Kinney attended a coal dealers' conference at Springfield last week.

Chandler Morse, a student at Amhurst College is spending the spring vacation at his home on Seward street

Mrs. Frank Thorburn and children of East Providence are visiting Mrs. Thorburn's mother, Mrs. C. B. Gascoigne on South Main street.

Mrs. G. W. Gifford Sr., has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Webster at Willimantic.

Mrs. William A. Hall has returned from New York where she has been visiting her son, Edwin Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. William Walsh and family of New London have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bonneville of Ring street.

Mrs. David H. Yale of Meriden, who was formerly Miss Pack and last year the cooking school teacher in the home economics department at the State Trade school, has been visiting friends in Putnam.

Mrs. Judson Polley of Buffalo, N. Y., has been the guest of Mrs. Nelson Lown. Mrs. Polley lived here for a number of years.

EX-SERVICE MAN DIVORCES WIFE WHO HAS GONE WRONG

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, March 29.—William Wood was granted a divorce in the superior court here from Dorothy Jacques Wood in superior cout on the grounds of adultery. They were married in August, 1919, after he had returned from military service in Europe and she was 16. They went to Framingham, Mass., where for a period of two years they lived contentedly. Then, according to the story of the plaintiff as told on the witness stand, his wife fell into dissolute habits.

She would remain away from home for three weeks at a time, which visits she spent with her sister, who was keeping a disorderly house or was an inmate of such a house. These three weeks' visits occurred three times within a year. Plaintiff said that he remonstrated with her and on one occasion went to the house and tried to induce her to return home. She refused and after the third visit they separated. The plaintiff was not certain where she is now but he thought she was in Providence. He is living with his wife's mother who is taking care of their child, a boy of four.

Officer Sponcey told of the house kept by her sister being raided by the police and of the arrest of the sister who paid a fine for being an inmate of a disorderly house, Mrs. Wood was not there at the time the raid was made.

Judge Haines deliberated for a time as to whether, in the absence of proof of a specific act of adultery, he was justified in granting the decree, but finally decided that the presumption of guilt was strong enough. He also gave the child into the custody of the husband. The case was not contested. C. L. Torrey was the plaintiff's attorney.

WOMAN FACES PRISON TERM FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, March 29.—Mrs. Dorinda Richards of Providence street has been bound over to the superior court for violation of the liquor laws. She was charged before City Court Judge Geissler with having liquor in her possession with intent to sell, and with seven sales, a separate count appearing in the indictment for each alleged sale.

Mrs. Richards has been before the city court three times before this for liquor law violation and has twice been convicted. If found guilty in the higher court a prison term will probably be a part of the penalty, because of the two prior convictions.

The first time she was taken into custody the police captain had to deal with an infuriated woman who didn't want to be arrested, and he had to use physical as well as moral suasion.

Oliver Pechie was the witness for the prosecution. He was arrested two weeks ago charged with intoxication. He admitted that the charge was correct and when asked where he got his liquor he named Simon Berthiaume and Mrs. Richards. Berthiaume was later arrested, charged with selling liquor, pleaded guilty and was fined $400.

Pechie, who is 65, and has lived in Putnam all his life, told the court that he had bought liquor seven or eight times from Mrs. Richards. He would go to the house with an empty bottle, he said, a pint or half a pint, would meet Mrs. Richards in the entry-way and give her the bottle which she would fill from a larger bottle or a jug with the popular brand, alcohol-splits. He paid the price and asked and would take the stuff away to drink.

Mrs. Richards, testifying in her own defense, flatly denied the statements made by Pechie. She said that he had never been at her house except on two occasions and then to see her husband; that he had never asked her to sell him any liquor and she had never sold him any. Her husband, Joseph Richards, also testified and told the same story as his wife. He said that when he was sick for a period of eight weeks Pechie had come to the house to cut his hair—Pechie is a barber—and once after that to return a razor that he had taken to be sharpened; except on these two occasions he had never been at the house. Pechie admitted that he had gone there on the two visits mentioned by Mr. Richards.

Attorney Irving H. Miron, who represented Mrs. Richards, argued to the court that if Pechie were unreliable in his first statements about the visits, when he went merely as a barber, his story about the other visits should not be credited.

Judge Geissler said that he felt he was justified in holding the defendant for the superior court, and fixed the bond at $500, which was furnished.

CHAPLIN

The fifteenth Old Folks' Concert given by the XL choir of the Methodist church Willimantic at the Congregational church Wednesday evening drew out a good audience who enjoyed the well rendered program. Edwin L. Cross was director and Mrs. Charles H. Beebe, pianist.

The duet by Mrs. Remington and Arthur Clark, the tenor solos by Ray Falman and Arthur Clark, the reading, Our Wedding Day, by Mrs. Beebe, the male quartette and Cousin Jedediah were special numbers that were loudly applauded, and all responded to encores. Friends were present from North Windham, Windham and Hampton. The singers were treated to refreshments in the church vestry at the close of the concert.

Miss Chenade, teacher at the center school was ill with grip the past week necessitating closing since the school Wednesday for the remainder of the week.

Gustave H. Bockman a layman connected with the Conn. Temperance Union gave a stirring address at the Congregational church Sunday morning.

The man who bought the Bert Fowler property is making additions to the house.

AUTO ACCIDENTS.

Almost every day there are automobile accidents which give the impression of being entirely needless. Repeatedly is it seen that accidents could have been avoided had there been the exercise of a little more care, and the unfortunate part of all this is that it appears to be a general condition existing throughout the state.

This is gleaned from the analysis by the motor vehicle department of the accident figures for the past year which points out that of the 20,000 accidents in the state 90 per cent were due to carelessness.

Carelessness is by no means confined to the operation of automobiles. It is to be found in all directions and possibly because of its prevalence there is too much of it indulged in in connection with the operating of motor vehicles. When nine-tenths of the accidents result from the failure to exercise due care it means that a large proportion ought not to have happened, that those figuring in smashups, that those experiencing injuries and those suffering from breaks, cuts and bruises, as well as some who have lost their lives, have been the victims of that chance taking which goes with the failure to have the motor vehicle under control and that develops from an absence of proper care.

This is by no means a new revelation. It is so common that many accidents accentuate the fact that conditions which existed at the time of accidents should have been anticipated. Danger can be anticipated and when that is done care is invariably used.

With the large and steadily increasing number of automobiles it is necessary not only to look out for self but also to anticipate to a certain degree what can be expected from the other fellow. This has always been the case but the conditions grow worse with the constant increase in the highway users and the great freedom and speed with which some cars are driven. Good fortune may prevent a large number of accidents but it is possible for care to reduce an altogether too long list.

THE DESERTED RAILROADS.

The situation faced in the operation of certain branch line railroads these days is well illustrated by the offer which is made by the Central Vermont railroad to turn over the West River railroad, running from Brattleboro to South Londonderry, Vt., to anyone who will provide the necessary bond and agree to pay the taxes.

This does not seem so strange in view of the other railroads which are seeking to abandon certain of their short lines. They have come under the competition of motor vehicles for both passengers and freight and yet in spite of the fact that the lines have to be operated at a loss each year there is also exacted from them just as much in the way of taxation as if they were dividend paying transportation lines.

Under such circumstances there cannot be any surprise manifested over a desire to get rid of them. It means that those for whom the road was built are not appreciative enough of its service to make it a paying proposition, and at the same time it must be realized that, in certain instances at least, the railroad which is not making its expenses is being taxed for the purpose of building modern highways which make possible the competitive service which is driving them out of business.

If there is anything radically wrong with the management which has been piling up a deficit in the operation of the West River road, a line 36 miles in length, there may be a possibility for a local management to overcome the handicaps and draw into its treasury the $57,500 that would wipe out the annual loss and meet the taxation, and still earn a little something in excess. There is an opportunity for someone who has confidence, and no one would be happier to see a success made of such an undertaking than the Central Vermont. Its aim is to be relieved of the loss which it has been shouldering too long and which it sees no prospect of escaping.

AMBASSADOR TO CHINA.

Most favorably impressed has the country been with the manner in which President Coolidge has been filling vacancies in diplomatic posts. Following resignations he has for the most part named successors from among the members of the diplomatic corps, men of experience and men who have demonstrated their fitness and ability in that particular line of work. His plan has been to move them up into places of greater responsibility instead of keeping men at the post to which they were originally appointed for a long period of years and naming new men to vacancies.

It is conceivable that such is not always possible. There may be for instance those who are not in the service but who have special qualifications for filling a vacancy, and would therefore be more desirable as the representative of the government. But when it comes to filling posts under such a plan it must be agreed that the president displays the same sound judgment as by the other method.

This is disclosed in connection with the appointment of John V. A. MacMurray as minister to Peking. It is true that this appointment is credited to the suggestion of Secretary Kellogg, the advice of the secretary of state being undoubtedly sought in filling all diplomatic posts, but that only indicates the recognition of the type of man the president requires.

Mr. MacMurray has been assistant secretary of state for a considerable time, being in charge of the division of far eastern affairs. That of course means that he is in touch with the problems that must be met by the minister to China quite as well as the one actually at such a post. But in addition to that he has the advantage of having been secretary of the legation at Peking for five years and also to have served in Japan and Siam. It must be evident therefore that a man of experience has been named, and the value of that can be appreciated when it is understood that the ambassadorship to China is a position of much responsibility under present day conditions. Mr. MacMurray promises to be the man needed for that place.

GERMANY'S ELECTION.

Germany has held its election for the purpose of selecting a new president of that republic, and because of the conditions existing in that country and the opposition which is known to exist to the republic it is bound to occasion worldwide interest.

When the last of the ballots are counted the election promises to be only a test of the sentiment of the people. Most remote was the possibility of any candidate receiving a majority of the votes, the number required to insure election at this time. Germany has many parties, but none which commanded a majority of the votes or which has ever had a majority in the reichstag. Coalition government is made necessary by such a condition and while there was little of that manifested in the election of Sunday, the next election April 26, it is to be remembered, makes possible the choice of a president by plurality vote.

Thus the election of Sunday is open to the interpretation of a manoeuvre for position. Whether the several parties which are strongly for a republic, though possibly not united on other points, unite upon a candidate remains to be seen but such an outcome seems not improbable in view of the fact that the nationalist leader who has the support of other parties obtained the most votes of any candidate on the tryout. To beat him when a plurality will elect either calls for a most popular candidate or the centering of the support of the opposition upon one candidate, which move, according to the Sunday result, would insure a coalition president committed to a republic and policies in keeping with such a government as the late President Ebert has maintained.

RUBBISH CANS.

Some complaint is being made in New York because the park commissioner has not distributed more receptacles at certain much used points in Central park that that great breathing place might be relieved of the needless amount of litter that is to be seen scattered about.

The presumption is that if there were more receptacles those with litter would make use of them. Perhaps the situation in Central park is such that there are actually two few places for the throwing away of rubbish, and the people are therefore not much to blame because they leave it here, there and everywhere, but it is the experience in too many instances that no matter how many rubbish cans are located about a park or on street corners there is a failure on the part of those with things to throw away to make use of them.

It is much easier to throw a paper bag, a paper, a banana peel, a tobacco box and similar other things into the gutter than it is to carry them to a point where they can be deposited and later carried off by the street cleaners. It is easier because it has gotten to be a habit. In fact there are those who are content to throw rubbish at instead of into such a receptable. The actual presence of a sufficient number of rubbish cans doesn't mean that the litter problem and the appearance it creates would be eliminated.

It is nevertheless unfortunate that those who have the disposition and the desire to refrain from littering up public places do not have a chance to make use of rubbish cans, and by so doing set a good example for others.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

A little grated Roquefort cheese may be added to plain French dressing.

For delicate flowers a shallow copper bowl makes an ideal arrangement.

The ingredients for mayonnaise will mix more easily if they are not too cold.

Wafer-like slices of orange may be allowed to float in the grape-juice lemonade.

Add a few drops of lemon juice to the melted butter that you pour over veal kidneys.

Broiled halves of tomatoes and mushroom caps are delicious with a broiled beefsteak.

Unless string beans are very small and tender, they should be cut into slips before boiling.

A little chili sauce gives an excellent flavor to the breadcrumb stuffing for green peppers.

Eggs will be much more easily peeled if they are hard-boiled in slightly salted water.

When making currant jelly, save the pulp of the fruit, combine with raisins, and use for a jam.

Cover an egg custard pudding with halved lady fingers, sprinkle with chopped almonds, and bake.

Cook peas with very young scraped carrots, sweeten slightly and sprinkle chopped parsley.

When making a salad dressing all the dry ingredients should be mixed together before adding any liquids.

TO CLEAR DRIPPINGS

When pouring off drippings for future use, add to them an equal amount of water. When cool you will find all pieces of meat or bones will be in the bottom of the container and the cleared drippings on top.

COOKING TIME TABLE

The time required to boil vegetables depends on the age of the vegetables. Asparagus (young) should be boiled 20 to 30 minutes, (old) 30 to 60 minutes; string beans, one to two hours; beans shelled, one and one-half to two hours; beets (young) 30 to 50 minutes, (old) three to five hours; cabbages (young) 30 minutes, (old) two to two and one-half hours; cauliflower, 25 to 55 minutes.

BROOM BUYING

The best broom is usually made of the green-colored broom corn fibre. Avoid the dark reddish straws. Be sure the brush is firm on the handle. And after you have carefully purchased it be just as careful in the care of it. Never let it stand on its bristles. Suspend it so that it hangs free from the floor. Give it a bath in warm soapsuds occasionally.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Falling hair is a rather common trouble in the spring, and if it is not excessive it is a normal process that should not cause alarm.

Eggs are valuable food because they contain a large percentage of albumin (in the white) and a combination of albumin and fatty material, which together form an emulsion of glucose salts and water.

Oatmeal is valuable for its protein and fat, but to bring out its most nourishing qualities must be well cooked.

Peas, beans and lentils have a fair amount of protein, but are heavy and flesh-forming and less valuable than leafy green vegetables, which are rich in mineral salts.

Whole milk rather than skimmed milk should be given to every growing child at least twice daily, and quantities of pure drinking water should be insisted upon.

The purpose of hair tonics is to stimulate the circulation of blood through the scalp and to correct dryness or oiliness. A large part of the benefit received from tonic of this kind is due to the massage with which it is applied.

BALANCE YOUR DIET

The balanced diet is the healthy one and contains all three of the important vitamines. The principal food value of bread and meat lies in the protein content but they are low in vitamines B and C, and if you would be sure of more balanced rations insuring plenty of each essential, use the citrus fruits often. The juice of the grapefruit has a high content of vitamines B and C that provide the proper amount of carbohydrates and salts. Grapefruit supplies the blood with an alkaline reserve which effectively combats acidosis.

SOME UNIQUE IDEAS

Two simple and inexpensive aids to keep the children interested on rainy days or when mother is entertaining. Draw with white chalk on the kitchen table, on black or dark brown paper or on a piece of board, numbers, letters, words, apples, jack-o-lanterns, valentine hearts or animal forms. Let the children cover these with split peas. This device will amuse and instruct children of four to seven years of age.

Secure for the older child a note book, discarded furniture catalogues, scissors and paste. Make a note book house, selecting for the first page furniture suitable for the porch, use the living room. Continue until an entire house is pictured in the note book.

A TRAY FOR THE CHILD

The kiddies do so love to help mother serve the lemonade or grape juice that some of us have discovered a tray to hold the glasses that is proof against mishap; the white enameled muffin pan. Each glass stays in its own compartment while the little hands carry the tray around.

DICTATES OF FASHION

A plaited jabot of white chiffon strikes a demure note on a simple dress of black satin.

A white satin frock has a back cape of silk fringe, knotted after the fashion of fringed shawls, to match the tunic of fringe.

Poplodrap is the latest French fabric to be combined with crepe in the new morning dresses. It is a variation of poplin and combines beautifully with the softer material.

A black cloth frock, its slender banding dotted with flat silver buttons, terminated in a flare at front. A scarf of green matches the felt hat.

They call the latest rain protectors Tom Thumb umbrellas. Why? Because they are short and thick. The stubby handles open to reveal a powder puff, rouge, lipstick and "mad money."

Velvet trimmed and bound straw hats are being worn at Palm Beach, in addition to white and other self-trimmed felts. Some ombre felts and straws, purples, fuchsias, reds and mostly yellows are seen.

Most women are sticking to the small hats with the back brims a trifle more apparent than the winter style, and shaped to the neck. Milan and silk ribbon, soft French felt and the straw braids combined with silk are popular.

A new fashion note is the small wrapped turban made of Roman striped silk or ribbon and a scarf of silk in a solid color which has a border around one side and one end. These come in marvelous color combinations and will add a touch of color to the country costume.

HERE'S A NEW COLOR

Have we a new color among us? We have. The very latest one, as late as a sporting extra, is blotting paper pink. It is being shown in a smart shop here today in the form of an evening cape of silk velvet worn over a simple straight evening frock of the same shade embroidered in lavender colored pearls.

SPORTS COSTUMES GAY

Sport both in England and America is a pretty solemn business, but the newest sport costumes imported from the tight little isle are anything but subdued. The newest is a model done in kasha with a beige background and overlaid with a harlequin design in red and purple. Over the harlequin skirt is worn a plain gray tunic belted with red, topped by a harlequin jacket. Only a calliope is needed to make it fit for a circus parade.

FRESH WINDOW BOXES

One of the puzzling problems that confront those who would have effective window boxes continuously from spring to fall is how to keep them supplied with blossoms and foliage of sufficient variety and freshness.

Much of this difficulty can be overcome by the use of potted plants, which can be easily replaced when past their prime. But a better plan is to have the boxes made in such a way that they will contain not only these removable growing flowers but also a separate water compartment in which cut blossoms or long-lived foliage branches, such as laurel, can be placed. The wated space is so connected with the earth section, as its province is to serve merely as a vase. Metal crosspieces here and there in it will help to hold the flowers or twigs in position.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES

After knitting a sweater lay it out flat, place a damp cloth on top of it and press flat with a hot iron.

Instead of basting a garment before stitching it, pin the parts together with pins placed vertically on the edge of the goods and stitch inside of it.

In sewing a sleeve in a garment hold the sleeve toward you and the body of the garment away from you. Then the sleeve will not show. It is a good plan not to run the seam in the sleeve until after the sleeve has been basted in the garment. Then if there is extra fullness it may be taken out at the seam.

When the home dressmaker attempts to sew fur on a dress or coat collar she is puzzled as to how she should go about it. Cotton tape should be sewed to the leather edge of the fur, using an overcasting stitch and turning the raw edge to the inside. The tape is then sewed to the material and the fur turned over it.

FINE SEWING

On baby's dresses, where neatness and daintiness are essential, a splendid way to insert lace is to have a line of hemstitching made where you wish the lace to go. Then cut through the hemstitching and sew the insertion on either side with the fine stitches. This will mean a lovely neat finish and save you a great deal of time and work in rolling hems in fine materials.

GIVEN A NEW ASPECT

The slim silhouette still remains but it is given a newer aspect by the addition of fullness just below the knees or beginning at the hips. This is achieved by inserted godets, by handkerchief draperies or by a circular effect. Skirts are very short and in many instances the waistline has moved up several inches. Not that it is actually defined but it is suggested in a noticeable fashion.

DON'T OVERDO IT

A few green plants in the house give a cheerful appearance. But, don't take the most cheerful bay window in your home and crowd it full of tables and tabourets holding pot and pot of greens. Have one or two if you wish, but leave room for big comfortable chairs in the sunny spot so that people can enjoy your home, not just plants.

WHEN TO ADD THE NUTS

When the fudge has reached the soft-ball stage, remove from fire and let cool. Beat and add nuts at this time. All the best flavor of the nuts will be retained if they are added when the mixture is cool not hot.

SPECKED LEMONS

If the lemons have small brown specks on them, soak them for 15 minutes in cold water and then scrub vigorously with a vegetable brush. This measure will remove the specks and will not in any way harm the lemon.

CONCERNING WOMEN

In the rice fields of Siam the women do all the work.

Women smokers are no longer a novelty in Berlin's hotel lobbies.

In Korea the sexes are rigidly separated, even within the family circle.

In Tripoli, wives are bought at market, the price depending on market fluctuations.

The Japanese geisha girls are taxed higher than any other woman in that country.

With more than 14,000 divorces granted last year, Texas leads all the other states in the Union.

Wives and sweethearts in Japan are never kissed, for to do so means risking social ostracism.

Miss Lucille Vaughan, a student at the University of Kansas, wears her pet fox around her neck as a fur piece.

MAILING CANDY

When mailing home-made candy, wrap each piece in waxed paper before packing it in the box. It is the only way to be certain of its safe arrival.

USE THE TEA BALL

When using spices for flavoring broths or stews, put them in the tea ball, and then place in the broth to boil. They can then be removed quickly and easily as soon as the desired flavor is obtained.

RECIPES

Pumpkin Pie Recipe: Mix thoroughly the following ingredients: Three eggs well beaten, two cups of canned pumpkin, three-fourths cup of sugar three-fourths teaspoon of salt, one cup of rich cream, one-half cup of milk and one-fourth cup of fine chopped orange marmalade. Turn into a deep pie plate lined with rich pastry, moisten the rim and lay around a strip of pastry cut one inch wide. Flute the edge with the thumb and finger building it well up. Bake at a high temperature (400 F.) to cook the pastry on the bottom and sides. Reduce the heat and continue cooking until a silver knife inserted in the center will be clean when withdrawn. Pumpkin pie, like custard pies, should not be allowed to boil, as that will cause them to become watery. Chill and serve with whipped cream with orange extract.

Pineapple Cream Pie: Scald one can of grated pineapple in a double boiler; sift together six tablespoons of cornstarch, one-half teaspoon of salt and three-fourths cup of sugar, and, gradually, stir into the hot pineapple; continue stirring and cooking until the mixture thickens, cover and let cook twenty minutes; add two tablespoons of butter, and the juice and rind of one small lemon; mix thoroughly and cool partially and turn into a pie plate lined with flaky or plain pastry. Roll some of the pastry into a long strip and cut with a pastry jagger into strips one-half inch wide; arrange these over the filling lattice fashion, sprinkle lightly with granulated sugar, and bake until an amber color. Serve partially cooled or thoroughly chilled.

Are You Discouraged?

Zaharoff, the Fireman

Son of a Russian in Athens, Greece, Zacharie Basile-Zaharoff began life in an humble way and had to battle for every step of his early progress.

With little schooling, he early became a fireman and earned his first money. He was 28 when the British acquired Cypress and he went to the island under an assumed name and as a British subject. Then he sold military supplies to General Wolseley, but returned immediately afterward to Constantinople and became involved in a lawsuit.

Going to Athens he was cast into prison, and to avoid long drawn legal proceedings he bought the corpse of a man who had been shot, bribed the guard, and left the body of "Zaharoff, shot attempting to escape."

Working his way to Paris, he arrived there with five francs in his pocket and eventually got a job as a day laborer in the Krupp factory at Essen. After trying to be a merchant in a small way he became a traveling salesman for the firm of Vickers-Maxim, famous ammunition makers.

Successful as a salesman, he soon had a large income. He was naturalized as a French citizen and operated in the Paris Bourse. In a short time he became rich and gradually bought into Vickers-Maxim until he had control. He also acquired interests in banks and industrial concerns.

Tall, slender and careless in his dress, but invariably wearing a flower in his buttonhole, he was called the "mystery-man." When he sent a check for a half-million francs in connection with a government transaction, the official thought it was from a harmless crank and ignored it. And when the world war broke out he averted a panic on the Bourse and loaned large sums to Great Britain. Credited with having been the financial backer of Venezelos, he became a power in diplomatic circles of many countries and a great philanthropist. Oxford gave him its highest honor, France decorated him and England knighted him Sir Basil Zaharoff.

Zaharoff acquired an interest in Monte Carlo, built a beautiful home in Paris and at 74, is called the richest man in Europe.

Today's Birthdays

Joseph Caillaux, the former French premier who is again active in politics after having once been exiled from his country, born 62 years ago today.

De Wolf Hopper, who has entertained two generations of playgoers as a comedian in the musical shows, born in New York City, 57 years ago today.

Henry M. Bates, dean of the University of Michigan law school, born in Chicago, 56 years ago today.

Dr. Alexander C. Humphreys, president of Stevens of Technology, born in Edinburgh, 74 years ago today.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Alexander C. Humphreys, who today enters upon his seventy-fifth year, has been president of Stevens Institute of Technology for a quarter of a century. Like many others who have risen to prominence in American educational work, Dr. Humphreys is a native of Scotland. His early training was received in a private school conducted by his father. At the age of 14 he went to work. His first employment was with a New Jersey gas lighting company, and eventually he became recognized as an expert in the field of illuminating engineering, having in the meantime taken a four-year course at the institution of which he later became president. In recent years he has filled the presidency of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and other technical organizations of national scope. Dr. Humphreys has been a prolific writer on subjects related to his profession.

While throwing hay to his cattle William Keough, of Arlington, Vt., sneezed, and in the act lost his false teeth down the chute to the manger. An all night search for the lost article was fruitless and the farmer has reached the conclusion that one of his cows has an extra, set of teeth.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

RADIO AND HASTINGS, NEBRASKA

"I got Hastings, Nebraska, last night!"

Hastings is on the lips of every radio fan who merits the name. Hastings, an obscure village of Nebraska, is the goal of millions. There may be other cities, places like Lincoln, Omaha, North Platte, but for dial turners, Hastings is Nebraska, Nebraska, Hastings.

"Radio is a Croesus of fame, playing the Prince for many Cinderella cities," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters at Washington, D. C.

"Once Hastings was just one of the 'American cities under 12,000 population.' Now it is a radio Mecca. A tube set that has not made a pilgrimage to Hastings and back is an outcast, indeed. It is at once the best known and least known city in the United States. The relay station for KDKA of Pittsburgh, located there is nearly in the geographical center of the United States.

"Absence of tall buildings in Hastings and of high hills in the neighboring countryside and the presence of good ground water are conditions counted in favor of establishing a station at this place.

"When America tunes in on Hastings, it gets a Main street town on the edge of what used to be called the Great American Desert. If Hastings could broadcast motion pictures of its activities it would show the large pens down near the railroad where steers and sheep are stopping off for a bite to eat (according to government regulation) before reentraining for Kansas City or Chicago. We might see laborers leaving for the sugar beet fields near Grand Island on the Platte river. For scenery there are the foothills just to the west, out-riders of the Bad Lands farther north. Probably we would be shown farming operations to the east, where fertile loess soil, sometimes 100 feet deep, supports corn Jack of the Beanstalk would admire, and seas of wheat. And we would see the volcanic ash diggings where raw material for highly advertised scouring powders is scooped up.

"Although wireless telegraph stations pepper a world map, radio broadcasting stations are still scarce except in the United States, Canada, Cuba and England. Cuba, with 36 stations is far ahead of England with 21.

"France has eleven broadcasting stations to German's nine. Even India will shortly have ten. Despite severe governmental restriction in nearly every place except in North America, new radio towers are springing up all over the face of the earth. On the whole American listeners would find the overseas programs little different, except in language, if they could get them successfully.

"Argentinians now sit in on the discussions of their national legislature. The heated debates are carried to the firesides on the pampas. Vienna and some other European capitals have broadcast operas which have been denied American fans thus far. In Finland it is now becoming fashionable to go to your favorite cafe and listen to the evening program.

"Despite the challenge of the electric bulb Old Sol has had a pretty stern hand on the habits of man. Until radio came along, the sun alone seemed able to stir up a froth of activity on the earth, as it swept the surface with light and plunged it in darkness. Then a few weeks ago music for evening diners in the United States served as a breakfast concert in Australia. Old Sol's scepter wavered then. To add insult to the injury that that accomplishment gave to the sun's control of man's affairs, residents on the West African coast abstain from sun-ordained sleep until 2 a. m. to hear that same American jazz.

"Once the sun considered it pretty good time to travel 27,000 miles around the earth in 12 hours. On a recent relay test radio telegraphy galloped around the earth in five seconds.

"Broadcasting is too recent a development to have experience with the ogre war. What would happen to it under military necessity is mostly conjecture. The last war may have cast a portending shadow by the fact that broadcasting has been suppressed in the occupied territory of Germany. The League of Nations, in the interest of preserving peace, is reported to be planning a great station on Mt. Saleve, overlooking Geneva, capable of sending around the world. Mexico is probably the only country which has made use of radio broadcasting in war. During the recent revolution bulletins from the front were put on the air at Mexico City."

Stories That Recall Others

Counting the Chicks.

In the early settlement of this country money was not used much as a medium of exchange. The farmer traded his produce for the merchant's goods, and hence the expression "trading."

A grocer tells this story of an incident he witnessed in a country store several years ago. A little girl came into the store carrying an egg and said, "Mr. Brown, I want an egg's worth of 'lasses." Mr. Brown got the "lasses" for her, and as she started out she turned and said, "I may trade some more today, 'cause there's another hen on."

A Town Booster.

There is a certain suburb which is very proud of the state of cleanliness maintained there, and seldom miss an opportunity to impress the visitor with that fact. They even boast a flock of white pigeons.

Recently little Henry was talking enthusiastically about the pigeons to an admiring visitor. He concluded by assuring her that "Really, all pigeons are white. Those downtown are colored by smoke. Even some of the people who have lived down there a long time are colored. This is a clean place."

People talk about the "flowing bowl" when they know it isn't the bowl that flows.

SWEPT DOWN SHETUCKET, RAIDERS PURSUE HOOCH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 29.—It developed late Sunday that Lieut. Frank McLean and Federal Agent Stanton L. Briggs had a thrilling experience, being carried over the Shetucket river rapids for two miles in a leaky boat and with one broken oar, in connection with the raid at the Mike Moritz home, Sunday afternoon. A gallon jar partly filled with moonshine was recovered from the rushing water into which it had been thrown upon the approach of the raiders, by Officers Briggs and Bombria who plunged into several feet of water to the rescue. It was believed that a second jar had also been thrown in and the lieutenant and federal agents put chase in an old rowboat. They had hardly started on their cruise when, to their dismay, they found themselves caught in swirling rapids against which the wielding of the lone oar by Officer [illegible] was of no effect. The officers were washed over their dangerous course and had several narrow escapes from floundering over rocks [illegible] were well on the way to parts unknown, at South Windham, when a successful landing was made. With tripping shoes and perspiring brows, the officers returned through the woods to join their associate raiders.

FATALLY INJURED WHILE RIDING IN FREIGHT CAR

Syracuse N. Y., March 29.—James [illegible] 23 of Holyoke, Mass., was fatally injured today when riding atop of a car laden with silk attached to a New York Central train.

On the eastern edge of the city the train passed through a tunnel and it was here that he was crushed by contact with the upper stone work.

A companion, William McGrath of Holyoke, escaped injury. Upon arrival at Utica he telephoned this city, notifying authorities of a mishap to Ryan at the tunnel.

James Turner.

The funeral of James Turner of No. 53 Fifth street, was held Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the rooms of Undertakers Church and Allen, No. 15 Main street. The service was conducted by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church. Burial took place in the soldiers' lot at Yantic cemetery, Rev. Mr. Ricketts conducting the committal service. Relatives and friends were present. The bearers were Geo. Kies, John Irish, John Service and George Crocker, all Civil war veterans.

Miss Adelaide M. McKay.

The funeral of Miss Adelaide M. McKay, who died on March 26 at her home, 27 Yerrington Avenue, was held at the parlors of Henry Allen & Son, 88 Main street, on Saturday, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. A. N. Foster of the Universalist Church officiated at the funeral and also gave the committal service at the grave in Hamilton Avenue Cemetery in Norwich.

Miss McKay was the daughter of Charles James McKay and Angeline Smith, and was born in North Franklin, seventy-four years ago. She lived many years on the McKay farm on the North Stonington road in the town of Preston, and later with her brother, the late George F. McKay, until a few years ago. Since his death, she has lived alone at her home. The cause of her death was valvular disease of the heart.

Three brothers and one sister have pre-deceased her, and she leaves one nephew, William McKay, who was brought up by the late George F. McKay.

The bearers were: John Johnson of Yerrington Avenue, Eugene F. Baton, Sterling Averill, John A. Phillips, Henry E. Davis, and John Greiner.

There were many friends at the funeral, and a large number of floral tributes to the deceased. Miss McKay had lived several years on Yerrington Avenue, and was loved by the people of the neighborhood, and always looked up to as a quiet, energetic and helpful neighbor.

William S. Doty

At 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon the funeral of William S. Doty was held from his home, No. 41 Cliff street. There was a very large attendance of relatives and friends, including delegations from the Norwich police department and from Sedgwick Post, No. 1 G. A. R. The service was conducted by Rev. J. Harlow Graham pastor of Trinity M. E. church, and burial took place in the Comstock cemetery, Montville.

The honorary bearers were the following members of Sedgwick Post, No. 1 G. A. R.: Orrin M. Price, commander of the post, John Irish, John Service and George Crocker. The active bearers were the following members of the police department: Chief George Linton, and Officers Charles Perry, Elmer Allen, Timothy Driscoll, Patrick Murphy and Joseph Farrell. Rev. Mr. Graham conducted the committal service at the grave. There were many beautiful floral remembrances.

The funeral arrangements were by Undertakers Church and Allen.

Snow at Midnight.

After rain in the early part of Sunday evening, with falling temperature, there was snow falling about midnight and continuing for about three hours, but it melted as fast as it fell.

TWO UNDER ARREST AFTER MACHINES COLLIDE ON NORTH MAIN STREET

Following an auto crash near 6th and North Main streets about 10:45 o'clock Saturday night, Claude G. Hanna of No. 215 West Town street was held by the local police on a charge of reckless driving and William Joseph Raill, Jr., No. 3 Madison street, Jewett City, was held on a charge of driving an "O" car without a license. According to the story told the police Mr. Hanna was proceeding along North Main street and Harrison Wilson of No. 576 North Main street was going up North Main street. Mr. Hanna claimed that Raill pulled out from the curve in front of his car.

Mr. Hanna hit the machine Raill was driving and also collided with Mr. Wilson's machine. The Raill machine was pushed against a machine owned by Louis Metivier which was parked in front of Mr. Metivier's place at No. 470 North Main street. Mr. Hanna said he was going about 25 miles an hour.

After investigating the accident the police held Hanna on a charge of reckless driving and he was released on bonds of $200. It was found that Raill was driving a public service car owned by Steve Tackman of Hill street, Jewett City. He could not produce a public service driver's license and had no regular driver's license with him. His bond was set at $100.

Raill's car lost a wheel and was otherwise damaged. All four machines were more or less damaged. No one was injured.

PASSION SERMON BY PRIEST FROM BRIDGEPORT

"My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" the cry of the Son of God in the garden of Gethsemane, was the text of the thoughtful sermon by Rev. Alfred Driscoll of Bridgeport at the special Lenten service at St. Patrick's church Sunday evening before a large congregation.

The two weeks between now and Easter, the preacher said, are set aside for the remembrance of the sufferings of Jesus and are known as passiontide. The church is in her most sombre apparel and the liturgy in its most solemn tones. We need not go beyond the garden to contemplate the sufferings of Jesus, for every agony of mind and body is to be found there. Anticipation, we know, is ofttimes worse than the reality, but Jesus could not wait, he must anticipate his pain, and in a sense be His own executioner. His passion was the desire of His sacred heart and that desire must be gratified. The sins of the world crowd upon Him, mock Him, beat Him to the ground and He cries out, "My God, my God, why has thou forsaken me?" He set aside His divinity and took up his humanity and allowed himself to suffer to the utmost.

We know what this crushing sense of failure is and we feel at times as if we were deserted by God and man. This is what our blessed Lord felt and there was also that still greater weight, the fact of ridicule. This is what Christ suffered because He heard them cry, "He saved others, himself he cannot save." There is something overwhelming and appalling in these thoughts. He is surrounded by enemies, like a pack of wolves, He hears the people cry, "Crucify him, crucify him." The chalice with its bitterest dregs is pressed to His lips, but He raises His voice to heaven in prayer for peace, for strength, for His church which was yet in its swaddling clothes. And that prayer was answered, for angels came and ministered to Him. So to us will come the angels to minister if we remain in prayer and man will be filled with grace in their souls. Let us then resolve that we will cling to this faith of God and that we shall be found among the saved who gather the fruits of the passion of Jesus Christ.

Mercadente's vespers were sung by the choir with fine effect under the direction of Organist Frank L. Farrell, the solo parts being taken by Mrs. Farrell, Miss Loretta Bellefleur and Frank J. Aubrey. The Veni Creator was rendered by a male chorus in admirable harmony and volume, and the service closed with benediction of the blessed sacrament.

FOR SUPERIOR COURT IN SHOOTING CASE

Probable cause being found by Deputy Judge H. H. Pettis at the Saturday morning session of the city court, Anthony Zigarelli, 38, of No. 35 Roath street, was bound over to the May term of the criminal superior court on a charge of aggravated assault. A motion to reduce the bond from $5,000 to $2,500 was allowed by Judge Pettis. The charge grew out of the shooting of Zigarelli's stepdaughter, Sarah Garrora, 15, at their home on Roath street, March 8th. Zigarelli, it is alleged, was intoxicated at the time, and after some words with his wife attempted to shoot her. The stepdaughter stepped between husband and wife in an effort to prevent the shooting and got the bullet in her arm, the bone being shattered.

The girl was the chief witness. She was a rather unwilling witness and much questioning was necessary to get the story from her. She told of her stepfather being brought home intoxicated, and of an argument he had with his wife. He wanted to go out again but Mrs. Zigarelli was not willing that he do so. She said she saw the gun in his hand and that he was toying with it.

Thomas Angelo, brother-in-llaw of the girl, told of hearing the shot and of seeing Zigarelli go out of the room. He said his back was turned at the time and he did not see who fired the shot.

Ralph Divito testified as to the arrest of Zigarelli by Captain Thomas Murphy and himself.

William Dempsky, 24, of this city, was fined $15 and costs for violation of the motor vehicle laws in driving an automobile without a driver's license.

Two men were sent to jail for 10 days on intoxication charges. They were also assessed costs.

NORWICH MAN UNDER CHARGES IN WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Carl F. Bradlow of 160 Hickory street, Norwich, will be in the police court here Monday morning to answer to a charge of assault on Frank Marceau whom he is accused of attacking in a wooden section of the city off Prospect street, at a point where two new streets, Monticello and Summit street extension, join. Marceau resides in an adjoining lane which runs off Prospect stret to Monticello street. The case remained somewhat of a mystery to the police Sunday, as the events leading up to the assault had not been definitely established.

The facts secured are that Bradlow with five other Norwich young men drove to the vicinity of the Marceau home, and in some manner met Marceau, who is well beyond middle age. Bradlow stated that the older man called him a vile name and he struck him. Both men desplayed marks from the conflict. Marceau notified the police and Lieutenant MacLean and Officer Lariviere hurried to the place but the Norwich machine had left. At midnight, about an hour and one-half after the assault, the car stopped on Union street and a police officer arrested Bradlow who readily admitted, it is claimed, that he was the only one in the party responsible for the assault. Bradlow was given his temporary freedom on bonds Sunday.

Work on repairing the roads in Scotland began last week. The tractor is being run by Harold Kenyon. The mud is drying rapidly in the worst section of the roads.

SPEAKS ON BENEFITS OF PROHIBITION YEAR

At Trinity Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning Rev. R. H. White, Assistant Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, told of the enormous benefits of prohibition as shown by the contrast between the number of people in the jails of Connecticut in the years before and the years since prohibition.

Mr. White quoted the following figures of prisoners in Connecticut jails in 1915, 1916, and 1917, the years before prohibition, and in 1921, 1922, 1923 and 1924, the years since prohibition, which were taken from original records for the Connecticut Anti-Saloon League:

1915, drunkenness, 5,239; breach of peace and assault, 2,156; vagrancy, 891; violation liquor law, 45; total No. prisoners, 12,827.

1916, drunkenness, 5,164; breach of peace and assault 2,533; vagrancy, 882; violation liquor law, 37; total No. prisoners, 14,501.

1917*, drunkenness, 7,314; breach of peace and assault 2,617; vagrancy 882; violation liquor law, 88; total No. prisoners 15,552.

1921, drunkenness, 943; breach of peace and assault, 744; vagrancy 133; violation liquor law, 33; total No. prisoners 4,451.

1922, drunkenness, 1,463; breach of peace and assault, 836; vagrancy, 132; violation liquor law, 618; total No. prisoners 5,760.

1923, drunkenness, 2,473; breach of peace and assault, 840, vagrancy, 80; violation liquor law, 701; total No. prisoners 6,825.

1924, drunkenness, 3,353; breach of peace and assault, 1,265; vagrancy, 139; violation liquor law, 1,039; total No. prisoners, 9,340.

*Last year before prohibition.

The figures for the last three years before prohibition, he said, show a steadily increasing number of prisoners for drunkenness and related offenses. In 1921, the first year of real national and state prohibition the prisoners for drunkenness were reduced by nearly seven-eighths. Prisoners sent to jail for breach of the peace and assault were reduced by nearly three fourths. The total jail population was less than a third of what it was before prohibition.

The death rate of the state has been reduced for the last four years by about one fourth. Nearly 5,000 fewer people die every year in Connecticut as a result of prohibition notwithstanding poor enforcement. Alcoholic insanity has been cut down by three fourths.

We are all benefitted far more than we realize by the turning into the stream of legitimate business of at least 50 million dollars a year in this state, that was formerly either wasted on drink or was not ever earned at all.

These benefits came to Connecticut as a gift from the other states. This state had no part at all in bringing to pass national prohibition. Because the endowment came without any effort on our part the churches and the moral forces have not yet been fully aroused to protest and make permanent its benefits. Weak and corrupt enforcement threaten our inheritance. Half of it is already gone. The forces of political greed and corruption that have profited through the bootlegger and determined to block stricter enforcement by defeating the proposed Wheeler bills. Many good people are deceived by mistatements of the actual conditions and by plausable and insincere arguments. It is the duty of intelligent Christian people to find out the facts and to join heartily in creating public sentiment to support these law enforcement measures, said Mr. White. If the saving of human lives by the thousand in our own state, the forestalling of sickness and sin and misery, the prevention of dire poverty, the leading of youth from the paths of temptation and the protection of the children and the home do not constitute the first duty of the Christian church, then the plain and fundamental teachings of the Gospels must be disbelieved.

PREACHES STRONG SERMON ON THE WORD "LOST"

The story of the word Lost was told by Rev. Dr. William P. Merrill, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church of New York city, at the united service held at the Central Baptist church the fifth of the series of union Lenten services held under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, through the use of the Sturtevant fund.

Dr. Merrill took for his text, "The Son of Man is come back to seek and to save that which is lost," laying particular emphasis on the fact that this is the business of Christianity and the business of the Christian church in this world. This, said Dr. Morrill, was the mission of Christ, and, if it was His mission, it is also our mission.

A definition of the word saved would be hard to get and our fathers drew a definite line between the saved and the lost. For them there was no neutral shade, things were either black or white. We, today find that there is good in the worst of us and bad in the best of us, in fact, all of us are about the same. Our fathers believed that good deeds by bad people were bad deeds. We do not believe this. It is good that we are more lenient but there is a danger of a loss of driving power; the idea is gained that God is easy-going, easy to get along with no matter what we do. This belief is an awful lie, told by the prince of liars. Christ came to this world and died for a real redemption from a real danger.

Let us turn to the Gospel of the Gospel, the story of the lost sheep, the lost coin, and the lost son. In these stories Christ gives us four pictures of what it means to be lost.

In the story of the lost sheep, Christ pictured that to be lost meant not yet found. The sheep strayed away, it was lost and bewildered. There was no hint of wickedness in this story, there was no need for repentence, the sheep was simply lost. Many people are lost in just this way, they are out of touch, they wander in the dark, yet they are not bad people they are not foolish, they are simply bewildered. I believe that the young people of today are better morally and more religious than in any time past, but, they are lost, many of them. Many of them are perplexed by the polished agnosticism taught in colleges and schools, by the codes of social life and by the coldness of the church.

God is a God of patience, He went in search of those who were lost. This was the way God worked and we should do likewise. The shepherd risked something to save his sheep and we, too, should be willing to go out of beaten paths into the wilderness in search of the lost sheep.

There is a second group of lost people who are like the lost coin. They are not in danger but are simply out of use. The coin was made to be useful, to help the world and bring comfort to people. So were these people who are lost and these people are not foolish, they are not in doubt. Christ brought back into life a man of this type by simply going home to dine with him. Little acts of social kindness on our part may bring back a lost coin. God is always sweeping His house for lost coins and it is the business of the church to reattach the detached.

A third picture was that of the lost son. He took the money and went to a far country. Heroe for the first time the word lost takes a tragic meaning. This son would have been lost forever had he not repented and returned home. In the first two story pictures Christ showed a shepherd seeking and the woman searching, but, in the third story He does not show this, He shows the father waiting. By divine privilege the human will is supreme. God will not and we cannot avoid the right of the human soul to make its choice. The lost boy may be followed by love, prayer and influence, but he can only be made to return home through his own choice of will. He must return home and say, "Father I have sinned." That is the only way he can return. How beautiful a picture Christ paints of the return of the sinner, it is one which causes us to feel ashamed at the way in which we treat the returned sinner. It should teach us to be more like Christ in helping and welcoming those who have sinned and repented.

There is a fourth picture, however, and a most important one, the picture of the elder brother. He stayed home was about his business, did not waste money, yet Christ told this story with him in mind. The elder brother was lost in his dead, dull, dry respectability, self satisfaction and self righteousness. He stood away, a bitter and sullen look in his face, refusing to enter. His case was the most hopeless of all. Christ pictured a happy ending to the stories of the first three lost people, but this fourth person's story was left unfinished.

We people who never get very far off the path of conventions, morality, piousness, those who are self satisfied and self righteous, should remember this picture. The elder brother was lost in the fullest sense of the word. It is not the man who does not pray who is lost, it is the man who prays saying, "Thank God I'm not like other men," who is lost.

The fate of the elder brother was not pictured, his story was left unfinished by the Master for his case was more hopeless than all the others. He was narrow, unbrotherly, unloving and satisfied with himself. We Christians should be careful lest we be the elder brother, we must do as Christ did, go out of our way to help the lost, welcome them back, ever remembering to pray every day, "God be merciful to me, a sinner." If you forget that fact, if you forget that we are all sinners, you are in danger of being lost in the worst way, just as the elder brother in the story of the prodigal son. We do not need to change our way of looking at life, we are right in saying that the world is not all black and white, but we should remember that as Christ painted a picture of finding the lost, so we should act and do as followers of Him.

Previous to the sermon of the evening Edwin Hill, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., announced that the service next Sunday evening would be held at the United Congregational church, the service to open at 8 o'clock, when The Crucifixion would be rendered by members of local church choirs, other local singers and out of town singers.

OBITUARY

Philias Dion

Philias Dion, well known Taftville resident, died at his home, No. 21 Merchants avenue, Saturday morning following an illness of about three months. In St. Pi, Canada, Mr. Dion was born October 26, 1857, the son of Antoine and Louise Decelle Dion. In 1875 he came to the United States for a year, then returning to Canada, taking up a commercial course at St. Cesaire college. Following the completion of his course he came again to this country and located in Taftville, having resided there since that time.

At St. Bonaventure, Canada, April 12, 1889, Mr. Dion was united in marriage with Mary Eliza Rousseau. Seven of ten children born to them are now living. When Mr. Dion first located in Taftville he entered the employ of the Ponemah store and in 1888 he established a grocery business under his own name. The store flourished and became one of the most prominent stores in Taftville.

Mr. Dion was a member and trustee of the Sacred Heart church, Taftville and was a member of Ponemah Council. No. 34, Knights of Columbus, St. Jean De Baptiste and the St. Louis societies. He took a very active interest in all these organizations while his health permitted.

Surviving are his wife and seven children: Ralph C. Dion of Taftville, Sister St. Julien of the Congregation of Notre Dame of Montreal, Lin R. Dion of Taftville, Asa J. Dion of Tufts college, Violet C. Dion of New Rochelle college, Jerome U., and Julian A. Dion, both of Taftville. Mr. Dion was a brother of the late Hormidas Dion, whose death occurred while he was mayor of Willimantic. He leaves one brother, Antoine Dion of Willimantic.

In 1921 Mr. Dion toured eastern Europe and in 1923 made a trip to the Holy Land and Europe. He was one of the best known residents of Taftville and had many warm friends who deeply regret his death.

Dance For Miss Noyes

Mrs. Francis Leonard Kellogg and Mrs. Walter Chadwick Noyes gave a dance Friday night at the Cosmopolitan club, New York, for their respective daughters, Miss Virginia Kellogg and Miss Ruth Noyes. The girls are students at Miss Spence's school, New York and will not make their debut for a year or two. In advance of the dance Misses Marian and Catherine Noyes, sisters of Miss Ruth Noyes gave a dinner at 30 Park avenue, New York for out-of-town guests and older friends of the families. The guests at the dance included many of the classmates of Miss Noyes and Miss Kellogg at the Spence school, and young college men home for Easter.

The Misses Noyes are daughters of Judge Charles W. C. Noyes, Old Lyme summer residents.

CONFIRMED AS RECEIVER FOR UNCAS PAPERBOARD

Frank W. Browning, of Montville, who has been treasurer of the Uncas Paperboard company at Thamesville, was confirmed as temporary receiver of the company by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the short calendar session of the superior court at New London Friday morning.

An application that Ernest E. Rogers of New London, state treasurer, be substituted for Anson T. McCook, former treasurer, in an action brought by the state of Connecticut against the Groton & Stonington Street Railway Co., was granted by Judge Brown.

An application for substitution of Herman N. Silver, trustee of the bankrupt estate of Stanley L. Dreifus, in the action instituted by Dreifus against Lubchansky, was also granted.

An order that the plaintiff in the case of Charles V. Alquist against Effie M. Alquist pay the defendant an allowance for defense was entered by Judge Brown. In accordance with the order the plaintiff will pay the sum of $50, half of which shall be payable within two weeks, and the balance at time of trial.

Judge Brown took the papers after hearing arguments on demurrers to claims for relief in cross complaints in the case of Alvin T. Church against William Church. The court also took the papers after hearing arguments of demurrers in the case of Speirs, administratrix against the city of New London, and in the case of Angie London against Hyman London et al. Other matters on the motion list were either stricken from the list or postponed for later hearing.

Motion for default was denied in Bilderbeck & Langdon, Inc., vs. Dickinson et al.

CHAPMAN TECH BASKETBALL RECORD FOR PAST SEASON NOT IMPRESSIVE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 29—Contrasting the season record of the Chapman Technical High school basketbally record with that of last season, and at the same time reviewing the activities of the Red and Black machine this year, shows that the local High school enjoyed not even a mediocre season. True enough the warriors from the local institution won the Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic basketball crown, by defeating both Stonington and Westerly, the two teams entered besides Tech. But the importance of a team's season is traced directly to the games won and lost during one season. In this respect, while the several other major basketball teams in this city managed to get an even break dehad their victories overlap their defeats, saw this not true of Chapman Tech. This team fared worse than any other team in the city as far as wins and losses were concerned. In all out of a season of 22 games played, the number won were 10 while the defeats numbered two more, the Red and Black finishing the season with 12 defeats.

It is true that the quintet suffered as the result of the disciplining of three players, two regular and one substitute, yet when these members joined the squad once again the long losing streak which had reached nine straight was continued regardless of the presence of the two suspended players—Hewitt and Hicks. With both Hicks and Hewitt in the lineup, the Chapman Tech five lost to Stonington [illegible] to 21. This game made the team peak up if it was to gain the championship among the three teams tied in the interscholastic league. Two successive defeats handed Westerly each accomplished this purpose, and the latter two won this championship [illegible] a keen struggle.

The [illegible] of the Eastern Conference [illegible] at Storrs, just about [illegible] chances that Tech planned [illegible] comeback on the chalked [illegible] The journey was one means of [illegible] how strong the teams [illegible] section of the state, and [illegible] in deciding is to contrast [illegible] in other instances [illegible] teams met before, balance [illegible] and decide the standing. [illegible] individual averages, Bernard [illegible] although suspended for a [illegible] month in which time the [illegible] participated in seven games is [illegible] front, leading his nearest [illegible] John Andrews a forward [illegible] James Hewitt's total number [illegible] scored includes 279 for [illegible] season comprising 113 field [illegible] and 44 successful throws from [illegible] line. During the season of 1923-24 Hewitt hung up a total of 178 [illegible] and 79 fouls for a total of [illegible] points. In two years his scoring [illegible] Chapman Tech had reached 696 [illegible]

The offense had always been built around the Tech center, and for this reason when the team lost his services [illegible] some of the defeats were administered Tech. John Andrews who was elected captain after Hewitt was dropped from the ranks, was a fine defensive player as well as offensive. There was no individual play about his basketball makeup, and the fact that it fed Hewitt continually speaks well [illegible] type of playing. He was second [illegible] the individual scoring with a score [illegible] 137 points. Outside of Hewitt and Andrews, no other player on the squad [illegible] century mark in scoring.

PLAINFIELD GRAMMAR TEAM BEATS HIGH SCHOOL

Thursday afternoon at the Grammar school grounds hundreds of pupils from both schools witnessed a very exciting and fast game, all resulting in a grammar school victory by a score of 4 to 5. Though it was the first game of the season both teams played in real mid-year style, performing excellent stunts which kept the cheering from start to finish. The Grammar school boys started with a rush, scoring two runs in the first inning. The pitching of Captain Roode for the Grammar school was a big factor, sending 10 men to the bench by the strikeout route, he also contributed in scoring by crashing out a homer in the fourth inning. Mercier and Henault also found Peterson for three-base hits. The defeat was heartbreaking for the high school as they were confident of winning. The game once more proclaimed that youth comes first.

The batteries were: Grammar school: Catcher, Raymond Mercier; pitcher, Sidney Roode. High school: Catcher, Arnold Smith; pitcher, Clinton Peterson.

SUGAR FOR ATHLETES PROVES NOT SO GOOD

Bordeaux, France, March 29 (By the A. P.)—Testing the recent discovery at Harvard university Medical school that sugar was good for athletes during an intensive struggle, M. De Luze, president of the Bordeaux association football team, which played the champion Uruguay eleven today, had highly sugared tea served the Frenchmen during the intermission between the first and second periods of the game.

At the time tea was poured the score was 1 to 0 in favor of the South Americans. Afterwards the [illegible] took the field for the second [illegible] and the South Americans [illegible] three goals, and won the [illegible] to 0.

"[illegible] know what they fed our players during the intermission," said M. Mintha, captain of the French team, who had been somewhat suspicious as to the reputed valuable effects of sugar on tired athletes, "but it must have been vinegar," he added.

SUSPENDED CHAPMAN PLAYERS ARE BACK IN GOOD STANDING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 29—The suspension of two Chapman Tech baseball players, John Brown and Albert Aquillo which dated from Wednesday will be lifted by the school authorities and the two students will be allowed to resume their studies at the local institution Monday morning. At the same time the reinstatement of the students will mean that they will be allowed to join the baseball squad once more The hopes of the Tech team for an evenly balanced nine are more bright, inasmuch as these two players were the mainstays of the nine last year.

John Brown was allowed to participate in the Eastern Connecticut track meet held at the State armory Friday evening representing the school. Whether he was reinstated Friday afternoon or prior to the track meet is undetermined, but it was apparent that announcement of his reinstatement along with that of Albert Aquillo would be announced by the school officials to-day Monday.

This should to some extent help out the present situation at Chapman Tech in baseball, for the first game of the season will be played on Saturday, April 4th, and the Red and Black mentors will have but next week to form their team to oppose Old Lyme. Little was accomplished this week, for the field at Morgan park was unrolled, and with inter-class games being the early order of training were hinderances to a quick getaway.

TEAMS GATHER FOR HIGH SCHOOL NATIONAL BASKETBALL

Chicago, March 20—Basketball squads from all corners of the country were arriving here tonight as the vanguard of the more than forty teams that will compete in the national interscholastic tournament of the University of Chicago opening Tuesday.

A touch of the picturesque was given by the red flannel shirts and four-gallon somberos of the Lerambie, Wyo. quintet, state champions, who came tonight on a special train bearing also the Greeley and State Teachers College high of Colorado, St. George, Utah, Tonopah, Nevada, Albuquerque, N. M., and Helena, Mont.

Entries will not close until tomorrow to enable belated admission of state and sectional champions. Thirty-three states so far are represented, including twenty-seven state champions, and winners of the Rocky Mountain, Cotton states, New England, Adirondack and Central states title tournament.

The first round of the tourney starts Tuesday noon, and games will continue until Saturday evening when the finals will be played.

Four additional state title-holders were added in entries by wire tonight. They were Southeastern high, Detroit, Mich., Wichita, Kansas, Union, Pa., in the last few days.

The others won their titles withand Urania, La. Except the Louisiana

RANGERS OVERWHELM FAST MERIDEN SOCCER TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Meriden, March 29.—Wading through the Meriden forward line with reckless abandon the New London Rangers overwhelmed the Silver City soccer eleven by a score of 8 goals to 1 at Hanover Park this afternoon. It was the first real offensive power demonstrated by the New London eleven this season, but the remarkable performance of the Whalers this afternoon completely satisfied its most critical admirers.

New London began scoring early and goals by Carlaw, Crawford and Carroll, gave the visitors a commanding lead in the first half to which they later added five more. After the first period of playing time the score stood 3 to 0 in favor of New London.

There was no letup in the playing by the New Londoners and before the termination of the game Meriden was aware of the fact that they were engaged in a real battle. Carlaw led in scoring for the afternoon with three goals while Crawford of the same team had two.

STRIBLING PROMISED A BOUT WITH TUNNEY IN FRISCO

San Francisco, March 29.—Young Stribling, Georgia schoolboy boxer, has been promised a match in San Francisco with Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, on April 18, as the result of Stribling's ten round decision here yesterday over Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia. The promoters say the Stribling-Tunney bout will involve the title.

Stribling got the call over Loughran by forcing the fighting throughout. At the end of the bout neither boxer appeared damaged, but later Loughran was taken to the emergency hospital where he was taped for a broken rib. The card was held outdoors, in the ball park. It is planned for Stribling and Tunney to meet in the same arena.

FAMOUS COFFROTH HANDICAP IS WON BY ATHERSTONE

San Diego, Cal., March 29.—The Coffroth handicap, run over a mile and a quarter of sloppy track at the Tia Juana course today, was won by Atherstone, owned by Mrs. V. Vivadou. General Thatcher was second, Spic and Span, third and Phulss, fourth.

The winner's time was 2.07 2-5. Atherstone's winning price in the mutuals was $17.40; his place price was $12 and the show $6.40. General Thatcher paid $11.60 to place and $5.80 to show, while the show price for Spic and Span was $3.40. Atherstone won by a head over General Thatcher, who was a length in front of Spic and Span at the wire.

KAPLAN GETS VERDICT OVER ERNIE GOOZEMAN

Meriden, March 29.—Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of this city, and featherweight champion, won an easy decision over Ernie Goozeman at San Francisco, Calif., last night in a 12-round bout, according to a telegram received here tonight. Kaplan knocked Goozeman down in the ninth and 11th rounds. Goozeman rallied in the tenth after his first knockdown but was outpointed the rest of the distance.

Eastern Conn. Bowling Tonight.

In the Eastern Conn Bowling league the matches tonight will be at the Aetna alleys where the team of Dugas and Aldi will meet the Aetna combination of Fillmore and Foster. In New London the Palace and the Peerless teams will clash.

NEW RECORDS FOR AUTOS MADE BY BRITISH PILOT

Paris, March 29.—What are declared to be new records for five miles and for five and ten kilometers (respectively 3.11 and 6.21 miles) were made on the Montlhery speedway today by the English automobile driver Eldridge.

Eldridge drove the 5 kilometers in 1 minute 26 and 57-100 seconds, the 5 miles in 2 minutes, 20 40-100 seconds, and the 10 kilometers in 2 minutes 54 and 45-100 seconds. All the times exceed an average of 128 miles an hour.

KANE EXPECTS TO CLOSE MATCH FOR GIBBONS WITH TUNNEY OR WILLS

Chicago, March 29.—Eddie Kane, manager of Tommy Gibbons, left tonight for New York to close a match with either Gene Tunney, light-heavyweight champion, or Harry Wills, negro challenger for Jack Dempsey's heavyweight crown, the match to be decided in New York within the next three months. Unless something unexpected should happen, Kane expects to sign for the contest not later than Tuesday.

The manager of the St. Paul heavyweight was accompanied by Jimmy De Forrest, matchmaker for the Polo Grounds A. C., New York, who is bidding for a match between Gibbons and Tunney. De Forrest spent two days in St. Paul conferring with Billy Gibson, manager of Tunney, and also with Gibbons.

If Gibbons elects to box Tunney, the contest will be decided at the Polo Grounds, New York, June 12. If he chooses to meet Wills the bout will feature the Milk Fund program to be decided in the Yankee stadium, May 28. Kane said he had promised the milk fund promoters first call on Gibbons' services, and if they can get Wills to sign articles the match will be closed at once.

Kane said he was satisfied with the terms that both [illegible] had offered him, which means that he has accepted the percentage of 30 per cent for Gibbons to meet Tunney. It is not known, however, what terms were offered him to box Wills.

Before De Forrest left for the east, he had obtained Gibbons' signature to a set of articles binding Tunney to box Gibbons. Tunney will receive 20 per cent of the gate which De Forrest expects will be between $400,000 and $500,000.

COAST GUARD TEAM RETURNS FROM DETROIT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 29—New London's conquering heroes, the Coast Guard returned a little earlier than was previously expected, arriving in this city from Detroit, Michigan, where they took part in the National Y. M. C. A. basketball tournament, representing the State of Connecticut. Although they were scheduled to take part in at least two more games, which were divided over a span of two more days, the officials at Detroit decided to call off the meet, and those who were eliminated in the first round would not be allowed to participate in further games in the meet according to the schedule.

It is believed that the decision of the officials at Detroit was prompted by a shortage of money, and the Coast Guard five, a disappointed team because of being denied the privilege of continuing in the tournament, were allowed to participate but once. Being the only representative from the New England states, and traveling a distance of over 1,000 miles, it was indeed a tiresome and unpleasant journey for the Coast Guard Cadets to return home in such a short space of time.

It was their belief that they would have at least made a strong bid for the national crown on the chalked court had they been allowed to participate further in the tourney. The rougher play of the western teams was fathomed just when the announcement was made that the teams eliminated in the first round would not be allowed to participate further in the tourney. This was the last basketball game for the Cadets, and to think they traveled over a 1,000 miles to be defeated for the first time this year, is what makes them feel blue.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Fellow Who Thinks He Can

If you think you're beaten, you are
If you think you dare not you don't
If you like to win but think you
You can't.
It's almost a cinch you won't;
If you think you'll lose you're lost
For out in the world you'll find.
Success begins with a fellow's will;
It's all in the state of mind.

For many a race is lost
Before ever a step is run;
And many a coward fails
Ere ever his work is begun.
Think big and your deeds will grow;
Think small and you'll fall behind;
Think that you can and you will,
It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you're outclassed, you are:
You've got to think high to rise.
You've got to be sure of yourself
Before you can win a prize.
Life's battles don't always go
To the stronger or faster man,
But sooner or later the man who wins
Is the fellow who thinks he can.

—Anon.

Old Bling Biddy

I can't hardly see at all,
Can you, Biddy?
I don't always hear me call,
Don't you, Biddy?
But you come right straight to me,
Even though you cannot see,
For you know my voice is me—
Don't you, Biddy?

Nice to have a pet like you—
Ain't it, Biddy?
And you know I love you, too—
Don't you, Biddy?
When your friends leave you behind,
And you think they are not kind,
Come to me, and never mind—
Won't you, Biddy?

Here is food and drink and sand,
For you, Biddy—
You may eat it from my hand—
That's right, Biddy.
When you pick—it feels so funny!
Wouldn't bite me, would you honey?
Not for lots and lots o' money—
Nice old Biddy.

When I sit and hold you so,
Old Blind Biddy,
And I say you seem to know—
Don't you, Biddy?
And you stalk—talk—talk, to me,
And you step so happily,
And you guide—but you can't see,
Can you, Biddy?

I can tell you if I try
Can't I, Biddy?
But you're oh so heavy—my!
Ain't you Biddy?
I must hurry up and grow,
Cause when I'm a man, you know,—
Take you everywhere I go,
Honest Biddy.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Boys and girls are generally fond of birds and their habits. Members of the Wide Awake Club would like to read something about the chickadee. While most of the birds have to migrate in the fall and fly to warmer climes for the long cold winter, the chickadee is one member of the feathered family that stays with us throughout the twelve months of the year. He is with us winter and summer alike. He is a cheerful little fellow and rain or sunshine, cold days or warm days are all the same to him. Those who have made a study of bird life find that the chickadee has many friends and few enemies among the birds.

Father and Mother Chickadee build their nests in holes and crevices in the trunks and branches of trees and they also use stumps, stubs and posts for their homes. As a rule the hole or crevice in which the nest is built is a natural one or has been made by some other bird and abandoned. Very often the chickadee makes use of a hole made by his friend, Mr. Woodpecker. Sometimes, if the wood in the tree, stump or post, is old and partly decayed Mr. Chickadee will dig a hole for himself. When natural holes are found and taken possession of they are sometimes enlarged or shaped to suit the chickadee's own ideas.

When making a nesting hole or enlarging a natural hole the chickadee is very careful to carry away the chips gnawed from the tree or stub. This is done as a means of keeping the location of the nest hidden from the prying eyes of enemies, and the chickadee no doubt escapes some bird enemies because of this commendable habit. The nest itself is made of moss, feathers, bits of wool, cotton or down. The eggs are white, spotted with brown.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

How Coffee Grows

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write you about coffee, as we have just studied about it.

The chief coffee country of the world is Brazil. About three-fifths of all the crop comes from the plantations in Brazil. Coffee was first cultivated in Abyssinia and Arabia.

The coffee grows best in a semi-tropical climate. The climate of many parts of Brazil is just right for the coffee plants.

The best coffee regions, however are found on the highlands west and south of Rio de Janeiro. Here the land is from one thousand to three thousand feet above the sea. It is gently rolling and the hillsides are covered with coffee plantations.

There is much red soil in Brazil and that is why Brazil raises much coffee. In some plantations there are sometimes five thousand people busy raising the crop and preparing it.

The beans must first be sown into hot beds. They soon sprout out and little green plants shoot up through the soil. After a few months they are about a foot high, then they are transplanted into the fields.

They are set deep into the ground and are hoed often and kept free from weeds.

The tree is four years old before it bears fruit. Some of the three produce two or three pounds of coffee every year. Some good trees that have been taken care of sometimes yield coffee beans for thirty years.

The berries grow in clusters. They are soft like a cherry. The plup must be removed from the berry before ready for market.

The berries are put in a machine that removes the pulp without hurting the seed inside the berry. The berry is very soft, if you bite it, it will break and inside is a seed. Inside of the seed is a tissue lining like very soft paper.

The berries are pushed into a canal where they are washed. Then they are put into large bins, made of cement. They are spread there and are left for many weeks to dry. There are men with wooden rakes, turning and moving them about. The berries are covered when it rains so they will not get wet.

After they are dry the outer skin must be removed. Then they are put into a machine that blows the skins off, then from there into the bags. The bags are all the same size. Each bag holds one hundred and thirty two pounds. From the plantations the coffee is shipped to Rio de Janeiro or Santos, and from there to the United States and Europe.

My Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: My cat's name is "Nigger." He is a black cat. He has a white necktie made of fur under his chin. His eyes are green. When it is dark his eyes shine. He has a long black tail of which he is very proud. His ears are very small and pointed. He has a foxy expression in his face. He looks as if he wanted to do something very funny.

When he feels frisky he chases his tail. If I pull a string slowly along the floor in front of him he will chase it.

When Nigger is pleased he will purr loudly. Sometimes he purrs so loudly it seems as if he would split his throat.

When I am lacing my shoes he will take a hold of the laces and pull. He often pulls my hair if I am bending down.

Nigger gets along very well with my dog, Buckey. They are good friends. Once Nigger was coming around one corner and Bucky around the other. Buckey barked and Nigger raised his back to a hump and hissed. After that they rubbed noses and were friends again.

When Nigger gets into mischief we call him a "vagabond, rascal, or a "little bother." I like Nigger very much.

MILDRED TUBBS, Age 11.

Feeding the Birds

Dear Uncle Jed: I'm going to write and tell you how I fed the birds in winter.

In the morning before I would go to school, I would throw out crumbs for the birds. I also put some water in a dish and put it out for them. Every morning they used to come to eat. If the bluejays would come to eat, the sparrows would fly away, because they were afraid. I think some of the bluejays are bad birds because they eat other bird's eggs. I wish I could have a nice bird for one of my pets don't you. Because I like birds.

HELEN PLOPA, Age 10.
Norwich.

Use of a Toothbrush

Dear Uncle Jed: If teeth are kept clean, they are likely to remain sound and firm, through a whole lifetime, because cleanliness will protect them from bacteria of decay. In order to clean the teeth, you will need a toothbrush and a little warm water. Brush the teeth on their inner sides as well as on their outer sides. Brush the back ones as well as the front ones. Rub the brush up and down as well as sidewise, so that the bristles will reach between the teeth and remove the dirt which is wedged there. After you have gone over the teeth, rub the toothbrush over the tongue and roof of the mouth in order to cleanse them as well as the teeth.

Brush your teeth every morning when you get up, for much dirt collects on them during the hours of sleep. It is also a good plan to brush them after each meal, so as to remove the bits of food that may be left on them.

A dirty toothbrush may contain diseased germs and be dangerous to health. After brushing the teeth, rinse the toothbrush well in clean water so as to remove all dirt from it. Then put the brush in a clean dry place where it will not become dusty or soiled.

Our Trip to Plymouth

Dear Uncle Jed: One morning last summer we went on a trip to Plymouth. First we went to see Plymouth Rock. It had an iron railing around it so you looked down on it. Next we ate our lunch on a road a little way from Plymouth. Then we went to the Museum which is called Pilgrim Hall. Some of the things we saw there were a silver model of the Mayflower, Perigrine White's cradle, original manuscript of The Breaking Waves Dashed High, and a Bible once owned by John Alden. We went to the souvenir shop and there I bought a red banner with Plymouth on it in white letters, a pin, and a miniature spinning wheel. Then we went to Burial Hill. We saw the graves of many noted people of old Plymouth. Among these was the grave of Governor Bradford. Last of all we visited Miles Standish's monument in Duxbury. We climbed round and round for 125 steps. We signed our name in a book inside the monument.

My Pet Animals

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my pet animals. First of all is a three colored angora kitten named Gypsy Queen. She always goes out and plays hide and go seek with me. We used to have a string with a ball on the end for her to play with which she thought was great sport.

Next comes my dog who is colored and named Fanny. Fanny has a chair all of her own with a large cushion in the seat. When anyone gets into the chair she will push her head between the chair and the person which finally gets them out and she will jump in the chair.

There is a canary bird whose name is Dickie Diamond. He is in a cage facing the south. When he wants a bath and we won't pay any attention he will try to get in his drinking cup. He has a little oval shaped glass dish for a bathtub.

I wish the Wide Awakes will enjoy reading my story.

A Pet Squirrel

Dear Uncle Jed: My mother spends the summer at an old house in the country. Back of this house is a beautiful garden where mother likes to sit and sew on fine days.

Mother is very kind to animals, and has made friends with a squirrel that lives in a tree near by. The squirrel is not a bit afraid. It will run up mother's chair and sit on her shoulder. Sometimes mother puts some nuts in her pocket. Then the squirrel will caper about until it gets hold of the nuts when it will run off.

At one time mother used to wear a back comb that was very high. What do you think the squirrel would do? It would sit on mother's shoulder, and as it ate the nuts would drop the shells on her head in front of the comb. Wasn't that cunning?

My Front Yard

Dear Uncle Jed; I will write a story today about the front yard. We have a very pretty front yard at our home. I am going to see how nice I can keep it this summer. It has a very nice stone wall from the gate to the veranda and it has a beautiful pine tree in the center and also four other nice shade trees. It has a pretty row of maxwood along the front. So I will see what a pretty yard that I have to work for this summer? Each week when I come home from school, I shall rake it and then run the lawn mower over it and keep it clear from all papers, sticks and leaves. Water and hoe the flower beds when needed, taking care not to walk on the grass, and teach my school friends to do the same; keeping the veranda nice and tidy. If all the little boys and girls will try and follow my example this summer what pretty homes we all might have, and help to beautify our streets, as the people pass them by.

Gathering Nuts

Dear Uncle Jed: One night after school my friend and I started out on a nutting trip. We scampered here and there looking for a place where we could secure a large quantity of nuts.

After tramping for a while we found a tree under which there were great quantities of shazbark winutsa. It was getting dark and we did not stay there long but went home with the intentions of coming back another day.

The Total Eclipse of the Sun

Dear Uncle Jed: We had to write a composition about the eclipse of the sun. So I thought I would send it to the Wide Awake circle. For many days before the eclipse the newspapers had many items about its coming. I provided myself with a piece of smoked glass.

I went on a small hill in back of my house to observe the eclipse. It began about two minutes after eight. When it first began, to me it looked as if someone had taken a bite out of the sun. When the totality was on the corona attracted my attention the most. It looked a golden color. I took a magazine to see if I could read by its light. It was very easy to read by the corona's light.

Some of the other conditions that appeared at totality were the beautiful colors in the west of blue and pink. Another thing that attracted my attention very much was the shadow bands on the snow. These shadows made me think of a storm at sea. The three planets at the lower right hand of the sun were Venus, Mercury and Jupiter.

Venus looked the brightest to me. It seemed to grow much colder while total. It was so cold that some of the people on a hill in back of my house built a fire to keep warm. The eclipse disappeared the same as it came only on the opposite side. When disappearing it looked like a diomond ring.

An eclipse of the sun is caused by the moon going directly between the earth and sun. It was in 1806 when the last eclipse was seen here and it will be seen in about ninety-nine years from now. I hope I live to see the next one.

I was glad I saw the eclipse for it showed me how wonderful nature is.

A Quick Cure

Dear Uncle Jed: Once there was a little boy whose name was Jackie. One day he did not want to go to school so he told his mother that he was sick. His mother said, Go to bed and I will call the doctor.

As soon as the doctor saw him he said, "Will you please get me a bottle of castor oil?" As soon as Jackie heard this he said, "Doctor, I am not sick now."

"My boy," said the doctor, "You have to take your castor oil."

Jackie took his castor oil but never again told his mother that he was sick for he did not want to take any more castor oil.

Curiosity in the Old Pasture

Suspicion is a hateful thing;
Ill feeling it is sure to bring.
—Old Mother Nature.

What was Farmer Brown's Boy doing in the Old Pasture? Reddy Fox wanted to know. Old Man Coyote wanted to know. Old Jed Thumper, the gray old Rabbit who was the father of little Mrs. Peter Rabbit and had lived in the Old Pasture all his life, wanted to know. Sammy Jay wanted to know. Blacky the Crow wanted to know. And there were other little people who wanted to know.

Farmer Brown's Boy was spending a great deal of time up in the Old Pasture. Day after day he tramped around, visiting every part. You may be sure he was watched by many bright eyes. He was watched very closely. There wasn't an instant while he was in the Old Pasture that bright eyes were not watching everything he did.

"He seems to be looking for something," said Reddy Fox to Mrs. Reddy. "I wonder if he's looking for our home. I guess it is a good thing we are not living over here in the Old Pasture just now. He certainly is looking for someone."

Old Man Coyote thought the same thing. It made Old Man Coyote nervous. "He probably is looking for my home," said Old Man Coyote, talking to himself. You see Old Man Coyote didn't know that Farmer Brown's Boy already knew where he lived. But when Old Man Coyote saw Farmer Brown's Boy pass right close to his home and pay no attention to it, he grinned. He was sure then that Farmer Brown's boy wasn't interested in him. But his curiosity was just as great as ever. He followed him without ever once letting Farmer Brown's Boy know. But he didn't learn anything.

Old Jed Thumper saw Farmer Brown's boy peeping into his bramble castle. Old Jed Thumper sat very still. He wondered if Farmer Brown's Boy was looking for him. He hoped that if he sat perfectly still Farmer Brown's Boy wouldn't see him. But he saw by the look in Farmer Brown's Boy's eyes that he was seen. Then Farmer Brown's Boy left and Old Jed Thumper sat and wabbled his nose and tried to guess what Farmer Brown's Boy was looking for.

"He wasn't looking for me," said Old Jed Thumper to himself, and wabbled his wabbly nose faster than ever. He wasn't looking for me, for he saw me and didn't do a thing."

Blacky the crow watched from the top of a tree and he, too, was puzzled. He blinked his bright eyes. He scratched his head. He was sure that Farmer Brown's Boy was after something.

"If I didn't know that Farmer Brown's Boy never does such a thing, I would say that he was looking for birds' eggs," muttered Blacky. "Yes, sir, that is just what I would say. But he never touches the eggs of birds. He is too good a friend of the birds to do anything like that. It must be something else. If it were anybody but Farmer Brown's Boy I would be sure that it meant no good for the people of the Old Pasture. As it is, I don't know what to think."

A Kind Deed

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I've written to the Wide Awakes and I thought I would write and tell you about a kind deed I did.

One day my friend and I went to get pussy willow in the woods. We picked many of them. While we were picking we heard a soft voice. I turned around to look, but I could see nothing.

Right under our bush was a little cat suffering from cold and hunger. I took him and brought him to my house. I gave him some milk and then after he went under the stove and slept soundly.

I call him Blackie because he is all black.

The Boyhood of Gen. Grant

Dear Uncle Jed: Grant was born April 27th, 1822 at Point Pleasant, Ohio. In the fall of 1823 he moved to Georgetown. This place remained his home until he became eighteen. Then he went to West Point. There were no free schools then. His father carried on the manufacture of leather. Young Grant was fond of agriculture. They owned a farm containing 50 acres of forest. When he was eleven he could plow, load wood, plow corn and potatoes, do furrowing and haul all the wood. He was president of the United States from 1869 to 1877. After he retired from this office he took a trip around the world. He died at Mount McGregor, N. Y., July 23, 1885.

Be Kind to Animals

Dear Uncle Jed: There are many people in this world who are not kind to animals. Sometimes there are boys who hunt for squirrels and birds and other small animals. They don't do us any harm so we ought to leave them alone. Many of the boys kill squirrels, birds and rabbits.

We should be kind to animals.

I have many pictures showing how to be kind to animals.

One of my pictures shows a house. On the house is written these words. "To Let." On the step there is a cat without a home. A girl is taking the cat with her. I hope that all the Wide Awakes will enjoy reading my story.

Has Six Calves

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write and tell you about my six calves. They are not so very big but I hope they will grow this summer. I think they are quite pretty. I have three black and white Holsteins and three black ones.

I let them out mornings before I go to school and put them in the barn nights when I come home from school and give them some ensilage and sometimes give them a little hay or grain.

Give Your Best

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing you a story entitled Give Your Best. I hope the Wide Awakes will enjoy reading it.

A gentle man was walking up the street carrying in his hand a bunch of beautiful white water lilies, which he had gathered as he returned from a pleasant sail on the bay.

"What lovely lilies!" exclaimed an acquaintance, a young girl, as she inhaled their fragrance and looked longingly at the bouquet in his hand.

"Take your pick if you care for one."

"May I? You are very kind," she said, as she reached over and selected a medium sized flower from the bunch.

How modest you are; I do believe you have chosen the smallest one you could find.

"Here, take this one," he said as he detached the largest and finest flower from the rest and handed it to her.

"You are generous, indeed," she said, "You have given the best among the lot."

"Well, it is a pleasure to give, and still more of a pleasure when we give our best," he said.

Two Little Pigs

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my father's pair of little pigs.

My father had two little pigs, whose mother was sick and unable to afford them any nourishment.

As they were nice, plump little fellows, my father could not bear to see them perish of hunger.

So he brought them into the kitchen, put some milk into a nursing bottle, such as babies use, and offered it to them.

They took hold at once, and swallowed the milk with great satisfaction, one after the other.

Very soon they learned to drink their milk out of a small basin and would come for it themselves the moment they heard his voice.

When he stood at the kitchen door, and called; "Come pig" they would come rushing from the pig pen.

They always came on the full gallop, exactly abreast, like a little team; and when they had had their milk, returned to their mother in the very same order. Then they snuggled down beside her for a nap.

Sometimes, when they got hungry in the night, they would come under my father's bedroom window, and squeal for him to get up and feed them.

But he thinking that would only teach them a bad habit, and that pigs, as well as children, ought to practice self-control, paid no attention to them. So they had to go back to their mother, grunting discontentedly, no doubt.

After awhile they became old enough to drink from the trough, like the other pigs.

Spring Is Near

Dear Uncle Jed: Don't you think spring is near? I think it is. I am writing to you about the first signs of spring.

A flock of blackbirds were flying slowly overhead, and a few snowbirds were chirping in the bushes, one bright sunny morning.

A happy looking squirrel with its tail over its back ran across my path and stopped to watch me. It seemed to say, "Don't you think spring is near."

As I walked on toward the object of my walk, which was a little spring, bubbling from under a rock, I thought, "Spring is surely near, for look at the pussy-willows." There on the bank of the little spring, which was in sight, were some pussy willows bending their branches as if to say, "Good morning."

I looked around and observed the green grass beginning to peep from its winter blanket.

When I take a trip into the woods at first I do not see the small flowers which I knew were apparently covered up with leaves, but as I looked more closely I observed the little bluets, and other wild flowers.

My attention was attracted to the sweet songs of our friends the birds. I listen very attentively, and I can discern the song of the robin and other birds.

The flowers and birds are always the very first signs of spring. Even though the seasons sometimes come early or late the birds always come at the proper time.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Centenary of the birth of Gen. Samuel B. Maxey, noted Confederate commander and U. S. senator from Texas.

Seventy-five years ago today occurred the wreck of the steamship Royal Adelaide off the English coast, with a loss of 400 lives.

Forty-five years ago today saw the formal opening of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City, with President Hayes and other notables in attendance.

In Alaska today is celebrated as "Seward Day," being the anniversary of the purchase of the territory by the United States and Russia in 1867, the negotiations for which were conducted by Secretary Seward.

Two Spanish prelates are to be elevated to the cardinalate today, when a consistory will be held by the Pope in Rome to confer the "red hats" upon the archbishops of Seville and Granada.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Paul Specht's Pasadena Club orchestra will present their vaudeville act today, Tuesday and Wednesday with all new numbers and scenic effects. This band has to their credit of having recorded many phonograph records and some quite few broadcasting dates around New York.

Another headliner on the bill will be the Man Off the Ice Wagon, vaudeville's greatest surprise.

Claremont Bros., thrilling stunt ladder.

Emma O'Neil, the female Eddie Leonard.

Lloyd and Ford, comedy artists.

Howard and the Scott Sisters, singing and dancing. The Scott Sisters make six changes of wardrobe in their act displaying some beautiful gowns.

The feature picture is "New Toys" with Richard Barthelmess and Mary Hay.

Richard Barthelmess's mother, Mrs. Caroline Barthelmess, is a frequent visitor at her famous son's New York studio. Indeed, much of his success has been due to his mother's encouragement and untiring aid.

Mrs. Barthelmess, as Caroline Harris, was a prominent actress on the speaking stage for many years. During these years, young Richard attended military school, although he always spent his vacations with his mother, no matter where her theatrical engagements had taken her. In this way, Dick actually grew up in the atmosphere of the stage.

Mrs. Barthelmess has, from her son's first acting days, maintained a series of scrapbooks in which every newspaper item mentioning him are carefully pasted and catalogued. These scrapbooks constitute a remarkable record of endeavor and achievement, the day-by-day history of a famous star's progress from extra parts to the heights.

Breed Theater

For those who like their pictures generously sprinkled with thrills, and spiced with mystery, there is The Monster, a Metro-Goldwyn picture produced by Roland West Productions, Inc., which is the feature attraction at the Breed Theater today and Tuesday.

Lon Chaney plays the title role, and his characterization of Dr. Ziska, the mad surgeon, is said to rival that of his Quasimodo in The Hunchback of Notre Dame, and his clown in He Who Gets Slapped.

Johnny Arthur, the stage comedian, is the hero; a blundering, helpless young man who aspires to become a detective and win the love of Betty Watson, the town beauty. She is also being courted by another young man, and the mysterious disappearance of the town's wealthiest citizen gives Johnny an opportunity to cover himself with glory, by solving the mystery.

Gertrude Olmsted, the prize beauty of the Elk's contest, has the role of Betty Watson, the girl for whom two young men risk dangers and the terrors of ghostly powers.

The story is Roland West's own adpadaptation of the stage success of Crane Wilbur, and is an unusually thrilling mystery melodrama with uncanny electrical inventions, sliding panels, steel doors, caves, dark chutes and every possible situation to make chills run up anticipatory spines. Willard Mack and Albert G. Kenyon wrote the scenario and C. Gardner Sullivan the titles, and the photography is credited to Hal Mohr. The Monster is a Metro-Goldwyn picture produced and directed by Roland West Productions, Inc.

The Pathe news, a cartoon and a comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

Broadway Theatre.

Once again the management of the Broadway theatre comes through with a big seven-act Keith vaudeville special program.

The main feature attraction is The Stanton Revue, with a company of five people in a variety of snappy songs and dances. The songs are bright and up to date, while the dances are of the eccentric and classical kind.

Bert Sloan, the hazardous wire stepper, is the opening attraction.

A concert violinist and pianist, Stebbi & Farrell, follow with Melody and Song.

Fifteen minutes of conversational fun is in Dayton & Palmer's offering entitled It Is to Laugh.

Jack North and Paul South in Humorous Comparisons, offer a medley of comedy, songs and steps.

Art Harris and Dolly Vaughn in their comedy offering, The New Assistant, have the greatest comedy offering of the season.

Fisher and Gilmore close this fine program in a pantomime cycling offering that is full of fun.

Bebe Daniels' second screen production as a Paramount star, Miss Bluebeard, a screen version of the stage play, Little Miss Bluebeard, in which Irene Bordoni starred, comes to the Broadway theatre today to remain until Wednesday.

Robert Frazer, Raymond Griffith, Kenneth MacKenna and others appear in support of the star in the production which was directed by Frank Tuttle.

Miss Bluebeard is a side-splitting French love farce that brings Bebe to the screen in her finest role.

Funny? That doesn't half begin to describe it. Here's one you can't afford to miss.

The bill making alienation of affections of a husband or wife a crime was killed by the Nebraska house in committee of the whole by an overwhelming viva voce vote. The bill had been passed by the senate.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

New York, March 30.—Reactionary price movements again characterized most of the principal securities and commodities markets this week.

Stock prices closed the week at the lowest average levels of the year, with many of the popular industrial and railroad issues showing net declines of 5 to 15 points below last week's closing figures. Bond prices offered better resistance to selling pressure.

The declining tendency in commodity prices, with growing indications that the spring trade revival has not come up to expectations, were among the chief reasons ascribed for the decline in stocks, apart from the now generally recognized fact that the recent advance had been materially overcome. The relatively poor February earnings statements of some of the northwestern carriers provided a good excuse for a renewal of selling pressure against the carrier issues.

Heavy calling of brokers' loans, presumably in anticipation of the increased demand for funds in connection with quarterly settlements, accounted for the higher call money rates. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

The foreign exchanges displayed a firm tone in the early days of the week with the Norwegian and Danish currencies mounting to new high levels for the year. Some recessions took place in the last few days on the increased offerings of bills from European capitals, apparently inspired by reports that Great Britain's proposed return to the gold standard might be delayed.

NEW LONDON MAN NAMED IN MISS DE FOREST'S WILL

By the will of Miss Caroline de Forest, 75, who died at her home, 646 Park avenue, New London, March 25, John Pennell, described as "my old servant" now of New London, Conn., will receive a life annuity of $600. Five other domestic employes will each get bequests of $2,000, and another servant, $1,000. Although the will, filed in the Surrogate court, did not indicate the value of the estate, it is estimated at more than $500,000.
The principal beneficiary of the will, George B. de Forest, her brother, who lives at the Plaza Hotel, New York, will get an annuity of $20,000. Shepard Knapp de Forest, 47 East Thirtieth street and E. Lighton de Foret, Garden City, L. I., children of her deceased brother, Benjamin de Forest, will receive one-third of the residuary estate. The remaining one-third is to be divided equally between Kate Wyman Chamberlain and Helen de Forest Cotton, grandnieces, of 157 East Sixty-first street, who are children of Helen de. Forest Griffin, deceased daughter of her brother, Benjamin L. de Forest.

Mrs. Edith Wharton, novelist, is the first woman to receive the gold medal of the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Philibert Chicoine and family of Providence street have moved to Woonsocket, R. I., where Mr. Chicoine has accepted a position.

Miss Margaret Hasler, a member of the faculty of the Willimantic State Normal school, has returned there after spending the spring vacation at the home of her father, Bernard Hasler and family of 34 Providence street.

"For the Love of Johnny" the three act play that the Sacred Heart Dramatic club presented at Parish Hall a week ago for the benefit of the Sacred Heart church, was given with the same cast at St. Joseph's hall in Occum, Sunday evening. There was a very large crowd in attendance, and the performance was thoroughly enjoyed by those who saw it. The proceeds were for the benefit of St. Joseph's church.

Maurice Gagnon of South A street has resigned his position with the Ponemah company.

Men employed by the Ponemah mills have been doing work on the sewer pipes on Providence street.

Fred Roberts who has been spending the past week in the village has left town.

Archie Norman of Pratte avenue and Elton McKenzie of Germania avenue who for some time have been employed in the wood-working department of the Ponemah mills, severed their connections with that firm last week.

Miss Beatrice Brochu of North B street recently underwent an operation for the removal of tonsils and adenoids at the William W. Backus hospital.

The members of the Taftville Business Men's association held a meeting Sunday afternoon to take action on the death of Phillias C. Dion, one of the members. It was voted to send a delegation to attend the funeral of Mr. Dion and to close places of business during the hour of the funeral.

The meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor Sunday evening was omitted to allow the members to listen to Dr. W. P. Merrill who spoke at the union meeting at the Central Baptist church in Norwich.

Mrs. Wm. Gilbert of Pawtucket, R. I., spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Catherine Troland of Providence street.

There is to be a U. S. civil service examination for photo-engraver for vacancies in the government printing office, Washington, at $1.15 an hour. Employes are allowed extra rates of 50 per cent for Sunday and 25 per cent for night work.

METHODISTS' SPECIAL COLLECTION FOR BOSTON U. THEOLOGY SCHOOL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Fall River, Mass., March 28.—The New England Southern Conference session opened at 9 o'clock this morning with brief devotions including prayer by Rev. J. Francis Cooper and the singing of More Love to Thee, O Christ, by the congregation. The report of the conference board of education was presented by Rev. William I. Ward. Under this head, special action was taken asking for an offering representing an amount equal to 25c per member from all the churches of the conference the coming year for the support of Boston University School of Theology.

Dr. R. V. Johnson was introduced and spoke in behalf of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals.

The varied classes of undergraduates of the conference course of study were called and each name was acted upon after statements were made by the district superintendent, the board of examiners and the board of conference relations. The following actions were taken: The following, who have been in the studies of the third year, were advanced to the fourth year; James V. Claypool, Raymond V. Conley and Howard P. Davis. The last named was elected also to elders' orders. Manfred A. Carter was graduated from the conference course of study.

The following were advanced to the studies of the third year and elected to deacons' orders: Edwin Holt Hughes Jr., George H. Parker Jr., and G. Lewis Porter. H. Kenneth Smith was advanced to the studies of the second year.

Herbert Gurnee on trial in the first year was discontinued at his own request. Arnold F. Waring was continued in the first year's studies.

Frank W. Dunham was advanced to the third year, elected to full membership in the conference, and elected to deacons' orders Arnold O. Kenyon was also advanced to the third year and admitted in full. Raymond W. Hibbard was advanced from the third year to the fourth year of studies.

Mrs. Kate M. Cooper, Miss B. Marion Hope, Josiah H. Hall and Carl B. Lendgrin were elected to deacons orders as local preachers.

J. F. Oliveira was elected to elders' orders as a local deacon.

Carlisle T. Boynton was received on trial and elected to deacons' orders under the seminary rule.

W. Arthur Mille, J. G. Bisbee and Paul V. Johnson were received on trial, Mille and Johnson being also elected to elders' orders.

The following were graduated from the course of conference studies and elected to elders' orders: R. C. Stimson, Leon N. Adkins, Charles S. Johnson and Russel N. Weste.

R. V. Claypool, superintendent of the Connecticut Anti-Saloon League, was introduced to the conference and made a rousing speech. The superintendent of the Rhode Island State Anti-Saloon League also addressed the conference.

Frank W. Dunham, Arnold O. Kenyon and Roger C. Stimson were called to the altar and after answering the usual disciplinary questions, Bishop Anderson, speaking to the class in an informal manner but incidentally delivering the customary address to the entering class, received them into full membership in the conference.

Prayer was offered by two ministers each of whom has a son in the undergraduate classes of the conference as follows: Rev. Robert E. Bisbee and Rev. R. V. Claypool.

Bishop Anderson's address, usually an attractive feature in conference week, was comprehensive and practical and commanded the close attention of the large congregation present.

Dr. Albert C. Knudson of the Boston University faculty offered prayer at the close of the bishop's address.

Friday Afternoon Session.

Friday afternoon at the conference witnessed busy scenes and a crowded program.

From 1.30 to 3 p. m., there was a joint meeting of the lay electoral and the ministerial conferences at the Central Congregational church at which addresses were given by Benjamin F. Thurston of Newport and Dr. George Spencer of Boston in the interest of the conference claimants' fund.

From 3 to 5 o'clock an automobile outing party in which as many of the visiting clergyman as cared to go were given an excursion into some of the beautiful country outlying the city. The automobiles were furnished through the courtesy of the business men of Fall River.

From 2.30 to 3.30 at the Union Methodist church, there was held the anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society with Mrs. W. F. Anderson, wife of Bishop Anderson, vice president of the National W. H. M. S. as the speaker.

From 3.30 to 4.30 at the same place the anniversary of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society followed, Bishop Anderson and Miss Isabella Pike of Singapore, Malaysia being the speakers.

At 4.30 in a part of the vestry screened for the purpose a reception and tea in honor of Mrs. W. F. Anderson was given by the Woman's Home Missionary society.

At 6 o'clock a banquet for ministers and laymen was held at the Mellen House. There was community singing and after dinner speeches by laymen and ministers. Rev. R. D. Hollington acted as toastmaster. Rev. Dr. E. E. Wells of Brockton spoke to the toast "What I think of the laymen." Charles Mitchell of Taunton, Mass., spoke in response on "What I think of the ministers." Dean James A. Beebe of the Boston University School of Theology spoke upon Our School in Boston. Bishop Anderson gave a few closing words. Blest Be the Tie That Binds was sung and Rev. W. H. Bath pronounced the benediction.

The evening service at the church was the anniversary of the board of home missions, with Dr. D. D. Forsyth as the speaker and with Rev. Frank W. Gray presiding. The anniversary of the board of temperance followed with Dr. R. Y. Johnson as the speaker.

Personals.

Some Norwich people will be interested in the following facts concerning one who spent a few years of his life as a member of the New England Southern Conference, who was once a pastor in this city (Norwich) and who has recently died. The man referred to is the Rev. Frank Leslie Hayward, Ph. D., whose earnest and untiring activities as pastor of the former Central M. E. church (now merged as part of Trinity) this city, 1889 to 1891, should not be forgotten. He was born April 26, 1857, at Wesley, Maine, and died at Harpswell Center, Maine, Jan. 25, 1925. He graduated at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., in 1885, and received his master's degree in 1888. His doctors' degree was earned later. He served four charges on Norwich District, viz., Old Mystic, Danielson, Norwich (Central) and Westerly, R. I. He was transferred to the Des Moines Conference in 1892 and in later years came back to Maine where he served four years as a district superintendent. Later he was transferred to the Wisconsin Conference of which body he was an honored retired member at the time of his death. In all these conferences he filled important churches and many friends in all of them are saddened by his death. Dr. Hayward is survived by his devoted wife, Helen F. (Atkinson) Hayward to whom he was married while in his college course; by two daughters, Miss Bertha V. Hayward and Mrs. Ruth Burgess; and by two sons, Ralph S. and Raymond V. Hayward.

Among the arrivals on Friday were the following: Mrs. W. J. Stephens and Miss Marjorie Stephens of Vernon, Conn.; George W. Armstrong of Norwich; and Mrs. Clinton E. Brown ley of Little Compton, R. I.

HENDRICKS DIVORCE SUIT STIRS NORWICH INTEREST

Announcement made in New York last week of the divorce suit brought by Clifford Hendricks, wealthy amateur sportsman, against his wife Ida May Hendricks, aroused much local interest as the petitioner in the suit spent a large part of his youth as a resident here with his mother, Mary A. Rathbun, wife of Joseph C. Hendricks, a former postmaster of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Hendricks and her son lived at East Great Plain.

Hendricks, who has a country estate near Hempstead, L. I., and lives at the Hotel Roosevelt when in Manhattan, charges his wife with misconduct with a Hopi Indian guide.

It was during a Western trip in October, 1924. Hendricks stated in an affidavit to the Court, that he had last seen his wife. An accompanying affidavit from James B. Elbert of 206 Northwestern Avenue, Los Angeles, deposed he had met Mrs. Hendricks in the West Feb. 4-5, 1925, at which time she had not made known to him her place of residence. Ellert said Mrs. Hendricks had announced that she had no desire to return to the East, because she wanted to avoid her husband, mother and friends.

The name of the Indian guide is mentioned in the action as Joe Secakula of the Hopi Tribe. He was employed for a hunting expedition headed by Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks, which started last August in Colorado, continued on through the Grand Canyon section and concluded at the California home of Hendricks.

In the charges made by Hendricks he couples the name of his wife with that of the Indian with dates and places during August, September and October, 1924, at the Grand Canyon, Col.; San Bernardino, Ariz., and other places.

According to the motion papers, Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks were married on March 27, 1920, at Kenmore, N. Y. They resided at East Orange, N. J., where Mrs. Hendricks's mother was a resident, and then moved to Interlaken, N. Y. In 1923 they made two trips to Europe, returning for the hunting trip.

RECEPTION DATE APRIL 7TH. ON MGR. MAY'S RETURN

From the pulpit of St. Patrick's Church Sunday at the three Masses it was announced that the date of the welcoming reception to the rector, Mgr. M. H. May had been definitely set for Tuesday evening, April 7th. The acting pastor, Rev. Myles P. Galvin announced the personnel of the various committees, which committees begin their meetings for work tonight, (Monday) and Tuesday, either in the church hall or at the K. of C. rooms.

At the welcoming exercises in the church assembly hall, to follow the religious service of rejoicing in the upper church, the address is to be made by former Mayor Jeremiah J. Desmond. At that time a purse is to be presented Monsignor May; up to Friday night his parishioners had donated over $1,273 toward this testimonial with a number of collectors yet to report.

The committee of women to act as aides to the marshal of the parade committee, Michael J. Kelly has been increased to fifteen.

A final meeting of all the committee members is to be held next Friday evening in the church hall.

The 450 pupils of the parish school are to have their reception to the rector a week after the general demonstration.

Divorce For Cruelty Granted

A divorce to Mrs. Osmond Peters Kinkead from Dr. R. R. Kinkead of this city has been granted by Judge Allyn L. Brown who heard the case tried before him recently in New London. The grounds were intolerable cruelty since March 1, 1923. The couple was married July 25, 1918.

FREIGHT WRECK BROUGHT SUGAR TO WEST SIDE

Two wooden freight cars in a 33-car north bound train on the Central Vermont railroad were reduced to kindling wood and two other cars were considerably reduced in a wreck just north of the West Side station Saturday morning about 3:30 o'clock. No one was injured but a number of West side families benefitted by the accident as two of the cars contained sugar in bags which were broken open, bringing a swarm of women and children to the wreck Saturday, armed with flour sacks, paper bags and tin pails into which they scooped up the scattered sugar.

The wreck was caused by a brake beam dropping down and catching a switch point, which derailed four of the cars from the middle of the train. One of them crashed and stove in the end of a freight car that was standing on the siding along the river bank.

Over a third part of the sugar, some of which was in barrels and some in bags, was salvaged by the railroad forces, but Divisional Superintendent Guthrie stated that the loss would be about $1,500 on freight and about $3,500 on damages to the cars.

The main line was blocked until the afternoon, but traffic was able to proceed by using the house track on the westerly side of the yard. The repair crew was at work until the latter part of the afternoon before the main line was entirely cleared.

The train was in charge of Conductor M. L. Spellman and Engineer W. Gramo.

PROPOSES WEIGHT CLASSES FOR MOTOR REGISTRATIONS

A bill providing a flat rate for registration of pleasure automobiles according to weight, with four tentative rate schedules varying the aggregate amount of fees from approximately $300,000 less to $300,000 more than the amount collected under the present plan, was submitted and explained to the committee on roads, rivers and bridges by Motor Vehicle Commissioner Stoeckel. The bill, which if adopted will affect every car owner in the state, would do away with the system of charging fees based on cubic inch piston displacement and was presented as an aid in department administration and a means of considerably lowering expenses.

Three Divisions.

Under the bill, pleasure cars for registration purposes would be grouped in three classes, light weight for those below 2,000 pounds, medium weight between 2,000 and 4,000 pounds and heavy weight for those more than 4,000 pounds. The four schedules submitted make the fee for light weight cars, $9, $12, $14 or $15; for medium weight, $12, $15, $17 or $18 for heavy weight. $15, $18, $20 or $21. The two schedules which would fix the rates at $12, $15 and $18 or $14, $17 and $20 were favored by Commissioner Stoeckel. The first would reduce aggregate fees collected about $300,000 and the second would increase them approximately $100,000.

The following cars would come under the light weight classification as under 2,000 pounds: Chevrolet, Ford, Gray, Overland and Star. Those in the heavy weight or more than 4,000 pound class are: Brewster, Cadillac, Cunningham, Daniels, E. M. F., Lafayette, Locomobile, Lozier, Standard, Stevens Dureya and Winton. All other cars, except a few of the less common makes, would be listed in the medium weight class, between 2,000 and 4,000 pounds.

The bill does not provide for change in the present plan of computing fees for trucks and commercial vehicles or public service vehicles. But it does provide for pro rata reduction on pleasure car fees when registration is made after February 1. A tentative plan for reduction of $1 a month for the first six months of the year is being considered, the commissioner announced. The reduction plan will not extend beyond July 1, any registration after that date will be charged at the half-year rate fee.

Commissioner Stoeckel told the committee that under the present method of computation, based on a piston displacement fee charge, pleasure cars are paying more than an equitable share of fee revenue. His principal objection to the plan is because of increased administration. Calculation and adaptation to each model is a difficult proposition, he said. Most applicants for registrations are unable to make the calculation and require the services of the department experts and the process in the office, though expedited by familiarity with formulas, takes time and is an extra cost burden to the state.

Under the flat rate plan, he added, each car owner would know in advance just how much registrations would cost and the great bulk of licensing could be done through the mails, eliminating much of the last minute confusion which has become an annual problem. The process of issuing registrations would be simplified and still retain equity of application, he said.

Representatives of automobile clubs from various cities in the state were at the hearing and apparently much interested in the plan, asking numerous questions of Commissioner Stoeckel in regard to the administrative and fee charge angles of the bill. The only opposition was registered by Lieutenant Governor J. Edwin Brainard, who said he would be opposed if a rate schedule was adopted which would reduce the aggregate revenue from registrations.

$20,000 INCREASE SEEN IN SALARY RAISE REQUESTS

The board of fire commissioners and Mayor Milo R. Waters have under consideration a proposal to increase the pay of the members of the local fire department. A conference on the matter was held recently by the fire commissioners, Mayor Waters and a committee from the members of the fire department. The delegation from the department comprised Captain Alvin D. Lewis, Captain Archibald Cochran, Captain Joseph P. Tracy, Captain Dennis Brennan, Lieut. Walter Huntley and Lieut. Albert Herrick.

The matter was fully discussed and Mayor Waters said that the finance committee, should they recommend an increase for the police department salaries will also recommend a like increase for the firemen. Mayor Waters said that both departments should be placed on the same basis in regard to the matter of salaries. It was pointed out at the hearing that the firemen are on duty practically 24 hours a day, being allowed only three hours a day for meals, this being the only time when they are at liberty to leave the stations. They have one day off in five and 10 days' vacation with pay each year.

Should the $1 per day increase which the policeman have requested be granted for both departments, it will mean an increase of about $10,000 in the annual payroll of each department, a total of $20,000 to be added to the appropriations made at the annual city meeting, as such a salary raise would call for about $31 per day more in the police department and $32 per day in the fire department for salaries than at present.

NATANIEL HILLYER DIES SUDDENLY AT DAYTONA

Nathaniel Hillyer, of Daytona, Florida, and Crescent Beach, died suddenly early Friday morning at his home in Florida, according to word received by friends here. The cause of death was not given.

Mr. Hillyer for many years lived in Groton. About 12 years ago he went south but retained his summer home at Crescent Beach where he had spent each succeeding summer since then.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. E. A. Myers, of San Francisco, Calif., formerly Miss Helen Hillyer, and Miss Louise Hillyer, of Daytona, six sons, Newton F. Hillyer, of Los Angeles, Cal., Frere Hillyer of Cleveland, Ohio, W. Van Hillyer of New Haven, Walter Hillyer of Groton, and Ira and Lawrence Hillyer of Daytona; also two sisters, Mrs. Latham Avery of Groton Long Point and Mrs. F. A. Adams of Groton Long Point.

The body will be brought north for burial.

CONSIDER WAYS TO WIDEN TRAIL'S CORNER

Trail's corner, Poquonoc Bridge, scene of many fatal accidents, bids fair to have much of the dangerous element removed through the widening of the sharp curve. State Superintendent of Road Repairs Gorman and First Selectman Clark B. Whaley of Groton visited the corner last week with a view of determining the best manner in which to deal with the problem, and as a result effort will be made to have the roadbed widened.

From a distance of 200 feet either side of the curve, it is planned to widen the concrete roadbed over the car tracks to the extent of about 25 feet. This will afford much more safety to cars as they negotiate the corner and will give a level approach to Poquonoc road, in either direction from Thomas road, a crossing which is now hazardous.

GIRL'S PARENTS MAKE COMPLAINT AGAINST MAN

About 6 o'clock Sunday evening Stanley Sikosiski, 27, was arrested by officer John Donovan, at the home of Anthony Rokowski, 101 Summit street, on a charge of attempted rape. The girl in the case is but 11 years old. In default of bonds Sikosiski was locked up. He will be presented in the city court this (Monday) morning.

Sikosiski came to this city four or five months ago from Holyoke, Mass. and has been working here since that time. The child, whose name is at 73 High street, and who is related to the Rokowski family, went to the house Sunday afternoon for a visit. The alleged attempt against her took place while she was at the house. The child's parents entered a complaint at police headquarters and Sikosiski's arrest followed.

NAMES MISS KINGBERGER BOZRAH HEALTH OFFICER

Miss Frances C. Kingberger, R. N., of Bozrah, has been appointed town health officer of that town to succeed the late Elijah S. Abel, who died about a week ago. Miss Kingberger's term will run from March 28th until the first Monday in October 1926. She has been carrying on the work of health officer during the lingering illness of Mr. Abel.

The appointment was made by County Health Officer Hibberd R. Norman of this city. As far as known Miss Kingberger is the first woman to hold the office of town health officer in any town in New London county.

ASA WALDEN, SHOT 14 FOXES IN SEASON

When fox hunting records of the season are being talked about, Asa Walden, the veteran woodsman, guide and hunter of the Gardner lake territory, is not to be left out. Asa shot 14 out of 16 that his dogs ran for him in the season, killing every one that he shot at. The two that he did not get got by before he saw them or their hides would probably have been added to his season record.

GREENEVILLE CHURCH GIVES MUSIC AT HOSPITAL

The Sunday afternoon music hour at the Backus hospital was provided by the choir of the Greeneville Congregational church with Dwight Richardson as accompanist. The following program was given:

Richardson and Dwight Richardson; anthem, quartet; soprano solo, My Memory, Miss Charlotte Fowler; violin solo, Salut D'Amour, Donald Gildersleeve; tenor solo, Friend of Mine, James Lockhart; piano selection, A La Bon Amies, Dwight Richardson; contralto solo, The Lark's Song, Mrs. Ida Richardson; violin solo, The Intermezzo from Cavallertia Rusticanna, James Lockhart; baritone solo, Star of Promise, Donald Gildersleeve; anthem, quartet.

PIMPLY?' WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

POETRY

Love's Fragrance

"The house was filled with the odor of the ointment"—John 12:3.

Its fragrance falls about us yet,
Hearts grateful scent the perfume sweet
Exhaled when she her Savior met
With tears and vase crushed at His feet.

In love her hands diffused abroad
The aroma from that broken vase,
Her precious gift for Him, her Lord,
Forgiveness shining in His face.

What purpose served that wrongful waste?
"The poor ye always have—Not Me!"
Condemn not in heart bitter haste
A deed fare centuries glad will see!

"Anointed for My burial," spake
Th' Anointed One, a'face with death,
Tree for His cross already hewn,
Nails and spear wrought to end His breath.

To deeds of love thus odors cling,
Time has no power their scent to kill,
When broken hearts some offering bring
The house with redolence will fill.

Deem'st costly alabaster vase
Too great a sacrifice for thee?
Choose, thoughtful, though with tear-dimmed face
The Christ to serve, and fragrance free.

In soul affection then draw near
In shand thy waited vase to break,
While on His scarred feet drops thy tear,
Count not the cost—'tis for His sake!

And fragrance wide diffused will show
A flower of Christ-love blooms in you,
And peace unspeakable will flow
Throughout thy like by Him made new —Rev. George G. Phipps.

Chanson

No more I pass hat way!
How lured me once its curves,
The sunglints on its clay,
The cart ruts and the swerves
That horseshoes and men's tread
There in queer pattern wed!

I pass that way no more!
Though swarthy folk and fair
Still walks its winding floor,
Still breathe its eager air—
And, maybe, feet the start
That once it gave my heart.

No more I pass that way!
March winds a new road show,
And whisper what they say.
To make the violets blow
And boughs, where sere leaves cling,
Call for the birds to sing.

POSITIVE EVIDENCE THAT CHAPMAN KILLED SKELLY

Patrolman Alfred E. Atwater of New Britain Testified That He Had Seen Chapman Fire the Fatal Shots—Four Other New Britain Residents Identified Chapman as a Man Fleeing From the Scene of the Crime—Sheam Testified of His Association With the Accused.

Hartford, Mar. 30—(By the A. P.)—[illegible] of eleven witnesses who took the [illegible] for the prosecution today wove [illegible] inescapable strands of testimony intended to bind Gerald Chapman, the spectacular looter of the United States mails and breaker of United States [illegible] prime to the murder of Patrolman James Skelly in New Britain last October 12.

One of these, Patrolman Alfred E. [illegible]ater, of New Britain, testified that he had seen Chapman fire the death-dealing shots. Another, Walter E. Sheam, of Springfield, Mass., adventuring man long since advertised as the state's principal witness, told a glib story, putting the shooting directly up to the debonair prisoner. The four remaining witnesses, residents of New Britain, positively identified Chapman as a man they had seen fleeing the scene of the crime only a few minutes after the commission.

It was a day of excitement for the great crowd in the court room— a crowd so overflowing that police and deputy sheriffs had to trim it down to the room, and the judge had to order other police to clear the milling throng that threatened to wreck the county building corridor in its fight to "get" the door.

The least excited person in the room was the cool Chapman, who continued to lounge in his chair the greater part of the time the witnesses poured out their telling testimony. Through most of the day he sat slumped far down in the chair next to his chief counsel, Frederick J. Groehl, caressing his chin with his long slim fingers and giving [illegible] glances between nothingness and the faces of the witnesses.

Testimony by Sheam.

Animation came to him as Sheam's name was called as the day's last witness. The sight of the Springfield man who had told the police that the widely hunted Chapman was the murderer seemed to galvanize the prisoner. His slight body tensed and straightened from its indolent pose. He leaned forward slightly, his cold blue eyes cutting into those of the man whose information had brought him face to face with a New England gallows.

For a time, while being sworn, Sheam sustained the gaze, returning it with a visible effort. But his hands shook, and he grinned, and his eyes dropped. Chapman then leaned forward, drew a pad of paper to him, and sent his pencil flying across the sheets in a series of notes that continued all long as Sheam was on the stand.

Victim of Master Crook.

Sheam, in the version of the crime he poured out today, was the innocent victim of the master crook, Chapman. Chapman, he said, had "looked me up" in Springfield last July, introduced himself as Waldo W. Miller and invited bootlegging to him. A man with Chapman, he said, was introduced as Mr. Johnson. This is the mysterious figure whose name has cropped up a dozen times during the trial with now and then an intimation, on the part of the defense that he, and not Chapman, was the murderer of Skelly. Dr. Johnson is supposed to be an alias of the notorious "Dutch" Anderson, Chapman's "buddy" in the lower Manhattan $2,000,000 mail robbery and, later, with him in prison. He also is a fugitive from the federal prison at Atlanta.

Chapman said Sheam, wanted to use him as a go-between in big bootleg[illegible] deals, but the witness declared he was unable to "dig up" any large lot of beer. He said he met Chapman and Dr. Johnson, on several occasions, and [illegible] discussing bootlegging. At one occasion a counterfeiting [illegible]. He said Chapman, told him he needed to buy a house near Springfield, to be used as a headquarters for general crime syndicate.

Prosecutor Groehl interrupted at this point, objecting vehemently that this testimony was not relevant to the murder [illegible]nation, and won an order from Judge Jennings excluding all evidence of that stripe. His victory was gained over the strenuous opposition of the state attorney, Hugh M. Alcorn.

Alcorn, from this point, got the witness quickly down to the day preceding the New Britain murder, Saturday October 11. Chapman, Sheam said, invited him to take a ride "down New Haven way" in his car, which had just been overhauled. In the midst of a conversation on baseball, bootlegging and other general topics, Chapman complained of a poor market in illicit booze.

"Things are quiet and I have to swing a peter' in between bootlegging," Sheam quoted Chapman as having said. He explained that "swinging a peter" was crook argot for ripping open a safe with the use of drills and nitroglycerine. They casually moved to New Britain, said Sheam, where Chapman left him for fifteen minutes, after which they drove to Meriden, where they took rooms for the night at the Old Colony inn. Chapman, according to Sheam, wanted to get up early the next morning to go motoring "down New Haven way." Chapman, he said, aroused him at 5:30 the following morning, drove to New Britain and left him in the car while he went to rob the department store of Davidson and Leventhal.

"After a while he came back," said Sheam, "and asked me to go back with him. He gave me a gun. When we got here, and he told me that he had a safe all ready to blow, I told him it was a too dangerous job for me. He asked me if I was scared and told me not to worry. But I left, taking an envelope containing money which Mr. Miller has taken from another safe in the store."

Sheam left the stand at the conclusion of his direct testimony and will be cross-examined by Groehl tomorrow.

Atwater was the man who preceded Skelly into the store when the police answered an alarm that the place was being looted. He testified that as he stepped in the door a man's voice called, "drop down or I'll kill you, I'll kill you." The shot fired, he said, and he dropped to his knees to get his gun from its holster. Then Skelly, right behind him, was shot through the abdomen. At the first shot, before he dropped, Atwater insisted that he identified Chapman as the gunman. He identified him by "his high cheek bones," he said, although Groehl, on cross examination, insisted Atwater had not seen the shooting, having dropped behind a counter in fright and remaining there until the gunman escaped through the door by which the police had just entered.

Had Seen Chapman Run.

Henry Heller, a clerk; Adolph La Chance, a night watchman, and Bernard Carlson, a street car motorman, all of New Britain testified they had seen Chapman run from the department store immediately after the shooting, a smoking gun in his hand. J. F. White, a New Britain livery stable proprietor, testified that he had seen Chapman a block farther away, on his way out of the city.

There was another tensely dramatic moment in court today when Alcorn had one of his other witnesses, a policeman, identify two bottles of nitroglycerine found in the motor car. With the appearance of the bottles four deputies who zealously guard Chapman as he sits in court jumped simultaneously to their feet and crowded close to the prisoner, as though fearful that he might snatch at the deadly explosive and blast his way to either freedom or death. Groehl protested what he termed the "dramatics" and Alcorn ordered the guards to regain their chairs.

The day's other witnesses were New Britain policemen who told of the shooting of Skelly and the surgeon who performed an autopsy on Skelly's body.

CONJECTURE FOLLOWING ELECTION IN GERMANY

Berlin, March 30.—(By the A. P.)—Post election mathematicians reach varying conclusions in respect to the political significance of Sunday's initial balloting for a German president.

Some of the more outspoken champions of an anti-republican bloc frankly admitted that Doctor Karl Jarres, nationalist and conservative bourgeois candidate, although he led all other contestants, failed to measure up to expectations, and are openly demanding his retirement from the final race.

Minister of Defense Dr. Otto Gessler has been proposed as a substitute, but there is a stronger movement in progress to bring out the German chancellor, Dr. Hans Luther as the standard bearer for the nationalist, conservative, bourgeois bloc. It is now realized that in view of the strong combined vote of socialists, centrists and democrats, Chancellor Luther is the only available man who is possessed of the necessary ability and magnetism to help the bourgeois bloc to ultimate victory.

The other objection to having Dr Gessler enter the race is founded upon the conviction that his removal from the ministry of defense would precipitate a heated parliamentary fight for a successor in that cabinet post, which, it is asserted, should be held by a democrat.

Another reason urged in favor of the elimination of Dr. Jarres is supplied in the attitude of the Catholic Bavarian people's party, which notified his campaign committee that it would not support him in the coming election because he is espoused openly by the Evangelical league.

SANITY TRIAL BY JURY FOR DOROTHY ELLINGSON

San Francisco, March 30.—Sixteen year old Dorothy Ellingson, the devotee of jazz, who said she killed her mother rather than stay home from parties, will be the object of a sanity trial by a jury, it was decided this afternoon by Judge Harold Louderback. Meanwhile, the murder trial will be postponed.

The court granted a motion of the defense to halt the murder case and proceed with a mental examination. Should the jury find the girl sane, the murder trial will proceed. If a verdict of insanity is returned, she will be committed to an asylum and the charges of crime delayed indefinitely.

The state refused to stipulate with the defense that the present jury impanelled to try the girl for murder hear the insanity issue. Judge Louderback ordered that a new jury be selected tomorrow.

The girl sat stolidly while her mental condition was being discussed. At the conclusion of the hearing, she staggered out. As she reached the door, she fell and was carried out.

The court ruled in favor of the sanity hearing after listening to the testimony of Dr. Jan Don Ball, a specialist called by the defense. Dr. Ball said he was convinced that the young matricide was suffering from a "very definite psychosis," or mental disorder."

OBITUARY.

H. Dayton Humphrey.

New Britain, March 30.—H. Dayton Humphrey, for the past 47 years clerk of the South Congregational church and prominent in the dry goods and real estate business here for more than half a century, died today at his home, 265 West Main street. Mr. Humphrey was born at Crawfordsville, Ind., in 1846. He came to this city in 1862. He engaged in the dry goods business in 1873 and in 1901 retired from that field and since then devoted his time to insurance and real estate. He served the city as a member of the board of water commissioners for 30 years, five of them as chairman. For a few years he was a member of the republican town committee. He and Mrs. Humphrey celebrated their golden wedding anniversary four years ago. Besides his wife he is survived by a son, Howard Humphrey and a daughter, Miss Flora L. Humphrey. The funeral will be held from the home at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Interment will be in Fairview cemetery, this city.

Rome, March 30—[illegible] Pius today appointed Monsignor [illegible]so Beltrami who is rector of the [illegible]tifical college for emigration, as [illegible]te for emigration.

Condition of Earl of Ypres.

London, March 30.—The Earl of Ypres, Former Field Marshal French, who underwent an operation on March 19, has developed symptoms, which the bulletin issued today described as "disquieting."

There is increased anxiety over his condition.

SORBONNE LAW STUDENTS CREATE DISTURBANCES

Paris, March 30.—(By the A. P.)—The suspension today of Dr. Louis Bethelemy, dean of the Sorbonne law faculty, growing out of the rioting by royalist and conservative republican students of the University of Paris on Saturday, caused unusual student effervescence in the Paris Latin quarter this afternoon. Projects are under way for anti-government manifestations tonight or tomorrow.

Royalist students were ready to stage a protest this afternoon, but the presence of a large group of communists dissuaded the "king's henchmen," as the royalists are called.

After singing songs criticizing Dr. Georges Scelle, the international law professor who the students claim was imposed upon the school by the French government, the young men dispersed shouting "Resign Scelle!" and "Shame on Herriot!" The students then went to Dr. Berthelemy's house where they shouted their loyalty to him.

The trial of the Sorbonne students who participated in Saturday's demonstration resulted in one medical student being sentenced to fifteen days in prison and a fine of 50 francs for "violence and rebellion." Others received suspended jail sentences, benefiting by being first offenders, and small fines.

American students of the University of Paris Law school are beginning to wonder whether their home universities will accord them credits or work they have done if all the law courses are stopped as was announced today would be done.

There are about fifty Americans who were until today engaged in law studies in the university. They are anxious to complete their courses and have them count toward degrees at schools in the United States, but the present situation makes this prospect uncertain.

Sizable forces of police and mounted republican guards were held in reserve today to cope with any demonstrations on a large scale.

TESTIMONY IN SUIT AGAINST LILLIAN GISH

New York, March 30.—Charles H. Duell, motion picture producer, today testified that he became "unofficially" engaged to Lillian Gish, screen star, in June, 1923, and "officially" in January, 1924.

The testimony was given in federal court during trial of Duell's suit to compel Miss Gish to complete her contract with his company.

Judge Mack asked the witness when the engagement took place after Duell hesitated in answering a similar question put by his counsel and brother, Holland S. Duell.

The producer said he became unofficially engaged immediately after he was separated from his wife and the official engagement, which he admitted never was announced publicly, occurred as soon as his Paris divorce decree was granted.

Changes made in his original contract with Miss Gish, shortly after the "unofficial" engagement, were of particular advantage to the screen star, Duell testified, in that they allowed her to marry if her husband did not "interfere seriously with her work."

CONTEST OVER WILL OF LOTTA CRABTREE

Boston, March 30.—For refusing to reveal their relationship, at the request of the administrators, more than a score of the sixty-odd contestants of the will of Lotta Crabtree, actress, will lose their right to fight the will. A motion for a decree striking their names from the record of appearances was allowed by Judge Prest after a hearing in the Suffolk probate court today. The list will be revised before the decree is entered, it was stated.

Miss Crabtree left an estate valued at approximately $5,000,000 and her will directed that the greater part of the estates should be used for the benefit of disabled war veterans, Massachusetts Agricultural College and various charitable organizations.

Since the will was filed for probate, more than three score persons claiming relationship in various degrees have arrived to contest it.

WAGE AGREEMENT BY CONCORD GRANITE WORKERS

Concord, N. H., March 30.—Three-year agreements covering wages and working conditions have been signed by the granite cutters and quarry workers and the Concord Granite Manufacturers' association, it became known today. The agreements will become effective April 1, and will expire April 1, 1928. The paving cutters have not yet signed an agreement.

No wage changes are provided in the new contracts. In the case of the granite cutters provision is made for the installation of dust removing devices as a measure of health for the workers. The quarry workers have been granted a Saturday half holiday for the months of June, July and August in each year.

33 MINERS TRAPPED BY SUDDEN INRUSH OF WATER

Newcastle, England, March 30.—Thirty-three men were trapped in the Montague colliery at Scobwood, near Newcastle, this afternoon by a sudden inrush of water. Two hundred men were underground when the flood started, but all except thirty-three made their escape.

Eight of the entombed men are said to be in a perilous position on a ridge near the roof of the mine. Rescue work is being greatly hampered by foul gases, but the belief prevailed this evening that some of the men would be rescued.

One man who came out of the mine during the afternoon said the water was up to his neck.

Stock Quotations Continue To Shrink

In Declines of 3 to 21 Points 125 Issues Are at Lowest Prices of the Year.

New York, March 30.—The stock market experienced another drastic reaction today which carried 125 individual issues to the lowest prices of the year on extreme declines of 3 to nearly 21 points. Both the rail and industrial averages nagged to new low ground on total sales that ran above one and one-half million shares. It was one of the sharpest setbacks in nearly three weeks of steadily declining prices during which the quoted value of securities traded in on the exchange has shrunk nearly one and one-half billion dollars.

The decline in stocks coincided with another bad break in grain futures which carried wheat and corn prices to the lowest levels of the year. Inasmuch as several prominent speculators have been operating extensively in both markets, the movements in each have had a rather close relationship in the last few weeks. The marking up of the call money rate to 6 per cent. was generally regarded as incidental to the usual heavy demand for funds in connection with month end requirements and quarterly payments. There were no new factors to influence the selling of stocks, but there was a tendency on the part of traders to pay more attention to the trend of commodity prices, which have been downward; the declining ratio of steel mill operations, and the relatively poor earnings statements of the first two months, particularly by the railroads.

Strong buying support came into the market in the early afternoon and effectively checked the decline which, for a time, threatened to assume dangerous proportions. Closing prices generally were from one to five points above the low levels of the day.

NO MORE WILD ANIMAL ACTS IN THE BIG CIRCUS

New York, March 30.—Trained wild animal acts involving lions, tigers, other jungle beasts of the feline class and the larger species of bears will not be shown by the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus when that show "takes the road" this spring, officers of the circus said today.

Such acts have already been eliminated from the circus as it is appearing in New York and will not be used in the future, they said.

Charles Ringling, one of the owners, explained the decision as due primarily to public distaste for acts which alarm a large class of circusgoers, especially children and women.

"Many parents object to taking children to a show where men and women enter cages with ferocious beasts," he said. "The public seems to prefer acts in which the animals themselves seem to take an interest in their part, as do dogs, seals, horses and elephants."

Trained animal acts with animals of these kinds will be continued, it was explained. The larger jungle beasts will still be carried in the show's menagerie.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Wilder S. Metcalf, of Kansas, accepted commissionership of pensions which he had once declined.

Brigadier General Mitchell, retiring assistant army air chief, was assigned to duty at San Antonio, Texas.

The Couzens state committee investigating the internal revenue bureau concluded its hearings.

Secretary Weeks decided to ask for bids for purchase of hydro-electric power at Wilson dam, Muscle Shoals.

Secretary Kellogg conferrred with Secretaries Weeks, Wilbur and Hoover on the forthcoming Geneva arms traffic conference.

Postmaster General New restored to duty with demotion six postal officials who had been suspended in connection with efforts to pass the postal pay bill.

It was indicated that Theodore Brentano's resignation as minister to Hungary would be accepted, but that Albert H. Washburn would be retained as minister to Austria.

DRY BREWERS' YEAST CURE FOR PELLAGRA

Washington, March 30.—Pellagra, dread disease of rural communities, has been found to yield to dry brewers' yeast. Dr. Joseph Goldberger, of the public health service, in announcing the discovery today, said experiments would be conducted this summer at the Georgia state sanatorium to determine the element in this yeast which already has brought about cures.

The discovery followed eight years of study, in which Dr. W. F. Tanner, another health service physician, was associated with Dr. Goldberger.

Pellagra, prevalent chiefly in the south, is disclosed in its milder forms by symptoms as emaciation, lassitude and eruption of the skin, and in severe cases, by insanity and death.

REPUBLICANS WON CITY ELECTION IN DANBURY

Danbury, March 30.—A. Homer Fillow, republican, was re-elected as mayor of Danbury and the republican ticket was victorious in the municipal election held here today.

Mr. Fillow received 2,204 votes while Dr. Thomas A. Hart, democrat, received 1106 and John W. Hennessey, progressive, 251. Republican pluralities throughout the ticket were practically the same as those polled by the mayor.

For the common council, the republicans carried all with the exception of the Fourth ward, a democratic stronghold, where one democratic councilman was named.

ADIRONDACK MOUNTAIN STREAMS IN FLOOD STAGE

Saranac Lake, N. Y., March 30.—Adirondack mountain streams continued in full flood tonight. Both east and west branches of the Ausable river were reported far over the banks.

Reports from the lower Saranac and Ausable valleys said some farm homes had been vacated because of the flood. A warm rain was continuing tonight.

France Drafting Reply To Germany

To Require That Germany Join the League of Nations Without Special Favors.

Paris, March 30 (By the A. P.)—The requirement that Germany join the league of nations without special favors or exemptions, and announce clearly her intentions concerning the frontiers of Poland and Czecholovakia before the French government will sign with the reich a European security pact, will be the substance of the French reply to the recent German security offer.

Premier Herriot, after taking counsel with ex-Premier Briand, M. Loucheur and other leaders of the French parliament, today gave instructions to the political department of the foreign office to draft a note to that effect.

The aim of the document will be to draw from the Berlin government a reply that will enable the allies to decide whether the German offer for a security pact is likely to form a basis for useful negotiations.

FIVE OF SEVEN ESCAPED CONVICTS RECAPTURED

Pittsburgh, March 30—Five of the seven convicts who escaped from the Western penitentiary here yesterday, were in the county jail tonight, following their capture by state police near Butler, Pa., this morning. They will be held for trial on charges of escaping from a state institution. Two were apprehended shortly after the delivery.

Driving along the Kittanning Pike this morning the convicts were halted by a state policeman. They surrendered readily and were taken to Butler, later being brought to Pittsburgh. Their flight last night, they said, was delayed several hours when their automobile became stuck in the mud.

In statements to prison officials today the convicts denied they had cut their way through a metal ceiling at the penitentiary. "We just saw the hole," they said, "and crawled through." A resistance carbon attached to a wire and connected with an electric light socket was used to cut the hole, investigators said.

ARGUMENTS IN $300,000 SUIT AGAINST NEW HAVEN ROAD

New Haven, March 30—The arguments in the $300,000 suit of Frame, Friend and Stineman against the New Haven railroad were completed before Judge Isaac Wolfe in the superior court today. The suit is based on the allegation that in January and February, 1923, the road failed to furnish sufficient cars to move coal brought in by the company by boat to Belle dock.

Attorney Henry F. Parmlee for the plaintiff contended that had the road not "shown discrimination" in its own favor the coal brought in by the Frame concern would have been moved promptly to its destination and not tied up for weeks. This tie-up, he claimed, caused the coal dealers great financial loss.

Attorney James W. Carpenter, arguing the case for the New Haven road, pointed out the difficulties encountered in handling coal in freezing weather and said that to keep its trains moving and the factories supplied with coal the railroads acted heroically.

Judge Wolfe reserved decision.

BLOOD TESTS TO DECIDE IF CHILD HAS NEGRO BLOOD

New York, March 30—Blood tests to determine whether her 4-year-old son Agnew has negro blood will be offered by Miss Florence Reddington, a nurse, in her $150,000 breach of promise suit against Col. Isaac N. Ullman, republican leader and corset manufacturer of New Haven, Conn. The suit goes on trial tomorrow before Supreme Court Justice Charles L. Guy and a jury.

Colonel Ullman, in denying parentage of the child, charged that Andrew Peters, a negro, was the father. It is said to be the first time New York courts will be called upon to decide the validity of blood tests in establishing parentage.

The case was called today and a jury selected, but the trial was put over until tomorrow upon the plea of attorney for Miss Reddington that one of her counsel had withdrawn and a substitute had not been found.

SUSPECT MAN'S DEATH WAS CAUSED BY BOMB

Allendale, N. J., March 30—Officials tonight were investigating the death of John O'Dea, 26, proprietor of the Manor hotel, who was instantly killed today by an explosion, believed to have been caused by a bomb placed in the mechanism of his automobile.

The explosion occurred as O'Dea pressed his foot on the self-starter. It completely demolished the car, threw parts of it into the tops of nearby trees and, according to the dead man's widow, who witnessed the tragedy from the hotel, tossed her husband's body thirty feet into the air. Examining physicians said every bone in his body was broken.

It is said O'Dea had no known enemies.

FEDERAL TAX COLLECTIONS SATURDAY TOTALLED $423,700,000

Washington, March 30—Federal tax collections totalled $423,700,000 at the close of business Saturday, Acting Secretary Winston announced today, and on the basis of these receipts he predicted that the treasury's estimate of $430,000,000 for March would be borne out.

BUDGET OF 32,500,000,000 FRANCS SENT TO FRENCH CHAMBER

Paris, March 30—A budget of 32,500,000,000 francs[illegible] shorn of "politica propaganda" injected by the chamber and free of "tinkering with civil and commercial laws," was presented to the senate today by Senator Henry Berenger who reported for the finance commission.

M. Berenger said that the senate had retained the provisions for increases in the pay of functionaries and pensions amounting to about 1,600,000,000, but had trimmed other expenses so as to keep the budget within the government's original estimates.

"The inter-allied debts problem must be solved", he said, but for the moment we are in a difficult situation. Future budgets must depend upon the value of the franc, and the franc itself is largely dependent on the country's confidence."

Senator Perchot stated that agriculture was prosperous, but industry was seriously threatened. The inter-allied debts, he went on, were the principal obstacle to monetary stabalization and he declared: "The country would never understand, if the British and Americans should take an uncompromising attitude toward us after having reduced Germany's debt."

The senate is likely to have its own way with the budget, for the leaders of Herriot's majority at a conference with the premier tonight agreed not to fight for most of the budget provisions to which the senate objected and exacted from M. Herriot the promise not to stake confidence on these measures before the budget was returned to the chamber, except on the suppression of the Vatican embassy.

78-YEAR-OLD WOMAN WAS PAINFULLY BURNED

Stamford, March 30—Mrs. Mary Sabia, aged 78, died today at the Stamford hospital as a result of burns sustained in an unusual manner. Having been left alone for a time by her daughter at 94 Stillman street, Mrs. Sabia was combing her hair beside a stove. It is believed she dropped the celluloid comb she was using into the stove, and when tried to save the comb after it had caught fire. She could not hold the blazing comb, however, dropping it to the floor, and igniting her clothing. She was discovered in another room lying on the floor by her grandson, where she had evidently run panic-stricken. She was rushed to the hospital, where it was found she had been so badly burned, she could not recover.

COMMERCIALIZED VICE NOT RAMPANT IN NEW YORK

New York, March 30—New York has less commercialized vice than any large city in the world, but a further improvement could be effected by a law to punish men who pay or offer to pay money to women for delinquency, Percy S. Straus, retiring chairman of the committee of Fourteen, declared today in his annual report.

"Women alone had been penalized although men are equally essential to the evil," the report said. "This existing fact is admitted to be illogical, discriminatory and ineffective."

There are no notorious houses in New York professional exploiters have practically vanished, and "street conditions are so good foreign visitors are mystified," the report set forth.

For the second time within a month the college book store in the administration building of the Connecticut Agricultural college has been entered and rifled of a sum of money. February 28 last, $75 was taken on the same night that the college post office safe was opened and emptied of $10 in money. The second break at the book store was made late last week and entrance was again made by breaking a pane of glass and allowing the window catch to release. Earl Angell, clerk in the post office confessed to the opening of the safe and taking of $10, but there was nothing to show that he was responsible for the book store robbery, which he believed would be discovered first and cover him of blame for his action. Both book store roberies remain unsolved.

PLEASANT ST. GARAGE STARTS TO SLIDE INTO RIVER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 30.—Several feet of the rear wall, part of the roof and part of the floor of a stucco and brick garage at 176 Pleasant street owned by Costas Stamaton, local fruit man, gave way, during the noon hour Monday and went crashing down the 100 foot bank on which it was built into the Willimantic river. Mr. Stamaton's sport model Buick, which was standing in the building at the time, was only saved from being precipitated into the river by the rear wheel brake, which held it, although the car pitched nose forward at a dangerous angle. The garage was practically demolished. The car was rescued with the aid of a jack. The loosening foundation, which had caused the walls to crack and finally give way, was the cause of the disaster.

JEWETT CITY

Shortly before 7 o'clock Monday evening Joe Gasbestoski, alias Joe Greenhorn, entered the small store at the north end of the railroad station, kept by Joe Cirelli. Mrs. Cirelli, was behind the counter. Gasdestoski with his right hand under his coat and on his hip, demanded, with a threatening gesture, that she pass over the valuables in the case and her money. While she engaged the man in talk, Cirelli in a back room, hearing the disturbance, sent his boy out the back door for an officer. Patrolman Henry Viegard ran to the store and arrested Gadbestoski, who when searched was found to have no firearms about him. Another man from out of town in the store at the same time and alleged to be intoxicated was searched and he too, was arrested. Both were lodged in cells at the police station and will be tried this (Tuesday) morning. Officer Viegard believes that the drunk had no part in the attempted holdup.

Mary Fitzgerald died Sunday at the home of the Little Sisters of the Poor at New Haven. The funeral is to be held there Wednesday morning and the body will be brought to Jewett City for burial in St. Mary's cemetery. She was a former resident of Mechanic street, Jewett City.

Tidings from the Mt. Misery rhododendron swamp, famous because few, if any, like it exist, were received in tangible form Monday forenoon. Sunday, Old Cluey Watson, in course of his investigation of several favorite trout brooks, passed through the upper end of the swamp. Young rhododendrons are now at their best, and contemplating a visit to the town for a necessary supplementing of his fishing tackle, the old man pulled up six fine plants. R. J. Guy, "Doc" Wellace, John P. Post and E. H. Hiscox were the first people he met that he knew, so he gave them all a fine shrub which each has promptly planted.

This remarkable swamp, when in the height of its summer bloom, is a sight which for peerless floral beauty stands entirely unsurpassed. Walter Stanton discovered the swamp, some years ago when he was operating a saw mill for his father, the late Avery Stanton, down in the little known heavily wooded district below Mt. Misery.

For a long time at mid-day Mr. Stanton's attention was arrested by a strange humming sound, which seemed to fill the air, there being also the added peculiarity that it came from no definite direction. While investigating the source of the strange sound, late one summer afternoon, Mr. Stanton was surprised, on coming out over the brow of one of the small hills below the mountain proper, to see spread off beneath his gaze, the acres of the famous wild rhododendron swamp of Mt. Misery. The hum of countless colonies of bees filled the air. Later the location of the swamp was disclosed to E. T. Burleson, who was the means of having a man, a cotton broker from Providence, come to see the wild display. Never had he seen such bushes and such marvelous blooms, rivalling in beauty, he declared, many of the orchid swamps he had visited during southern floral research. Some of the bushes have attained the height of twenty feet and the blossoms, a soft shade of pink are large and perfect, yet their beauty is generally wasted, as few go there to see.

A small flurry of snow came sometime Sunday night. Early risers Monday awoke to see the ground all white.

Notice was received in the borough Monday of the recent death of Rev. James J. Fitzgerald, which occurred in Old Forge, N. Y.—well up in the Adirondacks. A Brooklyn daily, printed a half column eulogy, stating that Father Fitzgerald left a record for good deeds and kindly acts hardly to be excelled. The reverend father was so well beloved in the community, that the local lodge of Masons attended the funeral of their friend in a body. Catherine Jodoin, a little Jewett City miss, not ket in her 'teens, was the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Edward J. Davan, in the Adirondacks, two summers ago. While there, she and Father Fitzgerald became fast friends, and one day the good man and his little chum, were photographed together.

A memoir of John F. Slater has been given Slater library. It was written by Rev. S. H. Howe, D. D., of Norwich, and published by the trustee of the John F. Slater fund in 1894. It is one of a series of papers published by these trustees, who were in charge of the million dollar fund given by Mr. Slater for the education and uplift of the negro, after the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation by Abraham Lincoln. In recognition of this act, congress authorized that a gold medal be struck and presented to Mr. Slater's heirs. The work is well worth reading, not only for the sentiment expressed, but because fo the unexcelled rhetoric of the author, Rev. Dr. Howe's mastery of English is widely acknowledged.

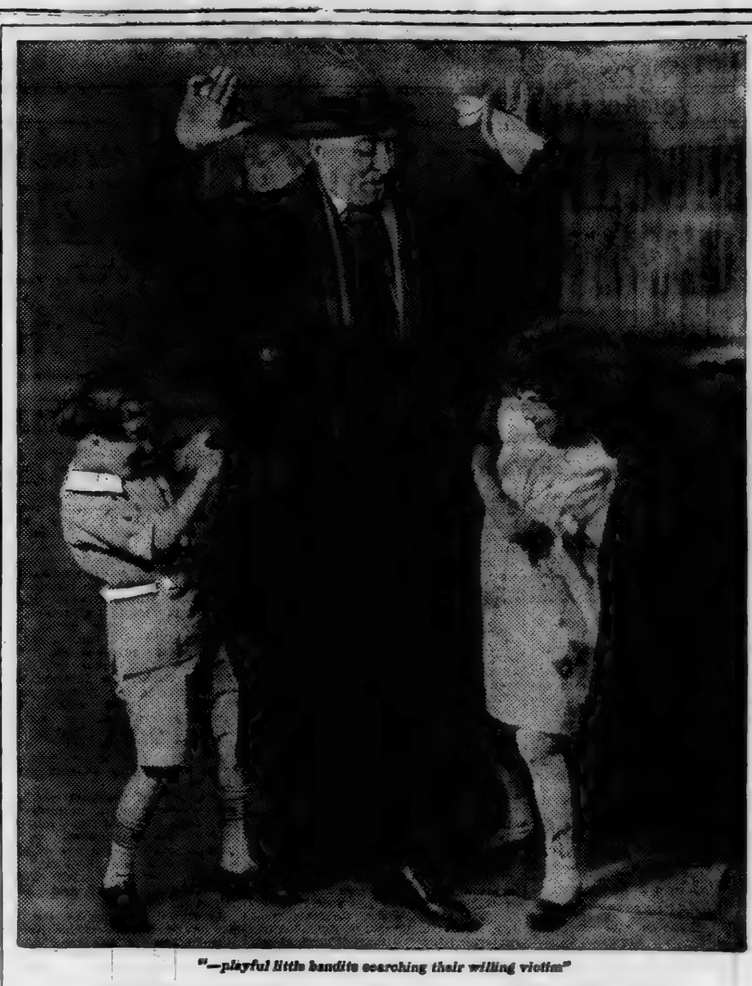
WELL ONE DAY IN BED THREE

That Was the Life of Mrs. Hollister Until she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyandotte, Michigan.—"After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders. I would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand." — Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for all women. For sale by druggists everywhere.



"—playful little bandits searching their willing victim"

"What did you bring us, Daddy?"

Expectant ears hear Father's step at the door. Then big kisses and the resounding greeting! "What did you bring us, Daddy?"

Like playful little bandits they search their willing victim. What did he bring them? That will prove the Father's good or bad judgment. • • • •

Every growing child craves candy. Active little bodies demand sugar. But children's candy must be pure—and they should not overeat on sweets.

Life Savers, the little candy mints with the hole (life saver shape) answer this problem in just the right way. They are china-hard and deliciously flavored.

This means that Life Savers are eaten slowly. Children suck them to make those wonderful flavors last longer. Little tummies are not upset. And there is no sticky, sugary debris to cling to teeth and start decay.

They're safe and wholesome. You may consciously be generous with Life Savers for they are the ideal candy for little folks.

Six flavors are displayed at all good stores so you may help yourself: Pep-o-mint, Wint-o-green, Cinn-o-mon, Lic-o-rice, Cl-o-ve and Vi-o-let.—Life Savers, Inc., Port Chester, N. Y.

ADVOCATES TELL OF BIRTH CONTROL VIRTUES

New York, March 30.—Dr. James F. Cooper, former clinical instructor at the schol of medicine of Boston university and now medical director of the clinical research department of the American Birth Control League, today told the sixth International Neomalthusian and Birth Control League that "a successful and scientific method of birth control has been evolved." He said it has been efficacious in practically every one of 10,000 cases recorded in Holland, England and the United States.

Professor W. F. Ogburn, editor of the Journal of the American Statistical association, and professor of sociology at Columbia university, declared that most criminals and insane are unmarried; that the death rate of single men is twice that of married men; that birth control increases marriage—and, therefore, that birth control is desirable.

His statements, he said, were based upon statistical studies in 170 cities in the northern part of the United States, the conclusions being made public today for the first time.

Harold Terhune, 40, who said he had been employed for the last three weeks as Connecticut representatives of Redmond and Co., New York bankers, was arrested in New York and charged with grand larceny in connection with the alleged issuing of bad checks.

DISCHARGED FARM HAND MAY HAVE CAUSED FIRE

Special to The Bulletin.

Danielson, March 30—Joseph Liberty, 72, a fat hand, was [illegible] days from the town [illegible] Monday morning. He is [illegible] he is [illegible] to go there. When Liberty was found asleep in a barn at the Silvio Gauthier place—the James L. Gauthier farm—in the Muschenetuck district about 4 o'clock Monday morning a section of one leg of his trousers was burned off and the milk house, shed and garage near the house were ablaze. Liberty was too intoxicated to make any explanation as to how the fire may have started, nor did he later offer an explanation when he was presented in court. Just prior to that time he told Chief John McFarland that his head was all right, but his feet were not functioning well.

Snow on the roof the farmhouse and the storm that was under way when the fire broke out helped check the flames until a score of men, who responded to Mr. Gauthier's telephone calls for aid, had assembled and brought the fire under control. The farmhouse is within 15 feet of one of the burned buildings. Mr. Gauthier, lessee of the farm, suffers a personal loss of about $300 over and above the insurance he carried on his destroyed property, which included a Ford light delivery truck, milk bottles and utensils and other material, including all the night's milk. There is a further loss on the buildings.

Mr. Gauthier said Monday afternoon that he had discharged Liberty, who had been working for him, because the man had gone on a drunk. Sunday evening Liberty returned to the farm, drunk, noisy and disorderly and was told to go away. He did not do this and Mr. Gauthier telephoned over to the state police barracks for an officer to arrest Liberty. He said he was told that no officers were available for the trip at that time and was given the suggestion that he chase Liberty off the place. Mr. Gauthier did this and Liberty started off, saying he was going to Wauregan. Mr. Gauthier remained up on watch until midnight, fearing that Liberty might return and be the accidental cause of such an affair as happened later. Liberty must have returned after Mr. Gauthier retired, and the fact that a part of one leg of his trousers was burned off is taken as indicating that he was in or about one of the burned structures when the fire got underway, though he was in the barn when the fire was discovered. After the fire Liberty was placed under arrest by Constable Louis Barstow of East Killingly and brought to the police station here.

MYSTIC

Frank Lester Brooks died at home here Friday afternoon, after being confined to his bed a few weeks. He was born April 5, 1848, the son of Benjamin F. Brooks and Mary Esther Eldredge. His occupation in early life was on the Mystic section of the railroad. After giving that up he had charge of the streets on the Stonington side of Mystic, doing the work so well he held the position for 15 years receiving many compliments from the citizens regardless of their political belief. When quite young he united with the Methodist church, becoming a faithful member all his life and was a Sunday school teacher many years. His daily life exemplified his faith and honesty. He leaves his wife, three sons, Walter R., Wilson R. Frank Lester, Jr., two daughters, Mrs. Peter Burnham and Miss George Pierson, besides ten grandchildren, three brothers, George, Orin and Edward Brooks; two sisters, Mrs. William Stott and Mrs. Abbie Rathbun. His uncle is Charles L. Eldredge. The funeral was held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George H. Pierson of Mistuxet avenue Monday afternoon. Rev. J. Garfield Sallis, his pastor, conducted the service, paying a tribute to his worth as a citizen and Christian. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery.

Rev. Arthur T. Fowler preached in the First Baptist church in Stonington Sunday morning, then came to address the Sunday school in the Baptist church here. In the evening he preached the last of the sermons he has been delivering for two weeks, to a large congregation. A free will offering was taken to compensate him in a small way for the service he has rendered the church and public. He thanked the people of Mystic for the kindnesses shown him and Mrs. Fowler and said they would be here until April 26 and would sail the 28th for London, England, where he would preach until September.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Minstrel Show

The Boy Scouts' Minstrels will be staged at the South Coventry Congregational church this Tuesday evening under the supervision of Scoutmaster Edward Zimmerman who has been coaching his cast for several weeks. If rehearsals are any criterion the minstrels will be one of the best stage productions ever witnessed in Coventry. Included in the cast are a number of old timers who have long since established themselves as minstrelmen of the first water. These characters will lend color to the show which they claim is the best in which they ever participated. The curtain will be drawn at eight o'clock and the prices of admission are 25c and 50c. The show is in line with public spirited movements and the receipts will be added to the Boy Scouts' fund to be used in perfecting their organization. The management make promise of laughs galore and excellent singing by the selected vocal artists of the community.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

There's a cracker-jack of a vaudeville show at the Palace theatre, Each and every one of the six acts is a knockout.

Topping the bill is Paul Specht's Pasadena Club Orchestra, under the direction of Eddie Worth. The band is making a big hit with the Palace audiences. Their arrangements are of the symphonic style which are very pleasing. The boys do a little comedy stuff in their act which gets quite a few laughs. The bill is opened by the two Claremont Bros., in a sensational revolving ladder act doing some very thrilling tricks. The act is something out of the ordinary and appeals to the audience very highly.

Next on the bill is the Man off the Ice Wagon, a very pleasing tenor. Vaudeville has prohibition to thank for being able to bring forth such a marvelous tenor as Johnny Nestor who was peddling ice to homes of the swinging doors in the lower East Side of New York when old man Volstead made his appearance and forced the singing iceman clean out of business.

The Howard and Scott Sisters, a novelty dancing act with two pretty comely maidens who execute some very pretty dances. Mr. Howard dances the Sailor's Hornpipe in a true sailor fashion.

Lloyd and Ford in two pints of fun present a very pleasing act. They are a youthful couple with a lot of pep and personality. Miss Ford noted for her pretty figure which has adorned various magazine covers, while Mr. Lloyd is a nut comedian of the nuttiest sort.

Emma O'Neil billed as the female Eddie Leonard is a whole show in herself presenting her Darktown Flapper character act. Miss O'Neil played the part of the widow in the original Listen Lester Co., which played on Broadway for two years.

Richard Barthelmess' new comedy, "New Toys," is distinctly a family picture in more sense than one. It is, first of all, a domestic comedy, relating the tribulations and tragedies of the first two or three years of married life. The action revolves around a young married couple.

Dick and his wife, known to the stage and screen as Mary Hay, play the roles of the young husband and the even-younger wife. The production of "New Toys," was directed for First National by John S. Robertson, whose wife, Josephine Lovett, wrote the adaptation.

Thus "New Toys" is a family picture in every sense of the word. Indeed, it is this home spirit of the Barthelmess studio that makes it a thing apart in the motion picture world. There is a cheery, pleasant atmosphere about the Barthelmess studio unlike anything to be found anywhere in screendom, with the possible exception of the Mary Pickford-Douglas Fairbanks organization.

Broadway Theatre

The Broadway Theatre's offering for the first half of the week is so far above the shows you have seen in the past, that it would take more than the allotted space to try and describe it, so all we will endeavor to do is to give you a synopsis and advise you not to miss it for any reason at all.

Bert Cloan opened with a hazardous wire novelty act, that places him among the best.

Stobbi and Farrell in "Melody and Song" proved to be of the popular and pleasing kind. Introducing concert, piano and violin playing this happy couple scored a hit.

Fifteen minutes of conversation fun, was introduced when Sam Dayton and Olive Palmer in "It is To Laugh" came in trey spot.

Jack North and Paul South in "Humorous Comparisons" found instant favor with their hue of song, comedy and dance.

The Stanton Revue with four lads and a maiden offered a specialty in song and dance which brought them well merited applause.

Daves and Nelson the comedy team took up fourteen more minutes with uproarious laughter.

Fisher and Gilmore, the cycling comedians held the crowd in their seats with the final curtain.

Peppy, snappy, zippy, Frenchy, and all the other adjectives denoting speed and charm, come in mighty handy when one sets out to describe Bebe Daniels' newest Paramount star picture, "Miss Bluebeard," which opened at the Broadway yesterday.

Frank Tuttle directed the production from Townsend Martin's adaptation of Avery Hopwood's phenomenally successful play, "Little Miss Bluebeard." It's the fastest-moving, jolliest little love farce you've ever seen, with Bebe Daniels as Colette, a French actress who finds herself with one husband too many.

Here's a sure-enough rib-tickler. Every scene's a laugh. As a comedienne, Bebe is sure there seven different ways.

Ever see her when she's not serious? There's a treat in store for you.

Robert Frazer has the role of Larry Charters and Raymond Griffith is cast as the Hon. Bertie Bird who furnishes most of the comedy in the picture.

Breed Theater

Crane Wilbur's mystery-thriller, The Monster, which shared the stage success of such plays as The Bat, The Cat and the Canary and The Last Warning, is said to have proved even more effective in its screen version than it was on the stage. Filmed by Roland West, who produced The Unknown Purple, it has been greeted enthusiastically in other cities, and it will be shown at the Breed theater today.

Lon Chaney and Johnny Arthur are the featured players in a cast that includes Gertrude Olmsted, Hallam Cooley, Walter James, Knute Erickson, George Austin and Ethel Wales. The screen version was written in collaboration with Albert G. Kenyon, by Willard Mack, author of Tiger Rose and Jackie Coogan's pictures, The Rag Man and Little Robinson Crusoe. The titles are by the prominent scenarist, C. Gardner Sullivan.

An uproarious comedy element has been introduced so that the shuddering horrors of the central theme have a welcome relief.

The Pathe news a cartoon and a comedy make up the remainder of the bill for today.

THE SPRING CLEAN-UP.

Norwich has been appreciating the improvement in the street lighting in Main street and Broadway and it has been hearing some complimentary remarks concerning the betterment. It realizes, however, that the full benefit of the change is not going to be noticed until there has been completed the shifting of the wires and the removal of the needless poles.

That is to be expected within a short time, but while there is being realized the full benefit of a more efficient lighting system in the business center, and the extension of it in certain directions, there cannot fail to be realized the importance of giving the city the benefit of a spring cleaning. It isn't a question of looking quaint and span in spots but of improving the community so far as it is possible. And it doesn't require much observation to note how this can be done in many ways.

While we can point with pride to our lights, and while even better street appearances are anticipated as the remains of the old system are eliminated, there should be a common desire as a community to get rid of one of those real old fashioned cleanups which means not only activity on the part of municipal employes but by all the property owners.

We are not satisfied to see the public needful cleanup work carried on in one locality and neglected in others to have its good results displayed in one yard only to have a deplorable contrast displayed next door. It doesn't bring satisfaction either to have one property owner clean up his backyard and take pride in its accomplishment if that betterment means simply the throwing of the rubbish over the fence onto the other fellow to make a bad eyesore just that much worse.

Nothing is worse for the appearance of a city than badly kept streets and neglected grounds. The cleanup movement is nothing new, but it is just as much needed at this season of the year as the domestic house cleaning. And it is a small effort when all tackle it and set out to do a good job.

OPERATING OUR STEAMSHIPS.

Perhaps the possibility of resignations from the shipping board may be due to the knowledge that a revision of the legislation governing the operation of the merchant marine is under way and will come up for action at the next session of congress, and in view of the fact that it has been recommended as the result of investigations that radical changes be made.

Efforts to have the shipping board and the fleet corporation separated through agreement and understanding on the part of each failed to accomplish what was desired. Because of that, the changing of the law to accomplish it will be undertaken, and this is a matter which Chairman Jones of the commerce committee is at work upon during the congressional recess.

With the view to getting better results by having the merchant marine placed under one directing head, instead of trying to meet the orders of two masters, where the authority will be final the increase of the authority of the fleet corporation can be anticipated. It is under this corporation that such good results have been obtained during the past year. But what has been done is not enough. There is opportunity for much more. There is need for the substituting of the huge waste with increased efficiency and the operating of the vessels under a fixed policy as long as the ships remain under government operation.

Good and sufficient reasons have been established for the contemplated changes and it is not improbable that with the advantages obtained under such changes greater progress can be made in relieving the government of this task of operating the merchant marine. A merchant marine is important to the country but it should be conducted by private corporations. Uncle Sam cannot get out of the shipping business any too soon but as long as it is necessary to operate the ships too much consideration cannot be given to the importance of providing the best possible system.

PERU'S NEW PLEA.

What success Peru will have if as intimated it is planning to ask for a rearrangement of that part of the case concerning the Tacna-Arica provisions which concerns the holding of a plebiscite is uncertain. Apparently it is now feeling about to see what the possibilities of such a move are, for while it has not declared that it would refuse to abide by the award it has given indications of dissatisfaction, and is apparently much opposed to the plebiscite idea.

The indication that its appeal for a new hearing will be based upon the fact that it holds that the plebiscite should, according to the treaty, have been held at "the expiration of ten years instead of "after" ten years doesn't make a very strong impression in view of the award being based to a certain extent upon the Peruvian translation of the treaty in question and its use of the word "after" rather than "at". For Peru to seek a rehearing on a point which it created itself is a bit unusual.

But the possibility of asking for the reopening of the case does not necessarily mean that Peru will refuse to abide by the decision upon this point or upon the entire award. In the arbitration of such a matter it is seldom that all can be satisfied. Just such differences between nations exist because there is a refusal to look at existing conditions through the eyes of a disinterested party.

Peru agreed with Chile when arbitration was decided upon that the award would be accepted. Peru has obtained part of what it sought. Chile has obtained part and it is to be left to the people of the two provinces to decide under which flag they shall go, that having been the provision of the treaty of Ancon two score years ago. Inability to agree upon such a plebiscite ten years after the treaty and since has left the matter unsettled with consequent ill feeling. Bloodshed might settle the matter but it is far preferable that two such nations should agree to the award than to maintain perpetual enmity.

AUTOMATIC TRAIN STOPS.

Every now and then railroad wrecks occur, resulting in the loss of life, which are due to the failure of the human agent who is guiding the train to respect the signals that are displayed for his information and which are in fact visible orders concerning that train.

For the purpose of dealing with this situation the interstate commerce commission has been favorably impressed by the automatic train control which works with the signals and mechanically stops the train if the engineer fails to act.

Devices of various kinds have been developed for automatically stopping trains. They have been tried out with various results, but while the commission has ordered a certain mileage equipped with such protective stops the railroads have sought an extension of time to avoid the outlay of a huge sum of money only to have it discovered by the time the system has been equipped that the particular device is next to worthless and another must be installed.

In addition to this opposition to the automatic train control there now comes the opposition of W. S. Stone, chief of the locomotive brotherhood, who points out that such an automatic stop is liable to halt trains so quickly as to cause them to buckle and fall across other tracks in front of other trains.

That there are enough instances to warrant the taking of all possible steps to protect the traveling public, if not the railroad property, against the horrors of head-on or rear-end collisions because of a failure to respect signals seems clearly established. At the same time there can be no such desire for haste that it not only means waste but failure to actually accomplish what is sought. These matters will doubtless get the careful attention of the interstate commerce commission and its experts. If there is merit in the opposition it is deserving of proper consideration.

TAX CUTTING PRELIMINARY.

President Coolidge has laid special emphasis upon tax reduction. He has not only urged its importance but he has advocated action that would make it possible. In many respects this advice has been heeded, and it is therefore natural that there should be interest in the preparations being made to bring about the desired results.

With the members of the house ways and means and the senate finance committees of congress being warned to assemble in September for the purpose of beginning work on the tax revision measure which will be presented to the next congress, it becomes evident that there is no intention to let the grass grow under their feet. The condition of the treasury is such that tax reduction is going to be possible. The situation which the president predicted would develop is ready, or will be, to turn to the advantage of the nation's tapayers, and it is gratifying to know that proper consideration will be given to a tax bill by those upon whom such a duty devolves.

It is possible to slash right and left, or it is possible to cut the tax in a manner that will be of the greatest benefit to the country as well as to the taxpayers. It can be done haphazard or it can be done scientifically. The indications are that the congressional committees are planning to employ time and good judgment in perfecting the tax bill.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Are you able to discern any signs of an approaching election?

It is all right to "beware the ides of March," but don't forget about the first of April.

The man on the corner says: Some of the flappers believe in "save the surface" more than others.

That western auto driver who shot the man who criticised him probably believed in putting the evidence out of sight.

In addition to the stories by the trout fishermen in the early April days there will soon come the tales from the golf links.

The complaint about the use of wine to christen a new vessel cannot be expected to come from the drys on the ground of being wasteful.

Delaware has refused to give up its whipping post. Perhaps it figures that may be necessary yet in dealing with the drunken drivers.

If reports are correct there will be work for someone in authority in that plebiscite section between Peru and Chile before the date for the voting arrives.

March seemed to have concentrated its ferocity in the middle west where it raised havoc, but so far as New England is concerned it is decidedly lamblike and pleasing.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, March 30—When congress again convenes the senate will be faced with a long calendar of legislative business: three of the most highly controversial questions will be that of America's adherence to the world court, the Muscle Shoals project, and a measure that will tend to make for the downward revision of federal taxes. While the subjects just mentioned may be listed as the more important ones, there are other problems that will confront the law makers when they again go into session. For instance, gasoline prices, disposition of the Lausanne treaty, the restoration of commercial relations between the United States and Turkey. Then there will be the matter of naming a member of the interstate commerce commission, for it will be recalled that Thos. L. Woodlock of New York was named as a democratic member, as required by law, but the democrats "smothered" his confirmation, both in the 68th senate and in the special session, casting aside his fitness for the position and rejecting his appointment because, as the democrats claimed, it would deprive the south of its traditional representation on the interstate commerce commission.

It will be recalled that last year Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon advocated a further reduction in surtaxes which, put into everyday language, means the releasing of more capital for various enterprises, thus providing work for a greater number of citizens of the country. This was beaten by the democrats in the house, and it is more than probable that the democrats both in the house and senate, unwilling because of partisan stubbornness to yield, will make strenuous efforts to again beat the plan. It is hoped, however, that the summer's calm, and the fact that the voters throughout the country may drop a hint to stubborn representatives and senators that the good of the country comes before partisan politics may have to a degree, at least, a salutary effect upon the lawmakers.

Just before Vice President Charles G. Dawes left Washington for his home in Evanston, Illinois, he made the statement that he would deliver a number of speeches touching upon the necessity of the doing away with the right to filibuster in the senate. He stated that in the addresses he would make he could not handle the matter in anything but a non-partisan manner [illegible] above party politics.

General Dawes, in making these trips, does so as the result not only of his desire to place the matter squarely before the people of the country, but also in response to literally hundreds of letters and telegrams received by him, asking that he appear in the several cities and towns and give his views on this question.

Washington recently beheld a remarkable spectacle. The president has nominated and the senate has confirmed, without so much as squeak, much less a roll call, almost a dozen highly competent men to ranking posts in the diplomatic service—ambassadors and ministers. The event is unprecedented. The answer is simple—neither Norris, nor Brookhart, nor Heflin nor Caraway, after the most microscopic investigations could find a scintilla of suspicion that might be twisted into attack. With a single exception these diplomats are men who have long served the nation in foreign countries with loyalty and distinction. The action of the president in making these specific appointments has a far wider significance than appears upon the surface. It means real fulfillment of the Rogers act passed by congress last year, which provided for a re-organization of the administrative features of the state department and the amalgamation of the diplomatic and consular services. Instead of the old hit or miss methods whereby information and mis-information, were scattered through various divisions, the department is now so co-ordinated that a ring from the secretary's bell fetches an official well informed upon a given subject supported by reports and documents to amplify his knowledge. In the transaction of international affairs such a system is essential. On more than one occasion in the past our government has been embarrassed and unreasonable delays have been encountered for lack of it. Under the scrutinizing eyes of Mr. Hughes, the personnel has been improved so that the department functions more like a business institution than a social centre as formerly.

It is announced that 50,000 laws and resolutions have been passed by congress since its first session in 1789. Some thought the number was greater, and it probably does not include pension laws and the like. Certainly a considerable percentage of these laws was passed during the past decade. And yet the old adage remains with us: "Ignorance of the law excuseth no man." To be a law-abiding citizen he should know all these laws plus those passed by his own State, at least. Are we confronted with the paradox, the more laws the more lawlessness?

Senator Ashurst, of Arizona, O. K.'s the Coolidge economy program; Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, approves the transfer of the patent office to the department of commerce; Senators Dial (S. C.) and Bruce (Md.) praised President Coolidge and lambasted their own party and its "unholy alliance" in the late session. Quite a bouquet o'er the party wall.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt has been telling a New York league of women voters that this country is of all the best prepared for war and is doing the least for peace. If to have of all important nations, in proportion to its size and needs, the smallest army, the smallest navy and the smallest air force, is to be the best prepared for war, and if to settle more disputes through arbitration and to do more mediating in behalf of such settlements, and to have taken the initiative in the greatest reduction and limitation of armaments ever known in the world, is to be doing the least for peace, then doubtless Mrs. Catt's impeachment of us is true. Otherwise, we are somehow reminded of the famous definition of a crab as "a red fish which swims backward:" upon which it was remarked that a crab was not red, was not a fish, and did not swim backward, but in all other respects the description was correct.

More power to the secretary of agriculture in his investigation into the causes and methods of the recent extraordinary fluctuations in the price of wheat. There are sometimes adequate reasons for considerable changes, such as reports concerning the condition and probable quantity of the crop, and the outlook for foreign demand. An official report of an unusually large crop both here and abroad, for example, would naturally cause a decline in price, while a report of scanty crops and great demand from abroad would send prices up. But when without any apparent cause of that or of any kind there is a violent fall in prices, some explanation would seem to be in order. It would be intolerable to have the market artificially manipulated in such fashion, to the heavy loss of the farmers, just to serve the interests of speculators. Years ago that was often done; but the time is past for gambling with the crops of the farmers and the food of the people.

The thoughtful plans for reorganizing the democratic party which Franklin D. Roosevelt has put forward are curtly vetoed by Colonel William J. Bryan, who declares that salvation is to be found only in following his leadership into still redder radicalism, comprising abolition of the tariff law, government ownership of public utilities and natural resources, and election of the president by direct popular vote. Colonel Bryan has dictated the policy of the democratic party in nearly every campaign for twenty-nine years, and has never once led it to victory but, on the contrary, to the worst series of defeats it has ever suffered. One wonders how much longer the democratic Sindbad will endure to carry upon his shoulders the old man of the sea.

Adam's Election Thrown Into Congress

Political life for John Quincy Adams was almost a constant series of misrepresentations, false accusations, vilifications and houndings by remorseless enemies.

Born in Quincy, Mass., he was taken at 11 to France by his father, John Adams, who went on a semi-diplomatic mission. He studied in Paris, Amsterdam and Leipsic, and at 14 went as secretary to David Francis, envoy to Russia, and after Russia had refused to recognize Francis, became a secretary during the peace negotiations between the United States and Great Britain following the Revolutionary war.

Graduated from Harvard at 20 and called to the bar at 23, he contributed to newspapers articles which so appealed to President Washington that he appointed him minister to the Hague. Three years later he married.

When his father became president he was made minister to Berlin at 30 and was described as a[illegible] of American diplomats. Next in the Massachusetts senate, he made many enemies by his personal independence, but he was selected in the United States senate.

Called a traitor and accused of having sold himself, he was so grossly insulted by his father's foes that he resigned before his term was ended. After a bitter fight he was appointed minister to Russia, where he won high esteem, then was called home to serve as secretary of state in Monroe's cabinet.

Credited with having originated the Monroe Doctrine and other important measures, he was nominated for president, and although he refused to do anything to promote his election, he received 84 electorial votes against Jackson's 99, Clay's 37 and Crawford's 14. The election was thrown in the House of Representatives, Crawford was stricken with paralysis and Clay threw his votes to Adams, who was elected.

With both houses against him part of the time, Adams' acts were strongly opposed and he was accused of purchasing the presidency, but he endured all with consistent philosophy.

Two years after the quitting the presidential chair he was elected to the senate. Reversal of political attitude over the country made him a popular leader and gave him a chance to flay mercilessly his now quailing enemies. His death was mourned as that of one of America's greatest statesmen.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

STRANGE PARENTS

"Oh, really?" gasped the sentimental lady at the news that the pretty lady's only son was soon to be married. "Oh, how terrible for you to have to lose Cronkrite. Oh, my dear, how I feel for you!"

"What for?" asked the pretty lady bluntly, and everybody else stopped playing cards to find out what was back of this heresy. "Why, when I think that very shortly I shall not be responsible for having to say gently and oh, so casually, 'Cromkrite, do sit up straight and for heaven's sake don't put three leaves of lettuce in your mouth at once!' a perfect glow of peace and happiness surges over me. Why, after he is married Cronk may commit any table crime he happens to think of and I needn't turn a hair because not a soul will say, 'My goodness, I should think that young fellow's mother or somebody would tell him not to do those things!'

"It will all be up to Kathryn. The populace will raise eyebrows and whisper that really his wife ought to say something to him. I am not denying that Cronk is decidedly all right and that his wife may thank her stars she's got such a fine husband, but nevertheless that fluffy-ruffle child is going to have her hands full.

"If women would be quite honest there's not one of 'em but would admit that it gets to be an awful bore to continue bringing up their mature children as long as they hang on the family tree.

"One can see the son of the family across the street engaged in any atrocity and maintain perfect calm, but if it is your own son there is a sharp prod of duty.

"'Hey!' calls some little imp wielding a three-pronged sticker, 'are you going to let him get by with that? Could you ever sleep nights if you did not remonstrate with tears in your voice? Did you see him sit placidly in his easy chair when three ladies entered the room? Did you notice how he left his room this morning with clothes strewn all over it and the bedclothes not thrown back to air? Don't you remember he hasn't written to his Uncle Albert for five months despite the fact that he is uncle's pet and uncle is about ready to step off, leaving $3,000,000 to somebody? Do you realize that he is seeing entirely too much of that Pinwheel girl, whose family runs to divorces as some families do to colds in the head and dyspepsia? My grief, woman, up and doing!'

"There isn't one single minute's letup from the time you first gaze on his wrinkled face, aged one day, up to the time when he gets a wife and a home of his own. So if any one tries to tell me that in a way it is not a great relief I am arching my eyebrows at her in strict unbelief! Some day I am going to drop in to see Kathryn and shall find her in despair gazing at her surroundings. 'Cronk never puts a thing up where it belongs!' she is going to state in great and sad surprise with just a hint of reproach in my direction. 'I never saw anything like it! I am going to speak to him tonight because it is just as simple for him to put a garment on a hook as on the floor!'

"'You are quite right, dear,' I shall agree with Kathryn. 'Eminently sensible and all that sort of thing, and I wish you luck!' And I go on to my bridge luncheon quite happily, although I know Cronk's clothes and papers and matches will adorn the floor of his happy little home next morning as of yore. Kathryn has got to find out things for herself. And after she has seen him crumple his napkin and drop in it his plate for the fiftieth time the repressed hysterics will be hers and not mine! Cronk is a splendid lad, but I am going to enjoy him lots more now that I'm not responsible for him, let me tell you! I expect to get all the pleasure that a grandparent does. Just enjoy him without any worry or care!'"

"I'll make it no trumps," stammered the sentimental lady who had nothing in her hand over a ten spot and was so startled she did not know what she was saying. "My goodness!"—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mrs. Robinson's Alarm Justifiable

Mr. Editor: The most natural desire of the man who thinks lies in the expression of his thoughts. It is on the assumption that the majority of your readers appreciate your "Letters to the Editor" column as a privilege open to all that I am writing these lines and it is my sincere hope that this letter will be overlooked by the smugly complacent few who attribute every endeavor at self-expression as an attempt at smart aleckry.

Recently a letter by Marinda C. Robinson was published in your paper. This lady deprecated the tendency of the young people of Florida towards smoking, drinking, etc. In this modern age of universal stepping on the gas I agree with her that her alarm is justifiable.

A few days later, March 27, a letter signed A. E. Poreda appeared in your columns with an argument touching so-called foreign schools. This letter was in response to Mrs. Robinson's.

No right thinking person who recognized the subtle slur on Catholic schools by Mr. Poreda could help but feel resentment.

In view of the fact that nearly every one in high governmental positions lauds the parochial schools as one of the strongest bulwarks against socialism and anarchism, it is regrettable indeed that every now and then a few will get in print and on the least pretext knock all private schools in general and biff the parochial schools in particular, thereby fostering hate and strife.

The whole of Mr. Poreda's grievance seems to be centered about the history books used in private schools. However, to my mind his letter is nothing more or less than a piece of propaganda probably inspired by ignorance. Scarcely a line of Mr. Poreda's discussion is logic-proof. For example he asserts that "the textbooks that are used in our public schools are not salted and peppered with bigotry and active malevolence against any religious sects, nor, do they interfere with the religious doctrines of historical subjects." What are we to infer from such an argument except that text books of other schools than public are simply overloaded with bigotry. It is not so!

I am well acquainted with the text books of parochial schools and it is true that reference is made to the great deeds of Catholic pioneers. To state a true fact, historical or otherwise is not bigotry. The fact is that what is supposed to be and what is true of American history are two very different things. For Mr. Poreda's enlightenment may I suggest the reading of "American History told by Contemporaries," written by Hart. This book is not in use in "foreign" schools.

There is a well organized band in this country who wholly distrust the parochial school as an institution in American life and whose only aim is to destroy or rather abolish what good feeling is now existing among the different sects.

I may misjudge Mr. Poreda's leter. I may be wrong but I am giving you my honest opinion. I believe Mr. Poreda's soft words are but a smoke-screen to hide his real intentions.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Charles D. Walcott, who celebrates his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary today, is one of the leading scientists of America and has been secretary of the Smithsonian Institution since 1907. Because of his geological work, especially on fossils in the rocks formed during the time known as the Cambrian, he has international prominence as a paleontologist. He entered the U. S. Geological Survey many years ago, and, step by step, rose to be its head in 1894. For a time he was in charge of the National Museum and from 1902 to 1905 he served as secretary of the Carnegie Institution. When the Federal Reclamation Service was being organized and made operative he was put in charge. Dr. Walcott has high academic degrees from leading American and European universities and has been honored with the presidency of such well-known organizations as the American Association for the advancement of science and the National academy of sciences.

POETRY

The Miracle of the Dawn

What would it mean for you and me
If dawn should come no more
Think of its gold along the sea,
Its rose above the shore!
That rose of awful mystery.
Our souls bow down before.

What wonder that the Inca kneeled
The Aztec prayed and pled
And sacrificed to it, and sealed—
With rites that long are dead,—
The marvels that it once revealed
To them it comforted.

What wonder, yea! what awe, behold!
What rapture, if wild its rivaled gold
That now each day appears,—
Burst on the world, in darkness rolled,
Once every thousand years!

Think what it means to me and you
To see it even as God
Evolved it when the world was new!
When Light rose, earthquake-shod,
And slow its gradual splendor grew
O'er doops the whirwind trod.

What shoutings then and cymballings
Arose from depth and hight!
What worship-solemn trumpetings,
And thunders, burning-white,
Of winds and waves, and anthemings
Of Earth received the Light.

Think what it meant to see the dawn!
The dawn, that comes each day!—
What if the East should ne'er grow wan
Should nevermore grow gray!
That line of rose no more be drawn
Above the ocean's spray!
—Madison Carwein.

To An Early Primrose

Mild offspring of a dark and sullen sire
Whose modest form, so delicately fine,
Was nursed in whirling storms
And cradled in the winds;

Thee, when young Spring first questioned Winter's sway,
And dared the sturdy blusterer to the fight,
Thee on this bank he threw
To mark his victory.

In this low vale, the promise of the year,
Serene, thou openest to the nipping gale,
Unnoticed and alone,
Thy tender elegance.

So virtue blooms forth amid the storms
Of chill adversity; in some lone walk
Of life she rears her head,
Obscure and unobserved;

While every bleaching breeze that on her blows
Chastens her spotless purity of breast
And hardens her to bear
Serene the ills of life.
—Henry Kirke White.

GOING FROM NIANTIC TO PORTLAND METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. George W. Potter is to come to Portland from Niantic April 1, to assume the pastorate of the Methodist Episcopal church. He will succeed the Rev. Dr. W. F. Davis, who is to retire from the active ministry.

Mr. Potter was in Y. M. C. A. work before he entered the ministry. He came to Niantic from the Chelsea branch of the Boston Y. M. C. A., where he had served as boys' work secretary for five years. His first pastorate was at Niantic and the reports received in Portland which come from that church indicate that he has been most successful as an organizer and in developing a community spirit. While at Niantic he also had charge of the work at the Methodist church at Lyme. He also held services Sunday evenings during the summer months at Oswegatchie Hills, this service being held at 9 o'clock, after he had completed his service at the Niantic church.

During his pastorate in Niantic Mr. Potter conducted a school of religious education at the Seaside sanatorium for Protestant and Jewish children. Sessions of this school were held every week the year around. Dr. John F. O'Brien, superintendent of the sanatorium, has expressed keen regret at Mr. Potter's departure. He says he is the first minister who ever came to the institution and offered to give religious instruction. Mr. Potter also started a group of Boy Scouts at the sanatorium and his work there has won him a warm place in the hearts of the children.

Mr. Potter organized a group of 42 Boy Scouts in Niantic composed of various races and creeds. He also organized a tribe of Boy Rangers. Mr. Potter is a member of the Masonic fraternity and has been presented with a Masonic ring as a parting gift by the Epworth league.

A farewell party has been held for him which was attended by people of all denominations. Protestants and Catholics spoke at this service and expressed gratitude for his work in Niantic and regret at his departure.

Rev. Mr. Davis and his wife are to make their future home in Danielson and have already left Portland for that place. Mr. Davis has been in the active ministry for 43 years and has now retired.

AMERICAN WOOLEN BOOSTER FEATURES JAMES RINGLAND

The American Woolen Employes Booster in the March issue has the following article with a picture in it about James E. Ringland of Norwich Town, employe of the company:

Eight hours a day in a mill do not by any means use up all a man's working hours and as our acquaintance throughout the personnel of the company widens we learn of a great many employes who in their spare time have accomplished worth-while things in other fields of activity. We are thinking now of several cases of which we have heard recently. Among them is James E. Ringland, an employee of the card room of the Yantic Mills for the past 15 years.

Mr. Ringland in his spare time has become one of the leading fanciers and breeders of poultry in New England. He is well versed in poultry raising and has successfully bred and marketed Rhode Island Reds, Barred Plymouth Rocks, Golden Seabright bantams and Brown Leghorn bantams. He recently received from the department of agriculture at Washington a letter thanking him and commending him for his disinterested efforts in promoting better poultry conditions.

REV. M. E. GENTER FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF NORWICH METHODIST DISTRICT

REV. MYRON E. GENTER

Rev. Myron E. Genter, who has been pastor of the Methodist church at New London for over seven years, was on Monday appointed superintendent of the Norwich district by Bishop William Anderson at the session of the New England Southern Conference at Fall River.

By this appointment Rev. Mr. Genter takes the place of Rev. W. H. Bath of this city who has been superintendent of the district for six years and has now been assigned to the pastorate of the East Providence church. A unanimous vote had been passed by the ministers of the Norwich district at a meeting in February in this city, to request Bishop Anderson to appoint Rev. Mr. Genter to the district superintendency. The new appointee had been pastor of the Washington Park M. E. church in Providence for seven years before he came to New London.

There was no change made in the pastors of either of the Norwich churches, this continuing Rev. J. Harlow Graham at Trinity church and Rev. J. B. Aldrich at the Norwich Town church.

Changes in the assignments of ministers in the Norwich district of the conference were announced as follows:

Baltic and Versailles, H. H. Conklin.

Bridgeton (R. I.) George Davies

Danielson, Roger C. Stimson.

East Blackstone and Millville (Mass.), Raymond Wumber.

New London, C. E. Spalding

Niantic and Lyme, J. E. Montgomery.

North Grosvenordale, M. C. Baker.

Portland, G. W. Potter.

Vernon and Quarryville, J. B. Ackley.

Warehouse Point, J. G. Dishee.

ASK GREATER CONTRIBUTIONS FOR WORLD SERVICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Fall River, Mass., March 30.—The conference sessions were resumed at 9 a. m. when the report of the treasurer of the conference, Rev. J. S. Bridgford, was presented. The declining amounts contributed by the churches for world service caused a resolution to be adopted by the conference urging a special effort upon the part of the district superintendents and pastors to secure from the churches a more systematic effort to meet the claims of World service needs.

The report of the statistician showed among other things the following: Support of pastors the past year shows an increase of $1,155; support of district superintendents an increase of $748; and support of the retired preachers, $259.

Adam C. McGilton and E. McP. Ames were changed from the retired list to the effective relationship. John McVay, G. W. Ruoff and H. Spear were taken from the effective ranks and placed in the retired relationship. Reports from several committees and boards at work in the conference were read and approved at this session.

Mrs. Florence Cashman of Fall River was introduced to the conference and by request she broke the monotony of the business by singing two solos with organ accompaniment to the great delight of the audience and receiving a hearty encore. Mrs. Cashman is a popular soprano whose voice is freely offered in the service of the Lord and who is highly esteemed by local church workers.

The resolutions of appreciation were read by Rev. Dr. George A. Grant and voiced the thanks of the conference for the many courtesies shown to the extent of a larger amount of details than is customary. A special resolution expressed the enthusiastic welcome to and sincere appreciation of Bishop Anderson whose courtesy and brotherliness has been most marked throughout the week. Both these resolutions were adopted amid a storm of applause.

The conference adjourned after the reading of the journal and the usual devotional exercises which included singing More Love to Thee, O Christ, and prayer; remarks by the bishop; and the reading of the appointments.

Besides the changes in appointments made the following who were changed in the middle of the year were continued in the place to which they were changed:

Attawaugan, W. E. Newton.

Jewett City, Griswold and Voluntown, J. W. Carter.

Staffordville, (Federated), W. D. Woodward.

The following other appointments will be of interest to Bulletin readers:

Providence District.

Brockton, Mass., Pearl Street, Clinton E. Bromley; Franklin Street, J. H. Buckey.

East Providence, Haven church, W. H. Bath.

Hills Grove, S. J. A. Rook.

North Cohassett, Frederick W. Coleman.

Phenix, S. F. Maine.

Newport (St. Paul's), G. G. Scrivener.

Pawtucket (Epworth), F. L. Streeter.

New Bedford District.

Oak Bluffs, C. H. Van Natter

Taunton (First church) retains Oscar J. Aldrich for the fifth year, son of J. B. Aldrich, Norwich Town, and former pastor at Stafford Springs.

Both the Norwich churches with Uncasville and Moosup, are in the list of those making no change. The churches will doubtless hail this notice with great approval.

Rev. C. E. Spaulding, who goes to New London, is a transfer from the New England conference—a man of wide experience and outstanding ability.

Rev. M. E. Genter, the new superintendent of Norwich district, is a man whose record for several years in two pastorates in this conference has been one of great achievement. He is one of the most popular men in the conference and his appointment should give general satisfaction.

The bishop paid a special tribute to the representatives of the press in Fall River and contiguous cities, declaring that never had he known newspapers to take such an interest and to give such excellent reports.

BISHOP UNABLE TO PREACH ON SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Fall River, Mass., March 29—Union Methodist Episcopal church was filled this morning with people attending the Annual Conference Love Feast at 9 o'clock, many having to stand during the service. Rev. Frederick C. Baker of Bridgeton, R. I., was the leader and the service was of that lively and deeply spiritual quality which generally characterizes such assemblies.

The morning worship was held in the Rialto theatre at 10.30 a. m. A block of seats to the number of 500 was reserved for those who had attended the love feast at Union church, these being admitted to the seats by tickets which had been distributed at the church. At this service, Rev. Dr. R. A. Colpitts presided, Rev. W. H. Bath offered prayer, Rev. J. W. LeBaron led in the Psalter reading, and Rev. R. L. Roberts read the New Testament lesson which was from John 15.

Owing to a temporary disability, Bishop Anderson was forbidden by his physician to preach, as had been advertised, at this service. Rev. Dr. D. Hollington, pastor of Matthewson St. Church, Providence, and known as one of the ablest preachers in New England was summoned at short notice and he kindly agreed to speak at this time. His excellent discourse was based upon the words of Matthew 10:39,—"He that findeth his life shall lose it and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it."

The Rialto Theatre seats about 1,600 people. It was filled to overflowing and large numbers had to turn away to other churches in the locality.

The Union Church Quartette rendered two anthems at this service entitled "Grant us thy peace" and "O for a Closer Walk with God."

Ordination Service.

The service for the ordination of elders and deacons was held at 3 p. m. at the Central Congregational Church whose pastor and people had kindly offered its edifice for this purpose as it is the largest church auditorium of any in the city controlled by Protestants.

Bishop Anderson expressed the gratitude of the Conference for this courtesy shown by the Congregational people and also his personal gratitude to Dr. Hollington who had preached for him at the morning service. Bishop Anderson said that this was the first time he had failed to appear at the Sunday morning service in the seventeen years of his active life as a Bishop.

The congregation stood and sang "Onward Christian Soldiers" as the procession marched up the aisle. The following were ordained as deacons:—Carlisle T. Boynton, Wm. Arthur Mille, Frank W. Dunham, George Lewis Porter, Geo. Henry Parker, Carl S. Lendgrin, Josiah H. Hall, Miss B. Marion Hope and Mrs. Kate M. Cooper.

Miss Ethel V. Glandon, Superintendent of the Deaconess Home at Providence, R. I., was introduced by the Bishop and after a few preliminary remarks in which she spoke of the two women mentioned as the first in this conference to be ordained to the ministry, she presented to each of the two women ordained.—Miss Hope and Mrs. Cooper—a little box containing a gold piece, a testimonial from the deaconesses of the conference expressive of their love and esteem.

The following were ordained as Elders:—Howard P. Davis, Roger C. Stimson, Leon. N. Adkins, Charles S. Johnson, Manfred A. Carter, and John F. Oliveira.

Bishop Anderson was assisted in the ordination services by the following clergymen:—Rev. W. H. Bath, Rev. J. W. LeBaron, Rev. R. L. Roberts, Rev. L. G. Horton, Rev. R. A. Colpitts and Rev. Clarence Hellens, the last named being the pastor of the Central Congregational Church where the service was held. Rev. W. J. Davis also assisted in the ordination of his son, Rev Howard P. Davis.

The evening service was held in the Central Congregational church. Rev. Frederick W. Coleman presided, Rev. R. A. Colpitts offered the invocation, Rev. C. E. Hellens offered prayer, Rev. John Pearce read the Scriptures. An anthem "Cast Thy Burden on the Lord" was sung by the Church Choir. A duet "The Lord Is My Light" was sung by the tenor and the soprano of the Church Quartette. The preacher of the evening was Dean W. L. Sperry of the Harvard Divinity School who based his discourse upon the words of John 4:23, last clause,—"For such the Father seeks to worship Him." It was a thoughtful discourse commanding the close attention of the large audience which completely filled the auditorium.

Saturday Session.

A business session of the conference was held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. After the devotions which consisted of singing and prayers which were offered by Rev. J. H. Slatz and Rev. W. H. Easton, Bishop Anderson introduced Rev. Dr. L. E. Lovejoy who addressed the conference in behalf of the stewardship program of the church.

Rev. Dr. D. M. Powell was introduced and he spoke in the interest of the board of pensions and relief. He presented the conference with a check of $800, the share of this conference in the annual dividends of this Board for the support of retired preachers.

Rev. J. S. Bridgford, treasurer of the conference commission on the conference claimants permanent fund, presented his report showing the receipts of the past year. The attempt has been made to increase the size of this fund by $150,000 in a period extending over five years. The progress made as reported was the subject of much discussion and renewed efforts in this work were strongly urged.

Russell V. Waite, who was overlooked at the morning session, but who was entitled to admission in full membership, was called to the altar and having answered the disciplinary questions was received into that relationship by Bishop Anderson.

Dean James A. Beebe of the Boston University School of Theology delivered a masterly and penetrating address upon the subject of Mysticism to a large and attentive audience.

The offering for the church sexton taken at the morning session was reported as netting $33.

Deaconess Anniversary.

On Saturday evening the Deaconess Anniversary was held. Rev. L. G. Horton presided, Dr. Newton E. Davis of the board of hospitals and homes gave an address. A pageant "The Rights of the Child" was presented by young people of the local deaconess homes and school. The motion picture "A Ray of Life" was exhibited by Dr. E. V. Hinchcliffe of Easton. A congregation which filled the church enjoyed this program which was very finely rendered throughout.

At 4 p. m., the annual reception to the ministers' wives and the deaconesses was held at the parsonage. Mrs. Colpitts, wife of the pastor of the entertaining church, was in charge and the affair was given in honor of Mrs. W. F. Anderson, wife of the presiding bishop. Mrs. Florence Cashman of Fall River sang solos and an orchestra in charge of Fred Simmons rendered several selections. The house was prettily decorated with spring flowers. The following were in the receiving line, Rev. Dr. Colpitts, Mrs. W. F. Anderson, Mrs. R. A. Colpitts and Mrs. R. L. Roberts. Dainty refreshments were served. At the business meeting, Mrs. J. S. Bridgford, president of the ministers' wives association, was in the chair and Mrs. I. W. LeBaron, recording secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting.

The new officers elected were the following:—President, Mrs. Frederick W. Coleman; Vice Presidents—Norwich District, Mrs. A. S. Muirhead; Providence District, Mrs. R. S. Moore; New Bedford District, Mrs. G. D. Stanley; Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. A. M. Bruce.

At a meeting of the Rural Preachers' Association at 5:15 p. m., Saturday, the following were chosen as officers for the ensuing year: President, I. H. Crawford; Vice President, Wm. C. Darby; Secretary and Treasurer, Clinton E. Bromley; Collector, Geo. O. Richardson.

REGIMENTAL CAMPS AT NIANTIC THROUGH SUMMER

In order to give a better opportunity for basic training in the smaller units the plan of having a brigade camp for units of the Connecticut National guard at Niantic this summer has been given up and regimental camps have been ordered by the adjutant general. The Niantic reservation will be available throughout the summer, and it has been decided to have individual units not larger than a regiment go into camp through July and August instead of putting them in all at once. Even under the new schedule as issued there will be approximately 1,500 officers and men there at one time. Another change from last year's encampment, when maneuvers involving units as large as a brigade were undertaken, will be made in the field maneuvers and problems. There will be such maneuvers only for battalions or smaller units.

Following is the new schedule of summer encampments:

State staff corps and departments, Niantic, as ordered.

118th Medical regiment, Niantic, July 19-August 2.

Headquarters company, Forty-third division, Niantic, July 11-26.

118th Motorcycle company, Niantic, July 11-25.

Headquarters and Headquarters company, Eighthy-fifth infantry brigade, Niantic, July 11-25.

169th Infantry, Niantic, July 5-19. August 2.

169th Infantry, Niantic, July 5-19.

118th Observation squadron, Mitchel Field, L. I., July 5-19.

Forty-third Tank company, Camp Devens, Mass., August 3-17.

192nd Field Artillery, Tobyhanna, Pa., July 5-19.

242nd Coast Artillery (HD), Fort H. G. Wright, August 16-30.

First squadron cavalry, practice march, August 8-22.

Major General Morris B. Payne, commanding officer of the division, will report for the fifteen days' training at such times and places as he may deem to be for the best interests of the service, and division staff officers station in Connecticut will report for their training as may be directed by General Payne.

The property and disbursing officer for the United States has been designated as the transportation officer. He will make the necessary arrangements for the transportation of the troops to the designated places of encampment and return, and will furnish each commanding officer with a train schedule governing the movement of his command.

The corps area commander has made arrangements for the exchange of horses between the state of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut for the use of the cavalry.

TEACHERS LEAGUE ELECTS AND HAS ENTERTAINMENT

The quarterly meeting of the Teachers League was held Monday evening at Elizabeth Street school and was attended by many of the members. The business session was in charge of President Miss Mary Canty and after the usual business the election of officers took place, resulting as follows: President, Miss Rita Foley; Vice President, Miss Martha Reynolds, Secretary and Treasurer, Miss Marion Beebe; Executive Board, Miss Bernice Willey, Miss Anna Welch, Miss Lillian Stetson, Miss Alice Driscoll, Miss Jennie McVeigh and Miss Lillian Browster.

The teachers of three schools, Broadway, Falls and Broad street, were in charge of the meeting and as a part of the program, Ag Economical Boomerang, a one act comedy, was presented under the auspices of the entertainment committe, Miss Amelia Young chairman. The members of the cast were as follows:

Mr. Dappleton—who believes in economy, Rita Foley.

Mrs. Dappleton—who does not believe but acquiesces Susie Whittlesey.

Mr. Bird Plover, Mary Canty.

Mrs. Plover, Mary Callahan.

Maggie—the maid, Marian Beebe.

(the village gossips).

Doctor Dipps—who hopes to find a patient, Genevieve McCormick.

The play was ably directed by James E. Murphy.

Following the entertainment of the evening refreshments were served by the refreshment committee, Miss Grace Rogers, chairman, the menu consisting of Chicken Salad in rolls, hot chocolate, cake and candy.

GAVE BIRTHDAY SURPRISE FOR MRS. HAROLD MORAN

Mrs. Harold Moran of No. 50 St. Regis avenue was given a delightful surprise birthday party at her home Monday evening. There were about 25 guests including Mr. and Mrs. Peter Tracy and family and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cormier and family and friends from out of town. Whist was played and refreshments were served at a prettily decorated table. A handsome birthday cake with lighted candles occupied the center of the table. Mrs. Moran received a number of gifts including rosary beads and a pocket book.

Nearly all railroads in Porto Rico are owned by sugar growers who seldom use them except during the sugar manufacturing season.

GEORGE L. GREENMAN MISSING SINCE FEBRUARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

Richmond, Va., March 30.—George L. Greenman, formerly of Norwich, Conn., disappeared from Richmond, on February 10, leaving a note that he was going to another city to look for a position, and has not been heard from since despite efforts of relatives and friends to locate him. Mr. Greenman is suffering from lapse of memory, or has met with foul play, members of his family fear. Mr. Greenman came to Richmond shortly after the Air Reduction Plant was built in Fulton to take a position with that company. About two years ago he lost his position and has not worked steadily since that time. The loss of his job and the inability to secure steady work made Mr. Greenman despondent and he brooded much over his condition, his wife stated last night.

Born in Norwich, Mr. Greenman was educated there and had worked in New York city prior to coming to Richmond. Relatives in Norwich are aiding in the search for the missing man and are also at a loss to understand his actions. Although many theories have been advanced, his wife and relatives believe that Mr. Greenman has suffered a lapse of memory or some other mental malady.

No suspicion was felt by Mrs. Greenman for several days after her husband had mailed her a note that he was going to another city and would be gone about three days, although he did not indicate his destination.

Mr. Greenman is described as being about five feet five inches tall, of somewhat trim figure and weighing about 150 pounds. He had dark hair, slightly gray and sparse about the temples; light blue eyes and sharp angular features. He is 45 years also, although he appears considerably younger.

When he left home he wore a dark gray soft hat, light tan overcoat, black knit tie, white shirt, very darkly mixed gray suit and low tan shoes.

Mr. Greenman whose home was on Laurel Hill avenue, when he resided here, is the son of the late George Greenman, a prominent Grand Army man, and had a wide circle of friends in this city who will learn with much concern of his strange disappearance. Nothing has been learned, by the inquiries that have been made to show where he might have gone when he left Richmond, according to the information that his brothers in this city have received, and the reason for his disappearance remains a mystery to them.

SCHULER REGAINS LEAD IN WEST SIDE PINOCHLE

Conrad Schuler recovered the leading position in the standing in the pinochle tournament of the West Side Pinochle club Monday evening. He moved up to first place again displacing Dr. J. T. Boynton who went back to second place. The scores made Monday evening follow:

A. Jordan, 7,475; E. C. Underwood, 7,220; H. H. Pettis, 7,180; Dr. N. B. Lewis, 7,010; J. Jordan, 6,410; C. S. Peckham, 6,335; Con. Schuler, 6,305; J. A. Parker, 6,525; C. V. Pendleton, 6,010; Dr. J. T. Boynton, 5,900; E. Peckham, 5,650; A. J. Bailey, 5,475.

The standing to date:

Con. Schuler, 41,560; Dr. J. T. Boynton, 41,160; Dr. N. B. Lewis, 40,930; J. Jordan, 40,785; A. Jordan, 40,475; C. V. Pendleton, 39,920; E. C. Underwood, 39,555; H. H. Pettis, 39,326; E. Peckham, 39,295; C. S. Peckham, 38,830; A. J. Bailey, 38,350; J. A. Parker, 37,945.

OBITUARY

Ralph S. Taintor

Ralph Smith Taintor, 87 years old, uncle of James S. Taintor and Nelson C. Taintor of Hartford, died at his home in Saybrook, Sunday. He was a brother of the late James U. Taintor of Hartford. He was a son of Ralph S. Taintor and Phebe H. (Lord) Taintor of Colchester and was born in that town September 26, 1837. On his father's side he was descended from Charles Taintor, who settled in Fairfield in 1640, and on his mother's side from Thomas Lord, who came to Hartford with Thomas Hooker in 1635. He lived in Avon, N. Y., several years before coming to Saybrook. Mr. Taintor leaves his wife; a son, Arthur B. Taintor of New York; a daughter, Mrs. George Squires of New York; a brother, Edward M. Taintor of New York, and three nephews, John Taintor Welles of Wethersfield and the two nephews in Hartford.

Mrs. Henry M. Yerrington

With the death of Mrs. H. M. Yerrington last Monday the community and church lose a woman of rare and lovable Christian character. It was a delight to visit her home where she was always a devoted hostess. To the Congregational church of which she was a member, she gave her active support and was to have led the devotions at the meeting of the Foreign Missionary society next week. To her husband she was all that a loving helpmate could be. Mr. Yerrington has the sympathy of all in his supreme loss.

Mrs. Lillian Yerington, 63 years of age, died at the Brattleboro Memorial hospital on Monday, March 23rd, after several weeks' illness with heart trouble. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kingsley; born in Lawrence, Ill., in 1862. She married Henry M. Yerrington of Norwich, Conn., in 1882, where they made their home until 15 years ago, when they bought an attractive place on the West road.

Two daughters were born to them, Bessie, who died in Norwich when 10 years of age, and Florence, who died in Northfield in 1923, at the age of 23 years. A prayer service for Mrs. Yerrington and held from her late home at 2 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, and the funeral at the Congregational church at 3 o'clock. Both services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. F. W. Pattison. Burial was in the West Northfield cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington of Norwich, Conn., brother and sister-in-law of Mr. Yerrington, were in Northfield for the funeral, and he returned with them for a two weeks visit.—Northfield (Mass.) Press.

Given Farewell Surprise

Several friends of Miss Margaret Caswell, 101 Cliff street, tendered her a farewell surprise party Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, 19 Hamlin street. Miss Caswell is soon to leave for Wrentham, Mass., where she will make her home. The evening was spent in playing games and stunts. Miss Caswell was the recipient of many pretty as well as useful gifts.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Frank H. Chrest.

The funeral of Mrs. Frank H. Chrest was held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from her home, No. 117 Cliff street, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. The service was conducted by Rev H. Hunzinger, pastor of the German Lutheran church, Franklin street. The bearers were H. A. Heebner, Charles Weinphal, Charles Sanger and Frank A. Bill.

Burial took place in Maplewood cemetery and a committal service was conducted at the grave by Rev. Mr. Hunzinger. There were many beautiful floral rememorances.

Undertakers Church and Allen had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Autos Collide on Rainy Night.

Harrison C. Noyes of 70 Williams street made a report at police headquarters early Monday evening of an automobile accident at the corner of Williams and Washington streets, which was due to the rainy weather conditions and an electric light at this corner, both combining to prevent him from seeing another car approaching on his right as he was coming out of Williams streets. This car was the machine driven by Fred C. Bergerich of 89 Sherman street. The cars crashed and both sustained damage to running boards, mudguards and headlights.

April Additional Session.

Assignment of cases for the April additional session of the superior court for this county, which will open next Tuesday in New London, will be made on Friday of this week. Judge Edwin C. Dickenson of Hartford will preside at the court session.

One Case Assigned.

But one case was assigned for the superior court this week in New London before Judge Allyn L. Brown and this will end the April session of court. Judge Brown goes to Hartford next week for a civil session there.

If some men were to lose their self-conceit there wouldn't be much left.

KEADY WILL COACH QUANTICO MARINES TO COMPETE WITH COLLEGES

Boston, March 30.—The Boston Herald tomorrow will say that Tom Keady, who has already assumed direction of the Quantico Marines baseball team, today signed a three year contract as head coach of all sports of the United States Marine corps.

At the same time announcement was made of a future policy designed to place the marine athletes on the same plane as those of colleges. A strict eligibility rule will require a year's service in the corps and then permit only two years of "varsity" playing.

The Marine corps teams will play only those of colleges, with the exception that a post-season game will probably be staged for service championships. The baseball schedule this spring has 29 games, all with colleges. The Georgetown game opens the season.

A part of the new plan calls for the transfer of athletic headquarters from Quantico to Washington. After July 1 it will not be the Quantico Marine team, but the All-Marine team. Athletes which are developed in any part of the far flung service will be transferred to the headquarters station.

It is understood that the purpose of the Marine corps in these plans is to encourage athletics as a strengthener of the nation—man power and to draw to the corps the highest types of physical ability. It is hoped it is said, by the Marine Standard to add incentive to civilian sports.

The United States Marine corps, with the signing of Tom Keady as head coach of all of its athletic undertakings, expects from now on to offer the best the colleges and universities can muster in various lines of sport, enough contention to make life interesting.

The signing of Keady merely brings into full bloom an athletic plan the service has been nurturing for several years. He will have the entire corps at his disposal the year round, and from it he is expected to turn out some highly trained products.

The first one will be the production of a varsity eleven. The Marine corps football team, which for several years has been an abbreviated outfit, and was coached last year by Hugh Rezin, will be under the direction of Keady. He is also expected by Major here to cast his knowing eye over the far-flung units for hard, clean and fast basketball players.

When a likely prospect for any of these athletic bobs up in any unit, it is expected he will be transferred, if necessary in addition for further training at the base most convenient with the sport in question for several years. Keady's athletic programme, which contemplates more and better games with crack collegians under varsity rules, will be supervised at Washington as far as direction is concerned, but this will involve little change from the practices already worked out during development of the plan.

PUTNAM HIGH WILL HAVE VETERAN BALL TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, March 30—Twenty youths, candidates for places on the Putnam High School baseball team are now practicing daily at the high school diamond. Practice has been under way for a week and ahead, the team became to shape to wait for the first game scheduled for April 3 with Burrillville High at Burrillville, R. I. Substitute O. P. Smith is the coach.

Putnam has a veteran team from last year and it will be a hard job for any new comers to break in this season. Sid King, Mike Hannifan and Eric Pritchard covered the bases last season with Sylvio Dupre patrolling centerfield. All of these look likely to land their jobs and all are good infielders and batters.

The outer defense last season was made up of Sgt. Conge, Valentine and Murphy. Calhoun, Lynch, Aldrich or Lamoureux might possibly break in there. Murphy is the only outfielder who seems to have a secure hold on his position. Charley is almost faultless as a fly grabber and in addition is one of those lucky ball players who often comes through with a hit when it is badly needed. Lynch has also been tried at infield posts and may possibly land one of them. At least he will be good for a utility position. Tiede is Conge will doubtless be a star over the others looking for a job in the outfield. He can catch ball a good peg to the bases, is a fairly heavy hitter and has baseball sense that experience in catching Gerard and Conge and hitter of the [illegible] years will stand both himself and the team in good stead. Hatcher is certain to do the heavy work in the pitching staff. Pt. Conge, Dubois, one or two others will do [illegible]

The [illegible] rehearsed last week in much needed baseball equipment from the Care'll Trust Company. A letter accompanying the gift of four fielders' gloves, a catcher's mitt, first baseman's mitt, three league baseballs and five bats is as follows:

"The board of directors of the Care'll Trust Company have asked me to say that they heartily approve the statement of some weeks ago, that if the Putnam High school baseball team wins a majority of its games the bank will contribute twenty-five dollars to the treasury of the athletic association.

In addition to the above they will show their good will towards the boys of the Putnam High school and they have secured a limited number of supplies they would like to have me present.

The bats were secured through the courtesy of J. B. Tatem and Son, and the other supplies were secured through the kind efforts of Nathan D. Prince of Hartford.

Signed

"C. A. BOTCE, Treasurer."

NO BASEBALL PRACTICE AT NEW LONDON SCHOOLS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 30.—Inclement weather was the cause of the calling off of baseball practice for both the Bulkeley and Chapman Tech schools today. With the Chapman Tech season opening up on Saturday, every day counts in getting the nine together for the initial encounter. The situation at Bulkeley is not so bad, although all of last year's veterans are reluctant to report for their first work out of the year.

Bulkeley Track Meet Saturday.

Given a day to rest from baseball labors, the Bulkeley baseball squad of athletes, after a week of outside workout, joined Coach Frank B. Hamlen for the purpose of putting in a few days of training for the coming track meet to be held by Bulkeley on Saturday night at the state armory. The success of the big Eastern Connecticut meet held on Friday night gives promise of being eclipsed in the huge indoor meet which will be sponsored on Saturday night.

It will be the resumption of interclass competition, which was stopped by the discontinuance of this practice last year. Five big relays are planned in addition to the regular events, and the slowness in which the last meet was run off will try to be eliminated in the Bulkeley meet. The Submarine Base which was to enter a relay team in the meet, was obliged to call off her entry in this event, as the personnel of the quartet has been shifted to new quarters on the Pacific Coast.

FAVORITES WIN MATCHES IN STRAIGHT SETS

New York, March 30—Seeded players continued their march to the final bracket in the national indoor tennis championship today, all of the favorites winning straight set victories.

Herbert L. Bowman of New York, New York state champion, was forced to the limit to defeat John N. Henriques of New York, 6-1, 8-6.

Jean Borota, French star, was pushed to win from Merrit Cutler of New York, 6-2, 6-3. Fred C. Anderson, favored together with Borota to reach the finals, defeated Stephen V. Brubans of Jersey City, 6-4, 6-4. Louis R. Bailey, Jr., advanced to the third round of the default route.

KRAMER GETS VERDICT OVER TOMMY NOBLE

Philadelphia, March 30.—Danny Kramer, Philadelphia featherweight, easily won the judges' decision tonight over Tommy Noble, of England at the end of their 10-round bout. Kramer, leading from the start, was given every round. Noble weighed 131 pounds; Kramer 124 1-2.

In the eight-round semi-final wind up Bobby Wolgast, Atlantic City, defeated Joey Schwartz, Detroit. Wolgast was the aggressor throughout.

Terrence O'Moore, who claims the featherweight championship of Ireland, was given the judges' decision over Steve Delaney, of Philadelphia, after six rounds. O'Moore scored two knockdowns.

Phillies Buy Fonseca.

Philadelphia, March 30.—Reports from the Philadelphia Nationals' training camp at Bradentown, Fla., tonight said that Manager Fletcher had purchased Louis Fonseca, an infielder, from the Cincinnati Reds. He will report to the Phillies when they reach home Friday. The purchase price was not announced.

Medford vs. Rupert

Chicago, March 30—In the first round pairings for the national interscholastic championship basketball tournament, starting at the University of Chicago tomorrow, Medford, Mass., meets Ruport, Idaho. At 10 p. m. entries close today.

PROSPECTS OF TUNNEY AND GIBBONS BOUT ARE GOOD

New York, March 30.—The possibility of a light-heavyweight championship boxing bout between Tom Gibbons and Gene Tunney at the Polo Grounds June 12 assumed new promise today after Eddie Kane manager of Gibbons, had delivered an ultimatum to the Milk Fund show promoters with regard to Harry Wills.

Kane, who arrived in New York from the west late in the afternoon with Matchmaker De Forrest of the Polo Grounds A. C., said tonight he had informed the Milk Fund officials that if they failed to produce the signed contract of the negro heavyweight by tomorrow at noon he would drop negotiations for the contest.

Well informed sportsmen declared they felt the Milk Fund promoters would not fail to produce a Wills contract, but heard unofficially that the state athletic commission would not sanction such a match owing to the difference in the size and weight of the men.

Kane said that he is satified with the offer of De Forrest for a match with Tunney. He declared he has been guaranteed thirty-five per cent. of the gate receipts, which he said he believed would give Gibbons approximately $100,000 as his end.

Promoter Tex Rickard was also in conference with the manager of the St. Paul boxer. Rickard declined, however, to bid for the Tunney match, according to Kane, admitting that he could not equal the De Forrest offer, although he would have liked to stage the contest.

SLATTERY SCORES TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT OVER RATNER

Boston, March 30—Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo middleweight, scored a technical knockout over Augie Ratner of New York, early in the second round of their scheduled 10-round bout here tonight.

After forcing Ratner to cover throughout the first round, although boxing cautiously, Slattery opened an attack in the second which drove Ratner into the Buffalo boxer's corner. There, without a return, he hammered Ratner's head with a score of blows before he went down. Ratner, with his hands at his sides, was unable to cover.

When he went down his seconds immediately tossed a towel into the ring. Slattery picked him up and carried him to his corner, where he was revived. Slattery weighed 164 1-4; Ratner 162.

PLANS FOR MEMORIAL TO CAMP ARE BEING MADE

Atlanta, Ga., March 30.—Plans for football coaches to erect a monument or other memorial to Walter Camp, as the "Father of American Football," were initiated here today by Walter Powell, former football coach, who was an assistant to Walter Camp in his athletic work during the World war and served with him on the rules committee.

Mr. Powell said that the nature of the memorial and its location would be left for decision by the football rules committee and the National Collegiate association.

The sponsor of the memorial movement has retired from active coaching to engage in business in Atlanta, but he served at Western Reserve university, the University of Montana, and Leland Stanford, after playing at the University of Wisconsin.

BEWHISKERED BALL PLAYER TO APPEAR IN WESTERN LEAGUE

Fort Smith, Ark., March 30.—Walter Faust, second baseman, with the House of David baseball team last year, has signed a contract with the Fort Smith, Western Association team, Blake Harper, president of the club, announced today.

Faust is a life member of the cult and will play with his flowing beard and long hair it is said. He was induced to join the Twins by Lloyd Miller, pitcher with the Davids last year, who is no longer a member of the cult and who is now clean shaven.

Old Time Boxer Suicides.

New York March 30.—"Tom" Sullivan, 80, a heavyweight pugilist 32 years ago, and said to have been a trainer for John L. Sullivan, was found dead here tonight, from inhaling illuminating gas. The body was discovered when Sullivan failed to make his appearance at a cafe where he was employed as doorman.

Fitzsimmons Knocks Out Civil.

Newark, N. J., March 30.—Bob Fitzsimmons, a son of the former heavyweight champion, scored a one-round knockout victory tonight over Eddie Civil, of Ashland, Ky.

Fitzsimmons floored his opponent twice with left hooks before he was counted out. Civil weighed 211; Fitzsimmons 183.

Harmon Kayoes Badgett.

Scranton, Pa., March 30.—Willie Harmon, hard-hitting New York welterweight, scored a technical knockout over Cowboy Badgett, of Colorado, tonight. The fight was stopped at the end of the fifth round to save the westerner from further punishment.

New Billiard Record.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 30.—Gus Copulos, of Detroit, established a new world's record three cushion billiard run here today by defeating John Layton, of Minneapolis, 50 to 27 in 22 innings. The former record was 23 innings held by Robert Cannefax.

Stay Beats De Marco.

Lancaster, Pa., March 30.—Rosey Stoy, Lancaster bantamweight, won a clean-cut decision over Louis De Marco, of Cleveland, in an eight-round fight tonight.

Five Meets For Columbia

New York, March 30—A schedule of five meets for the varsity track team, announced today by Columbia university, includes one with Brown university, at Columbia, May 16.

ACADEMY BASEBALL SQUAD IS CUT TO THIRTY; TRACK ACTIVITIES REVIVED

The bad weather that prevailed yesterday kept the Academy baseball squad from its daily practice. However, Coach Brigham called together the candidates and announced a considerable cut in the squad. Many members were dropped because the coach wishes to concentrate his efforts on those whom he thinks will best fill the positions. As it is there are still thirty members on the squad, eight of them being last year's veterans. The squad as it is now find the following out for definite positions. For the backstop position there is Haddard, Thano, Brewer, Hinricks, Goldblatt, Mish and Schwartz. With so many out for this position a battle galore, will be staged, with each prospective candidate trying to show his supremacy over the other.

The pitching staff contains Jarvis, Green, Healy and Woods. In this position Jarvis and Green have had much experience. If these lads show up to expectations the N. F. A will probably have the finest team in Eastern Connecticut.

With Burke and Sullivan on the 1st sack it is most certain that this corner of the diamond will be well taken care of.

With the following fast boys out for second it is hard to say who will top the list. Those out are MacGowan, Capt. Cimikowski, Whitney.

Carlin and Tombari will have it out as to who will play shortstop.

Haslam and Carroll will decide who will attend to the hot corner 3rd base.

The following are on the outfield list: McVeigh, Sadinsky, Mullins, Hamill, Busch, Sukowski, Welsh, Williams, Fidell, Rochelle.

Many of the uniforms have been handed out and with good weather to aid them the squad will settle down to business and work until the very day of the first game on April with the Alumni.

Revival of Track Team

That there is much interest in the revival of a track team at the N. F. A. was shown yesterday when between forty-five and fifty candidates reported and signed up for work which will soon take place under the direction of Coach William Aitkens. Mr. Aitkens has great knowledge in the track line and plans to put a winning team on the field.

Coach Aitkens spoke to the candidates making it plain to them that if they desired to be a member of the squad they would have to take into consideration their physical fitness.

The track that is now available is in very poor condition and in no way fit for use, so that it will take some time before the team will be able to train. Principal H. A. Tirrell promised to have the track repaired if any interest was shown in the sport by the student body. That there is much interest was shown in the great number of candidates that reported and, without doubt, the track will be repaired as soon as possible.

A track team was an unheard of and almost forgotten sport at the N. F. A. and it is interesting to note the survival of the game. With many promising candidates and sufficient material on hand a well developed and well rounded team is looked for.

PALACE DUO TAKES MEASURE OF BOSWORTH AND SISTARE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 30.—The Peerless two man bowling team in the Eastern Connecticut league fell short nine pins of overcoming a lead of 55 pins hung up by the Palace duo in the seven previous strings and they dropped the match to the Rose City bowlers this evening.

The bowling was mediocre, the Peerless bowlers being subject to poor breaks throughout the match. The Peerless made a spirited rally in the last two strings but they fell short of the desired total.

Mike Aldi led in hitting the maples this evening with a high single of 125 and an average of a little over 106. The scores:

Palace.

Stecher Throws Zaikin.

New York, March 30.—Joe Stecher, heavyweight Nebraskan wrestler, tonight threw Ivan Zaikin, 250-pound Russian, in 46 minutes 15 seconds of grappling, using a full body scissors hold to obtain the fall.

Jim Londos, of Greece, and Renati Gardini, of Italy, wrestled one hour and 45 minutes to a draw.

Mrs. Jones N. and S. Winner.

Pinehurst, N. C., March 30. — Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago district champion and winner of the women's western open a few days ago, today won the annual North and South Women's Golf championship here by defeating Miss Miriam Bennett, 16 year old New Britain, Conn., player, four and two.

CITY MANAGER'S ACTS CANNOT BE CRITICIZED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 30—The city council this evening received a report from the director of law, Frank L. McGuire, on a resolution which was presented to the council by Councilor Edward L. Streeter, Jr., a week ago, asking for a definition of the rights and privileges of the members of the council in criticizing and objecting to the action of the city manager in disciplining members of the police force. The director of law decided that the members of the council had no right to question the rulings of or actions of the city manager and that no member nor the body itself could interfere with the city manager to control or guard his actions. The opinion was positive and left no doubt as to the duties and rights of the city manager.

There was a long and steady discussion of the petition of Simon Green and wife for the privilege of erecting a dye house, storage place and garage in the rear of the Green premises, 20 Williams street. Protestors appeared in the person of Mrs. John Gilmartin, Mrs. Cornelius Homes, John White, Mrs. Whitcomb, Paul Curtin and David Hoare. Mr. Green and wife were represented by Attorney Lukchansky who made a most thorough presentation of the case. Attorney Lubchansky claimed that the council must be guided by the laws of the land and as interpreted by the United States supreme court and the supreme courts of other states. He said the council must not discriminate against anyone and the law had time and again held that this rule must be followed. The case was not disposed of tonight but it is to be taken up again and finally settled. The council held that all applications for permission to build shall be laid over for one week The opinion of the director of law is in harmony with the expressions of the Bulletin correspondent to the minutest detail in reference to the establishment of a building line on the West side of Bank street. The city manager advised that the matter should be held in abeyance until such time as the city should decide whether the street shall be widened by taking a portion of the sidewalk. Councilor Whiton objected to this and held that the matter had been before the planning board nearly a year and he advised establishing the building line and widening the street afterwards. He would fix a line and then have the owners of land take the matter into the courts if the city carried out its plans. Mandamus or injunction proceedings could be then undertaken if the case seemed to the owners of property to warrant such.

City Manager Holt announced that he had the figures made and the survey had been made for the establishment of a building line, but that he had not prepared a report on the matter. He said he could have it ready in a week and the matter was thus held up to the next meeting of the council. Report of the city manager on the matter was received as a "communication" and is to be so recorded instead of as a report.

AUTOPSY SHOWS DEATH FROM ILLEGAL OPERATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 30—The authorities apparently have another case of criminal abortion to solve for tonight Medical Examiner Charles Kaufmann took charge of the body of Mrs. Mary R. Coloandne, 20, of 337 Jefferson avenue, who died Sunday at Home Memorial hospital, and performed an autopsy at a local undertaking establishment as the result of information he had received that she died as the result of an illegal operation. As the result of Medical Examiner Kaufmann's autopsy he stated tonight that Mrs. Coloandne undoubtedly died from an abortion as septic poisoning was plainly shown. Mrs. Coloandne who was the wife of Michael Coloandne, was taken ill four days ago and was treated by Dr. Charles Satti. She was removed to the hospital where her condition gradually became worse, her death occurring Sunday afternoon. Dr. Satti gave the cause of Mrs. Coloandne's death as of an inflammatory nature, signing the death certificate to that effect. The body was removed to the home of Mrs. Coloandne and late this afternoon Medical Examiner Kaufmann received information that led him to believe that Mrs. Coloandne died as the result of an abortion. He communicated his information to Coroner J. J. Desmond, Norwich, who ordered the medical examiner to take charge of the body of Mrs. Coloandne and perform an autopsy. Medical Examiner Kaufmann went to the Coloandne house and caused the body to be removed to the undertaking establishment where the autopsy was performed, showing that death occurred of septic poisoning and undoubtedly as the result of an illegal operation. The police were notified and are conducting an investigation in an endeavor to ascertain who performed the abortion upon Mrs. Coloandne.

GAVE FAMILY ALBUM FOR SANATORIUM PATIENTS

The West End Community association delightfully entertained the patients at the tuberculosis sanatorium Monday evening by presenting The Family Album. Under the direction of Mrs. Clarence I. Smith and Mrs. Ralph W. Brown, the following posed for the pictures in the album:

Mother, Mrs. Albert Soubier; father, Charles Ellis; little girl, Agnes Whelan; deceased husband, Merton Latimer; me, as a bride, Marion Royce; twins, Arvilla Kenfield, Dorothy Hinchey; the parson, Charles Carpenter; the parson's wife, Mrs. William Lathrop; the parson's boy, Fred Oat; Sister Jane, Mrs. Charles Parsons; Sister Jane's husband, Everett Miller; Sophilia, Nonie Nable; Anne Eliza, Mrs. Paul Brown; village beauty, Mrs. Charles Joslyn; Grandpa Hobbs, Chas. Browning.

During the pictures Roderick F. Sullivan sang pleasingly several of the old songs and little Miss Katherine Brooks and Marion Murtagh delightfully sang the opening and closing numbers. Frederick Geer was accompanist for the evening.

The great community spirit of the association overflows the boundaries of the West Side of Norwich and brought good cheer to the patients at the sanatorium and the evening will long be remembered by them.

NORTH STONINGTON AUTO RUNS INTO MISS AGNES SHAW

Westerly, R. I., March 30—Agnes Shaw, 18, daughter of David Shaw of Solomonville, while accompanied by her sister, and walking on the Westerly-Stonington road about 7:15 o'clock Monday night, was struck by a Ford tourning car operated by Horace L. Bromley of No. Stonington. The accident happened when near the Noyes Main place and blinded by the lights of an approaching automobile. Mr. Bromley was unable to see ahead of him. He did not know that anyone was in his path, until he heard a sound by the running board.

Stopping his machine and going back he found that the injured girl had been picked up by people in an automobile following him. The party returned to the office of Dr. Henry L. Johnson in Westerly, where the girls injuries required several stitches in her head, and treatment for bruises on her side. There are possibilities of internal injuries. The ambulance of the Westerly Sanitary Corps was called and took the girl to her home in Solomonville where a later call by Dr. Johnson showed her condition improved.

Patrolman Varian Burdick of Pawcatuck investigated the accident and found that the Bromley machine had gone only a distance of 23 feet from the place where the girl was struck.

The People of the Old Pasture Are Upset

Somehow the thing not understood
'Tis difficult to think is good.
—Reddy Fox.

At first the little people who watched Farmer Brown's Boy tramping about through the Old Pasture were filled with nothing more than curiosity. They were not troubled by it. They were merely puzzled. But there came a day when all those who lived in the Old Pasture and some of those who, though they did not live there, visited it often, were very much upset. That was the day when Farmer Brown's Boy began to cut off the brush and brambles in the upper part of the Old Pasture.

"What is going on in the Old Pasture?" demanded Granny Fox

At first they paid little heed to it. But when he kept on cutting and cutting and making big piles of the brush some of them began to be indignant, and then actually became worried. Old Jed Thumper, the gray old Rabbit who had lived all his life in the Old Pasture was the first one to become really anxious. This was when Farmer Brown's Boy cut away one of his favorite bramble-tangle. When he began work on the next bramble-tangle Old Jed Thumper became more than worried. He became frightened.

"What's he doing? What's he doing?" old Jed Thumper kept saying over and over to himself. "What's he doing? What's he doing? Isn't he going to leave me any bramble-tangles at all? How can I live without bramble-tangles? It is because of the bramble tangles that I have lived to be old and gray. Now that I am old and gray, I need bramble-tangles more than ever. I'm not as spry as I used to be. I need places close at hand where I can be sure of being safe. There's nothing like a bramble-tangle for safety. If no bramble - tangles are left in the Old Pasture I'll have to go somewhere else. And I don't know anywhere else to go. What will I do? What will I do? What will I do?"

Now, of course, Farmer Brown's Boy didn't know anything about this, and he kept right on cutting away bramble-tangles, young trees and bushes. Day after day he worked. Old Man Coyote began to grow anxious. You know, his home was up there in the Old Pasture. It was well hidden, was that home of Old Man Coyote's. But if the brush around it should be cut away it wouldn't be well hidden. And Farmer Brown's Boy was getting nearer and nearer to it.

"It looks as if I will have to move," grumbled Old Man Coyote. "Yes, sir, it looks as if I will have to move. I'm fond of the Old Pasture, but it won't be good for anything if Farmer Brown's Boy keeps on. I don't see what he's doing it for. I'd like to bite him. Yes, sir, I'd like to bite him. And all the time I've been thinking that he was a friend."

Old Granny Fox met Reddy Fox. "What is going on in the Old Pasture?" demanded Granny Fox.

"I wish I knew," replied Reddy. "Farmer Brown's Boy's cutting away all the bushes and all the young trees, Mrs. Reddy and I are not living in the Old Pasture now, but we had thought of moving back there. In fact, Mrs. Reddy had picked out a place for a new home over there. But we'll have to give it up; the Old Pasture's being spoiled."

Granny Fox sniffed. Reddy Fox sniffed. Then they looked at each other and there was fear in the eyes of both. There was smoke, and it was coming from the Old Pasture. Farmer Brown's Boy had begun to burn those piles of brush.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

The people's great dedicatory ball of the splendid Apollo hall, was held 75 years ago this week and out of town entertainers of note were brought to Norwich to entertain the public. Interest at this time was also centering in the coming state election as Lafayette S. Foster of Norwich was candidate for governor on the whig ticket.

Interesting notes from the columns of the Courier of 1850 are taken in part as follows.

Tuesday, March 26, 1850—A new postoffice has been established at East Thompson, Windham county, and H. N. Tourtelotte has been appointed postmaster

Although Lafayette S. Foster of Norwich, whig candidate for governor, is a direct descendant from the renowned Myles Standish of Puritan fame, his party lays no claim to this distinction in placing his name before the people of the state. His position has been reached through no family heritages but simply because he has proved worthy of the office to which it is hoped he will be elected. As speaker of the house he acquitted himself with singular ability, and this, with other fine examples of his fitness, makes him the logical and best candidate for the office of governor of Connecticut.

A mammoth ox weighing nearly 3,000 pounds has been raised by Mr. Smith of Scotland and is to be slaughtered today by T. M. Frazier whose stand is on Franklin square, in the Eaton block. It is claimed the ox is the largest in this state.

NEW LONDON DRIVER LOSES LICENSE FOR EVADING RESPONSIBILITY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Mar. 30—Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of Otto M. Eames, 256 Montauk avenue, to be suspended. Eames was fined $50 in the police court several days ago charged with evasion of responsibility when the automobile he was driving collided with and damaged another machine on State street. Eames did not stop to nd out the extent of the damage he had occasioned, but speeded away. When he heard that the police were looking for him, he went to the police station and gave himself up.

Capt. Andrew McCarthy of the Groton police department, is in New York, having been summoned there by the death of a relative.

George E. and Elizabeth W. Kelley have sold the dwelling house, 264 Willetts avenue, to Harry J. Sharaf.

William and Gertrude M. Crane have sold to Felix Migliaccio a dwelling on Bayonet street.

John Higgins, who has been arrested about a score of times was again taken into custody Sunday afternoon on Jefferson avenue, where he was doing circus stunts with a faithful but neglected horse which he owns. The animal was but poorly shod, yet Higgins was urging him and manipulating with him in a way the horse did not understand, nor did anyone who saw Higgins in his drunken manoeuvres. It was fortunate for Higgins this time that he has a family dependent upon him for the meagre support he gives them, for that fact led Judge Prince in the city court Monday, to show Higgins some leniency that kept him out of jail. Judge Prince was disposed to lock Higgins behind bars for awhile that he might keep away from liquor, but the fact that he has family and they need what he earns deterred him from carrying out his purpose. He did fine Higgins $10 and ast the penalty effective for a year. If Higgins breaks away from the path of sobriety during that time his punishment will be jail. Three other drunks, first offense fellows, tackled some whiskey Saturday night and ended in the police net. Judement was suspended in each case. They seemed observed and penitent for their conduct today and promised to get upon the water wagon and to stay there.

Minnie Hochmann, a Jewess, made a complaint against her sister-in-law, Mrs. Hochmann for a breach of the peace and Esther retaliated by saying that Fannie threw a loaf of bread at her that landed on her face. It was a rare time for the prosecutor to learn just what did happen, but he concluded that the women were evidens of each other—that one had a fur coat which she could not afford such a garment and that their husbands are in the same business and associated together. The women were so free with accusations and they talked so much and both at the same time that the prosecutor asked to have the case continued that friends might intercede and bring peace and harmony in the two families. The court fixed upon April 28th as the date when the women will come back to court and announce that they have declared peace. Esther scurried about the court room in a fur coat while Fannie hummed some forward in a cloth garment. The latter declared that she was sorely ashamed that the paternity of her children should be called in to question by her sister-in-law and she would not be reconciled when assured that such talk as that was idle and that no one who knew her would accept such a statement as the truth. Fannie went away declaring that she would prosecute Esther in a civil suit for slander.

The following patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital went to their homes today: Mrs. Ethel Hill of Broad street, Mrs. Stephen Kalonowski, Crystal avenue, Mrs. Esther Perkins, Hazelin street, Arthur Gilmour, Blydenburgh avenue, Rose Piscatella, Prest street, Grace Hickey, Williams street, Misses Sarah Carlidike, Connecticut ridge, Fred Dwight of the coast guard, Roy Miner of the coast guard, Miss Wheaton, Montauk avenue, Mrs. Susvna of Westerly.

The body of Mrs. Minnie Crandall Estrade, widow of Joseph P. Lesade, formerly of New London, daughter of the late George W. and Mary Crandall, whose death occurred in Providence last week, was brought to New London this afternoon at 4 o'clock and interred in the family plot in Cedar Grove cemetery. The committal service was conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church.

The funeral of Edward T. Leary, former well known undertaker, and son of Patrick Leary, 54 Fremont street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by an immense congregation. Among the mourners was a delegation of members of Knights of Columbus. The solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger, with Rev. Dr. Dimothy M. Crowley deacon and Rev. Raymond O'Callahan as subdeacon. The bearers were John E. Clark, John Porter, Joseph Fitch, Daniel Doyle, Thomas F. Dorsey, Jr., Russell H. Corcoran and John Sweeney. The flower bearers were James Elwood and Nicholas O'Connell. At the offertory, Miss Julia Murphy sang "Ave Maria," and after the final absolution, Edward Murray sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery where the committal service was by Rev. Fr. Wollschlaeger.

Mrs. Mary Manwaring Morrison, widow of Ezra Morrison, died Sunday at her home on Howard street. Mrs. Morrison, who had been ill some time, was a native of Waterford and of advanced years. She is survived by a brother, Roswell D. Manwaring, of this city.

Mrs. Mary R. Colcandne, 20, wife of Michael Colcandne, 327 Jefferson avenue, died Sunday at Home Memorial hospital, where she had been under treatment but a few days. Besides her husband, Mrs. Colcandne, is survived by a nine months' old child, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Perry, of Waterford; three brothers, Antone, Consella and John Perry and a sister, Miss Beatrice Perry, all of Waterford.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Gertrude Bolles Day, wife of Robert Day, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her residence in Waterford, the services being conducted by Rev. George H. Strouse, pastor of Waterford Baptist church. The bearers were Mrs. Day's three brothers, Walter Bolles, of this city, Louis R. Bolles, Bridgeport, and Leroy Bolles, Waterbury, and William T. Jacques, of Waterford. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

At the funeral of Edward F. Hess, this morning at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan. The bearers were Louis Seltkowsky, Edward Bloomer, Arthur Hodges, Manuel Costa, William Stoeffell and Isadore Goldberg, members of Thomas Hoss company, of which organization Mr Hess was a member.

Henry J. Marikle, of Mystic, proprietor of a trucking business there was fined $100 and costs when brought before Judge Cornelius C. Costello in the Groton town court this morning on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He paid. Marikle has operated his automobile southerly on Thames street, Groton, a week ago. When the machine reached a point near Ledyard avenue, he crashed head on with a car owned by Frank Hewes, of Groton and driven by Hewes' employe Michael Reon, also of Groton. Both machines were damaged and Reon was injured slightly. The occupants of Groton barracks, who investigated the crash took Marikle into custody, as it was plainly evident that he had been drinking.

William Caird, a youth, residing at 203 Colman street, was struck by an automobile, owned by Mrs. Jennie Barclay, of Jefferson avenue, and operated by James Telford, 350 East 166th street, New York, this afternoon on Lincoln avenue, near the corner of Connecticut avenue. Telford took the child to Lawrence hospital, where an examination revealed that he had sustained injuries no more serious than scratches and bruises of the face and body. Telford was taken into custody by Captain Charles A. Finney charged with violation of the automobile law, as Telford did not have a license to operate a machine of Connecticut registration, although he did possess a New York driver's license. He was held for trial in the police court tomorrow morning. Mrs. Barclay becoming surety on his bond of $50.

The child was on the back of an ice wagon as the automobile approached and as the boy jumped off, he ran to the middle of the street in an endeavor to get to the sidewalk and in doing so he ran directly in the path of the automobile.

Andrew Mickel, proprietor of a restaurant, North Bank street, who completed a term of 30 days in jail and who is also awaiting trial in the superior court on a charge of violation of the prohibition law and attempted bribery, was released from jail this afternoon on furnishing sureties on his bond of $3,000 for his appearance, George H. Beck and Louis Olbreys qualifying as sureties. Mickel was arrested Feb. 23 and in the police court the following day he was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail, but the execution of the jail sentence was suspended. Hardly had Mickel left the court room than Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh visited the restaurant and there found Mickel with a bottle partially filled with whiskey in his pocket. Mickel was rearrested charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell. It was claimed by the officers that when Mickel was arrested he attempted to obtain his freedom by giving the officers $50 each. In the police court the following day, Mickel's jail sentence was put into operation and he was held for trial at the May term of the superior court.

Miss Abbie Morley of Saginaw, Mich., is the guest of Miss Diana Marsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel S. Marsh, Jr., Bellevue place. Misses Marsh and Morley are pursuing studies at Bryn Mawr, Pa.

James T. and Catherine Dray have purchased from Mrs. Margaret W. Mahan, administratrix of the estate of Bryan F. Mahan, a dwelling house on West Pleasant street.

Joseph McNamara has returned to his home on Truman street, having spent several weeks in Florida.

HOPKINTON

Rev. John Jerue, 81, a veteran of the Civil war, died suddenly last Thursday. He in later years had followed the trade of stone mason. Enfeebled in health he has for a long time been able to do but little work. On the morning of his death he had gone with his son to the farm of John Dye to help on a job for which the son was contractor. The son discovered that his father was not feeling well and hurried him in his car to the office of Dr. E. J. Kuerr in Hope Valley. Medical attention was given and they started for the home of the father and in sight of the house Mr. Jerue passed away. He is survived by his wife, formerly Mrs. William H. Richmond, and by several children, by former marriage. The funeral service was held Sunday afternoon in the Wood River church.

George T. Kenyon was a business caller in Westerly, Saturday, and while in a restaurant on Coggeswell street was stricken with an attack of acute indigestion. Dr. Scanlon attended him and he was brought home in the Westerly ambulance. He has not yet fully recovered.

In The Grip of A Lung Cough For Thirty Years

Thoroughly Discouraged After Every Known Remedy Failed to Help Him. Restored to Health by Allen's Lung Healer.

This Lynn man, after a most extraordinary experience, wrote this letter expressing his gratitude:

"For three years I suffered from a lung cough which I could not shake and it continually grew worse despite all I could do. I used about every known remedy, even Creosotal at $5.00 an ounce, but got little relief. I got so bad that I could not sleep on account of the racking, tearing cough. My lungs were sore, I was short of breath and I became all run down. I got so discouraged that I decided to give up my business and go south to escape the severe winters. Fortunately I heard about Allen's Lung Healer and I began to take it. The result was marvelous. I began to improve rapidly and after using two bottles my cough was entirely cured, my general health restored, and I felt like a new man. I believe this medicine saved my life, for I feel certain I was the verge of consumption, if not actually in its grip. I heartily recommend it to everybody for a lung cough."

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Building showed a marked increase during the past week as a total of 33 permits were issued during the week at the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton. The permits include several dwelling houses, a gasoline distributing station and a mill building, the remainder being for alterations, additions and garages.

The Schwarzenback-Huber Co., is to erect a large frame additon to their present mill building on Mechanic street. The Shetucket Coal and Lumber Co., is to enter the gasoline distributing field and will build a station on the railroad property on Laurel Hill. Contractor Henry Pukallus has a number of contracts for new buildings some of which have already been started.

The building permits issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton for the past week are as follows:

To H. F. and A. J. Dawley to erect an addition to the present frame building in the rear of Laurel Hill avenue. The building will be 30x50 feet and two stories high and of frame construction throughout.

To Samuel Kaplan to erect a frame garage on Mc Isaac street. The garage will be 14x18 feet.

To John Kowalski to erect a frame two-apartment house at 240 West Thames street. The house will be 28x28 feet with cement cellar. Each apartment will have five rooms and bath and will be finished in plaster and hardwood.

To Fred Evarts to build an addition to the present frame building on Corning Road. The addition will be of frame construction throughout and will be 9x16 feet.

To Mrs. Elizabeth M. Thumm to build a frame garage on her property at 69 Spruce street. The garage will be 18x28 feet. The foundation and floor will be of cement as will the rear wall.

To Dan and Anne Chinigo to build a three-room addition to the present house on Boswell Ave. The addition will be 11x11 feet and two stories high and will be of frame construction throughout.

Henry Pukallus has the contract to erect a two-story frame dwelling for John and Helen Coleman on West Main street near the city line. The house will be 26x28 feet and of frame construction. The foundation will be of stone and concrete and the cellar will be cemented. There will be a fireplace in the living room and the entire building will be steam-heated. The interior will be finished in plaster with oak floors and trim. The exterior will be covered with stained cedar shingles.

To Henry Pukallus to build a frame garage, 12x12 feet, for George Swanton at 479 North Main street. The floor and foundation will be of cement.

To Henry Pukallus to erect a two-story frame dwelling house at 725 Boswell avenue for Anthony Dempski. The house will be 26x28 feet with fireplace in the living-room. The interior will be finished in hardwood and plaster and the exterior finish will be in clapboards and stained cedar shingles.

Contractor Pukallus also has the contract for a dwelling house of the Colonial type for Mary E. Sullivan on West Main street near the city line. The house will be 26x32 feet with concrete foundation and cellar. The exterior will be finished in hard finish plaster and the floors and trim will be of oak. The exterior will be in Colonial siding and shingled roof.

To Henry Pukallus to erect a frame garage at 36 Fourteenth treet for William E. Wilson. The garage will be 20x20 feet and will accommodate two cars. The foundation and floor will be of cement.

Henry Pukallus is to build a two-apartment house on Pukallus avenue for himself. The house will be 28x50 feet with a garage in the sub-cellar. The foundation for the house and garage will be of cement and the superstructure will be of frame and steel. The interior will be finished in hardwood and plaster and the exterior will be done in clapboards and shingles.

To Henry Pukallus to erect a frame building 19x20 feet at 499 North Main street for Stanley Chimeleski. The building will be used as a store.

To Stanislaw P. Kaptrina to make alterations to the present building on Second street. The owner will also add a frame porch to the building.

To Anthony Koukowski to build a frame porch on the present house at 171 Cliff street. The porch will be 8x22 feet.

To The Peck-McWilliams Co., to build an addition to the present frame barn at 167 Broadway for Mrs. W. C. C. Wilson. The floor and foundation will be of concrete and the superstructure of frame construction one-story high.

To Wolf and Fannie Blinderman to add to the present building in the rear of 37 Thames street. The addition will be of cement blocks and wood and will be 6 1-2x17 feet.

To Edward McNamara to alter the present frame barn on Sachem street into a garage.

To A. F. Myers to build an addition, 8x10 feet, to the present frame garage at 123 Hamilton avenue.

To John Walski to build a frame addition, 10x18 feet, to the present frame garage on Happy street.

To George Boucher to build a porch, and an ell on the present frame house at 188 North Main street owned by Jacob Savage. The addition will be 7x10 feet and two stories high.

To Clarence F. Lynds to build a two-story porch and ell on the present building at 509 Main street.

The Shetucket Coal and Lumber Co., has been granted four permits to erect three-frame buildings, and erect three steel gas tanks for the storage of gasoline. Two of the buildings will be 10x15 feet and will be used for storage purposes and offices. The other building will be 36x80 feet and will be used as a garage for the housing of tank wagons. The buildings will be located on the property of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad in the rear of River Ave. Work has already started on the buildings and the tanks have already been set in place.

To Leonard W. Staubly to erect a frame garage on Russell Road, 12x18 feet.

To Louis Sadersky to build a veranda, 6x14 feet, on the present house at 37 Fifth street.

The Peck-McWilliams Co., has the contract to erect frame addition to the buildings of the Schwarzenbach-Huber Company on Mechanic street. The addition will be 25x35 1-2 feet and will be attached to the main building on the southeast side. The foundation will be of stone with a brick basement with frame construction to match the main building. The roof will be covered in tar and gravel.

To Clarence E. Rathbun to build a frame addition to the present building at the corner of Crane Ave., and West Main treet. The addition will be 16x12 feet and of regular frame construction.

To Joseph Wajewkwicz to build a frame veranda on the present house on Central Ave.

To Ray D. Gilmore to erect a frame garage at No. 4 Whitaker Ave. The garage will be 12x18 feet.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 16 sales of real estate as compared to 19 sales for the corresponding week in 1924. The mortage loans for the respective weeks were $66,650 and $81,340.

There were five sales of real estate in New London during the past week, seven less than for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $22,000 and $44,225.

State Building Permits

Building construction throughout the state shows a greater number of permits issued but the cost considerable less than in 1923. The permits numbered 350 against 317 in 1924 and 177 in 1923, while the amount invested for 1925 in $1,323,051 against $1,718,544 in 1924, and $498,050 in 1922.

Construction on Gain

Building statistics from the leading centers throughout the country indicate that the volume of new construction started during February was within 7 per cent of the record established in February, 1924, and that the second month of the year was, from a national standpoint, 16 per cent ahead of January. These figures are considered to be fairly indicative of conditions existing in Connecticut during February. It is the consensus of leading contractors that much of the construction work planned for this spring would have been started earlier, were it possible to have foreseen the favorable weather conditions of the past month. Building permits issued during March in the cities and towns show a very substantial increase over February. It is conceded, however, that there is a much greater quantity of building work in prospect for the coming month than has yet come to light. The delay in starting building operations is attributed to the tendency to await lower figures for labor and materials. The general feeling among the contractors is that beyond some slight recessions in materials which have already taken place, prices are at a rockbottom level and that for this year the movement will be slightly upward.

New London

Changes to the store in the Lyric Hall building on State street to be occupied by the Charles W. Strickland Co., are being completed by Francis Allanach, 19 Bolles avenue. The work consists of interior alterations and improvements. The building now occupied by the Charles W. Strickland Co. has been purchased by the S. S. Kresge Co., who will demolish the structure and erect a modern business building.

Plans are being figured for a frame bungalow to be erected on Williams street for Nellie Anderson. The house will be 24-30 feet, a garage, 20x20 feet, will be erected in the rear. The combined cost will be about $3,900.

Work has been started on a store on Winthrop street for Joseph J. Silva, Jr., 87 Crystal avenue. From private plans the building will be 22x60 feet, arranged for one family. There will be a modern heating system and other conveniences. The estimated cost is $5,000.

A Groton builder has the contract for a house at the corner of Lower boulevard and Lester street for T. K. Wetmore. From private plans the house will be 25x27 feet, arranged for one family. There will be a modern heating system and other conveniences. The estimated cost is $5,000.

The permit for a shop and garage for Simon Green, at 20 Williams street, was held up temporarily by the city council, due to complaints from adjoining property owners. The contract for the two buildings has been awarded. The shop will be 26x34 feet and the garage 60x20 feet. Both buildings will be of brick construction.

The permit has been issued to The Connecticut Power Co. for an addition to their plant of Water street. The contract for the work has been awarded. The addition will be on the second story, of brick and steel construction.

Under the terms of an agreement between the city council and Miss Lina Beckwith of Broad street, extensive changes will be made on and near Miss Beckwith's property. A fence and wall in the front will be removed, side steps constructed to the house, new plumbing installed, grading, new curbing and other improvements made. All work of grading, filling, etc. will be done by the city.

Building Permits

Nellie Anderson, bungalow and garage, Williams street, $3,900.

T. K. Wetmore, dwelling, corner Lower Boulevard and Lester street, $5,000.

Conn. Power Co., additions, Water street, $1,500.

Annie M. Thomas, brick sheds, 18 Methodist street $800.

Simon Green, brick shop and garage, 20 Williams street, $3,000.

Joseph J. Silva, Jr., frame store, Winthrop street, $3,000.

I. Protigas, steel garage, 36 Shapley street, $100.

Number of permits issued for the week, 9; estimated cost of buildings, $17,300.

Jewett City

Plans have been completed for alterations to the Polish Corporation Block at the corner of Main street and Railroad avenue. Joseph Malek is president of the corporation.

Stonington

A summer cottage is being erected by A. W. Perry on the Stonington-Mystic highway. The contract for a stone wall has been awarded to a Westerly, R. I. contractor. It is reported that several houses will be built on the property in the near future.

A contractor in Westerly, R. I., has the contract for the foundation for a residence in this town for Ellsworth King. The house will be 30x30 feet, arranged for one family.

MARKET CLOSED STRONG.

New York, March 30.—Strong buying support, making its appearance just before the close of today's market, checked another sharp decline in stock prices which threatened for a time to assume dangerous proportions. United States Steel common and scores of other popular rail and industrial issues were driven down 8 to 20 1-2 points to new low levels for the year, but closing quotations generally were 1 to 5 points above the new low prices of the day. Trading was in somewhat larger volume, the day's sales running above one and one-half million shares.

The break in stock prices coincided with another collapse in grain futures, but, with the exception of higher call money rates due to the usual heavy month-end demand for funds, there was nothing in the day's news to account for a renewal of selling pressure. However, the sharp break just before the close on Saturday, coupled with the absence of any effective week-end buying support, undoubtedly increased bearish sentiment, and accounted for heavy liquidation for both accounts.

United States Steel common touched a new low at 112 3-8, or 1-4 point below the year maximum, and then rallied to 114, where it was off 1 7-8 on the day. Baldwin sold as low as 107, as against the high of 146 a few weeks ago, but moved up later to 109 1-4, off 1 3-8 on the day. American Can broke 8 points to 158 1-4 and then recovered 2 points of its loss. General Electric slumped 12 points to 251 1-2 and snapped back to 257 1-4. United States Cast Iron Pipe collapsed 20 1-2 points to 152, or 98 points below the year's high, but recovered 5 points of its loss.

In all 135 individual issues sold at their lowest prices of the year. The list included 37 rails, 15 oils, 13 coppers and 7 steels and equipments. Both the rail and industrial averages closed in new low ground for the year.

Eastern coalers were the hardest hit in the railroad groupe, the expected decrease in car loadings on the approach of warmer weather apparently influencing some of the selling. Lackawanna dropped 5 points to a new low at 125 but rallied to 129. Reading broke below 70 to a new minimum and new low prices also were recorded by the three Erie issues and Delaware and Hudson, heavy selling of Rock Island, which closed 3 points lower at 41, followed the publication of the February earnings statement showing net operating income of $1,-569,592 as against $1,360,6[illegible] in February, 1924.

Other railroad issues to bow through new previous resistance points were New York Central, Southern Pacific, Illinois Central, Nickel Plate, Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Norfolk and Western.

Some of the outstanding weak spots in the industrial list included Texas Gulf Sulphur, American Car and Foundry, Associated Dry Goods, the Commercial Solvents issues, General Asphalt, Iron Products, Loose-Wiles Biscuit, Nash Motors, Public Service Corporation, Tide Water Oil, Union Tank Car and Virginia Railway and Power, off 3 to nearly 11 points.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent. and then advanced to 5 on calling of brokers' loans, the total of which was estimated as high as $15,-000,000. The time money market was quiet with a slight stiffening in rates noted for the shorter maturities. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

A 7 point rally in French francs to around 5.33 cents, reflecting the future retreat of the short interests, was the feature of the firm foreign exchange market. Demand sterling rallied slightly higher around $4.77 1-2. Norwegian and Danish exchanges showed sharp advances with nominal gains being recorded by most of the European currencies.

TWO SUSPICIOUS CRAFT SEIZED NEAR RUM ROW
(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 30—Two craft, one a speed launch and the other a British boat, were seized this night by rum-chasers from the local coast guard station, and with their crews are being held here, pending an investigation by coast guard officials. Neither craft had liquor aboard; but both are believed to be rum-runners, especially the schooner which has before been seized for her rum-running activities, having been captured off Rum Row a week ago and at that time released.

Late last night the [illegible] was sighted by the C[illegible] and Brenton's Reef lightship and was apparently headed for Newport. A signal from the rum-chaser did not cause the launch to be brought to a stop but instead only caused her to be speeded up. While the coast guard was putting chase after the launch several blank shots were fired and then several service shots were sent across the bow of the launch. These shots also failed to cause the launch to be stopped, but a pound service shot sent through the hull, well forward and about a foot above the water line caused the launch to be hove to. She was then taken in tow and brought into port, reaching here this morning.

The schooner captured is the Jessie Rell, Yarmouth, N. S., and was seized by the crew of the C[illegible], when the British craft was found between Block Island and Point Judith presumably being en route to the rum-supply fleet. The master of the Powell is charged with entering American waters without taking out proper papers to do so. The coast guard craft and her prize reached the harbor this for

TWO SUSPICIOUS CRAFT SEIZED NEAR RUM ROW
(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 30—Two craft, one a speed launch and the other a British boat, were seized last night by rum-chasers from the local coast guard station, and with their crews, are being held here, pending an investigation by coast guard officials. Neither craft had liquor aboard; but both are believed to be rum-runners, especially the schooner, which has before been seized for her rum-running activities, having been captured off Rum Row a week ago and at that time released.

Late last night the launch 237-61 was sighted by the CG-237 off Brenton's Reef lightship and was apparently headed for Newport. A signal from the rum-chaser did not cause the launch to be brought to a stop but instead only caused her to be speeded up. While the coast guard was putting chase after the launch several blank shots were fired and then several service shots were sent across the bow of the launch. These shots also failed to cause the launch to be stopped, but a pound service shot sent through the hull, well forward and about a foot above the water line caused the launch to be hove to. She was then taken in tow and brought into port, reaching here this morning.

The schooner captured is the Fannie Rell, Yarmouth, N. S., and was seized by the crew of the CG-235, when the British craft was found between Block Island and Point Judith presumably being en route to the rum-supply fleet. The master of the Powell is charged with entering American waters without taking out proper papers to do so. The coast guard craft and her prize reached the harbor this forenoon.

TAFTVILLE

Robert Brown of Hartford is spending a few days in town with his father, William Brown and family of South Fifth avenue.

Amede Dugas of Providence street has resigned his position with the No. 4 weaving department of the Ponemah company.

The regular weekly meeting of the community Sewing class was held on Monday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gaudette have given up their house on North A street.

John Furman who has been spending several weeks at the Ponemah house has left town.

Mr. and Mrs. Emile Dubeau and Miss Rose Dubeau of Plainfield were Sunday guests of Mrs. Dubeau's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lambert of North B street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Pingree of Woodyear spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pingree of North Third avenue.

George H. Young of North Third avenue has installed a radio receiving set.

Bertrand Parent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon T. Parent of South Fourth avenue, a student at Assumption college at Worcester, Mass., is a member of the college orchestra, which broadcasted a radio programme from a Worcester station one evening last week.

Albert Schmidt of Lisbon has resigned his position with the Atlantic Cotton Cooperation.

NORWICH TOWN

At the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, preached on the message Which Jesus Offered the World, the second in the series on Our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

The text was Luke 4:18-19, The spirit of the Lord is upon me, because He hath anointed me to preach the Gospel to the poor. He hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised. To preach the acceptable year of the Lord.

Following the church service, a special programme was carried out at the beginning of the Sunday school session, by the True Blue Bible class, Miss Rose K. Durr, teacher. The programme under the auspices of the E. missionary committee was in charge of Miss Esther Durr. The exercises comprised various illustrations as to how lavishly money is being spent in the United States. Several young women in costume represented the following: The candy box, Miss Dorothy Waterman; flower box, Miss Doris Sherry; chewing gum box, Miss Doris Browning; movie box, Miss Esther Durr; jewel box, Miss Dorothea Buckley; mite box, little Miss Rose Schwenk.

The idea was to show how much more money is spent each year in the United States for almost everything in the line of luxuries and entertainment than is contributed to missions; and how much more could be done, if mite boxes were better filled, instead of coming in last, after every other desire has been satisfied.

Attend Lecture on Whaling Days this evening, Cong'l Chapel.—adv.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational church, with the missionary committee in charge, held an inspiring meeting at 6 o'clock. The leaders were Miss Esther Durr and Miss Helen Schwenk. While demonstrating the idea of the American Board as a radio system sending out messages, Miss Jessie E. Hyde from a map made by Burton Jopson, pointed out the 17 missions all over the country from which are many stations and out stations alluding chiefly to the principal cities. As these missions of the American Board were referred to by Miss Hyde, those present outlined the several places, on individual maps.

Local members of the society in costume, representing themselves as visitors at this meeting, made strong pleas for their different countries. Mrs. Burton Jopson made a plea for Japan, while Miss Doris Browning dressed as an Armenian woman, made an urgent plea for the work in Turkey, in behalf of her countrymen.

Miss Margaret Chapin, pleaded for the missions in India and the plea of Miss Mabel Corrigeux was for China.

At the Sacred Heart church Wednesday evening at 7.30, the Lenten devotions will consist of the rosary, litany, sermon and benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. Friday at this church will be observed with mass at seven in the morning, with first Friday devotions at 7.30 in the evening; also stations of the cross and benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

The mid-week prayer of the Congregational church, on Thursday evening in the chapel parlors, will have for its theme, The Savior of All Mankind, Luke 19:1-10.

The Home Missionary Sewing society of the Congregational church, is formulating plans for one of its society teas to be held in the chapel, at an early date.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith of Brooklyn, Conn., motored to Norwich Town Sunday and were guests at the home of Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnathan L. Smith, of 30 West Town street. Returning with them, was their son, who had been spending a week's vacation at the home of his grandparents.

HEBREW INSTITUTE IS TO ENTER NEW QUARTERS ON FAIRMOUNT ST.

At a meeting Sunday night of the directors of the Norwich Hebrew Institute plans for the opening of the new Hebrew Institute school on Fairmount street were discussed. The date for the formal opening of the school has been set for April 12th. The school will be dedicated at a meeting to be held at 2 o'clock that day. The Jewish residents of the city will be invited to meet at the Brothers of Joseph Synagogue on West Main street where special services will be held. It is probable that exercises will be held at the school building to mark the formal opening of the institute.

The new school occupies what was formerly the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Harry E. Higgins at No. 21 Fairmount street. The Hebrew Institute purchased the residence late last summer and extensive alterations have been made. The remodeling of the building is now about completed and the workmen are putting on the finishing touches. The new school will be modern in every respect. There will be a large assembly hall in the basement, the principal's office, a library, a room for the directors and a classroom on the first floor, and class rooms on the ground floor. The caretaker will have rooms on the third floor.

For nine years a similar school has been conducted by the Brothers of Joseph Synagogue in the rear of the synanogue on West Main street. The classes there have become so large that the present school cannot accommodate all, therefore the need of an additional school was realized by the Jewish people and the Hebrew Institute took up the matter of securing a new school.

There will be accommodations for nine classes, three classes to meet at the same time. The sessions will open at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and run through the evening until 8 o'clock. The classes will run from beginners to advanced pupils and the same course of religious instruction will be given at the new school as at present school at the synagogue. The courses will include Bible study, Jewish history, the Hebrew language and Hebrew literature.

The directors of the institute are planning to open the school with an enrollment of about 160 students which it is expected will be greatly increased within a few months. The principal of the school will be M. I. Silverman, principal of the present school at the synagogue. The other members of the teaching staff will be E. R. Siff and Joseph Reachman.

The members of the board of directors of the Hebrew Institute are: President, Aaron Gordon; vice president, Abner Schwartz; treasurer, Samuel Taylor; secretary, Rabbi Max Stamm; chairman of the board, Rabbi Joseph N. Rosenberg, and David N. Gordon, Charles M. Gordon, Harry M. Land, Simon Bloom, Abraham Cramer, Max Hanover, Alex Pasnik, Michael Levine, Jacob R. Slosberg, Abraham Strom, Israel H. Zlandel, Morris Sussman, Samuel Kadish, Dr. B. J. Sohn, Jacob Bokoff, S. Raucher.

The cost of running the present school has averaged about $8,000 a year which money has been provided by dues through membership in the Norwich Hebrew Institute which total $6,000 a year, the remaining $2,000 a year having been raised through entertainments, concerts, etc., held by the institute.

No tuition fee is charged by the school and free text books are provided for the students.

THREE ARE FINED FOR AUTO LAW VIOLATIONS

Pleading guilty to violation of the motor vehicle laws, Claude Hanna of No. 215 West Town street was fined $35 and costs by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Monday morning. He paid the fine which totaled $46.50. Hanna was involved in the North Main street automobile crash Saturday night when he hit a Jewett City public service machine which was pulling out from the curb. He said he stepped on the gas to try and clear the machine with the result that he hit it and then struck a machine driven by Harrison Wilson and pushed the Jewett City car against a parked machine owned by Louis Metivier.

Joseph Raill, Jr., of Jewett City, who was driving the Jewett City public service car owned by Steve Treckman, was fined $10 and costs for driving a machine without a driver's license. He paid his bill amounting to $20.50.

Found guilty of reckless driving, Maurill Lassonde of this city was fined $100 and costs, which totalled $114.50. He took an appeal to the court of common pleas and furnished bonds of $200. Lassonde pleaded not guilty. His machine was involved in an accident with John A. Moran of No. 304 Washington street and Lassonde was arrested by Constable Fenton for reckless driving.

Mr. Moran testified that he was on his way home from church Sunday morning and was just turning into his driveway when his machine was pushed against a tree on his lawn by a Chevrolet delivery truck driven by Lassonde. Other witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Carpenter, next door neighbors of Mr. Moran, who saw the accident from their house, and Constable Lucius Fenton, who made the arrest. Mr. Moran claimed he signaled with his hand before he made the turn.

Lassonde testified that he had trailed the Moran car from Chelsea Parade and was just about to pass it when Mr. Moran turned to go into his driveway and in order to avoid an accident Lassonde swung his auto to the left with the result that the cars locked. He claimed he was traveling about 20 miles an hour and that Mr. Moran's car was moving at about 15 miles an hour. Lassonde claimed he did not see Mr. Moran signal that he was about to turn.

Seven drivers were fined $5 each for violation of local parking rules.

The indecent assault case against Stanley Sikosfski, 27, of this city, was continued until Saturday morning. He is charged with making an indecent assault on an 11-year-old girl Sunday at the home of Anthony Rokowski of 101 Summit street where he roomed. He was arrested Sunday night about 6 o'clock on complaint of the child's parents and is out on bonds of $1,000. The girl lives at 72 High street and is not a member of the Rokowski family.

One man went to jail to work out a fine for intoxication and another man paid a fine for intoxication.

HAWLEY FAMILY PLANS STORRS SCHOLARSHIP

The Hawley Family, Inc., at the mid-year reunion, held Friday at the Hotel Stratfield, Bridgeport, voted to establish a scholarship at Connecticut Agricultural College, at Storrs. This scholarship which will be for the summer course, is open to a young man or young woman bearing the Hawley name living in Connecticut. Miss Emily C. Hawley, general secretary of the Hawley Society, and F. K. Hawley of Brookfield Center, were appointed the committee to select the candidate to fill the scholarship for the coming season.

CONNECTICUT HAS TWO RESERVE CORPS BRIGADIERS

Two of five brigadier-generals recently appointed in the reserve corps are Connecticut men and the other three are from New England states also. Morris B. Payne of No. 19 Alger place, New London, and John T. Thompson of New Canaan are the two from this state whose appointments have been confirmed by the United States senate. The other brigadier-generals are Alfred P. Foote of Wollaston, Mass., Thomas F. Foley of Worcester, Mass., and Albert Greenlaw of Augusta, Me.

MONEY SHORTAGE WILL CURTAIL GUARD DRILLS

Officers and members of the national guard companies in Norwich and eastern Connecticut are showing considerable interest in the announcement that the National Guard must curtail drills because of the lack of government funds. The announcement that drills must be curtailed was given out recently in a general order which states that during the last quarter of the fiscal year, namely, from April 1 to June 30, no more than four drills a month can, with the remaining appropriations, be paid for with war department funds.

It is not expected, however, that the present standard of training will be seriously affected through this shortage of funds with which to pay the officers and enlisted men for drills, as most of the units of the National Guard are expected to agree among themselves to continue their drills regardless of remuneration.

This was the opinion expressed by National Guard officials who said that in all probability the loyalty of the officers and enlisted men would "carry on the spirit in spite of lack of appropriations."

Regulations call for sixty drills a year, or five a month. With lack of funds with which to pay the men, at least one drill a month must go unpaid unless an additional appropriation is made by congress. According to authorities the situation is not a new one among National Guard officials. A cutting of the budget by the appropriation committee has kept the roster of men down considerably during the past year, and has also limited the sending of officers to training schools as has been the custom for some time. Traveling expenses of officers have been kept to the lowest possible figure as a result of the small amount of funds with which to keep up the National Guard.

SPEAKS ON "DIVINE SYMPATHY" AT RICHMOND SHOP MEETING

Rev. Charles H. Ricketts spoke on the subject of "The Divine Sympathy" at the noon meeting of the Richmond Radiator Co., on Monday. The meeting was under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. In part the speaker said:

Our Lord was once a guest of a sick pharisee at a great banquet. We infer that the feast was both costly and ceremonious. It was evident that there was a silent contest for precedence. Not a disgraceful scramble after the chief positions for that would have been rude and undignified. But it was just the same an expression of selfishness. While the rules of hospitality were not violated, still in a velvety sort of way there was an attempt to get the better of the other fellow.

Jesus took it all in. He understood the social life of the Jews, who made much of feasts and festivals, and nothing did He say against them. He saw, however, and spoke against them a certain danger that lurked in the back ground, and that was the tendency to commercialize the social. His argument was this; it is wrong to get up a great feast for the purpose of being recompensed, when the idea is to keep yourself floating along in the limelight—that is selfishness. Instead of doing this rather invite the "poor, the maimed, the lame and blind" who cannot return the compliment, for that is sympathy.

The speaker defined sympathy as "fellow" feeling and gave illustrations from the life of Jesus. He then made a careful comparison between true sympathy and some forms of nervous excitement with which it is apt to be confused. He showed that it was radically unlike sentimentality that rails against all forms of punishment as over stepping the province of lair. He spent some time in showing that the administration of justice can only come from a sympathetic heart and this was fully illustrated. The speaker denounced the tendency in many rich and aristocratic circles in making a fad of slum work when there was no real heart sympathy back of it.

Operation Performed At Sea

Capt. and Mrs. Frank G. Armitage, of Norwich, were passengers on the Royal Mail liner Araguay from New York to Bermuda, when a critical operation was performed. The patient was Herbert Stoddard, the ship's purser. He was taken ill on the trip and the operation was performed by the ship's surgeon, Dr. M. E. Richardson, March 23. The cafe lounge was cleared and transformed into an operating room. Dr. Richardson was assisted by Dr. M. E. Hudley of Martinsville, Va., and Dr. M. J. Shaughnessy of Framingham, Mass. Two nurses, who were passengers, Misses C. J. Bertelick of Staten Island and Mary Hudson of 1,163 East street, Rochester, N. Y., assisted.

During the operation, which was for a broken gall bladder, the Araguay was slowed down. When Hamilton, Bermuda, was reached, the patient was transferred to the King Edward VII hospital.

NORWICH POWER CO. IN SUIT IN RICHMOND

Hearings were begun in law and equity court at Richmond last week on the suit of the Norwich Power company of Connecticut and other preferred stockholders of the Southern Railway who are suing the railway for $29,000,000 which they claim is due them in back dividends.

The preferred stockholders claim the company began paying dividends on its common stock before discharging its obligations to the preferred stock.

The suit was instituted on October 6, 1924. The amount claimed then was $29,000,000. In an answer and demurrer filed ten days later the railway claimed the charter had not been violated and that the preferred stock had been paid what was due it.

An amended bill was filed by the complaining stockholders on December 16, 1924, in which the amount claimed to be due them was raised to $39,000,000.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED TO NEW LONDON WOMAN

Annabelle Fox Brand of New London is given a divorce decree from Harold E. Brand of Groton, on the grounds of a statutory offense, by Judge Allyn L. Brown in a decision handed down, and filed with Clerk George E. Parsons of the Supreme Court.

The case and custody of June, the oldest child, is given to the defendant's step-mother, Mrs. Jennie Dickinson Brand of New London, while the custody and care of the three younger children, Dudley, Dorothy and Charlotte are given to the mother.

Given Surprise Party.

Miss Frieda Johnson of Geer avenue was pleasantly surprised Saturday when a number of friends gave a party in honor of her 18th birthday. The evening was spent in playing games and dancing, after which refreshments were served by Miss Anna Johnson and Miss Ellen Nielsen, who with Miss Adina Letrick had charge of the arrangements for the party.

$10,000 SUIT FOR GROTON BOY'S INJURIES

Damages of $10,000 are sought from Edward F. Bourgd of Groton in a suit brought by George E. Cassell, Jr., of Groton, a minor, who sues through his father for injuries received when young Cassell was struck by an automobile driven by Bourgo.

The plaintiff claims that as he was boarding a trolley car on Thames street, Groton, on Feb. 5, 1925, his left leg was broken when he was hit by the Bourgo machine. The suit is returnable before the superior court in April.

Three Generations Find Beecham's Pills the Only Remedy

"I have a very weak stomach, and Beecham's Pills are about the only laxative I can take that does not nauseate me.

"I have also found them beneficial to my children. One especially, who inherited her mother's weak stomach. There is no remedy I value as much as Beecham's Pills. I have tried others without success."

ATTEMPT TO DISCREDIT TESTIMONY OF SHEAN IN THE CHAPMAN TRIAL

Witness, Under Grilling by Counsel For Chapman, Admitted That He Had For Eight Years Been Associate of Nationally Known Criminals—Attorney Groehl Was Prompted With Names and Dates by Chapman—Shean Denied That he Had Been Promised Leniency For His Testimony—Prosecution Will Present Last Witness Today.

Hartford, Mar. 31—(By the A. P.)—The underworld and some of its nationally known characters furnished a background for today's session of Gerald Chapman's trial for murder.

Vivid pictures of crookdom were given before the crowding curious audience who eagerly watched and listened to Frederick J. Groehl, Chapman's chief counsel, as he attempted to discredit the testimony given against his client yesterday by the state's principal witness, Walter E. Shean of Springfield, Mass., adventurer, whose information to the police caused the spectacular mail robbery arrest for murder.

Shean, on the stand yesterday, drew a picture which included himself as the innocent victim of the master criminal's wiles of Chapman, who, using his acquaintance that the mail robber had led him into the robbery of the New Britain last October 12—a holdup which ended in the murder of Patrolman James Skelly. It was Shean, handled Sheah, who was the first to draw the gun. Shean took the witness stand to permit Groehl to paint the dark side of the picture.

Admissions by Shean.

Shean, through merciless questioning of his prompted by Chapman, went bit by bit the admissions of the witness that he had for years been an associate of nationally known criminals. He also got admission that he had on more than one occasion evaded criminal prosecution through the interception of his wealthy family and that his father, Charles T. Shean, Springfield retired man, had paid many thousands of dollars to extricate him from numerous close brushes with the forces of law.

In reality, it was Chapman's day in court, in contrast to Shean's day, which was yesterday. For Chapman it was who suggested many of the questions put to Shean by Groehl. It was Chapman, too, who supplied a wealth of colorful and intimate detail to the underworld, of which the bitterly attacking lawyer accused Shean of being a widely known member.

Leaning back in his chair with the old bored ease, his half veiled eyes seldom leaving Shean's face, Chapman supplied Groehl with names of criminals, dates, addresses and criminal lore that apparently could only be known to one well versed with the inhabitants of the land the other side of the law.

The day's end brought the state's case near its close. The state attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, told Judge Jennings at adjournment that tomorrow morning would see the last of his witnesses. Groehl said the defense would move with its dozen or so witnesses on the heels of the prosecution. Both predicted the trial would end at noon.

Intimate With Crooks.

Groehl opened his cross examination with a reference to Shean's companions. Gradually he brought out that the witness had been intimate with a number of notorious crooks; that he, himself, had been concerned in several "deals" which received police attention and that he had in his wake a path of worthless checks bearing forged signatures. At this stage most of Groehl's questions were prompted by a sheaf of memoranda which Chapman had supplied him on entering court. Shean, in anticipation of Shean's cross examination, had sat late in his cell last night, preparing this ammunition.

The names of George "Dutch" Anderson, at present a fugitive from the federal prison at Atlanta; George Stuyvesant, ex-convict; Walter E. Kerrigan, fugitive from justice; Dave Hague, Solly Hirsch, "Frenchy the Kid," Harry Bernstein, Stewart Wallace, Charlie Lordy, "Canada Bill," Liverpool Jack," Johnny Russo, Charlie Rosen, and a half dozen others more or less picturesquely named alleged criminals were mentioned by Groehl. Admitting he knew some of the men, notably Kerrigan, Shean emphatically denied acquaintance with a majority of those named.

He loudly denied that Stuyvesant had been his companion the morning of the New Britain robbery and murder. He denied knowing him. Stuyvesant was arrested in a New York police "round up" last Christmas, at first was identified as Skelly's slayer.

Groehl, under Chapman's prompting, asked Shean if it were not true that he was known among all the crooks of the country as the man who conducts a haven for ex-convicts at your father's hotel, the Cooley, in Springfield, and who "takes" men out of prison until they do a "job" when you get your usual 15 per cent cut of the booty."

Shean Became Angry.

Shean's reply was angrily shouted "no." In the main, he was fairly composed throughout his ordeal. Signs of the strain under which he labored cropped out now and then when he answered angrily or fidgeted with his hands or licked his dry lips. Seldom did his eyes rest on Chapman, who he still persisted in calling "Mr. Miller."

Had Trouble With Government.

Prodded by Groehl's searching questions, he admitted he had had trouble with the government on at least two stolen bond deals. He insisted that in one case he had purchased the bonds, which he knew to have been stolen, from Joseph Marshall, of Springfield, and then telephoned the department of justice at Washington about it. At this point Groehl introduced two of Shean's admittedly worthless checks, one of them with the endorsement of Joseph Marshall, having been cashed by a Mrs. Cunningham, an elderly maid in the Hotel Somerset, New York. It was for $260. Shean insisted he had given the check to Marshall and that he had not received the money, although he finally admitted that his father had been in communication with Mrs. Cunningham concerning repayment of her loss. Groehl asked Shean if he were not Joseph Marshall, bootlegger and race horse follower, and the witnessed answered "no."

Not Promised Leniency.

Shean stoutly denied that he had been promised leniency or immunity for his testimony.

Alcorn produced ten other witnesses today. John Marshall, a Swarthmore, Pa., chemist, identified the two bottles of liquid previously introduce din evidence as nitro glycerine. Matthew J. Meade and John D. Deming, of the police department told of work they had done in Shean's home town in seeking Chapman. Police Chief William C. Hart, of New Britain identified clothing and guns which he said he had seized Shean's place of business as Chapman's property. It was the same property, including the small arsenal of wicked-looked sawed-off shotguns and a rifle previously identified by James Hance, a farmer from the vicinity of Muncie, Ind.

Edward J. Hickey, Hartford county detective, who turned up the clue which lead to Chapman's arrest last January 18, recited the tale of his investigation. He had searched Shean's room in Springfield two days and a night after his arrest, a point which Groehl made much over. Four Muncie police—Captain Puckett, Harry Brown, Mertin Collins and Henry Goodpasture—told of Chapman's capture and Asahel Kelly, a postal inspector from Indianapolis testified that the mail looter had been turned over to him six days later. He was the day's last witness.

CHAPMAN COUNSEL TO ATTEMPT TO PROVE ALIBI

Hartford, Mar. 31—Gerald Chapman will "very likely" take the witness stand in his own defense at his trial for the murder of policeman James Skelly, of New Britain, Judge Frederick J. Groehl, his senior counsel, announced today at the conclusion of the sixth day of the trial. In his own language, Chapman will deny that he is the man who shot the policeman in Davidson and Leventhal's store of that city, October 12 last. A conditional decision to this effect was made at the conclusion of today's session, when Chapman conferred with his counsel just prior to being taken back to the state prison at Wethersfield.

Judge Groehl and Assistant counsel, Nathan G. Freedman, Charles W. Murphy and Harold Evans, went directly to the Hotel Bond, where they were in conference, until late in the evening, preparing their defense against the attack of State's Attorney Alcorn which is to be completed tomorow. Although it was impossible to gain access to their room, it was learned that four or five witnesses have been brought to Hartford by the defense to assist Chapman to establish an alibi. They will testify, it is understood, that Chapman was not with Shean as claimed by the state's star witness and others.

At the same time, information came from New Britain that Arthur W. Baglin, of 386 Stanley street, that city, and the manager of the Economy Grocery store, New Britain, is the author of the letter received by Judge Groehl to the effect that Policeman Atwater, the only alleged eye witness presented, had told him he could not identify the slayer of Policeman Skelly. He was in the court room today and has volunteered to testify in refutation of Officer Atwater's testimony identifying Chapman, it was reported.

Emil J. Danberg, clerk of the New Britain police court, was also present. The defense will attempt to establish through him the correctness of stenographic record of the New Britain police court hearing which was questioned by Atwater on the witness stand Monday.

State's Attorney Alcorn was said to be preparing for a surprise tomorrow as a final shot in his case against Chapman. It was commonly reported that he intended to introduce a gun expert from the Colt's Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing company to attempt to prove that the bullet removed from Policeman Skelly's body was shot out of the nickel-plated revolver seized from Chapman at the time of his arrest in Muncie, Ind., January 19, last.

SALESMAN ARRESTED AS FUGITIVE FROM STAMFORD

New York, March 31—De Yvon Howth, a salesman who said he had resided here 30 years, was arraigned today as a fugitive from Stamford, Conn., where police said he was wanted on a charge of embezzlement. He furnished $3,000 bail and hearing was set for April 14.

Howth said the Stamford charge was a technical one growing out of the failure of a brokerage house where he was once employed.

A warrant from Stamford indicated that Eugene H. Palmer, A. B. Chichester and William A. McClelland had complained that Howth defrauded them of $772.75 in October, 1923.

FUNERAL OF SCHUYLER COLFAX IN SOUTH BEND, IND.

Southbend, Ind., March 31—Schuyler Colfax, Jr., who in 1898 gained the distinction of being the youngest city executive in Indiana, serving as mayor of South Bend at the age of 28, was buried here today after funeral services in St. Paul's M. E. church. The body was brought here from Rochester, N. Y., where Mr. Colfax formerly lived. He died last Sunday. He was a son of Schuyler Colfax, who was vice president during General Grant's administration.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Governor of Bank of England.

London, March 31.—Montagu Norman was today re-elected governor of the Bank of England. He is entering his sixth year in the bank's governorship.

Pope Pius in St. Peter's

Rome, March 31—Pope Pius made his second appearance of the Holy Year in St. Peter's today, officiating at the ceremony for the veneration of the crucific of San Marcello. The ceremony, which was of a semi-private character, was attended by all the cardinals in Rome and also members of a number of Italian foreign pilgrimages.

TO PREVENT DECEPTION IN TITLES OF FILMS

New York, March 32—Motion picture films, when reissued under changed titles, must bear their old titles as prominently as their new, the federal trade commission held today in an order against four respondents in New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

The order named the Capital film exchange of Philadelphia, William Alexander of New York, Herman Rifkin of Boston, and the Films Distributors league, Inc., of New York. The commission charged while "The Three Musketeers," a film featuring Douglas Fairbanks, was being shown in New York, the respondents issued an old Fairbanks film entitled "D'Artagnan," under the name of "The Three Musketeers," using confusing advertising matter and other means to mislead the public into believing the reissued film was the same as the later picture. The respondents were ordered to discontinue use of such methods.

The proceedings were ordered dismissed as to the Eastern Feature Film company, Boston; Favorite Players Film corporation, Chicago; Lance Film Distributing of Delaware, Supreme Photoplay corporation, Los Angeles; Favorite Film company, Detroit; Friedman Film corporation, Minneapolis; Alexander Film corporation, New York; Supreme Film company, Los Angeles; Quality Film corporation, Pittsburgh; Reliance Film exchange, Washington, and Maurice Fleckles, Chicago, who also were named respondents in the commission's original complaint.

PROPOSED TOUR OF GERMAN AGRICULTURAL COMMISSION

Berlin, March 31—An official German agricultural commission, the first to travel abroad since the World War, will leave Bremen on the steamer Columbus on April 2 for a six months' study of the progress made in American agriculture during the last ten years.

The delegation will be received by the United States department of agriculture at Washington, which will plan separate itineraries for the German experts so that each will be able to carry out investigations along the special line upon which he is an authority. Dr. Fred Hagedorn, under secretary of agriculture, will accompany the commission to introduce the members to the proper authorities in Washington, and will himself make a study of American agricultural economics and finance.

SENTENCED TO SMILE THREE TIMES DAILY

New York, March 31—An $8 fine and an order to smile three times daily were the punishments imposed in court upon Edward Rapp today for failure to support his wife and infant son.

Rapp paid the fine and glumly promised to perform the smiles.

"The trouble with you is that you're too grouchy," said the magistrate.

"You don't smile. If I were grouchy this morning, with all these people before me, I'd have the jail full.

"You should smile three times a day—morning, noon and night. At the end of a week look into the mirror and you'll see yourself five years younger in appearance. Instead of 25 you look like 35. If you continue you'll look like 70 when you are 40."

$100,000 GIFT ASSURED WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Wellesley, Mass., March 31—The $100,000 gift to Wellesley college from Edward S. Harkness of New York, announced last month is assured to the college through completion of the requirement that an additional $300,000 be raised elsewhere by April 1. The entire $400,000 will be used for the erection of a new dormitory, completing the group of three on the site formerly occupied by College hall which was burned in 1914. It will accommodate 100 students and will have three faculty suites.

Completion of this dormitory will make it possible to move Wilder hall on the site of which the new administration building is to be erected.

UNDER POLICE GUARD AS HE TOOK EXAMINATION

Paris, March 31—Maurice Barot, the only student who got a jail sentence for his participation in the riot-ing at the University of Paris on Saturday, today passed his medical course examinatino with a policeman at each elbow.

Barot was due to undergo his school quis yesterday, but as he was in court he could not attend. Today his attorney sent for his books, the judge sent for a policeman, and the youth went to School of Medicine this afternoon.

He passed with the mark "good."

BISHOP BRENT ARRESTED FOR AUTO LAW VIOLATION

Niagara Falls, N. Y., March 31—Bishop Charles H. Brent of the Episcopal diocese of Buffalo was arrested here late this afternoon when he drove his automobile to the left of a street car.

Bishop Brent was dressed in his church robes at the time of his arrest. He told the policeman that he was in a hurry to keep his appointment in Buffalo and drove around the street car to avoid delay. Diets, however, took Bishop Brent to police headquarters.

Bishop Brent gave $10 cash bail and was allowed to depart.

A. P. MOORE RESIGNS AS AMBASSADOR TO SPAIN

Washington, March 31—Alexander P. Moore has resigned as ambassador to Spain. No decision as to acceptance of the resignation has been reached.

One indication that he might be permitted to retire, however, is seen in the fact that others are under consideration for the Madrid post, including A. Kingsley Macomber, of Stamford, Conn., recommended by the two Connecticut senators.

Lieut. Wood Comes To Wi[illegible]ack Fortune

[illegible] the Last Four Months Among the Gambling Resorts of Europe — Not "Broke."

Tampa, Fla., March 31.—Lieutenant Osborne Wood returned to his native land today to "start all over again." As for being "broke" however, a junior officer on board the federal shipping board vessel West Chetac, said Wood was "loaded with money."

Wood arrived off Tampa early today on board the West Chetac and was brought up the bay on a private yacht chartered by newspapermen. He discussed his reported gambling losses at European resorts, and laughted at the reports that when he boarded the West Chetac, in Cadiz, Sain, his fortune estimated at approximately $1,000,000 had dwindled to two one-dollar bills.

"It is true that during the four months in Europe I threw away large portions of the winnings on Wall street in gambling resorts," the son of Major General Leonard Wood, said. "But I still have plenty—enough not to worry," he added.

"If I have the same luck through my Wall street broker as I did a short time ago, I think I will be able to recover what I lost during my stay in Europe," he continued.

Referring to reports which gained wide circulation that he had issued checks, one in particular for 35,000 francs while in Monte Carlo, which had been returned because of insufficient funds, Wood said he had entered a libel suit against a Paris branch of a Chicago newspaper for $100,000 for "having printed such false statements."

"There is nothing to those reports and the report that I am returning to America with but $ in my pockets, I wish to assure you no check of mine was ever returned," he said.

Declining to give the exact amount of his losses, estimated by friends to have been approximately $350,000, Wood remarked:

"Oh, well, what's the use—come easy, go easy."

Once, to newspapermen, he said he probably would remain in Florida for several weeks, as a result of "a number of attractive real estate development offers," adding it was almost probable he would remain in the state only a few days and go to California. He gave the Metropolitan club, Washington, D. C., as his only home address.

Wood displayed a large roll of money before leaving the vessel, as he called the stewards and mess attendants to the gangway.

Each steward received a new crisp $10 bill, while each of the six mess attendants got $5.

"Broke, why that fellow is loaded with money," a junior officer exclaimed.

Asked if he planned a reconciliation with his wife, he said that was a matter entirely up to Mrs. Wood. To prevent being questioned further on this subject he added, "You may quote me as saying, 'Mr. Wood does not care to be quoted on the subject.'"

DIFFICULTY OF FOLLOWING AIRPLANE WITH SEARCHLIGHT

San Antonio, Tex., March 31—A practical demonstration of the difficulty of following an airplane with a searchlight was witnessed last night by thousands of persons who went to Kelly field to watch Corporal H. H. Utterback of the Kelly field parachute department, make a night jump from an altitude of 3,000 feet.

The operator of the hugh landing caught the airplane from which the jump was to be made and followed it across the field only to lose it as Lieutenant J. S. Griffith, pilot slowed down for Corporal Utterback to make the leap.

All efforts to locate the falling parachute were unavailing, but Corporal Utterback made a perfect landing in the darkness.

The jump is said to be the first experimental parachute jump ever made at night by a member of the United States air service.

DICKERING FOR SETTLEMENT IN SUIT AGAINST ULLMAN

New York, March 31—Trial in supreme court of the suit for $150,000 brought by Florence Reddington, professional nurse, against Colonel Isaac M. Ullman, corset manufacturer and republican leader of New Haven, Conn. was halted today until Friday, pending the outcome of negotiations for a settlement.

Miss Reddington charged that Colonel Ullman broke his promise to marry her and that he was the father of her four year old son.

Justice Guy in excusing the jury said he had been informed that the negotiations were under way. Details were not made public.

Col. Ullman declined to discuss the matter, saying that any information must come from his counsel.

LAW FIRM WINS $215,557 VERDICT FOR SERVICES

New York, March 31—A supreme court jury today awarded the law firm of Haight, Smith, Griffin and Deming a verdict of $215,557 against the Royal Belge society anonyme for services in obtaining a $5,500,000 rebate on $20,000,000 worth of war-time-built craft purchased from the United States shipping board.

The rebate was obtained, witnesses of the plaintiff testified, after it was ascertained that the 22 vessels purchased from the shipping board were not as represented and that their operation on a cost basis agreement resulted in loss to the Belgian company. The vessels were purchased shortly after the World War.

The law firm estimated the value of its services at $200,000 and received $17,000 on account. The judgment returned today included interest and costs.

APPOINTED SECRETARY OF SHIPPING BOARD

Washington March 31.—Roy H. Morrill, of Somerville, Mass., was today appointed secretary of the shipping board. For several years he has been assistant to Vice Chairman Plummer of the board.

The office has been vacant for a month.

Missing Men Were Found In Everglades

Were Located Last Evening by Aerial Seachers—Men Missing Since Saturday.

Sebring, Fla., March 31—Captain R. L. Smith, and E. P. Lott, of New York, aerial photographers, who have been missing since early Saturday when they went on a photographic expedition over the everglades, were found this evening by aerial searchers.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The resignation of Alexander P. Moore, ambassador to Spain, was made known.

It was revealed that the administration policy toward Russia has not been altered by recent events.

Secretary Hoover declared the business outlook is good despite adverse symptoms on the stock and commodity exchange.

President Coolidge authorized the war department to reduce army drills of the national guard during the present fiscal year from 52 to 48.

The Couzens committee took up again its inquiry into prohibition enforcement, hearing Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general.

The Pan-American Union published drafts of thirty proposed treaties and agreements, which would recodify international law as applicable to the two Americas.

The shipping board announced acceptance of the $5,625,000 cash bid of the Dollar lines for five President type ships now operated by the Pacific Mail company.

THE COOLIDGES TO SPEND VACATION AT SWAMPSCOTT

Swampscott, Mass., Mar. 31—President Coolidge will begin his summer vacation here June 13, according to word received from Washington today. He will maintain his summer capitol at White Court, recently leased by his friend Frank W. Stearns, and early in June an advance parties of White House attaches will arrive here to prepare for the coming of the President and Mrs. Coolidge.

Present plans of the Coolidges as announced here call for a stay in Swampscott until the middle of August, when the president and his family will go to Plymouth, Vt., to spend two weeks with Colonel John C. Coolidge, the president's father.

The Lynn police were requested today to assign plain clothes men to patrol Little's Point, where White Court is situated, and members of the local force will assist them, with the usual secret service men of the president's retinue. Already special policemen of this place have been placed on duty at the entrance to the White Court grounds.

SHIPPING BOARD VOTES TO SELL FIVE SHIPS

Washington, March 31—Over the protest of three commissioners and by a majority of one, the Shipping Board today voted to sell its five ships in the San Francisco-Orient service to the Dollar Steamship interests for $5,626,000.

Chairman O'Connor and Commissioners Lissner, Haney, and Hill, voted for the sale. Vice-Chairman Plummer and Commissioners Thompson and Benson voted against it. Had incorporated in the board's minutes is words that the ships were being sold for $25,000,000 less than their original cost and $15,000,000 less than it would cost to build them at this time.

The sale came as the climax to a long fight, a series of conferences and a hearing punctuated with sensational charges. There were intimations that the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, which had been operating the ships for the board on the California-Orient line and which had bid for their purchase, might take steps opposing consummation of the deal and possibly bring the matter before Congress at the winter session.

BIRTHDAY CAKE FROM PRESIDENT TO FATHER

Plymouth, Vermont, March 31—The receipt of a birthday cake frmo his son, the president, was one of the events of Colonel John C. Coolidge's eightieth anniversary today. A little circle of relatives and friends sat about the board as the cake was cut, and after the feast Colonel Coolidge drove over to Springfield, 15 miles from here, to see his sister-in-law.

Vigorous despite his years, the colonel followed his usual routine of early rising and chores. He spent much of the day reading the many letters of birthday greetings which the mail bag held for him. Among the telegrams which reached him was one from President and Mrs. Coolidge.

DODGE BROTHERS AUTO CO. TO CHANGE OWNERSHIP

New York, March 31—Authoritative reports in financial circles tonight indicated that the Dodge Brothers Automobile company of Detroit, a $10,000,000 corporation will change hands tomorrow.

TO CODIFY AMERICAN INTERNATIONAL LAW

Jurists Are to Meet For Draft Conventions Some Time This Year in Rio De Janerio— Announcement Made by Pan-American Union—Thirty Conventions Are to Cover Wide Range of Subjects—One Project Contemplates the Expansion of the Monroe Doctrine Into An Agreement to Prohibit the Acquisition on Occupation of Pan-American Territory by Any Non-American Pawer.

Washington, March 31.—Thirty draft conventions for codification of American international law, designed for discussion by the international commission of juriats which is to meet some time this year in Rio De Janeiro, were made public today by the Pan-American Union.

They range from a proposal to outlaw wars of conquest among American republics to the writing of an admiralty code to govern international phases of commercial navigation of the air. Taken together, and assuming ratification of all thirty treaties, they represent a sweeping scheme to establish the solidarity of those republics in a "community of nations," on a legal basis that begins with a bill of rights of nations and includes complete and intricate machinery for the pacific settlement of disputes.

One project contemplates expansion of the Monroe Doctrine into a covenanted agreement foreclosing the territory of the republics to acquisition or occupation on any terms by a non-American power. Another defines the measures of repression that may be taken "to aid respect to arms" in settlement of disputes among the republics themselves. Still another writes into law the principle that each nation shall have sole control over its immigration policies.

The draft conventions were formulated on invitation of the governing board of the union and have already been distributed through the union to the foreign offices of all the nations concerned. They were drawn by a committee of the American Institute of International Law headed by James Brown Scott.

The proposal to outlaw wars of conquest declares that future acquisitions of territory "by means of war or under the menace of war or in presence of an armed force, to the detriment of any American republic, shall not be lawful." Further, the convention would declare that title to territory is preceded by a trio of conventions designed to bring about pacific settlement of all disputes among the republics. Permanent machinery would be set up under the first for employment of good offices in mediation, and for exhaustive and impartial inquiry into causes of friction with the inquiry commissioners empowered to summon witnesses and administer oaths, and resort to the governing board of the Pan-American Union as a council of conciliation. Provision also is made for arbitration if other means fail of results.

The second convention of this group would establish the "Pan-American court of justice," with defined fields of jurisdiction, its judgments to be final after limited rights of appeal for revision have been exhausted. The court would decide questions on a majority vote of its members. The obligatory jurisdiction of the court would cover treaty interpretations and alleged violations of treaty, but the tribunal also would receive other classes of disputes which might be referred to it for adjudication, being itself the final judge of its power to consider any specific case.

The third proposed convention covers measures of repression which do not involve war but are of two kinds, "pacific and coercive." Peaceful acts of repression are defined as: "Severance of diplomatic relations; pacific embargo; non-intercourse," while "coercive" measures are described as "retorsion" reprisals; hostile embargo, and pacific blockade."

"Retorsion" in return is described as action taken to compensate for damages suffered through "another nation taking the law into its own hands," and naval displays in or near the waters of such offending nation is defined as a typical resort to this method.

The measures of repression defined are the limits to which an offended nation could go without resorting to war.

The concluding paragraph of the convention adds:

"The use of force against any American republic is a matter of concern to all the republics of the continent, any republic against which an attempt is made to enforce any one of the above mentioned measures should immediately notify the Pan-American Union in order that the governing board thereof may consider the matter and take such action as it may deem advisable."

This provision keys into a separate proposed convention reconstituting and widening the scope of the Pan-American Union to form a part of the general machinery suggested to prevent war as "a permanent organ" of conciliation and cooperation between the republics of the new world. "The union, however, even with the additional powers proposed would remain very largely a secretariat agency in the general scheme of preserving peace."

The expansion of the Monroe Doctrine is contained in a proposed convention headed "Fundamental Rights of American Republics," which says in part:

"No American republic can cede any part whatever of its territory to a non-American nation, even although it should desire to do so.

"No nation shall hereafter for any reason whatsoever, directly or indirectly occupy even temporarily any portion of the territory of an American republic in order to exercise sovereignty therein, even with the consent of said republic.

"No nation has the right to interfere in the internal or foreign affairs of any American republic against the will of that republic. The sole lawful intervention is friendly and conciliatory action, without any character of coercion."

This convention is one of a group that includes also a definition of what constitutes a nation within the meaning of the various treaties proposed; a declaration of the rights and duties of nations which refers to the "political philosophy of the Declaration of Independence of the United States," and a code of rules to govern recognition of new nations and governments which includes the following clauses:

"Every legally constituted government has the right to be recognized. Refusal of recognition by one of the republics is an unfriendly act.

"Every abnormally constituted government may be recognized if it is capable of maintaining order and tranquility and is disposed to fulfil the international obligations of the nation."

The shortest proposed convention contains what is designated as a "sole article," under the heading "Immigration." That article reads:

"Every republic may determine, taking into consideration its local conditions, what persons or class of persons it shall permit to enter its territory, and to show it may eventually and at its discretion concede nationality."

The conventions are prefaced with general declarations which assert that "by the act of incorporating themselves into the community of nation," the American republics have recognized the application to themselves of international law in force in Europe, but have claimed the right to establish "fundamental bases of American international society." This action, the declaration adds, "in no way tends to create an international system resulting in the separation of the republics of this hemisphere from the world concert."

There follows a proposed formal declaration, "of Pan-American unity and cooperation," which embodies statements made by Secretary Root to the third Pan-American conference and again at the laying of the cornerstone of the Pan-American building in Washington, and an outline in convention form of the "fundamental basis of international law," which includes assertion of the right of any republic to protest against violations of international law even if those violations do not directly involve them."

Among the less sweeping conventions proposed is one defining the elements forming national domain whether of land, water or air, but leaving open the question of the extent of "territorial waters," another dealing with matter of national jurisdiction within such domain; and one defining the rights and duties of "natural and juridical persons."

A brief convention dealing with responsibilities of governments in cases of damages suffered by foreigners within their jurisdiction is followed by definitions of "diplomatic protection" and that in turn by an exhaustive proposal to cover all questions of extradition, which shall be obligatory except as to certain classes of offenders including those charged with purely political, religious or military offenses and not including those participating in the murder of heads of nations.

Freedom of transit without distinction of nationality as to goods or passengers is covered in another convention; navigation of international rivers goes into a separate proposal and aerial navigation is dealt with in a draft treaty of 38 separate articles. Rules to govern treaty making come next, followed by establishment of diplomatic agents, provisions as to consuls; marine neutrality and finally, the pacific settlement and court proposals culminating in the pact to outlaw wars of conquest.

There also is a separate convention to deal with the vexing matter of disputed territorial boundaries which would outline the rights and duties of the nations involved the status of the territory during the dispute, and the rules to govern ultimate determination of sovereignty

TO PERFECT ORGANIZATION FOR BIRTH CONTROL

New York, March 31—An international committee to promote closer relationship of various birth control organizations was appointed today by the Sixth International Neo-Malthusian and birth control conference.

Dr. C. D. Drysdale of London, president of the conference, said the committee would attempt to effect a strong and efficient international body "in place of the rather incoherent organization which has existed."

After the final session of the conference today the committee will meet at the American birth control league headquarters to discuss plans.

The committee consists of Dr. C. D. Drysdale and Dr. Norman Haire, England; Mrs. Thit Jensen, Denmark; Mr. and Mrs. Johann Ferch, Austria; Rosike Schwimmer, Hungary; Dr. Fardinand Goldstein and Helene Stocker, Germany; H. PHYS. DIRECTOR DISSINGER GOING TO PLAINFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 31.—The resignation of Leroy A. Dissinger physical director at the Willimantic Y. M. C. A., went into effect Tuesday evening. Mr. Dissinger has been with the local organization for a little over a year. He will leave immediately for Plainfield where he is to be secretary and physical instructor at the Plainfield Community House, operated by the Lawton Manufacturing company for the benefit of its employes and the people of the town, and one of the best of its kind in the east. During his connection with the "Y," Mr. Dissinger has viewed a remarkable increase in the membership of the association, and a notably increased interest in the department of physical activities has made itself manifest. Before his coming to Willimantic, he was athletic coach and a member of the faculty of York Collegiate Institute, at York, Pa. Among other innovations he introduced the senior "Y" basketball league, which has been very popular and very much of a success. He was also largely instrumental in developing a large boys' department, the formation of a city league and grammar school league in basketball, and prominent in a number of community celebrations which have taken place here from time to time. Mr. Dissinger goes to Plainfield with the best wishes of many friends.

THREAD CO. BOARD MEMBERS COMING FOR CONFERENCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, March 31.—Concerning the furtherance of the plans for a possible settlement of the strike at the American Thread company mills, the following letter is self-explanatory:

Mr. Frank T. Cunningham, Chairman, Civic Committee, Willimantic, Conn.

Dear Sir: Referring to your request that we attend the meeting to be held on Friday next as regards the strike at our mills and to your suggestion that representatives of our board of directors shall be present at such meeting I have discussed the matter with my board in New York.

Whilst they pointed out that the statement which I have already made on behalf of our company covers our position quite fully and cannot be receded from, nevertheless they are agreeable to attend, on the understanding that the delegation of the strikers to be present shall include representatives of all the principal departments of both the manufacturing and finishing mills.

Are you in a position to assure me that such a representative body of the striking workers of our mills will be present at the proposed meeting?

Yours truly,
The American Thread Co., Willimantic Mill.
DON H. CURTIS,
Agent.

The civic committee is to meet with the representatives of the strikers at the chamber of commerce rooms this (Wednesday) morning at 10.30 to perfect arrangements for a joint meeting of the parties interested.

LOSING TEAM PROVIDES SUPPER FOR THE VICTORS

James P. Bath's losing team in the attendance contest, which was concluded some weeks ago, redeemed itself by paying its debts in full measure, Tuesday evening, with a real old fashioned supper of baked beans, ham and escalloped potatoes served, at Storrs Congregational church, with the winners as guests. Activities began while the evening was yet young. The banqueters had just concluded the process of filling their plates for the first time when Al Smith started trouble with a water pump gun. A well directed shot found its mark on the nape of Jim Fullerton's neck. The battle which ensued implicated Doc Jones and Walter Abbe. President Standish, who appeared in the role of Bill Hart with a treacherous .45, then took charge of affairs and quiet was resumed for the time being. Two new members were greeted—Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, pastor of the local Congregational church, and Gerard Loiselle of the Norwich Bulletin, and press agent of the local club for some time. Guests of the club were John F. Riordan, president of the Putnam Rotary club, who was heard in an interesting brief address and Rev. Leonard Smith of Mansfield. Rev. Mr. Smith made good with the club at its session at Storrs, about a year ago, and upon request again rendered his famous song which he composed, Don't Plant Any Beans While the Moon Is On the Wane. Much applause followed this feature. John F. Ahern took the leadership in the singing with Doc Jones at the piano and Ralph H. Gibson, violinist. The first, a group song, was by John Pickett, George Hickey, Jim Mustard, Ray Parker, Ellison Smith, Harry Standish, Roland Jordan and Rev. Leonard Smith. At this point entertaining horoscopes of several of the members were given by President Standish and Secretary Charles W. Hill. President Standish and Jim Bath, the latter chairman of the entertainment committee and captain of the defeated aggregation, appeared at odds deciding who should have charge of the remainder of the evening. After a lengthy discussion, peppered with many highly humorous suggestions and allegations, President Standish conceded his chairmanship. A timely composition by Valentine L. Murphy, song writer and poet, renowned in local club circles, was then rendered with great enthusiasm. On behalf of the members who were bearing the expense of the dinner, Al Smith read The Laxity Roll of Honor, which included Maurice L. Leonard, A. Linn Weatherhead, George H. Shafer, Herbert W. Huber, Charles Alpaugh, Harry Blanchette and Raymond A. Parker. The honor men present subjected to be blindfolded and were then put through a third degree. The work was in charge of a masked body led by Al Smith. The fine was the immediate consumption of an anti-lax medicine or the payment of a nominal fee. George Shafer alone swallowed the remedy. The remainder were further penalized by being made to sing the tardy song and giving excuses for their past behavior. Ellison Smith gave a fine imitation of His Master's Voice with a rendition of Old Black Joe. More jokes by Secretary Hill followed and with compliments flavored with sarcasm, the leader of the winning team, Amie J. Martineau was introduced for the next speaker. Amie had listened to much concerning himself and his team and as he took the floor with eagerness to return both complimentary remarks and others, the crowd automatically dispersed and the session adjourned without warning, at a motion of the defeated captain. The program arranged for the evening by the losing team follows: Amie J. Martineau, How to Be Happy Though An Undertaker; Harry W. Standish, Will Chapman be Hanged? Fred Avery, Does Undertaking Pay? Frank M. Smith, Is Hard Work Injurious? Dr. R. Bullock Jones, What is Cove? Frank H. Foss, Can a Lawyer Be Honest? James B. Fullerton, Is Marriage a Success? George Buck, Why I Am a Winner; Valentine L. Murphy, Loud Talk; Fred D. Jordan, Why I Gave Up Smoking; George W. Hickey, A Quiet Life; Henry Congdon, Dirty Work; Richard E. Dodge, How I Overcame Profanity; A. E. Greene, Classical Music; Charles B. Pomeroy, Why I Am Single; James P. Bath, Why I Stay at Home Nights; Walter Abbey, Why I Stopped Drinking.

IVORY

protects lovely complexions,— yes, but it cleanses everything, economically

OF course Ivory is proud of its reputation for protecting fine things—complexions, delicate silks, fine skins, and all the other things you wouldn't trust to a soap less pure.

But although Ivory is as fine a soap as you can use for your complexion and for your precious things, it is such a wonderful cleanser, and costs so little, that thousands of women use it all through the house, just as much to protect the things they wash, as to protect their hands from the rigors of tub and dishpan.

For Ivory safety and purity are as beneficial to your clothes as they are to your skin! The saving on clothes you wash in Ivory is so great that even if your hands did not benefit, you would save far more in the end than the small extra cost that Ivory purity makes necessary.

After all, it is more important to protect your hands while they are at work than to try to cure them afterwards; so it is only natural that Ivory safety should be in as great demand for soap-and-water tasks your hands must do, as for the far less frequent needs of toilet and bath.

Ivory possesses all three essentials of a fine, efficient soap for all purposes—safety for your skin—safety for colors and fabrics—rich suds.

You actually need no other soap in the house, for Ivory is made in a convenient form for every possible use.

Procter & Gamble

Here is a fine, simple treatment for your complexion

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Consideration has been given recently by a number of persons interested in the government of the borough to the suggestion that payment of the warden and members of the court of burgesses be resumed. For years past these officials have served without pay, but there was a time when a moderate compensation was allowed them.

Whether or not this matter will come before the voters at the approaching annual town meeting had not been definitely determined up to Tuesday. It is claimed by the proponents of compensation that borough officials who devote as much time to their officials as do the warden and court of burgesses should receive some pay, as do the selectmen from the town. For the warden $100 yearly and for the burgesses $50 each has been suggested. The suggestion has not come from any present borough official or from citizens who are candidates for office at the coming election. It appears to have been evolved from the idea that an official who receives some compensation, probably not as much as he could earn in the same amount of time in a year at his regular calling, makes a better official, because he is more interested and alert in his official labors.

Danielson as a borough can afford to pay for the official services that it accepts gratuitously and it is not unlikely that it will be asked to do so through the action of some of its citizens who are not officeholders in the near distant fmutre.

PUTNAM

The Second Congregational church of this city has extended a call to Rev. J. F. English of Elmwood, a suburb of Hartford, to become pastor. This action was taken at a meeting Monday evening of the Church society and the Ecclesiastical society. The meeting was largely attended and the action was taken by a unanimous vote. Mr. English was highly recommended by a committee consisting of Ray C. Bosworth, Ralph C. Jenkins, Walter J. Bartlett, Mrs. Annie Child and Miss S. Elizabeth Clarke. The church has been without a pastor since the resignation of Rev. Simeon M. Cozad, in June of last year.

Harold Foskett of Woodstock, a student at the State Trade school, drove out of the school yard Monday evening and collided with a car driven by Mrs. Edmond Dubois. No one was hurt and the machines were slightly damaged. In checking up the accident the police officers found that Foskett had left his registration license at home. He produced it in the city court Tuesday morning and paid a fine of $5.00 and costs of $5.50.

In accordance with a custom in vogue for several years, the Senior class of Tourtelotte Memorial High school is making its Easter vacation trip to Washington, D. C. During the year the class gives entertainments, the proceeds of which as well as money raised in other ways go to a fund to defray the expenses of the Washington trip. This year the itinerary includes Washington with a stop-over at Philadelphia, a trip to Mt. Vernon and a day in New York on the return trip. Those going are Marshall Hainsworth, Olive Baker, Lucien Coderre, Ralph Ravenelle, Stanley LeVeille, Richard Converse, Raymond Bousquet and Clarence Sandstrom. Miss Elvira Dillon, the history teacher at the school, is the chaperone.

DAVID L. KEYES, AT 87, MAKING MONEY IN CALIFORNIA

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, March 31—The following letter written by David L. Keyes, of Long Beach, California, a former resident of Putnam and Eastford, is of interest to many friends in this vicinity. Mr. Keyes has prospered in the west, where he has lived for a number of years.

"Dear Sir:—You must pardon me for writing you at this time, for I presume you have forgotten David L. Keyes long ago.

The Putnam Observer for which you write comes to my home every week, directed to Mrs. Darwin Keyes and I take it from the wrapper on purpose to see what you have to say regarding the weather, etc.

"Mrs. Darwin Keyes is a daughter-in-law of mine. She is the daughter of Harry Safford and Doris Sherman Safford, (a sister of my first wife) they were daughters of Robert Sherman of West Woodstock. The paper is sent here by R. K. Safford, her brother, who lives at South Woodstock. I also look for the Pheonixville items.

"I was born just south of Pheonixville, 87 years ago on the 31st day of this month after sunset so I came up on April Fools' day my first sunrise, so you see I very near am an April fool, if not quite. I married Sarah Ann Sherman in 1859. We farmed the old farm there for ten years, milked cows, made butter and sent to Providence made butter and sent it to Providence by Oliver Bowen.

"Then I sold the farm to Darwin Clark and took Horace Greeley's advise and went west to grow up with the country. I went to Minnesota. For the first purchase I bought a speckled cow and had a quarter section farm thrown in. There I built up one of the best farms in the country. I lived there for 35 or 40 years. During this time I went west and bought other lands and finally got into South Dakota, where I acquired over 6,000 acres of land and the greater part of it was improved.

"In 1908 I had the misfortune to lose my wife. We had just moved from Minnesota to Henry, South Dakota. Then I turned over my farm lands, by deed, to my four children and came to California to live. I married my present wife in 1909 and bought a home on Signal Hill, just out of Long Beach and lived there until the oil boom struck the hill, after which I moved off the hill and leased the property for oil. They drilled for oil and finally succeeded in bringing in an oil well which is producing now, but not as much as it ought to. They got some tools stuck and had to quit and bring it in. They ought to have gone deeped and got a larger flow.

"I am getting about $900 a month at the present time but do not know how long it will produce. At present, I have received between $11,000 and $12,000 from it. I am in hopes that it will keep up for some time, but we can't tell.

Since coming to California, I have acquired other valuable property, 6½ lots that I have turned over to my daughter, Mrs. Kreyssler, that she says are worth $1,000 each now and are still rising in value. You cannot imagine how Long Beach is growing in value. I have turned over to my children and my present wife at least one million and one-half of property, so that when I pass away I will leave no property to probate. I am giving to my present wife about the amount that the inheritance tax would be if I kept it in my own name.

"I am anxious to know if old Mrs. Bradway is still living and is Darwin Clark alive, also Henry and Charles Trowbridge? I suppose the most of them are gone.

My health is very good at the present time. I went to school to Stephen Bowen when he taught in Phoenixville. I would rather like to see old Connecticut again but it is doubtful. I can writer better with pencil than with ink.

Yours truly
D. L. KEYES.

MILK MARKETING COMMITTEE RAISING COUNTY STANDARD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, March 31—Members of the Windham County Farmers' association are of the opinion that a Milk Marketing committee will, undoubtedly, be a permanent factor in connection with the marketing of the milk that is shipped from this territory. The present membership of the committee is: C. B. Jewett, chairman, Hampton; J. R. Stromberg, secretary, Abington; W. S. Warren, Eastford; S. T. Cross, Woodstock; A. H. Amidon, Abington; C. O. Fitts, Hampton; and W. P. Spaulding, Hampton.

The above committee has worked hard since December 22nd, to improve the conditions of hte producers who send milk to Boston. The objective of the committee's work is to make Windham county known in Boston as a county which produces high grade milk. An agreement is already in effect which gives an opportunity for the production of high quality milk to all the Boston shippers. This higher quality which is known as Grade A will be paid for at a higher price. The committee has just gotten under way in its efforts to bring this condition about and further announcements will, undoubtedly, be made when results must necessarily co-operate with the committee. Acceptable progress has been accomplished. Producers ity for the production of high quality milk requires closer watch over the production and handling of the milk in order to keep the bacteria count down. Any member of the committee can explain to the individual just what is necessary to produce this higher quality milk.

"Windham county a source of high quality milk" is the slogan that fits the aim of the committee and if it is carried out it is bound to make the milk from this section attractive in the market.

MYSTIC

Funeral services for Mrs. Carire J. Cundall, wife of Fred M. Ball, was held at the home of her father, Isaac Cundall, Tuesday afternoon. Rev. J. WESTERLY

The awarding of the contract for sewer construction in Westerly has been held up, pending a more complete investigation by Westerly authorities. The sewage engineer's estimate for 17,000 feet of sewer construction approximated $49,000. The lowest bidder, Samuel Nardone, of Westerly, was reported to have submitted a bid of $38,600. The amount of $51,000 was the bid of The Briggs Construction company of Providence, which firm built the filtration beds, off Margin street. The bids of other contractors including Michael A. Gammino of Providence, as well as the figures of a Bradford and Hartford concern were said to be even higher. Certain portions of the sewer construction work, in which unusual difficulties are expected, have not been let out, it is said, but such portions of work as are favorably reported by the Westerly board of water commissioners, who have the sewer installation in charge, are to be approved by the Westerly town council, which votes the money to pay the bills.

Westerly firemen were called shortly before 8 o'clock, Tuesday morn ng, by an out-of-the-district fire alarm, No. 33, for a fire in Hope Valley. The paint shop of S. E. Barber & Son, Main street, Hope Valley, was entirely destroyed soon after 7 o'clock. The fire started when a can of paint remover was accidentally upset and became ignited from a stove. The flames followed the fluid to the can and exploded. S. H. L. Barber was fortunate in escaping after grabbing his books. The loss was made greater by a recent addition of a $1000 stock of paint for his spring work. The loss is estimated at $3500, covered by insurance. The neighboring dwelling of G. A. Watson caught fire but was extinguished.

The pumper of the Westerly fire department was called and Fire Chief George E. Egger responded with a force of firemen, but proceeded no further than Hopkinton City, where they were informed that the fire was out and returned to their Westerly quarters. The Richmond Fire company of Wyoming also responded.

Rev. R. A. Seilhamer, rector of St. Paul's church, Pawtucket, spoke for an hour Monday evening in the vestry of Christ Episcopal church, on China, before the Girls' Friendly society. At the invitation of the president, Mrs. William Herbert Empy Cook of the Christ Church Girls' Friendly society, the women's societies of other churches were represented. The speaker was introduced by Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ church. The address was preceded by a piano solo by Miss Louise Blackler and the singing of Spring and The Rosary by a quartet of young ladies. Misses Marion Schwenk, Dorothy Krebs, Doris Hartridge and Winifred Bogle, with Mrs. Florence S. Larkin as accompanist.

Miss Jeanette Kelley, who is cooperating with the farm bureaus, is to give her first cooking demonstration in Westerly, Thursday, at 2:30 p. m. in the Lorraine Community House. These classes are scheduled to meet once each week during April. Miss Maude Price of the Lorraine Club and Mrs. J. F. Crandall, a director in the Southern Rhode Island Farm Bureau, are chairmen of this community project.

The civil service commission directs attention to the fact that in examinations held recently in Westerly and other cities throughout the United States for elementary teacher (grades 1-6), junior high school teacher (grades 7-9) and senior high school teacher (grades 10-12), to fill vacancies in the Indian Service, applicants were not secured in the number desired, and that these examinations will be held again. Persons interested in these or other examinations should apply to the secretary of the United States civil service board at the local post office for information and application blanks.

A United States Civil Service examination is to be held at Westerly to fill the position of rural carrier in North Stonington, Conn., and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from that post office. The salary of a rural carrier on a standard daily wagon route of 24 miles is $1,800 per annum, with an additional $30 per mile per annum for each mile or major fraction thereof in excess of 24 miles. The salary on motor routes ranges from $2,450 to $2,600 per annum, according to length. Separate examinations for motor routes and wagon routes are no longer held. Appointments to both positions will be made from the same register. The date of examination will be stated on admission cards mailed applicants after receipt of applications has closed. Applications must be on file with the commission at Washington, D. C., prior to the close of business on April 29.

SPLIT SWITCH CAUSES SERIES OF ACCIDENTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., March 31—One-man trolley car No. 34 of the Shore Line Electric Company, in charge of motorman L. H. Murphy, No. 600, of Mystic, split the West Broad street switch in front of the Walton block when leaving Pawcatuck on the 2:45 o'clock trip for New London, Tuesday evening. The accident happened when the forward truck continuing on the main line, the rear truck took the siding as the rubber blocking of the loose switch had worked under the point and allowed it to move over.

As the car with some six or eight passengers continued sideways down the street the rear end struck the Buick touring car, No. 26,083, R. I., of Arthur R. Roode of 18 1-2 Hobart street, Westerly, which was parked on the river side of the street, dragging it a distance of 15 feet, striking a Ford car, parked back of it, continued until it became wedged between the police light electric pole and the electric car body, completely wrecking the forward running gear of the Buick. The top of the automobile was smashed when the telephone box on the pole was struck and knocked to the sidewalk, but the windshield of the auto was not even cracked. No one was injured as the electric car moved slowly and there was no one in the automobiles at the time. Rr. Roode, accompanied by his son-in-law, Clarence Blanchard had just left the automobile and was on the opposite side of the street.

Patrolman V. A. Burdick, of Pawcatuck, caused the automobiles to be moved along on the north side of the street and there was just room enough for one machine to pass the end of the electric car at one time. Constable Kenyon assisted the movement of auto traffic during the after-theatre rush, when a crowd of nearly 100 gathered to await the arrival of the Pierce Arrow wrecking truck of the trolley company. A chain was placed on the rear end and the truck loaded with live ballast soon had both trucks which had not left the rails, back on the same stretch of track.

Maurice Sample Shop Opening

Announcement is made of a grand opening on Saturday, April 4, of the Maurice Sample Shop under the management of Dana M. Lamitie, who has purchased from Philip Butleman, the good will and store fixtures, together with a long time lease. A complete stock of new merchandise of summertime wearing apparel will be offered for the inspection of patrons, having been selected with the judgment and skill which Mr. Lamitie's long experience in the women's wearing apparel line has given him.

He has made a specialty of this line for a period covering some 30 years as buyer, manager and proprietor of women's wearing apparel shops throughout the New England territory. For 22 years he was with the Steiger syndicate of chain stores doing business in Holyoke, Springfield New Bedford, Fall River, Hartford and Portchester, N. Y. For the past six years he has been affiliated with the Orr company of Easton, Pa., and for six years he was in Fall River, with the E. S. Brown Co., and the Cherry Webb Co.

Mr. Lamitie intends to carry in the Maurice Sample Shop the popular and better class of merchandise such as would please the fastidious woman buyer. The store will, as in the past, be conducted under the name of the Maurice Sample Shop and it is the intention of the new management to retain the present employes, who with Mr. Butleman and H. M. Tishkoff have built up a substantial business.

With Mr. Lamitie will be his son, Dana E. Lamitie, who will be in charge of the business and of the firm, and Mrs. Lamitie, formerly an experienced milliner, who will have charge of the millinery department of the store.

Mr. Lamitie, in the other cities where he conducted stores, not only took an interest in his chosen field but gave freely to the civic welfare of each community. He has been a member of Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce and all local organizations that have anything to do with the welfare of the community as well as entering the political field in some cities. It is his intention to take an active part in the civic welfare of his new home and he hopes to hold the present patronage of the Maurice Sample Shop as well as increasing the number of satisfied customers.

New London Garden Club Active

The New London Garden club has secured Loring Underwood, a landscape architect from Boston, to give an illustrated lecture.

The Cincinnati Times Star says, in speaking of Mr. Underwood's lecture to the Garden club there: "The audience were transported by means of direct color stereopticon pictures and the speaker's vivid word pictures from one lovely old garden of New England to another. So exquisite were the lantern slides, the flowers stood out almost real enough to be plucked."

The pictures are recorded in actual true color, auto-chrome photographs, the first to present gardens in their natural color to an audience. The members of the Garden club have engaged Mr. Underwood for this lecture for their own pleasure, and for all interested in gardens, hoping that all may learn to beautify theirs by his many valuable suggestions. The members of the New London Garden club are: Mrs. H. C. Bunner, Miss Edna Leighton Tyler, Mrs. F. H. Chappell, Mrs. Alfred M. Chappell, Mrs. Frank V. Chappell, Mrs. Edwin Dimock, Mrs. W. Ellery Allyn, Mrs. Frank B. Makepeace, Jr., Mrs. Mary A. Stockett, Mrs. Margaret C. Reyburn, Mrs. Gerald H. Waterman, Mrs. Horace C. Learned, Mrs. Henry R. Bond, Jr., Mrs. George S. Palmer, Miss Emily D. Learned, Mrs. Harry H. Learned, Miss Helen Whitton, Mrs. George T. Brown, Mrs. Elisha Turner, Mrs. Philip Z. Hankey, Mrs. Frederick S. Newcomb, Mrs. Grant Edgar, Dr. Caroline A. Black of Connecticut college, Miss Renee Varlet, Miss Mary Nevins, Mrs. Clarence A. Carr also Mrs. Edward H. Bindley of Philadelphia, who has a summer residence at the Pequot.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Six first class vaudeville acts, each a headliner in itself, with a First National picture and a news weekly, combined under the Palace banner for the first three days, certainly made things hum.

Opening the program before the footlights are the Claremont Bros., in a most unusual showing of equilibrium, and thrilling stunts on the revolving ladder act.

"The Man off the Ice Wagon," is surely one of vaudeville's greatest surprises, and Johnny Nestor, the man in the act is a marvelous tenor, and gives to the audience many most unusual vocal selections.

Howard and the Scott Sisters, in a pleasing interpretation of dance numbers, gorgeous scenery, and plenty of handsome gowns, make up a novelty act, which went over big. Mr. Howard interprets the Sailor's Hornpipe in true sailor fashion.

Emma O'Neil in her presentation of a Dark Town Flapper character act knocks everyone cold. The only time the audience is revived is when Emma drives her own views on the song "Red Hot Mama," when she is then a ball of fire.

Lloyd and Pearl, both of the funniest sort, are a pair that work nonharmoniously. Miss Ford is a comely maiden and is noted for her pretty figure which has adorned various magazine covers.

The headliner of the bill is Paul Specht's Pasadena club orchestra, consisting of nine pieces in syncopation style. Under the direction of Eddie Worth, the latest hits are presented in the latest effects and received great applause at both performances yesterday. A clever bunch of artists makes the act one worth seeing.

The feature picture is "New Toys" with Richard Barthelmess and his wife, Mary Hay, play the roles of a young married couple in "New Toys" and the newest toy of the drama is their baby. The child, by the way, is played by Baby Pat O'Connor and not by Mr. and Mrs. Barthelmess' own daughter, Mary Hay Barthelmess. Hundreds of film fans have written to Mr. and Mrs. Barthelmess asking this question.

Will time Mary Hay appear sometime on the screen Barthelmess says that will depend wholly upon Mary Hay H, herself, when she gets big enough to decide the question.

With a father who is a famous motion picture star and a mother who has gained success on both the stage and screen, it is no wonder that Mary Hay H ought to be particularly adept.

Breed Theater

If you want an evening of real entertainment, but on your hat and hie yourself down to the Breed theater, where they're playing Tramping with Ellen.

This picture made from Earl Derr Biggers' delightful story of the same name which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, has all the ingredients of a good picture-drama, a compelling love story and plenty of fun interspersed. It is a story of the city as well as of the country and it lifts the curtain and reveals her life, far different from the conclusions to her song and dances assume it to be. Here she is just a human being with joys and sorrows and a generous amount of good sense. The last keeps her from marrying a millionaire and aids her in making the man she loves achieve a success which he never would have attained without her.

Helene Chadwick is cast well in the starring role. Gaston Glass is excellent as the poor orchestra conductor, and Basil Rathbone gives an adequate performance as the millionaire with the family tree. Others who do admirable work are Mary Thurman, as Ellen's roommate who has her own ideas of men and marriage; Esther Banks, as the millionaire's spry grandmother; Tyrone Power, Zena Keefe, Kate Blanke, John Tansey, Charles McDonald, Riley Hatch and Ernest Hilliard.

The production is beautifully executed and the sets are clever and diverting.

For the second feature William Farnum will be seen in The End of the Trail, a re-issue of his big screen success. Few if any of the many more recent photodramas of the Great North, have elicited the widespread praise which has been bestowed upon this epic of the great open spaces in the frozen north. When first released it set a high mark which producers have found it difficult to reach since. It is for this reason perhaps that there has been a demand for its revival.

The Fox news completes this big double bill.

Assembly at the Armory

At the assembly for the benefit of the Backus Hospital auxiliary to be held in the State Armory April fourteenth, the dance music will be furnished by D'Attis ten piece orchestra. The armory will be elaborately decorated by Messrs. Rockwood and Hawkins and promises to present an unusual scene. Among those who have recently subscribed for boxes are The Friday Evening Bridge Club, Mrs. James L. Crawford, Dr. Thomas F

GERMANY'S PROBLEM.

Now that there has been a chance to analyze the votes received by the several candidates in the German election it proves that the balloting was no more conclusive than expected. It was in fact not much more than a primary which indicated the strength or weakness of certain candidates, and above all the fact that if those who are committed to a republic are going to elect the president they must join forces.

Whether there will be new candidates in the field April 26 is as yet uncertain. Dr. Jarres as the candidate of the nationalists failed to get a majority on the first test. That does not give promise that he would do any better on the second trial. In fact he would not need a majority but when a candidate upon whom those opposed to the republican form of government have united makes a poorer showing than expected a second test is not likely to result in increased strength.

There were not as many votes cast as had been anticipated. This may have been due to the belief on the part of many that the election would be final and they would wait until the real decision came, but no one knows what effect any such sentiment had upon the respective parties.

Could the parties which favor the republic have had a common candidate they would not have obtained a majority but they have demonstrated that they must stick together to continue the republic. They have a strong following if it can be held together and it behooves them to reach an agreement upon the candidate best fitted for the office and most likely to obtain the full support of the united parties. If they haven't been previously impressed by the fact that in union there is strength they must be now.

The test having been made and the sentiment being strong against the monarchist movement, as represented by the several parties in opposition thereto, Germany's republicans must go to the polls the last Sunday in April but they must first get together on a man whom they can all support.

NATIONAL GUARD PAY.

Announcement that President Coolidge has decided not to advise the war department to refrain from using the million and a third which was appropriated by congress in a deficiency measure for national guard drills will be learned with much interest by friends of the national guard and those interested in the proper maintenance of interest and efficiency in that organization.

It appears following investigation that while the money sought is obtained through a deficiency appropriation, urged upon congress without going through the regular channels according to the law, the money in fact was no more than the surplus from a previous year, and furthermore than the need for the increased appropriation to complete the present fiscal year is due to the fact that there has been a substantial increase in attendance at drills.

The result is that the national guard is not going to suffer in efficiency from having its drills curtailed and it is not going to experience the discouraging prospect of being required to tell a membership which has been showing increased interest that its efforts are not appreciated.

There is an outstanding feature of the matter, however, which cannot be overlooked. This is the fact that there is no disposition to tolerate the sliding through congress of any appropriation, or the obtaining of added appropriations, if it goes against the law or is being done contrary to regulations. There is no idea of tolerating overdrafts when it is possible to keep without the appropriations.

MITCHELL'S ASSIGNMENT.

But for the fact that he was inclined to jump over the traces and refuse to abide by regulations and orders Colonel William Mitchell, who has been assistant chief of the air service with the rank of brigadier general, would undoubtedly be holding that position today.

There has never been any question as to his ability, to his qualifications as a flier or as a teacher. There has in fact been a disposition to the contrary. He has been highly rated and appreciated in his place. It was when he insisted upon overstepping others that demotion resulted.

In view of the situation it is apparent that it would have been possible for the former assistant air service chief to have been placed at some obscure post, which in itself would have been additional punishment, but in support of the recognition of the officer's ability is his assignment as air service officer for the eighth corps area with headquarters at Fort Sam Houston in Texas.

This is one of the country's most important flying fields and means that the disposition is to get the full benefit of his ability as an aviator in the service that will be rendered at that post. The treatment he has received cannot therefore be regarded as harsh. His insubordinations could not be overlooked, and while there was a chance for making his punishment conspicuous the war department has considered it of much greater importance to place him where it can get the full benefit of his services.

EDTORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: A great day for lost pocketbooks.

Being reminded that it's April first, nothing more need be said.

Speaking of street rubbish cans, have you been able to find one when and where you had need for it?

The idea of getting the big matters out of the way before the closing days of the legislature is a good one.

Striking at the product of the diploma mills means an indirect but effective blow at those centers of fraud.

It makes a difference whether it is cleaning up the yard or getting ready to go fishing as to how cheerfully it is done.

Honesty is the best policy, but it is necessary to keep shouting it from the housetops and then some don't believe it.

Maine's senate has refused to ratify the child labor amendment. This time it is, "As the nation goes so goes Maine."

Considering how the pedestrians are kept in the air by the automobiles, what more can they expect with the perfection of the flivver airplanes?

Those who howl the loudest for the authorities to do something to catch and stop criminals are invariably the first to display a lot of sickening sentiment over the criminals and try to make heroes out of them when they are caught and brought to trial.

LET IT RAIN

"Where do we want to sit?" asked the efficient woman, leading the way among the tables of the second floor restaurant.

"Can't we take the table at the window?" suggested the timid little woman who followed her. "How many times I have passed along Wabash avenue in an elevated train and looked in at this window and wished that I might eat at this table!"

"Then you may have your wish," the efficient woman assured her. "And you can get almost anything you want to eat here, too!"

"It's raining," exclaimed the timid one, despairingly. "And my velour portieres are on the clothesline. Betty will never think to take them in oh, dear!"

"It isn't raining here," said the efficient one, interestedly. "Those wet cars were on a North Shore train. The rain may be up around Milwaukee. And it might rain hard on the north side and not a drop out south where we live. The town is so big!"

"I never can understand these menus," said the timid one. "Won't you order?"

The efficient woman was still studying the passing cars, but left off long enough to give the waiter the order. Then she rose.

"There is a phone call I must make," she explained by way of excuse.

"You weren't long," the timid woman observed. "Now it takes me longer than that to get a number."

"There's a Logan square train all wet," announced the efficient woman.

"And there's an Evanston express and it's dry," marveled the timid one.

"That's because it has been to Jackson park and back again since it passed the loop. See, that Wilson avenue train is wet. It is raining on the north side, but it hasn't rained here yet."

"Here it comes!" exclaimed the timid woman, as a few drops beat upon the plate-glass window. "I must get home before my portieres get wet."

"Don't worry; they won't get wet," the efficient one promised. "See, that Garfield park train has been in a rainstorm."

"And there is a Douglas park train almost dry," observed the timid one.

"That shows it isn't raining southwest," deduced the efficient woman. "And here comes an Englewood train with only a few drops on it."

"And it got them in the loop," the timid one added, gayly. "I don't believe it is going to rain at all on the south side."

"I'm not sure about that," cautioned the efficient woman. "There's a Douglass park train that is wet."

"Maybe it got wet since it has been in the loop," suggested the timid one.

"No, that train has been through a regular deluge," the efficient one decided. "It is raining hard out southwest."

"I don't like to run away from this delicious luncheon," began the timid one, "but I ought to start for home and take in those portieres."

"They won't get wet," replied the efficient woman, carelessly. "Don't worry about them."

"But they are almost new and it will spoil them to get wet," wailed the timid one. "Look there," she added, rising suddenly. "There is a south side train that has been just swimming in water."

"That's so," agreed the efficient woman. "It's raining on the south side, now. But don't worry about your portieres. They are not getting wet."

"How do you know?" questioned the timid one, excitedly.

"Because I phoned right after I gave the order. Don't you remember? I phoned your house and Betty said she would take them in at once. So let's enjoy this luncheon and let it rain."

"Yes, let it rain," was the relieved response of the timid one.—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Takes Exception to Statements.

Mr. Editor: The statements in an article in your paper headed "Christian Science Church Faces Test," reciting the claims of John V. Dittemore and Mrs. Annie C. Bill, and that The mother church edifice ceased to function properly after 1910," should be corrected.

The stability of the mother church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and its branches, all loyally functioning with the Christian Science board of directors under the by-laws of the manual of the mother church, written by Mary Baker Eddy, is an established fact.

In Science and Health (page 583) Mrs. Eddy has given this definition of church as "The structure of truth and love; whatever rests upon and proceeds from divine principle." "The church is that institution, which affords proof of its utility and is found elevating the race, rousing the dormant understanding from material beliefs to the apprehension of spiritual ideas and the demonstration of divine science, thereby casting out devils, or error, and healing the sick."

The mother church and its branches therefore, which practically encircle the world, are built upon this spiritual foundation which cannot be overthrown.

Raising The Pay and The Taxes

Mr. Editor: Has that three million dollars which we might have sold the gas and electric plant for gone to our heads? Very neatly and unobtrusively a bill is slipped into the legislature for a salary raise for the officials of the city court. A bill to raise the salary of the mayor follows suit. The policemen take the cue and see no reason why they shouldn't get in on the picking while the picking is good. Naturally enough the firemen don't want to be left out. They tell us it is only a dollar a day more for pounding the pavements and exercising the red wagons; only one more mill on the city tax; but where do we stop? Are there other departments of the city yet to be heard from with requests for more pay?

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

John Van Antwerp MacMurray, who is mentioned as a possible successor to Jacob Gould Schurman as United States Minister to China, has been Third Assistant Secretary of State at Washington since last November, when he succeeded to the post which had been held so many years by the veteran A. A. Adee. Mr. MacMurray, it is pointed out, is well qualified for the Peking mission by reason of long service as head of the Far Eastern diversion of the state department and experience as an attache in China and Japan. He comes from New Jersey and first entered the diplomatic service in 1907. Greece, Montenegro and Russia and then returned to Washington for a tour of duty in the state department. In 1923 he went to Peking as secretary of the American legation and in 1917 was transferred to Tokio. Mr. MacMurray was educated in law at Princeton and Columbia universities.

Heroic measures are several sizes too large for the average man.

25 Seconds
will tell you why Chipso saves your strength
WE know what washday has meant for you.
That is why we have made Chipso.
Chipso is quick suds. (No powder or fumes to make you sneeze; no shaving, no melting of cake-soap to waste your time.)
Twenty-five seconds from package to tub, and you are ready with a veritable mountain of cleansing bubbles—this is Chipso's magic new welcome to your clothes, and its kindness to your arms and back.
These tiny sprites of cleanliness find dirt and soil and carry them away from every fibre of your fabrics. Yet to the fabrics themselves, and to the colors, they are friendliness itself.
With Chipso your next washday will be different — a day of surprises — happier, pleasanter, shorter.
ECONOMICAL
For this new kind of washday, whether you wash by boiling, soaking, or machine, Chipso and water are all you need. And the cost is merely that of ordinary good laundry soap. Chipso gives its extra advantages FREE.
Your grocer has the blue-and-orange packages of snow-white Chipso in two large sizes—and such value in these packages! Prepare for a Chipso washday now.

Lindsey Homesick for the Farm

Although the city had many charms and advantages, the old farm called so strongly to Ben B. Lindsey that he went back, but soon was forced to go to work in the busy metropolis in order to help the family.

The farm was at Jackson, Tenn., and was his birthplace. His father was a railroad man and Ben and his brother spent their early years with an aunt and grandfather. At 11 he was taken by his parents to live in Denver. He attended school and was sent to the preparatory school of the university of Notre Dame, in Indiana. Back in Denver, he became so homesick for the farm that his father finally sent him there.

While attending a Baptist school nearby he received word that his father was suffering from an incurable illness, and at 17 returned to Denver to begin work as an office boy in a real estate office at $10 a month. The family was poor and it took all of the boy's savings of $150 to pay the expenses of his father's funeral.

Living in a poor part of the city, the family suffered many privations and the boy carried newspapers in the early morning and was janitor at night to earn extra money. Soon he got a job as office boy at $25 a month, then traded positions with his brother and got into a law office to study law.

Pale, frail, and undersized, he studied law at night, often so late that he was tardy at the office and was reprimanded. In order to help at home he seldom supplied himself with enough to eat at luncheon, and the outlook often was disheartening.

Admitted to the bar at 25, he won success and was made Judge of the County Court. After investigating some of the cases of boy criminals brought before him, he promoted a juvenile court system and although called "crazy" finally had it established in Denver. He also succeeded in having passed the first contributory delinquency law holding parents, employees and others responsible. He was made Judge of the Juvenile court and today, at 54, is considered one of the greatest authorities on juvenile delinquency in the world.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

OLD IRONSIDES

Relative to the movement now under way to recondition the "Constitution" so that it will again be seen in the harbors of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and even San Francisco and Seattle, a bulletin of the National Geographic Society, from its headquarters in Washington, D. C., says:

"In her day the 'Constitution' was almost as much of a revolution in shipbuilding practice as Fulton's 'Clermont,' or the 'Merrimac,' first fabricated steel ship of the modern age.

"Until the 'Constitution' slid from the ways into Boston harbor, where she now stays in the seclusion of old age, British ships were, perforce, the best ships. But Joshua Humphreys of Philadelphia was an unbeliever. So, when Congress finally decided to design six frigates, whose names gathered fame around the world. Famous sisterships of the 'Constitution' were—the 'Constellation,' the 'Chesapeake,' the 'United States,' and the 'President.' 'Old Ironsides is 128 years old.

"So great was the skill of the New England craftsmen that the 'Constitution' and her sister-ships won the reputation of being able to outsail anything on the seven seas. They did it, too, time and again. Accustomed as we are today to read of warship guns that will shoot 16 miles being replaced by guns that will shoot 18 miles, which in turn give way to 20-mile guns, it is interesting to note that the 'Constitution' by mounting 24-pounders outclassed British frigates which carried 18-pounders. Other countries followed American practices in armament and ship construction as a result of the success of the 'Constitution.'

"Commodore Preble took the 'Constitution' as his flagship when the infant American navy challenged the power of the Barbary states to whom all the great governments of Europe had paid tribute for years. Of the four Moslem states, Algiers, Tunis, Tripoli, and Morocco, the greatest offender in American eyes, having held 21 American citizens in slavery for more than five years. In 1793 the Algerians captured 106 sailors. The successful campaign in the Mediterranean was training ground for the naval battles of 1812.

"In the second war with England, the 'Constitution' met the frigate 'Guerriere' off Halifax and won a brilliant engagement. Later she reduced the 'Java' off Bahia, Brazil, and fought and won against two ships at once, the 'Levant' and the 'Cayne' near Gibraltar.

"A fleet of 60 'dreadnaughts' of the 'Constitution' plan could be built for the cost of one modern battleship. For this ship the government paid $303,718. It is 204 feet long, 43 1-2 feet on its beam and draws 23 feet of water. Its displacement is 2,200 tons. The 'Tennessee,' one of the newest first line ships-of-war, is 624 feet long, 97 feet wide, 31 feet draft and cost $18,437,144. This monarch carries 26 guns compared to the 44 guns of the 'Constitution.'

"Congress fixed the rations and also fixed the crew of America's first man-of-war at 359 men. The crew was 329 men and 30 boys. Gin was a regular part of the ration. On a long voyage the 'Constitution' carried as much as 100 barrels of whiskey in her hold, and, in one instance, threw most of it overboard to lighten the ship in order to escape from the British fleet on the New Jersey coast.

"Names of famous men are connected with the 'Constitution.' Paul Revere supplied the copper for her hull, forging it by a process known only to him. Lord Byron boarded her, while she was in the Mediterranean and praised her highly. The noted English poet is said to have been offered to the United States on board the 'Constitution.' Although the ship was made in New England it was not entirely a northern product, for the oak of its hull was felled on St. Simon Island, at the mouth of the Altamaha river, Georgia.

"In 1830 the 'Constitution' was reported unseaworthy and ordered destroyed. Oliver Wendell Holmes, a young law-student read the notice in a paper. He seized his pen and dashed off the famous lines:

'Ay, tear her tattered ensign down!
Long has it waved on high,
And many an eye has danced to see,
That banner in the sky. . . . . .

"Public sentiment throughout the country was aroused by the famous poem 'Old Ironsides' and the 'Constitution' was saved."

We may be wrong in regard to the ... contemplated, but from newspaper accounts we gathered that the ... was to be Bulkeley high school. ... could be named Morgan G. Bulkeley High School or some other name ... distinctive from our school would it ... be much better?

It is not unlikely that this matter will be referred to the high school ... and building commission, which ... adopted the name for the new ... building. Secretary Edward Dugan of the commission suggested that a committee be appointed by the commission to confer with the New London authorities with a view to reaching some acceptable agreement. Technically the name of the Hartford school would clear of the New London objection as the commission had adopted the name "Morgan Gardner Bulkeley High School," but in practice the school has already come to be known as the Bulkeley high school, which is almost the same as the Bulkeley school of New London.

The commission in the same way named the north end and new high school the "Thomas Snell Weaver High school. The problems, therefore, between the Hartford and New London school authorities is not so much one of technical wording as of popular usage if confusion is to be avoided. The New London institution was named in honor of Leonard D. Bulkeley, a noted school man of that city a century ago.

FRANK GUILD SELLS HIS JEWELRY BUSINESS

Frank Ware Guild, who for many years has been located at 31 Broadway, has sold his jewelry business to A. J. Fitzgerald, formerly of the Plaut-Cadden company.

Mr. Guild is an expert on precious stones and watchmaking, having learned the jewelry industry in the shops in North Attleboro, Mass., and later taking a course at the Waltham Horological school, which gave him a knowledge of his special line of business which few jewelers possess. Always thoroughly reliable, courteous and conscientious, he leaves behind him an enviable reputation. He has been in business several times, selling out to locate in larger communities.

Having spent 32 years in the business, during 18 years of which he has been located in Norwich, he feels that he has earned a much needed vacation and through the summer months will rest at his beautiful summer home in Wrentham, Mass.

Mr. Guild retains very pleasant recollections of his business and social relations in this city and will always remember his years here with much pleasure.

The scoring was in charge of Berger Colberg, who is one of the most enthusiastic workers in the club.

GIRLS SHOW FAVORITISM FOR STRENUOUS ATHLETICS

There are few mollycoddles among America's young womanhood, if the results of a poll recently taken from a group of typical working girls in a large business organization are to be considered seriously.

Little did grandma dream when, as a flapper of her day, she took her tatting in hand and set out to spend a riotous afternoon on the porch rocker, that her descendants only one generation removed would look upon such amusement with disdain and go in for the recreation that belonged only to the hardiest young men of her day.

One hundred and forty-two young women employees of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, at the Home Office in Newark, N. J., were asked by W. W. Van Valin, the employment executive of that organization, to designate their favorite recreation. These girls, while only a small portion of the more than 3,000 Prudential workers, were believed to be a representation typical of all the others. Their answers are significant in that they prove conclusively, it would seem, that Miss America can not be referred to as "the weaker sex" with any justification. Some of them registered their preference for certain sports merely from the spectators' viewpoint, such as in football or baseball, but the vast majority interpreted the question to mean which sports they themselves preferred as active participants and they have selected the most strenuous.

Swimming leads with thirty-six devotees and tennis comes next with 23 votes. The others, in order, are:

Skating, 13; football, 12; hiking, 12; baseball, 11; basket ball, 10; horseback riding, 7; golf, 5; dancing, 4; bicycle racing, 3; automobiling, 2; canoeing, 2; skiing, 1 and theatergoing, 1.

The record of the Prudential girls in athletic competition indicates that they practice what they proclaim. There are among the girls three record holders in track athletics competition. Hazel Kirk is a world's record holder in the hurdles. Esther Behring is a champion shot putter and basket ball thrower and Clara Farley is a discus title holder.

NORWICH MEN ORGANIZE TO CARRY OUT PROGRAMME FOR BOYS' WEEK

Preliminary plans for the observance of Boy's Week in this city were made at a meeting Tuesday evening, held in the A. C. Swan Co. sales rooms and attended by 32 men representing various civic roganizations. Edwin A. Harris Presided and described the nation-wide interest in boys that is arousing communities all over the United States and is bringing men to realize that they have a responsibility towards the boys of their communities. The slogan is "Boys—The World's Greatest Asset." Over 200 cities are participating in a boy's week programme. The movement started in New York in 1920, when the first boys' week was held there and impressed even that city with the conviction that boyhood, individually, and collectively, is far more important and valuable than even its transit system, a successful Broadway season, professional baseball or social prestige. Now all over the country one week is set aside to give attention to the boys.

Judge Nelson J. Ayling was elected general chairman for the Norwich week, Louis M. Crandall executive secretary and James L. Case, publicity chairman.

A programme running from Friday, April 24 to Wednesday, April 29, was adopted as follows, with chairman as indicated:

Friday, April 24th—Boys' Day in School, Arthur L. Peale, chairman.

Saturday, April 25th—Boys' Day for Service, Harold E. Robbins, chairman.

Sunday, April 26th—Boys' Day in Church, Prof H. A. Tirrell, chairman.

Monday, April 27th—Boys' Day out of Doors, James E. Murphy.

Tuesday, April 28th—Boys' Day in Industry, James M. Morton, chairman.

Boys' Evening at Home, Rev. A. H. Abbott, chairman.

Wednesday, April 29—Boys' Championship Olympic Games, Emery Davis, chairman.

Get Together, Men and Boys, Finale, E. V. Ross, chairman.

The chairmen are to select the personnel of their committees.

Remarks were made by J. B. Stanton, Dr. R. R. Agnew, Arthur L. Peale, Paul A. Brown, A. J. Agranovitch, Emery H. Davis, Dr. H. B. Campbell, Charles A. Saxton, Louis M. Crandall and Rev. A. H. Abbott. The speakers emphasized the community aspect of the observance of the week to which churches and all classes of organizations can give endorsement and lend their participation.

PARISH COMMITTEES WORK OUT PLANS FOR RECEPTION

The fifteen members of the committee on entertainment for the welcome home reception of Mgr. M. H. May, met Tuesday evening in the church hall, the chairman, Alexander A. Kilroy, presiding.

All the reports for the exercises to be held following the ceremonial in the upper church on the evening of April 7th were very encouraging. The formal programme of exercises will not be announced until the final meeting of all the committee, in the church hall, Friday evening next.

At the meeting Monday night of the parade committee, Michael J. Kelley presiding, the line of march was decided upon. The parade will start at Washington square, move through main street to Burnham square, countermarch through Main street up Bath street, up Broadway to the church and disband. It was voted to have the two local bands, the American-Italian and Swahn's Military bands, also St. Patrick's Boy Scouts' drum corps. The parade will be in two divisions, the men's division leading. Monday evening at the Knights of Columbus home the invitation committee met. Thomas H. Beckley, chairman, presiding. Michael J. Kirby, secretary, read his report. Over sixty invitations have been mailed to out of town priests and officials. Invitations have been sent as far as the Connecticut river and into Rhode Island.

RAZING OLD LANDMARK. OVER 200 YEARS OLD

The frame building at No. 17 and No. 19 Bath street, owned by the estate of the late Judge John M. Thayer, will be torn down this week, following action taken some time ago by Fire Marshal H. L. Stanton to have the building removed because of its dilapidated condition. The razing of the building, which is one of the oldest landmarks in the city, will be started today (Wednesday). It is a wooden structure, said to have been built over 200 years ago. Its original location was on lower Broadway. Years ago it was moved to the present Union Square site of the Central Baptist church and from there to Bath street.

From 1885 to 1895 the building was occupied by William Tubbs, a blacksmith. About 30 years ago Paul Peloquin started a shoe repair shop in one-half of the building and has occupied it since that time. Twenty-five years ago Henry Trushunsky opened a barber shop in the other half of the building. Mr. Peloquin and Mr. Trushunsky closed their places of business Tuesday night. They have no definite plans for the future, but G. Love, who has been with Mr. Trushunsky for ten years, has gone with the Wauregan House barber shop. It is not known whether or not a new building will be erected.

HIBERNATING AUTOS WILL TAKE TO THE ROADS

Several hundred automobiles in Norwich and thousands all over the state which have been hibernating during the last three months will awake from their sleep on the first of April and will soon be out on the roads.

Owners of machines who lay them up for the first three months of the year have been taking out their registration numbers in the last two weeks or so which give them the right to operate their cars from the first of April and the next few days promise to see a great increase in the number of machines on the road as garage workers have been rushed to get the cars into condition to go out.

One garage in the city was reported to have 50 cars ready to go out today (Wednesday.)

TRANSFERRING 80 MEN FROM SUBMARINE BASE

New London, March 31—Eighty men connected with the United States submarine base will be transferred to posts on the Pacific coast it was announced here today when 43 men left for Newport, R. I., preparatory to their transfer to the western coast. Twelve more will leave Thursday and 25 men will be taken from the submarines for the third transfer.

Six hundred men from points along the Atlantic seaboard will be transferred to the Pacific coast, it was said at the submarine base. This movement is part of what is known as drawing for duty, it was said. When additional men are needed in Pacific waters, it was explained, the men are drawn from the Atlantic coast.

TRAINING PERIOD STARTS FOR THE RITZ REVUE

Rehearsals for the Ritz Revue, the amateur theatrical performance to be produced under the auspices of Nemrod Grotto, have been started and are proceeding every afternoon from 2 to 10:30 in Grotto hall. Melody, motion and color are to be the strong features that will combine to make this one of the most attractive of amateur offerings, with songs, sketches and a pageant for which the cast of 150 is in training. Torrey McKenny and F. Stevenson Wilkinson of Harrington Adams, Inc., are here to give expert direction in the production of the Revue.

WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE FROM DESERTING HUSBAND

Seely Parker Williams of New London has entered suit in the superior court for divorce from Harold W. Williams of Fort Wright, Fishers Island, N. Y., on the ground of desertion since Feb. 1, 1923. They were married Nov. 28, 1924, and a previous suit for divorce was brought on the ground of adultery, in which the attorney for the plaintiff asked to have the complaint amended, alleging desertion, but this was recently denied by the judge.

LETENDRE'S CRESCENT BEACH HOTEL IS FIRE LOSS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 31—Fire completely destroyed the Francolet, a three-story wooden summer hotel at Crescent Beach, this afternoon. The building is owned by George Letendre, of Norwich and was partially covered by insurance. The fire was discovered shortly after 12 o'clock and undoubtedly originated from a defective chimney. Assistance was sent from New London in the Northwest Hose Co., but that apparatus was put out of commission on the run, it being believed that the high speed in which the machine was operated caused the pistons to be over-heated and damaged the crank case.

Letendre went to the hotel, which is located close to the tracks of the New Haven railroad, this forenoon to arrange for the opening of the place next month. He started a fire in a range and left the place, absenting himself but a short time. When he reentered the hotel he discovered smoke issuing from a closet located close to a chimney. Summoning assistance, Letendre and his helpers attempted to subdue the fire, but was unsuccessful. Realizing that the fire was making rapid headway the Niantic fire company was summoned and assistance was requested of the New London department. When the fire-fighting apparatus reached the place the entire building was a roaring furnace and was doomed. Because of the hotel being so located at considerable distance from water, much time was lost in laying many lengths of hose. When this was finally accomplished the firemen devoted their energies to preventing adjoining buildings from being ignited by flying sparks.

Mr. Letendre stated here Tuesday evening that he would start to rebuild at once in time for the opening of the season and would have better accommodations than ever when the building is restored.

ENCOURAGING ORCHARDISTS TO FERTILIZE TREES

Orchardists of the county who are fertilizing their trees are being supplied nitrate of soda and sulphate of ammonia for this purpose through County Agent Walter T. Clark. The chemicals are put out in 25 and 50 pounds lots for demonstration purposes only, and the local farm bureau is obliged to keep a record so that a comparison may be made of the fruit obtained from fertilized and unfertilized areas. The results will, it is believed, induce more orchard owners to adopt modern methods.

On Friday, F. W. Knipe of Storrs Agricultural College, will be in the county to assist those who have asked him in regard to installing water and drainage systems on their farms. Many farm owners throughout this county have already made arrangements for Mr. Knipe to visit their farms in regard to the matter. However, if anyone wishes Mr. Knipe should visit their place for this reason, a date in the near future can be arranged, if he communicates with Agent Walter Clark at the Farm Bureau office, in the Shannon building.

A Junior Poultry club will be formed in Voluntown Tuesday night, April 7. Many of the boys of the public schools in Voluntown have already signified their intention of membership in this new organization, and it is anticipated that many will be on hand at the opening night. Agent Clark will be in Voluntown that night to get things going.

WILL MAKE ARRESTS FOR HEADLIGHT LAW VIOLATIONS

State police officials will begin on April 5, an active campaign against violators of the headlight laws of the state, it was announced at headquarters, Tuesday. The laws, it was pointed out, are not long and detailed, and briefly require every automobile to display while running between one-half hour after sunset and one-half hour before sunrise two lighted lamps on the forward part of the vehicle, visible at least for a distance of 500 feet and with the tops of the lamps not more than fifty-six inches above the ground. The motor vehicle must display a red light in the rear and a white light to illuminate the rear number plate. Headlights must be approved by the motor vehicle commissioner.

Superintendent Robert T. Hurley said that the time had come when the only effective way of making some motorists realize the necessity of complying with the laws is to make arrests. The headlight law is now generally understood and motorists disregarding it are wilful violators and as such are subject to arrest. We are making a campaign for safe driving conditions."

Dog Fight With Complications

A man and a woman who were conversing at the entrance of a Franklin square drug store suddenly found themselves mixed up in a dog fight that started right between them. The animals were growling and rolling around between the feet of the couple in a minute, the man trying to separate the snarling creatures. The frightened woman made an attempt to step back out of the way, tripped and fell in a heap, but was not hurt, and the fight was over almost as soon as it started, although it furnished several exciting moments for the conversing couple and an interesting scene for the amused spectators.

50-50 Club Held Meeting

The 50-50 club held their weekly meeting at the home of Miss Dorothy Malcolm, Tuesday evening. The usual business meeting was held and the remainder of the evening was devoted to social diversions. Lunch was served by the hostess.

REPORTED ON HEARING FOR FORT SHANTOK

A report on the recent hearing at Hartford on the proposed state park bill establishing Fort Shantok park in Montville, was given at the monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce Friday noon at the Wauregan Hotel. Representatives of the chamber attended the hearing held March 17th and reported that the legislative committee of the general assembly now has this matter under consideration.

It was reported that several attempts have been made to hold a conference with Supt. E. E. Regan of the New London division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad relatives to the parking of automobiles on the railroad's property off Main street. Owing to pressure of business, etc., Mr. Regan has not had time to give to the conference asked for. It is expected however that the conference will be held in the near future.

The civic affairs committee of the chamber was represented by several members at the state wide zoning bill hearing in Hartford last week. A report on the hearing was made for the benefit of the directors of the chamber.

Attention was called to the fact that the chamber has asked for a hearing regarding the proposed bus line from Norwich to Middletown, via. Hadlyme. The hearing has been set for April 4th at 1 p. m. at the court house. It was voted that the directors of the chamber be represented at the hearing to favor the bus line.

Another matter that came in for discussion at the meeting was the itinerant vendors law. It was pointed out that at the present time there are a number of salesmen who come to this city to sell a certain article and that they are doing a thriving business. The directors desire to call the attention of the public to the fact that these men do not in any way contribute to the support of local schools, churches or institutions. They pay no local taxes and are not interested in any shape, manner or form in Norwich except to make as many sales as possible for their own selfish game. The local merchants on the other hand are a part of our community, belong in Norwich and as citizens of our community are entitled to and should receive every consideration in contrast to those who come here for a few days or a few weeks.

The directors approved the printing by the chamber of several thousand copies of the report of the tax analysis committee pertaining to the proposed establishment of an equitable taxation system in Norwich, the copies of the report to be for free distribution.

It was also voted that a schedule of the new postal rates which go into effect April 15th be printed for distribution to those who use the postoffice for extensive mailing.

NURMI OUTDISTANCES RAY IN MILE AND A HALF SPECIAL RACE AT BOSTON

Boston, March 31.—(By The A. P.) Paavo Nurmi, Finland's wonder runner, added one more to his long chain of American victories tonight when he captured the mile and a half special, feature event on the Elks' track games programme. His time for the distance was 8 minutes, 47 seconds, within eight seconds of his own record for the distance.

The Finn's time over the 13 lap track was believed the fastest ever run under the circumstances, by veteran observers.

Forced at the beginning by Joie Ray, crack Chicago miler, Nurmi set a pace which drove three of his competitors, including Lloyd Hahn and Ray out of the contest. Only one other runner, Jimmy Connolly, of Washington, finished.

One other remarkable performance marked the evening's programme. Willie Ritola, Finnish-American A. C. distance man, scored a brilliant victory in the two mile—and slashed 12 seconds off the former track record by finishing in 9 minutes 22 seconds.

Ray, who twice took the lead from Nurmi at the start of the mile and a half special, was forced out with five and one-half laps to go, as the result of a pulled muscle suffered recently at Austin, Texas. Hahn left the track with two laps to run after falling half a lap behind Nurmi.

Connolly finished three quarters of a lap behind the flying Finn in the latter's last scheduled appearance in the east this season. A fifth entry, J. P. Russell, Boston college, dropped out early in the race.

Frank Hussey, Boston College freshman, sprinted home ahead of the field in the 40 yards dash, third feature event of the night's games.

EXPECT TO CLOSE DEAL FOR GIBBONS-TUNNEY GO TODAY

New York, March 31.—Officials of the Polo Grounds A. C. late today announced that they expected to close negotiations tomorrow for the pending light heavyweight match here between Tom Gibbons and Gene Tunney.

This announcement followed a conference between Jimmy DeForest, matchmaker of the Polo Grounds A. C. and Eddie Kane, manager of Gibbons.

De Forest said he went into consultation with Kane following the abandonment by Gibbons' manager of all hope for a meeting between Tom and Harry Wills at the milk fund show in May. Kane had issued an ultimatum to the milk fund promoters last night that they must produce a signed contract from Wills by noon today or the fight would be considered off. The conference between Kane and De Forest followed the failure of the milk fund matchmakers to meet Kane's demand.

According to De Forest, the match between Gibbons and Tuney, which has been tentatively fixed for June 13, was virtually clinched today, the only hold-up being the absence from the meeting of Billy Gibson, manager of the American champion. Gibson will be present at the conference tomorrow.

LEADER TO MAKE SHIFT IN YALE VARSITY CREW

New Haven, Conn., March 31.—Yale's first varsity crew is undergoing a shaking-up process for the first time in over a year, Coach Ed Leader said tonight. The coach said he was not satisfied with the way the combination of the past weeks had been working and in order to get more speed in the shell, he has decided to make radical changes in the personnel of the eight if necessary.

"The crew is not by any manner of means the smooth working combination of last year," the coach said tonight upon his return from the Housatonic river, "and I have already started to make certain changes in the port side of the boat. The changes in the starboard side will come later. Last year at this time the Yale crew was picked and not a change made during the remainder of the season. We have lost four of last year's eight and the make-up of this year's boat, at the present time, is not at all certain."

Coach Leader has sent Munce, who has been rowing at No. 2 in the "Blues" shell back to the second boat and has brought up Prud'Homme, who was on the first varsity two years ago, and who rowed in the combination shell last year at New London. Bruce was in the freshman eight last year.

Warren who has been at No. 5 in the first varsity for some time is out with a slightly strained back and his place is being taken by Sweet, who rowed No. 5 oar in the second boat.

Lindstrom Injured

Dowdy Field, Fort Benning, Ga., March 31—Lindstrom, second baseman for the New York Giants, playing in an exhibition game this afternoon, was injured while sliding into second base and carried off the field. It was announced later that his injuries were not serious.

BULKELEY BASKETBALLERS AWARDED THEIR LETTERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 31.—Seven players of the 1924-25 Bulkeley basketball team which recently closed its season with an even break in the matter of wins and losses effected, and Manager Arthur J. Shugrue were awarded their letter "B" at a special assembly held at the school this morning. Physical Director Robert C. Rice of the New London schools, made the presentation, substituting for City Attorney Frank L. McGuire who was unable to be present.

Comments upon the indoor sport were made before Robert Rice made the formal presentation of the letters. Joseph Watterson, guard on the team, reviewed the record and commented upon the various contests which were played both in and out of the city. He especially dwelt upon the subject of out of town games, and the journeys to the various scenes of play. Watterson gave a humorous account of the interesting features of the past season, and summed the season up much to the delight of the many students present.

Another speaker during the assembly was Frank B. Hamlen, who explained the various events which would be run off in the huge indoor track meet to be held at the state armory on Saturday. A request which was made by the Knights of Columbus for more open entries for competition was met with favor, but those organizations expecting to enter men in the various events are advised to get in touch with the Bulkeley track coach before Thursday morning. If Norwich can enter a relay team in place of the Sub Base which was forced to drop out, an entry can be filled out in this and other events.

NO UPSETS IN NATIONAL INDOOR TENNIS PLAY

New York, March 31.—(By the A. P.)—Play in the doubles in the national indoor tennis championships started today without an upset in the first and second rounds. The four seeded combinations — Washburn-Herndon, King-Anderson, Land-Dailey and Borotha-Astbalter—all won their matches with the exception of the latter team which does not start until tomorrow.

One singles match today threatened to provide another upset when W. Dickinson Cunningham of New York, former captain of the Yale tennis team, carried Percy L. Kynaston of Rockville Center, L. I., into three sets to win 6-0, 5-7, 10-8. Four times in the last set Cunningham was within a point of a victory in the match but each time Kynaston tightened up and forced his way on by the sheer power of his smashing attack.

Play in both the doubles and singles will continue tomorrow with the semi-finals programmed for Friday and the finals Saturday.

SUZANNE TO ENTER WIMBLEDON TOURNEY

Paris, March 31.—(By the A. P.)—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, who has been playing in her old time tennis form along the Rivera, has decided to return to the scene of former glory and enter the Wimbledon championships this summer.

She telegraphed friends in Paris today of her decision saying that she had recovered entirely from last year's attack of jaundice. She added that she was ready for a strenuous court campaign.

Mlle. Lenglen will enter the international tennis championships in Paris beginning May 27, after which she will go to London for a rest and practice preparatory to the Wimbledon tournament.

MARTIN DISQUALIFIED IN BOUT WITH CLEMERS

New York, March 31. — Vincent (Pepper) Martin, Brooklyn lightweight, was disqualified in the seventh round of a bout here tonight with Joey Clemers of New York for using his teeth as well as his hands in the contest.

Referee Gordon declared he had stopped the match because Martin had inflicted a severe injury on Clemers by biting his left ear during a clinch.

Clemers was leading in points up to the time of his opponent's disqualification, in the opinion of newspaper-

SHEIK LEONARD TO BOX EXHIBITION IN NEW LONDON

Sheik Leonard, the blonde mauler from Wallingford, who has a soft spot in his big heart for Norwich, is to box a six round exhibition bout in New London on Friday evening. The Sheik's opponent will be Johnny Saxon of Bridgeport, reputed to be a slugger of th esame type as Leonard. As fans know there is always action when the Sheik goes up against a boy who is willing to stand toe to toe and swap punches.

Leonard throws a mean set of gloves when in action and every swing carries a sleeping potion if it lands. The Sheik has shown marked improvement in his battling during the past few months and is becoming a more finished boxer. This bout is more or less of a work out for his coming bout with Rock Smith who lost a close decision to Eddie Shelvin in Hartford recently.

SERVICE MEN PAY HOMAGE TO GOWDY

Fort Benning, Ga., March 31.—Hank Gowdy, veteran catcher of the New York Giants, experienced three triumphs here today.

From his position behind the bat, he aided his teammates to a 9 to 6 victory over the Washington senators in a game played upon a diamond named in his honor. The third triumph came in the form of a gift of silver service purchased by his admirers at Fort Benning.

Hundreds of service men turned out to pay homage to the veteran and rooted for him during the game.

The field, said to be the finest of any army post in the country, was dedicated several days ago at a game between the University of Georgia and the Fort Benning Infantry School nine.

TAYLOR ELECTED CAPTAIN OF BULKELEY BASKETBALL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 31.—By the close margin of one vote, Edward (Huck) Taylor, popular and brilliant Bulkeley basketball player was elected to the captaincy by seven of his team associates to lead the team on the chalked court for the year 1925-26. There were no presentations of names for the captaincy, for it was understood that Huck Taylor and Robert Donohue would be the two principals for the coveted honor. Out of the seven votes cast on the first ballot which was to decide which of the two were to be elected captain for the team next season, Taylor with four votes of the seven cast was given the honor of next team's leader. Robert Donohue was close runner up for this honor with three vots failing one short of the desired total to elect him to the leader's position.

Conceded the best forward in the city, and gifted naturally in his basketball makeup, Edward (Huck) Taylor deserved the distinction which was conferred upon him by his teammates here this noon. The election taking place after the letter awards had been made to the squad at a special assembly held this morning. Not only have Taylor's performances been outstanding in the various ogranizations with which he was connected before he was eligible to take part in scholastic activities at the school, Taylor was also recognized as one of the best indoor prospects in years.

Although he did not join the Bulkeley team in the early campaign, he came out the leader in the individual averages published recently in The Bulletin. His average of 140 points, for 15 games, comprising 62 field and 16 foul goals is a record in itself taking into consideration the strong teams which the Orange and Black five opposed. Twice disposing leaders, Vogt, Bulkeley pivot man and then in succession Parisi his running mate from the top position in individual scoring, Taylor's rise was equalled also by the unusual success with which the Bulkeley team enjoyed after Taylor joined the squad. His offensive ability is matched by his defensive work, and his whirlwind style kept the opposing team's score down to a minimum. This was best demonstrated in the games in which he appeared in later in the season against which Bulkeley was overwhelmingly defeated in the previous performances.

Taylor's record which dates from his arrival from Windham High in 1922 was rather conspicuous in its quick accession to the top. He participated in basketball in 1922-23. His playing being outstanding in every performance. His future as an athletic player seemed bright, and he participated in baseball as an outfielder the following year. Illness kept him out of football, but it did not stop his sensational playing on the chalked court. This year in baseball it is expected that Taylor will win himself a place, for he has ability as an outfielder and may be converted as a first baseman if the occasion demands.

It is the second time in the last four years that an election for a captain in a particular sport was decided by a single vote. Its precedent is the election of George Sheff to the honored position over Walter Rice by an 8 to 7 vote. Probably what makes him popular with all who come into contact with him, is the unusual friendly disposition which never fails to win him additional friends wherever he goes. There is no inflatation of the head which generally goes hand in hand with success in High school in Taylor's case, he is an unassuming player giving his best at all times. The letter men in selecting Taylor for the position made one of the best selections for the choosing of a capable man to carry o nthe school colors on the court. It is indeed a pleasure to accord the congratulations to a player who fills the requisites in a most capable manner, and for a leader, player and school mixer, Taylor ranks among the best. The selection is again mentioned as a very wise one, to reward Taylor in a way for his smartness and contribution o nthe chalked court during the past year.

WINDHAM AND BULKELEY LEADING HIGH SCHOOL COURT TEAMS IN EAST CONN.

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 31.—The cancelling of the Eastern Connecticut basketball tournament, which is the most efficient means of determining just what division a team may be placed in, has the selection of a leading team necessary. Judging from the performance of the teams throughout the entire season, an attempt is made to select the leading five high school fives in this section of the state.

The teams to be placed in this category include Windham High, Westerly, Bulkeley High, Stonington High, Chapman Tech and Plainfield High. Of course the selection to the first five standing among these temas is the direct result of the performance put up by these teams during the past season. Circumstances such as those surrounded Chapman Tech when three players were suspended for a month are not being taken into consideration. For it would be unfair to the other teams mentioned above to make allowances for instances such as the disciplining of players, the loss through injury or other means. The record of the team as a unit will be taken from the scores which were established during the past season's campaigning.

A team to be deserving of first place in the lineup should prove itself to be capable of upholding this position without undue criticism from any source. This makes it impossible to place one team at the head of the list. From personal observation and the evidence of the tabulated season records, both Windham and Bulkeley may be tied for first place in the standing. This selection is based upon the work of the teams against other fives in this section of the state. But the tie which is given to these teams for first place in the standing would no doubt have been settled had these teams met on the chalked court during the past season.

In placing them in the same category, it is evident that each school five is a particular power in its own class. Windham failed to be defeated at the hands of either of the five teams outlined above, while Bulkeley was equally fortunate in finishing her schedule without a black mark against it, in games played in this section of the state. Windham gained easy victories over Chapman Tech on two occasions, victories over Plainfield High were also registered. Bulkeley on the other hand failed to oppose the same teams as Windham. In this respect, however, Bulkeley played Stonington High twice and twice handed the Brown and White a terrific lacing. Plainfield and Deep River were also victims of the Bulkeley attack, these teams being the only fives to be opposed by the Orange and Black in this section of the state.

For second place in the standing, the five representing Plainfield High is unanimously given the place of second importance. Plainfield registered a victory over Chapman Tech at Plainfield, but on the other hand Chapman Tech retaliated with a victory over Plainfield. But in placing Plainfield High second in preference to Chapman Tech, the showing of the Plainfield against Windham was taken into consideration. In each instance the Plainfield five gave the Windham hustlers all they were looking for in the way of opposition. So in selecting Plainfield for second place in the standing this fact must be reckoned with in the selection for a team to fill the second rung in the ladder of standing.

By virtue of its championship in the Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic league in which but three teams participated this season, Westerly, Stonington and Chapman Tech, the latter school is placed third in the standing with the finishing of the league determining the exact finishing of both Westerly and Stonington in position of fourth and fifth in the order named. Westerly defeated Stonington twice, in a home nad home engagement, while Chapman Tech although overwhelming Stonington in the first game at New London lost to Stonington in the second game between these teams by a margin of 10 points. But the fact that Stonington placed last in the interscholastic standing, shows that this team does not warrant a finish of better than fifth place in the All-Eastern Connecticut team standing.

Killingly and a few more of the smaller school including Putnam and others, failed to impress as to their being seriously included in the selection of the first five teams. It is true that Killingly won one game from Chapman Tech, at Danielson, yet the first defeat Killingly received at the hands of Tech was by a score of 48 to 27 put this team out of the honored class.

Y. M. H. A. Beats Celtics

The Y. M. H. A. of Norwich defeated the Taftville Celtics, claimants of the junior championship of Eastern Connecticut, 26 to 23, Tuesday evening in Y. M. H. A. hall in a close and fast game. The play was even throughout the contest the Y. M. boys making a final drive in the last few minutes of play that netted them three field goals and the game. The score at the end of the first half was 13 to 12 in favor of the Norwich team. The lineups: Y. M. H. A.—E. Segal rf; A. Brauman lf; P. Hollander c; M. Adnopoz rg; H. Rosen lg. Taftville—Gauthier rf; Rosen lg. Taftville—Gauthier rf; Donegan lf; Yerington c; Lemieux lg; Eccleston rg.

STOCKHOLDERS RATIFY MERGER OF RAILROADS

Richmond Va., March 31.—Merger of the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Hocking Valley railroads into the Greater Nickel Plate system was ratified here today by stockholders of the first named line by a vote of 506,542 to 152,818 shares.

Stormy scenes attended the voting, which came as a climax to an all night vigil while inspectors of election were counting and verifying the proxies. Representatives of the minority made a dogged, but losing fight all along the line. Finally, Albert I. Stiles, of New York, charged fraud in the method by which the consent of the majority to the leasing was obtained.

Despite the action of a majority of the stockholders, the lease of the Chesapeake and Ohio to the Nickel Plate cannot be executed until chancery Judge Moncure renders a final decision in the injunction proceedings brought by the minority to prevent a lease at all contrary to the terms of the charter obtained by the line from the state. The majority contend that under the transportation act the interstate commerce commission alone has jurisdiction. It will hold a hearing on the merger, April 15.

There were three separate votes by the shareholders, the first coming in mid-forenoon immediately after Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker and his associate inspectors of elections emerged from the room where they had wrestled all night with a great pile of proxies. Two hours later, over vigorous protests of the minority the vote to lease the Chesapeake & Ohio was ratified.

With this major issue disposed of, the shareholders turned to the question of ratification of the lease of the Hocking Valley system, which is leased by the Chesapeake & Ohio. The vote on this was identical with that for the lease of the new patent system, and it brought equally strong objections from the minority.

DEMOCRAT WAS ELECTED AS PREMIER OF PRUSSIA

Berlin, March 31—Prussia's long drawn out cabinet crisis entered a new stage today with the election of Dr. Hermann Hoepker-Aschoff, democrat, as Prussian premier to succeed Dr. Wilhelm Marx, who retired from the post to which he was elected twice.

The new premier was the eleventh hour choice of the three coalition parties. Earlier in the day, these parties had united on the socialist ex-premier Otto Braun, as a part of the political pact by which Dr. Marx was to receive the coalition's support for the German presidency while the socialists were to be rewarded with the premiership of Prussia.

Dr. Hoepker-Aschoff was elected by a vote of 213 against 177 for Dr. Peters, the ex-commissioner for disarmament, who was put forward by the nationalist parties.

The new government is confronted with the same parliamentary situation in the diet which resulted in the defeat of the Braun and Marx cabinets. Unless the new premier is assured of a comfortable working majority it is assumed that he will propose the dissolution of the diet, in which event a new body will be elected on April 26, the same day the nation votes for a president.

Dr. Hoepker-Aschoff has been a democratic member of the diet since 1920. He is a lawyer by profession, and entered the Prussian cabinet last February as minister of finance.

DINNER IN NEW YORK FOR PRESIDENT-ELECT OF CUBA

New York, March 31—Arrangements were completed today for a public dinner at the Hotel Astor, on the evening of April 22, in honor of President-Elect Geraldo Machado of Cuba, who is shortly to visit this country.

The committee in charge includes men prominent in industrial, banking, labor, civic, publishing, army and navy circles and represents all groups interested in the promotion of closer relations between Cuba and the United States.

Among the committeemen are Charles M. Schwab, Elbert H. Gary, John W. Davis, Col. E. M. House, George F. Baker, Franklin D. Roosevelt, William Green, Matthew Woll, Frank A. Munsey, Ralph Pulitzer, Newcomb Carlton, Owen D. Young, Frank L. Polk, Bainbridge Colby, Dwight W. Morrow, General Pershing and Admiral Plunkett.

DEATH OF ONE OF RICHEST WOMEN IN UNITED STATES

Kingsville, Tex., March 31—Mrs. Henry King, one of the richest women in the United States and owner of the world's largest ranch, died at her home here tonight at the age of 82.

Mrs. King was the widow of the late Captain Richard King, a pioneer cattle man of South Texas. One daughter, Mrs. Robert J. Kleberg, of Kingsville, survives, in addition to several grandchildren and great grand children.

They called him "Shopping John"

(That got him MAD!)

He'd flit from one cigar to another like a bee from flower to flower. He was only a cigar experimentalist—until he changed to Blackstone.

He's "Shopping John" no more! He gets better and milder cigars—for Blackstone's 100% Havana filler costs as much per pound as any tobacco grown in Cuba. He gets fresher cigars—for Blackstone never lingers in the dealer's stock. He gets free-drawing cigars—you can't find a choked draft in a thousand Blackstones.

It will pay you, too, to change to Blackstone. Ask for a pocket package of 5 or 10. They're foil-wrapped, and factory-fresh. The same cigars as the Blackstones sold from cedar boxes.

CONSTITUTION CITED, AS TO NEW LONDON LAND-OWNERS' RIGHTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, March 31.—All New London seems to be interested in whether Simon Green and wife shall be given a permit by the city council to erect a brick building which is to be used for dry cleaning in the rear of 28 Williams street, a so-called residential section. There was a hot session of the council last evening when the application for the permit was made, and opinions seemed to be equally divided as to the justness of the case. Green and his attorney declare that there can be no doubt as to the outcome and claim that as a matter of allowing a man to make use of his land as provided in the constitution the permission asked for cannot be denied. New London is to establish building zones, but it is slow in getting about that task. Until some rule is set up and its compliance insisted upon, there is likely to be many cases of this sort before the authorities.

John Telford, a New Yorker, temporarily in this city, was before the police court this morning for operating a motor vehicle without having in his possession a license from the motor vehicle department of Connecticut. Telford was concerned in an accident, though not of serious consequence. On Jefferson avenue, a small boy ran in front of the Telford machine and was knocked down. Police Captain Pinney, who was nearby, placed Telford under arrest that he might explain why he was operating a machine without the authority of this state. He had a New York state license, but that was defective. Judge Prince inquired into the facts and then suspended judgment. The facts of the mishap and the detention of Telford were forwarded to Hartford.

A complaint against Charles P. Barnes, of Mystic, was noiled. He was accused of reckless operation of a car on State street a week or more ago, when in leaving the curb, his machine bumped into Mrs. Mary Galvin of Bridgeport. Mrs. Galvin's daughter appeared as a witness when the case came to court a week ago, but there was conflict in the testimony as to where the accident happened and the case was continued till today that Mrs. Galvin might be in court. She did not appear, so the matter was dropped.

Two drunks appeared for disposition this morning. They were Mike Hankey and William Wetmore, the former not having been in the court in two years and the latter an absentee for six months. Wetmore did not feel well yesterday so he came to New London from the Robert Gair company works. Here he met a friend who gave him a drink from a bottle and that started him. Wetmore expressed the opinion that the stuff he drank was powerful for he only had three drinks before he was knocked out. "Why, I can drink a pint of good stuff and not feel the effects!" Wetmore volunteered. Judge Prince told him to abstain from the use of what is sold for liquor nowadays or he would go to the undertaker's instead of to the police station. Wetmore said he would follow the advice.

Oliver Neff, 16 Lincoln court, was found asleep in his automobile at 1 o'clock this morning, and in a condition that made him unfit to operate it, according to Patrolman Carmody who was attracted to the car as it was parked on Shaw street, the owner sound asleep. He consented to drive the car with its owner to Neff's home and this was accomplished. Carmody drove the car back to where he had found it. Later Neff called the police station by telephone and Desk Sergeant Timothy Sullivan reported as to the whereabouts of the machine. No report of the finding, or the acts of the officer had been made at the station house at that time, but a few minutes later Patrolman Sullivan informed Sergeant Sullivan of the officer's acts and stated that when he reported off duty at 3 o'clock he would operate the machine to the station house. This he did and about 4 o'clock Neff took charge of his property.

Burglars again visited the Tyler square lunch room, Bank street, Salvatore Macrino, proprietor, last night, for about 5 o'clock this morning Patrolman Michael Corcoran discovered that entrance had been made by means of forcing the rear entrance. Macrino, who was notified of the break, stated that the plunder taken consisted of $5 and several packages of cigarettes. Entrance last night was gained by removing the series of boards that had been placed across the space where a window was removed when the restaurant was burglarized, about a month ago. The breaks are attributed to youths.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth M. O'Brien, widow of Michael O'Brien, late of 23 School street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton, and was attended by a large number of mourners. A solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William J. Fox, pastor of the church, with Rev. William J. Fitzsimons deacon and Rev. Raymond O'Callahan sub-deacon. The bearers were Richard Curran, Frank R. Joseph, Louis MacKenzie, Jeremiah Sullivan, Farrell Smith and Joseph McDonald. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Private funeral services for Mrs. Mary Morrison, widow of Eugene Morrison, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her residence, 88 Howard street, Rev. Joseph A. Elder, pastor of the Huntington Street Baptist church, officiating. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Jennie Manning Buffum, wife of Arthur H. Buffum, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home at Oswegatchie, Waterford, and was attended by many mourners. Relatives of Mrs. Buffum and intimate acquaintances acted as bearers. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Today is pay day at the United States Coast Guard academy and together with the fact that about 75 sailors from the submarine base are about to be transferred to the west coast, and are being given liberty, the streets were well filled tonight with bluejackets.

Benjamin K. Allen, 26, of Hartford, where he had been employed as an automobile salesman, died this morning at the residence of Charles Prentis, 279 Williams street. Mr. Allen had been ill about seven months. He is survived by his mother, a brother, William P. Allen, and two sisters, Mrs. George H. Day and Miss Harriet Allen, all of Hartford.

Mrs. John Sheehan, of Elizabeth street, is visiting her son-in-law, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Bartley, of Lancaster, Ohio.

WOMAN AND MAN ARE HELD FOR DEATH OF LATTER'S WIFE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, March 31.—Mary Vendetto, 36 Grand street, wife of Joseph Vendetto, was arrested late this afternoon, together with Michael Colandini, in connection with the death of the latter's wife, Mary Perry Colandini, 30, at Home Memorial hospital Sunday afternoon, as the result of a criminal abortion performed a few days before. Mrs. Vendetti is held in bonds of $10,000 charged with manslaughter and is a prisoner at the New London police station in default of surety on her bond. Colandini is being held as an accessory before the fact and is at liberty, having furnished sureties in Charles Yainello and Rosario Cortell sureties on his bond of $2,000. Both will be in the police court tomorrow morning, but in all likelihood the case will not be tried, but will be continued at least another week.

The arrest of the Vendetto woman and Colandini resulted from an all day's grilling of witnesses by Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh, who were assigned to the case early this morning by Captain Charles A. Pinney. The officers went to the Colandini home and took charge of the woman's husband, escorting him to the police station where he was subjected to a three hours' grilling. Colandini, it is understood, at first denied all knowledge of his wife having submitted to the operation, but he finally weakened and revealed that the Vendetto woman performed the operation that resulted in Mrs. Colandini's death.

Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky then issued a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Vendetto and it was not until about two hours afterwards that the woman was located. She was taken to the police station and grilled about two hours and after she had related her story of her acts with the Colandini woman, she was locked in a cell to await the convening of the police court. Colandini was also locked up, but a short time after he was released, bondsmen coming to his assistance.

Since the death of Mrs. Colandini it has become known, and it is a positive fact in the possession of Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman that on March 4th Mrs. Colandini was examined by a physician and was then pregnant, having been in that condition about six or possibly eight weeks. She made it known to the examining physician that she did not desire to give birth to additional children and the physician would have nothing further to do with the case.

March 25th, and after the performance of the operation upon Mrs. Colandini another physician was summoned to treat her and it was then revealed that the woman was suffering from peritonitis and her condition was critical. Monday when this physician visited the home of another patient the latter revealed that Mrs. Colandini had died the day previous and remarked that the cause of the death of Mrs. Colandini was an illegal operation.

Later in the day when the physician visited his patients at Lawrence hospital, where Dr. Kaufman was also attending patients, the former physician inquired of the medical examiner as to whether any clues had been obtained in the abortion case. Dr. Kaufman replied that no such case had been reported to him. Dr. Kaufman then started an investigation, which revealed that the woman had died Sunday and that Dr. J. Charles Satti, Montauk avenue, had prescribed for the victim and had signed the death certificate, the primary cause for death being attributed to "pelvic inflammatory disease," the secondary cause as "puerpal septicemia, pelvic peritonitis following miscarriage." Dr. Satti, however, did not make a report of the case to Medical Examiner Kaufman.

The latter immediately acquainted Coroner J. J. Desmond, of Norwich, with the facts in possession of the physician and Coroner Desmond ordered an immediate autopsy. Dr. Kaufman went to the home of the Colandini family, where mourners were assembled about the casket in which lay the victim of the abortion and in spite of objection on the part of the family had the body transferred to Lawrence hospital where the autopsy followed, resulting in the finding of a general condition of peritonitis and the removal of a portion of the internal organs, which were sent this afternoon by Sergeant Cavanaugh to Yale Medical school where they will be analyzed by Prof. Bartlett to corroborate the finding of Medical Examiner Kaufman.

Examiner Kaufman will tomorrow cause County Detective William Lewis to be called into the case, for the purpose of obtaining added information and facts regarding the death of the 20 year old wife. Among the witnesses the detective will interrogate will be Dr. Satti.

The funeral of Mrs. Colandini was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church where a mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wolischlaeger. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

PLAINFIELD

These men form the Independent Fire Company and will answer all fire alarm calls for the protection of the village.

Plainfield has finally put over the one vital issue in good order. The village will have a regular, efficient and up-to-date fire organization to protect property from disaster. The many honorary members of the company have pledged their moral and financial support to the new company. The property owners feel that every means possible will be provided to give them real, efficient protection against future fires. The next regular meeting is to be held Friday night, April 3rd.

The Community House Club girls' basket-ball team had snappy practice at the local gym, Monday afternoon.

A crew of steeple-jacks from Boston is working on the two stacks of the Lawton Mill. The men resemble pigeons, as they walk around the top of the stacks. A day and night shift are working cleaning and repairing; and the stacks at night look similar to the Statue of Liberty. The steeple-jacks state that the job is one filled with thrills as a fellow never knows what is going to happen next. Many drivers passing through town Sunday stopped their cars to watch the men at work; a sight one does not see every day.

Actions speak louder than words. Lots of men never say die, but they all do it sooner or later.

Colds Should Always Be Treated With Vapors

Vicks Is "A Vapor Lamp In Salve Form." No Dosing, You Just Rub It Over Throat And Chest.

It has long been recognized that the most effective way to treat colds is to apply the medication directly to the affected parts. This of course can only be done by means of vapors that can be inhaled.

Vicks provides the ideal method of securing medicated vapors. When rubbed over throat and chest the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine—are vaporized by the body heat and inhaled directly into the air passages and lungs.

At the same time, Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster, affording a double action which brings truly remarkable results.

A Score of New Results Emphasize The Difference

If a year ago the Chrysler Six had been merely another new car, its first-year production of over 32,000 cars—the largest ever recorded—would not have been required.

But the Chrysler Six is an entirely new type of car, built on a new kind of engineering which produces results radically different from any yet registered.

The difference of Chrysler engineering is emphasized by the fact that its 3-inch motor develops 68 horse-power, a speed of more than 70 miles an hour and 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

The difference is further emphasized by the fact that you can drive comfortably at 60 miles an hour over cobbled streets, that side-sway is eliminated, that it possesses an oil-filter to cleanse all motor oil as the car runs and an air-cleaner for the carburetor.

Everything that Chrysler advanced design means in the operation, comfort and high quality of a motor car will be made clear in a half-hour's driving. We are eager to prove that Chrysler is the best built car you ever drove.

CHRYSLER SIX

Tired and Achy This Spring?

DOES every day bring you throbbing backache and stabbing, rheumatic twinges? Are you lame and stiff; weak, nervous—all tired out?

Then look to your elimination! Active kidneys tend to keep the blood-stream clean and pure. Defective kidney action allows harmful waste matter to accumulate and poison blood and nerves. Constant backache is apt to follow, with rheumatic pains, stiffness, lameness and annoying kidney irregularities.

If your kidneys are inactive, help them with a tested diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. They are recommended the world over. Ask your neighbor!

HERE IS NORWICH PROOF:

Geo. Conrad, Meterman, 211 Palmer St., says: "I have attacks of backache caused by the constant jarring of the car. Mornings my back is lame and sore so I can hardly get out of bed. I have severe pains that feel as sharp as a needle cutting through my kidneys. I have dizzy spells, too. Doan's Pills have always cured such attacks."

SUNDAY BASEBALL BILL PASSED IN THE HOUSE BY VOTE OF 123 TO 108

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, March 31—Today all interest centered in the action to be taken on the act concerning the playing of baseball and football on Sunday. The bill had been made the order of the day at 12 o'clock in the house.

There was a large attendance of the members and the debate was at times quite spirited. It was often asked how will the women members vote on this question. The vote today revealed that they as well as the men are nearly evenly divided in their view of the question. Those voting in favor of the bill were, Mrs. Hooker of Hartford, Miss Cheney of Manchester, Mrs. Coe of Waterbury, Mrs. Lewis of Stratford and Mrs. Nevius of New Fairfield. Those voting against it were Mrs. Crawford of Westport, Mrs. Alsop of Avon, Miss Green of Granby, Mrs. Fenniman of Naugatuck, Mrs. Townshend of New Haven and Mrs. Raymond of Lyme. The vote against the bills from the rural towns was not as large as was expected. The cities that were expected to be solid for the bill were divided. In New Haven, Hartford, New London and Stamford, the vote was a tie and Waterbury, Bridgeport, New Britain, Danbury and Norwich casting their votes in favor of the passage of the bill.

Representative Floyd of Waterford, who had announced his intention of opposing was absent, and not voting. The bill as passed is similar to those passed in 1921 and 1923 and which were vetoed by the governor.

Governor Trumbull has refrained from giving any indication of what his action will be in the event of the bill passing in the senate.

As passed by the house today the bill reads:

Section 1. The selectmen of any town, the mayor and aldermen or corporation of any city, may by vote of any of the wards and assessors of such borough, upon application may permit the playing of professional baseball or football in such town, city or borough between the hour of two and six o'clock in the afternoon on Sundays; provided, upon petition of twenty electors of any such town, city or borough the selectmen of such town the mayor of such city or the warden of such borough as the case may be, shall call a meeting of the electors of such town, city or borough for the purpose of determining whether baseball and football may be played on Sundays, public notice of which meeting and of the time and place of the same shall be given by publishing a copy of such notice in a newspaper having a substantial circulation in such town, city or borough and by posting a copy thereof on the signpost in such town, city or borough at least ten days before such meeting.

Section 2. Any person owning or managing any field, park or grounds upon which baseball or football shall have been played in violation of the provisions of this act shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars.

Section 3. The provisions of section 6450 of the general statutes shall not apply to any baseball or football game played under any permit issued pursuant to the provisions of this act.

The vote in New London county was 11 yes and 17 no. In Windham county 10 yes and 12 no. In Tolland county 7 yes and 13 no.

The representatives from New London county voted as follow: Yes, Brown, Neleber, Davis, Jennings, Burrows, Troland, Lewis, Cassidy, Engler, M. Manning, James.

No, Hanney, Allyn, Payson, E. R. Manning, Avery, Whitaker, Brockway, Mrs. Raymond, Sullivan, Sisson, Morgan, Malona, Bugbee, Browning, Main, Drescher, Champlin.

The Windham county vote: Yes, Buck, Potter, Wilson, Fournier Salisbury, Bates, Peeble, Marriott, Hutchins, Weatherhead.

No—Lincoln, A. T. J. Clark, Frink, Tatem, Jewett, Leonard, Platt, Rich, J. H. Johnson, Pomeroy, B. J. Johnson, Bates.

The Tolland county vote: Yes, Mrs. Woodward, Mitchell, Cooley, S. Johnson, Newman, Allen, Takott.

No, Wattcomb, E. P. Lyman, Higgins, Haven, McKnight, Lord, Porter, Storrs, R. S. Barrow, Reed, Beeching, Hansen and Lockwood.

HOUSE

Prayer preceded the house to session today at 10.30 and prayer was offered by Chaplain Lewis who referred to the death of the mother of Representative Goodsell of Woodbury.

The house voted to pay the claim of Mary A. Hotsgel, $11.68, for a difference in fees in registration of automobile.

Under suspension of the rules the house concurred with the senate in the confirmation of John J. Walsh of Norwalk as judge of the criminal court of common pleas of Fairfield county. The vote was 210 yes, 2 no.

The order of the day—The Sunday baseball bill—was taken up at 12 o'clock after the following matters had been disposed of on the calendar.

Bills passed from the calendar: No 15 authorizing the city of Willimantic to compensate George W. Hickey $750 for services as acting mayor; No. 160 authorizing the East Hartford fire district to extend its limits upon a petition of a majority of the legal voters of the town; No. 355, authorizing the city of Willimantic to appropriate $5,000 a year for its public library.

The Sunday bill was before the house on a favorable report of the judiciary. The bill was explained by Mr. Alling, chairman of the committee who moved its passage. Mrs. Fenniman of Naugatuck opposed its passage. She said that the bill was contrary to tradition and was the aping of continental countries. If the bill is passed it will commercialize Sunday. It is a move to make legal the making of money and is not for the purpose of providing recreation for the people as claimed by the proponents of the bill.

Representative Bell of Salisbury, as member of the judiciary, spoke in opposition.

It is claimed that the present law is violated. Therefore repeal it and allow Sunday ball playing. If this is done why not repeal all laws that are not obeyed or enforced? The commercial interests are back of this bill, they have millions invested, they wish to increase the profits on this investment. He quoted from the preamble of the pact constituting the early government of Connecticut and deplored any action by this assembly that would be a reversal of that early policy of Connecticut founders.

He appealed to the house to remain true to the teaching of the pact and to retain the sanctity of Sunday.

Representative Durant of Guilford congratulated the previous speaker upon the plea he made but we are here to legislate for all. Give to the people what they want, we do not want a continental Sunday, but we do want an American Sunday. It is time to cease being hypocrites about this matter. We are morally approving of Sunday ball playing and yet seek to legally prohibit.

Representative Hoyt of New Haven said that he was convinced that the great majority of the people wanted Sunday ball and it should be given them. It is time that we should get away from the idea that prevailed in 1639. The bill makes it optional with the towns as to whether they will have Sunday ball or not. It is time to stop making every town in this state violate the laws governing the observance of Sunday. He believed that the passage of the bill would be a good thing for the state.

Representative Talcott was of the opinion that worship on Sunday morning could be harmonized with Sunday afternoon sport. This bill does not interfere with the church preference of any man. We do not tell any man in what form he may worship. We should allow them the equal privilege of choosing how they may enjoy themselves.

Mr. Brinsmore of Washington was opposed to the bill and argued against it. To legalize this desecration of Sunday will make it hard for teachers and parents to conduct amateur exhibitions. House Leader Alling said that it was a matter of principle which is to be passed upon. The law is the expression of the will of the people. It is on these principles that our government was founded. We have many laws on our statute books that are ignored and why not repeal them. Laws will not educate the people. People must be educated to make laws that can be observed. Representative Johnson of Kent was opposed to the bill because the churches are opposed to it. Mrs. Alsop of Avon was of the opinion that the fourth commandment was good ground to stand upon. God had given us one day which was to be a day of rest. He did not prescribe a business Sunday.

Representative Russell of Middletown did not want Sunday made a day for money making. The law as it now stands makes it possible for amateur clubs to provide all the ball playing that is needed.

Rep. Cheney of Manchester offered an amendment that Section 6452 of the general statutes shall apply to this bill and asked Leader Alling if he would agree to an amendment that all employees be excused for one full day when he has been employed at Sunday sports.

Rep. Lincoln of Ashford was opposed to the bill, and presented figures that shows the lack of religious training in children. The integrity of the nation must be preserved. We should not sanction any thing that tends to break down the barrier against a proper observance of Sunday. The debate had continued to 1.25 when Judge Peck moved the previous question, saying that if his motion prevailed all present would have the opportunity to express his opinion in a concise form.

The vote was taken by roll call and resulted in 123 votes in favor of the bill and 108 against.

SENATE

The committee on claims reported a substitute bill authorizing the board of control to pay $2,500 for the hospital expenses and medical attendance of George L. Hubbard, for twenty-four months, commencing in May, 1925. Mr. Hubbard is suffering from injuries received as a soldier while in the service of the state. He sustained an injury to his spine by being thrown from his horse.

The committee on claims also reported a substitute bill directing the comptroller to draw his order for $1,000 in favor of John Singer of Danbury to reimburse him for money expended for medical attendance and hospital care for his son, Edmund F. Singer; and for an appropriation of $1,500 to be used by the board of control in payment of hospital bills for the injured man, whose injuries were received while engaged in manouevers by the National Guard.

The reports were accepted and the bills passed under suspension of rules.

The committee on the judiciary reported unfavorably on senate bill No. 310 concerning ruling on evidence. The bill was rejected.

Senator Shaw of the Twenty-fourth district was appointed on the joint committee to recall from the office of the clerk of bills the bill relating to cavets for liens.

The committee on the judiciary reported unfavorably on the bills validating the issuance of certificates by the Eclectic medical examining board to the following: David Babtkis, Ralph F. Long, William O. Galbreath, James Kelso, Jennie S. Cotner, Modestino Coppola, John W. Bruce, Lillian L. Burstan, Arnold H. Breen, John R. Brinkley, Maurice B. Burstan, Erich Von Brandenstein, Guy W. Van Halteren, Samuel Posner, Aaron Glass, George H. Nixon, Henry J. Schireson, Aurelius R. De Janis, Francis M. De Gaetani, A. C. Von Sassenhofen.

Senator Shaw, in explaining the report of the committee, said there were five or six others whose licenses would be returned to them by the state's attorney.

Advertising Petitions.

There was a lengthy discussion on the majority and minority reports of the committee on forfeited rights on the petition of Louis E. Barnes, of Granby, for a restoration of forfeited rights. The majority report was against restoration and the minority against. In the house the two reports were recommended to the committee. The senate adopted the reports of the majority by a vote of 16 to 9.

JEWETT CITY

Joe Gasbestoski, the young man that undertook to pull o ffthe fake hold up Monday evening, in the store of Joseph Cirelli, is now on boards in the Norwich jail. The committed man is extremely fortunate that he is not due for a term in state prison. On account of the fact that Prosecuting Attorney Richard Dudkowski preferred a charge of breach of the peace, instead of a much graver offense, the fine and costs imposed by Judge John T. Barry amounted to but a few cents over $15. Gabestoski was unable to produce the coin, with results as stated.

A couple of drunks, one of whom was certainly more to be pitied than blamed, got away by paying nominal fines.

A quantity of XXX White Mule, extra dry, was found in a soda bottle in Gasbestosgi's pocket. Officer Viegard poured a quantity on a board, to which he applied a match. It burned with a bright red flame, changing to red the nto green, then went out leaving a little puddle of blue liquid. Some class.!

George Frink of the Dearnley store, was in Providence Sunday to see his brother, Walter, of Ekonk, who has been in a hospital in that city for eight weeks. Walter Frink is 38 years old, and first off he had appendicitis virulent. At the time of the first operation matters were much complicated when it was found that there was a rupture of the intestine. For weeks emergency conditions have been necessary of the greatest sort. Today it is evident that surgical skill is to accomplish a miraculous cure, out of what looked like fatal conditions.

March in this section did not go out like a lioness, expert long distance weather prognostication to the contrary nothwithstanding.

At high mass, Palm Sunday palms will be blessed and distributed as is customary.

Some one inquired of Old Cluey if he was married, to which he replied that he wasn't, adding that "wimmin folkes talked too much for him," he believing that the only way to have the last word was to "say it with flowers." However, he says, he is only about 80, or thereabouts.

Before this paper is being read in Jewett City, there will be several hundreds of yards of line floating in the Griswold trout broks. Fishermen have been out on inspection tours for the past week, and some, more experienced than the rest, have marked a few of the largest ones as private property. In years gone by there has been a considerable number of expert trout fishermen in this vicinity. Some fine fish have been landed, but in no case ever reported within the last 25 years have the largest trout been taken from brooks. The late John Driscoll got one three years ago, 2 pounds and 11 ounces, at the mouth of Broad brook, but his line had floated out into the current of the Quinebaug. The late A. A. Young, an expert fisherman if there ever was one, after fishing three local brooks all day, with but indifferent success, and when returning after dusk, threw his line off the bridge at the "Burnt Mill", at Tadpole, into the foam under the dam, with a grass hopper for bait. There was a swirl and a rush. A man who was there said Tuesday, that he never saw such downright forceful tugs from a fish. There was no lifting it with an 11-oz. rod, so Mr. Young ran down the side wall of the dam to be on a level with his fish, and after minutes' fight, landed a 2 and -12 pound trout. Again, while fishing for bullheads, in the Stone Hill reservoir, at the upper end, Frank E. Olds pulled into the boat a two-pound trout. Willow brook is the famous locality where anglers are generally fishing if they happen to get a sizeable trout. H. M. Miner caught one there once which he said was taken from the third pool above the middle; and that it weighed about a pound, pound and half, two pounds, two pounds and a half.

The following additions were made to the Osga-Gartska fund Tuesday, as reported by the treasurer, Rev. J. W. Payne: Louise A. Thayer, $2; Francis C. Webster, $5; Alex McNicol, $10; Andrew McNicol, $10; Miss Salina Wolf, $2; Mike Wozliak, $2; Albert Duda, $2; Stanley Necewicz, $2; Frank Gaska, $10; Caroline Bakanowski, $5; Tony Manto, $1; Mary Manicha, $6; Thomas Kilbosa, $5; Mrs. P. Yosek, $1; Joseph Malek, $5; Caspa Biobak, $5; Joseph Zagawichuy, $1; Charles Arabik; $5; Daniel J. Sullivan, $2; J. H. Tracy, $5; W. J. Brickley, $2; Friend, T, $5; Cash, M, $10; J. C. Auto Sales station and employes, $20; Charles Ruszenas, $5; Joseph Ruszenas, $10; Friend, G, $1; John LeClaire, $2; Homer Gagnon, $1; Regina Gutneckt, $1; Zoel Marion, $1 James Foley, $1; John A. Pizzo, $2; John Dizledzu, $2; John Smyhhi, $2; Mrs. B. C. Bliss, $1; John Fabre, $5; B. S Bradley, $2; Pider Gazella, $2; Stanitow Cymafski, $1; S. T. Raymond $.50; G. A. Tatreault $.50; Joseph Ruzanski $1; Stanley Zwoda, $1; John Kocza, $2; American Polish Corporation, $75; Friend. Miss B, $1; James Brennan, Sr., $1; W. H. Brown, $2; Alice A. Brown, $2.

Miss Marguerite Comrie of Kilsyth, Scotland, is visiting Mrs. Dona Balkou. She made the trip on the S. S. Montreal, landing at Halifax.

The body of Phileas Gaudett, 28, who disappeared from his home at 445 Capitol avenue, Hartford, on February 15, was found in the Park river near the memorial arch by an employe of the state capitol.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

What Could They Do About It?

Fear is father of distrust,
And seldom in its judgment just.
—Old Mother Nature.

The Old Pasture no longer looked like the Old Pasture. You wouldn't have recognized it for the Old Pasture. No one would. From most of it the young trees and the brush and the brambles had been cut and burned. There were great black places where the fire had burned. The Old Pasture was ruined. At least, that is what most of the little people said. It did rather look that way. They had a [illegible]bout it. There was a meeting [illegible] Green Forest. Sammy [illegible] So was Blacky the [illegible] the Red Squirrel was [illegible] as were Peter Rabbit and Old [illegible] Coyote and Reddy Fox and Bob White and Mrs. Grouse and [illegible] and Bobby Coon and [illegible] and Buster Bear and a whole lot of the feathered folk. [illegible] to know where I am [illegible] blueberries" growled Buster Bear deepest most grumbly. [illegible] I'd like to know where [illegible] get blueberries next summer. [illegible] ought to be done [illegible]

[illegible] Crow nodded his head. [illegible] something ought to be [illegible] There was a twinkle [illegible] eyes as he said [illegible] certainly ought to be done [illegible] and you are just the one [illegible] Buster Bear."

[illegible] can drive Farmer Brown's [illegible] from the Old Pasture every time he comes there," declared Blacky. "You are just the one to do it. You are bigger than he, and he would [illegible]

[illegible]" cried all the other [illegible] "No one else can do anything [illegible] Buster Bear can."

Buster Bear was shaking his head. [illegible] he said. "We must think [illegible] plan."

"Are you afraid?" asked Sammy [illegible] in his sauciest manner.

Buster Bear pretended not to hear [illegible] "The fact is," said he, "I have [illegible] time. I would be very glad [illegible] see him away if I happened to be there when he came. But I really haven't the time to sit around and wait for him to come. I have other things to attend to."

"Fraidy! Fraidy! Buster Bear's a fraidy!" cried Sammy Jay.

Buster glared up at Sammy, but, of course, he couldn't catch Sammy. Then he saw all the other little people were turning their heads so as to hide their grins, and he knew that they knew that he was afraid. This made him very angry. But it wouldn't do to show that he was angry. "After all," said he, "it is too late to do anything now. The mischief has been done. If you'll excuse me, I think I'll be moving along." Off shuffled Buster Bear, while Sammy Jay continued to shriek gleefully, "Fraidy! Fraidy!"

Then all the tongues began to wag at once. Everyone had something to say. They all declared that Farmer Brown's Boy was no longer their friend. Some of them said that they had always known that sooner or later he would do something dreadful, and that they never had trusted him. But others were simply disappointed in him and were not yet ready to believe that he wasn't the friend they had believed him to be for so long. But they all agreed that it was a dreadful thing that had happened to the Old Pasture, and that they ought to do something about it. But what could they do?

FINDING FOR CLAIMANT IN COMPENSATION CASE

Finding in favor of the claimant, Dona Bolou of Jewett City, is made by Commissioner Commissioner J. J. Donohue against the Aspinook Co., of Jewett City, Employer, American Mutual Liability Insurance Co., insurer, and Federal Mutual Liability co., insurer, respondents.

The commissioner awards that proper arrangements shall be made forthwith for the operation desired by the claimant for the cure of his hernia, the medical, surgical and hospital bills incident thereto to be paid in equal parts by the insurance companies, both of which companies are also to be held liable for the payment of compensation at the rate of $16.07 per week during such reasonable time following the operation as to bring about a proper recovery from operation to enable claimant to resume his former employment, each of the above named insurers being found liable for fifty per cent of the expense of the operation and the compensation to which the claimant will be entitled during the period of disability following said operation.

About two years ago, the claimant, while putting in some heavy shafting in respondent's mill, received a slight hernia, and was forced to wear a truss. The hernia has become more and more severe, and so serious that an operation was advised.

Apprehension is felt in Beauce, Que., where the Cahudiere river has overflowed its banks and inundated several towns and villages.

"What a Difference"

WHAT do your walls mean to you? A drab surface which robs the whole room of its beauty or a clean, bright, restful playground for the eye?

If neglected walls could speak, they'd ask for Devoe Velour Finish. It brushes out freely, covers perfectly, and dries quickly into a flat, velvety surface, without glare, streaks or brush marks. It is clean and sanitary—a soaped wet rag is the only beauty doctor Devoe Velour Finish needs.

POETRY

April Folly

Isn't any reason,
Not so far as I can see,
For the April-foolin' season;
But it somehow has to be.
You shake with consternation,
And when the trick is done
You get the information
It was only just in fun.

Heard a lot of chatter
That scared us 'most to death.
Somethin' seemed the matter
That would make you hold your breath,
In the midst of fear an' doubtin'
We are tryin' to keep cool,
As we listen to the shoutin'
At the finish "April Fool."
—Philander Johnson in Washington Star.

The Stormy Petrel

A thousand miles from land are we,
Tossing about on the roaring sea,
From billow to bounding billow cast,
Like Sleecy snow on the stormy blast.
The sailors are scattered abroad like weeds;
The strong masts shake like quivering reeds;
The mighty cables and iron chains,
The hull, which all earthly strength disdains—
They strain and they crack; and groans like stone
Their natural, hard, proud strength disown.

Up and down!—up and down!
From the base of the wave to the billow's crown,
And amidst the flashing and feathery foam,
The stormy petrel finds a home—
A home, if such a place may be
For her who lives on the wide, wide sea,
On the craggy ice, in the frozen air,
And only seeketh her rocky lair,
To warn her young, and to teach them to spring,
At once o'er the waves on their stormy wing!

O'er the deep!—o'er the deep!
Where the whale and the shark and the swordfish sleep—
Outflying the blast and the driving rain,
The petrel telleth her tale—in vain;
For the mariner curseth the warning bird,
Which bringeth him news of the storm unheard!
Ah! thus does the prophet of good or ill,
Meet hate from the creatures he seeketh still;
Yet he ne'er falters—so, petrel, spring,
Once more o'er the waves on thy stormy wing!
—Byron Waller Procter.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Personally we do our dieting tomorrow—we're always too hungry today for any such nonsense.—Wilmington News-Journal.

Husband—Didn't I telegraph you not to bring your mother with you?
Wife—That's what she wants to see you about.—Holmes Store News.

Was it your sweetheart who blacked your eye?
Oh, no! He hasn't loved me that much for a long time!—Le Rire, Paris.

Give me a ticket to Springfield.
Which one? Ohio, Ill., Mass., Mo., or Ky.?
Which is the cheapest? — Notre Dame Juggler.

Willie — You know that excuse you told me to spring on the boss when I was late this morning?
Gillie—Yes. I said it was a sure-fire excuse. Wasn't it?
Judge—Are you guilty or not guilty?
Prisoner—Not guilty, yer honor. I was drugged.
Officed O'Flannigan—Yes, yer honor, he wis drugged. I drugged him through the hull park.—University of West Virginia Moonshine.

"Mamma," asked small Ruth, "is it true that the hairs of our head are numbered?
"Yes, dear," replied her mamma.
"Well," continued Ruth, "I pulled out three of mine and there wasn't any numbers on them."—Chicago News.

"How did John go brake?" was the question put to the wife of a London tradesman.
Catering to the American trade.
I thought they wus all rich.
"John thought they wus all rich, they all drank lemon pop. But they didn't."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Sage grows wild in many parts of southern Europe.

The world's tiniest observation balloon is only fourteen feet long.

Adam and Eve are Babylonian, not Hebrew words. They mean simple man and breath.

The cultivation of figs promises to become a profitable industry in North Carolina, where fig trees have grown wild along the coast for many years.

Announcement of the formation of a gigantic merger in the collar manufacturing industry serves to recall the fact that the detachable collar was the invention of a woman, Mrs. Hannah L. Mantague, the wife of a blacksmith in Troy, N. Y.

An old-fashioned girl lives in Hiawatha, Kas. As a student in that town's high school she saw her first game of basketball. When the first boy appeared on the floor in uniform she covered her eyes, thinking someone had pushed him into the room in his underclothing. When the other boys ran out, she went home.

If in your travels you find a blue heron with an unusually short bill, don't believe that you have discovered a new species. It is probably the bird that Thomas A. Edison fixed at Ft. Myers, Fla. He came across a blue heron with a mutilated upper bill, which made it almost impossible for the bird to obtain its food. Upon the suggestion of Mr. Edison the bird was captured and its lower bill trimmed to match the upper. When last seen the bird was contentedly standing in water catching fish.

One of the most astounding instances of a mixup in the identity of children is reported from England. A mother and daughter each gave birth to a baby boy in the same house on the same day. Soon after the happy events, the house was invaded by a crowd of relatives and friends who came to see the babies. The latter, as like as two peas, were passed from one person to another, and every one was happy until, in the general consternation, it was realized that the babies were hopelessly mixed up. In the end, the mothers agreed that one baby was as good as another, that each took one on the chance that it was her own. As it is, neither of the infants will ever know if its "mother" is its sister or its grandmother.

RECOVERY IN MARKET.

New York, March 31.—The stock market took a decided turn for the better today despite a series of adverse developments, which caused temporary flurries of selling throughout the session. Strong buying support was in evidence throughout the day, closing quotations in most of the popular issues showing net gains of 1 to 3 points.

Bear traders found plenty of excuse in their efforts to bring about a renewal of liquidation. These included the failure of a curb market firm which has been interested in stocks on the "big board;" the marking up of the renewal rate on call money to 4 3-4 per cent., the highest opening rate of the year; another break in wheat prices which carried May futures to the lowest price since last September, and the declaration of only the regular dividend on American Can, which inspired some selling by traders who had expected either a stock split-up or an extra cash disbursement.

Offerings were well absorbed on every break with the result that considerable short covering took place during the day. Only 26 issues established new low prices for the year, as compared with 12 yesterday, and some of these actually closed at net gains on the day. The list of new lows included Illinois Central, Chicago and Alton common and preferred, Anaconda, Inspiration, Colorado Fuel and Lima Locomotive.

United States Steel common showed a net gain of 1 3-8 at 115 3-8. Baldwin moved up 2 5-8 to 111 7-8, or nearly five points above yesterday's low. American Can closed 2 1-4 points higher at 162 1-2 after selling as low as 158 1-4.

United States Cast Iron Pipe jumped 8 points to 166. Among the many industrial issues to close four to six points higher were American Ice, the Commercial Solvents issues, Foundation Company, General Electric, Lacledo Gas, National Lead, Postum Cereal and F.W. Woolworth.

Weakness of American Hide and Leather, preferred, which broke nearly eight points to 59 and then rallied to 63, and of Pittsburgh Terminal Coal, which broke 12 points to 40 and then rallied to 41 5-8, was directly traceable to th eailure of the curb market firm, which is reported to have been "long" on both stocks at much higher prices, and was accordingly "sold out" on the announcement of its inability to meet its obligations.

Constructive forces also were at work in the railroad group, Canadian Pacific leading the advance with a gain of 2 1-2 points to 141 1-4. New York Central, Norfolk and Western, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio, Wabash preferred A, Lackawanna and several others showed net gains of a point or more.

Call money held steady at 4 3-4 per cent., the relatively high rate reflecting the heavy month end demand for funds. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Reactionary tendencies cropped out in the foreign exchange market. Heavy offerings of French francs carried demand bills down about five points to around 5.28 cents. Demand sterling held fairly steady around $4.87 1-2. Norwegian kroner broke about nine points to 15.73 cents and moderate recessions took place in most of the other European rates. The South American exchanges were slightly higher.

BOND MARKET

New York, March 31.—Bond prices fluctuated erratically today, failing to develop a clearly defined trend. Indications of a firmer money situation discouraged buying of investment securities but selling pressure was lifted from a number of speculative issues, enabling them to resume their upward trend.

Liquidation of French obligations, which assumed sizeable proportions yesterday, spread to other foreign bonds today on reports that private loans were being frowned upon by the United States government. Although President Coolidge was said to be opposed only to loans negotiated for military or similar governmental purposes, the agitation over the question created uneasiness and a number of these issues were forced down to new low levels for the year. These included French, Japanese, Peruvian, Austrian and Hungarian bonds. Some of the French issues, however, recovered from yesterday's setback.

Trading interest in railroad liens was at low ebb and price changes were limited to fractions. Attention was attracted mainly to preparations for the largest railroad bond offering of the year—$45,000,000 Baltimore & Ohio 25 year five per cent. bonds, which will extend an issue of 3 1-2 per cent. bonds maturing July 1. Public offering will be made tomorrow at a price of 98, with preference in allotment accorded to holders of the old 3 1-2s who exchange their securities. The sale will complete the road's 1925 refunding programme of 155,000,000.

Industrial bonds were influenced largely by special developments. Both Pan-American Petroleum and Wilson and Company Packing issues were strong in anticipation of reorganizations plans to make public tomorrow.

AUCTIONS AND AUCTIONEERS
The auction season is now at hand, and our business has been for the past eighteen years selling public sales through the eastern United States. Your Sale, Mr. Farmer, Administrator or Executor, no doubt represents the hard earned savings of a life time. Whether large or small, you can not afford to experiment with an inexperienced public sale crier, neither do the beneficiaries in an estate wish you to do so when it comes to the point of turning property, either real or personal, into cash.

GREENEVILLE

The Junior scholars of Greeneville congregational Sunday school gave an entertainment Tuesday night in the church parlors. The audience of 300 thoroughly enjoyed the excellent programme in which The Roamers Orchestra delighted with several finely rendered selections.

A special feature of the programme was two piano solos by Rose Morton, aged 6 years. Her playing was a revelation to all who heard her, and reflects great credit on her teacher, Miss Viola Levitsky. The committee which had charge of the programme was: Mrs. Fred Fox, Mrs. Archibald Torrance, and Miss Viola Levitsky. Mrs. Stebbins was the accompanist for the evening.

The second part of the programme was provided by Prof. William Banfield, the well known magician.

The cake and candy table was in charge of Mrs. Thomas Young and Mrs. John McNeely.

The programme was given as follows:

Piano Selection, orchestra; song, by the Girl's chorus; The Bluebird's Message, Shirley Prentice, Lorraine Prence; The road to Fairyland, Lois Rausch; Seven days of the Week, Seven girls; All upset, Ruth Abel; Three little Chickens, Jean Mitchell, Helen Anderson, Rose Morton; But little Folks, Alice Quinley; The Month of May, Natalie Anderson; piano solo, Rose Morton; The Little Army, William Wilson, Charles Tanis, Frank Brooker, George Geer; Sonny Raymond; When the Fairies Lived Here, Jean West; Butterflies, Marian Drescher; piano solo, Natalie Service; Maids of Japan, Betty Spaulding, Dorothy Spaulding, Majorie Buchanan; Kitty Knew, Isabel Haig; The Peach Blossom, Margaret West; Dr. Brown, Edna Wallace, Jobes West; The Daisy Eileen Moore; The First Pussywillow, Mildred Turner; piano solo, Margaret West; A Call to the Flowers, Natalie Service; The All-American team, ten boys.

TAFTVILLE

Ladies' Auxiliary, Division 28, A. O. H., held a very successful whist Thursday evening in their rooms. The prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies, first, Miss Anne Daley; second, Miss Mary Sullivan; consolation, Mrs. Joseph Waldron; gentlemen, first, William Malone; second, Edward Phelan; consolation, Joseph Phelan. Solos were sung by James Garvie and John Foster, also Miss Nellie Garvie and Miss Jean Foster. A buffet lunch was served by the following committee: Mrs. William Malone, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Waldron, Mrs. William Nolan, Mrs. Bridget Flynn, Miss Mayme Murphy, Miss Katherine Sullivan and Miss Mae Nolan.

Postmaster Dennis C. Murphy has announced that the time of the last daily incoming mail has been changed from 7:10 to 6:10.

Arthur Mossey of Jewett City was a business caller in the village Tuesday.

Irving Gregory entertained at cards Monday evening at his home in Ocrum, it being one of the games in the series between the Married Men and the Single Men. The latter were defeated, the star for the Married Men being Vivan Perkins. After the playing, refreshments of turkey sandwiches, cake, fruit and coffee were served. The Single Men will give a theatre party for the Married Men next Monday evening.

Mrs. Allan Bogle entertained the Thimble club at her home on Providence street, Tuesday evening.

Honors At Mt. Holyoke College.

Miss Margaret Porter of Manchester is one of twenty from the seniors at Mt. Holyoke college to be elected to the Phi Beta Kappa society.

Miss Margaret Chapin of Norwich Town, who is in the senior class, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in her junior year.

The future is what we hoped the past might be but wasn't.

DR. CLARENCE A. SPEAR ELECTED PRESIDENT OF ARCANUM CLUB

At the annual meeting of the Arcanum club Tuesday evening at the club house, Dr. Clarence A. Spear was elected president for the ensuing year. The business meeting was preceeded by the annual banquet which was served at 6:30 o'clock. The menu was as follows:

Grape Fruit
Oyster Cocktail
Roast Turkey Dressing
Gravy Mashed Potatoes
Mashed Turnips Parkerhouse Rolls
Celery Stuffed Olives Pickles
Cranberry Sauce Squash Pie
American Cheese Ice Cream
Fancy Cakes Coffee Cocoa
Cigars

About 8 o'clock the business meeting was called to order by the retiring president, Dr. Franklin S. Wilcox. The annual reports of the secretary and treasurer and the reports of the various committees were heard and accepted. The following officers were unanimously elected for the coming year:

President, Charles A. Spear; vice president, Tyler D. Guy; secretary, Frank I. Royce, treasurer, Frank B. Lathrop; auditor, Charles D. Greenman. Directors to serve for three years—Roy D. Judd, Calvin L. Swan and Charles A. Hagberg. Following a general discussion of matters relating to club activities, etc., the meeting adjourned shortly before nine o'clock.

The supper was served under the direction of the entertainment committee, A. Chester Brown, chairman, Edmund S. Smith, John Crowe and Tyler D. Guy. The menu was prepared by Calvin L. Swan and Steward Blanchette.

BANQUET IS GIVEN FOR HONOR PUPILS

The honor pupils of the Central Baptist week day school of religious education were entertained by the teachers at a banquet Tuesday evening. The tables were attractively decorated with green and canary, dainty favors being at each plate. Beneath the center piece on each table was a card with a stunt to be done by each, the card being attached to a streamer extending from the name card. The menu consisted of chicken patties, mashed potato, candle salad, strawberry ice cream and fancy cakes. The supper was served by Mrs. Henrietta Tefft, Mrs. Herbert Rogers, Mrs. Jennie Davis, Miss Nellie Rathbun, Mrs. James Parker, and Mrs. Wm. H. Covey, Jr. Following the supper games were enjoyed.

Those who were honor pupils were: Gavin Pitt, Edwin Hastings, Kenneth Chapman, Allyn Brown, Jr., Charles Rogers, Nelson Packer, Herbert Chapman, Cleland DeGrenier, Edwin Lowe, Norman Geer, Frederick Smith, Eldred Cole, Joseph Haskell, Gilbert Adams, William Galligan, Frank Dodge, Sidney Pitt, Herbert Lowe, Marjory Hill Ella Shields, Helen Pendleton, Virginia Brown, Emily Hill, Dorothy Packer, Dorothy Spencer, Emeline Chapman, June Woods, Ethel Brown Jessie Hill, Marion Pendleton, Doris Racine, Dorothy Stewart, Mary Stewart, Mary Hull. The teachers are Mrs. Charles A. Hagberg, Walter U. Forschler, Miss Ruth Hamilton, Miss Leonora Chapman, and the superintendent is Miss Edith Ellis. Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Pitt, Harold S. Burt and Arthur F. Wyman were special invited guests.

HEBREWS WILL CELEBRATE BIG PALESTINE EVENT

Invitations to all their membership have been extended by practically every Hebrew organization in the city to attend the meeting at the Community house this evening in celebration of the opening of the Hebrew institute on Mount Scopus, Palestine.

The children are to have a part in the celebration through a meeting that has been arranged for them at 4 in the afternoon in Y. M. H. A. hall under the auspices of the Junior Y. M. H. A. This will be for children up to 16 years old. Abraham Tannenbaum, who is to be the speaker at the evening meeting will also address the gathering for the younger people.

Mr. Tannenbaum has been active in the Zionist cause for a number of years as a campaign director, lecturer and speaker. He was born in the west where he received his early education. He came to New York to enter the Rabinnical College of America where he studied for a number of years, and also attended college in New York and Philadelphia, but he chose business as a career.

Mr. Tannenaum has achieved marked success in his work among the Jewish youth and is now the president of New York City Young Judea. He is a forceful speaker and has made a splendid impression wherever he has spoken in behalf of the Zionist cause.

CLAIMS MADE AGAINST UNCAS PAPERBOARD CO.

Shepard B. Palmer of this city and Walter J. Abbe, Jr., of Smith and Winchester Co., of South Windham, have been named as appraisers in the receivership proceedings against the Uncas Paperboard Co., of this city.

The H. G. Craig & Co., of Montreal, Canada, is the chief creditor, having claims amounting to $212,000, the Thames National bank of Norwich, $50,000, the New England Oil Co., of Boston, $62,000, Kelly & Co., Inc., of Newark, $19,000 and a first mortgage of $147,000 is held by the Norwich Savings bank, the total amount of creditors' claims aggregating approximately $500,000.

Assets of the Uncas Paperboard Co., total $1,203,000. According to papers filed with Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court the corporation has capital stock of $1,500,000 divided into 3,000 shares preferred stock and 12,000 shares of common stock, par value $10 each. Plaintiffs say they own 1,500 shares of the preferred stock and 3,600 shares of the common stock, and they allege that while the corporation is solvent there is danger of the assets being wasted through attachment and liquidation.

FAREWELL SURPRISE FOR MRS. EDWARD ADAMS, JR.

A farewell surprise shower for Mrs. Edward Adams, Jr., was given Monday evening by the Sewing club at the home of Mrs. Adams' sister, Mrs. Albert Harris, Myers avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Adams are soon to leave for Guilford, Conn., where they will conduct a tourists' camp during the summer months. The room was attractively decorated in pink and green crepe paper and the table was trimmed in Easter fashion with pink baskets filled with Easter eggs and a little chicken at each plate. Potato salad, fancy cake, fruit punch and ice cream sundaes were served by the hostess with the assistance of Miss Catherine Confrey and Mrs. Roy Rankin. During the eveping several violin and piano selections were heard over the radio being broadcasted from a station in Illinois. Mrs. Adams received many useful gifts including a number of fancy aprons.

NAMES NEW HEALTH OFFICER FOR VOLUNTOWN

County Health Officer Hibberd R. Norman has appointed Henry E. Young health officer for the town of Voluntown. Mr. Young's term will run until the first Monday in October, 1925. There has been no health officer in Voluntown since the death of Dr. Hoover.

Recently three cases of diphtheria developed in the town and the town officials felt the need of the immediate appointment of a health officer. Mr. Norman went to Voluntown Monday and made the appointment

TROUT SEASON WILL BE OPENED TODAY

What some are pleased to term liar days are here once again, and, although it is understood that fishermen are good sports, from now on one must expect the usual stories of the speckled beauties that got away. Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook has issued 350 fishing licenses to date, of which 50 are for aliens, and this evidently means that the trout will be put to a severe test early in the season.

Several parties were ready to start out bright and early this (Wednesday) morning to seek their favorite pools and try to land the elusive trout. The rains of the past few days have filled the brooks and the stage is all set for one of the finest pastimes known to man.

In several towns stores carrying fishing tackle have offered prizes for the finest catches of the fishing season and as usual the Norwich Fish & Game association has offered a prize for the largest small mouth bass, caught during the open season, which does not come for several weeks yet.

To warn off those who might have violated the fishing regulations a downtown merchant posted a pond in the city Tuesday, this pond measuring several feet across and some inches deep and located in the center of the city carrying a sign, No fishing here.

Another Norwich club, The Liars Club, is expecting a fine season, the members planning to out do one another in catching a fine string, or at least, laying claim to such honors. Later in the season the annual banquet will be held when champion stories will be told by the members.

Smelt are also running in the Shetucket river and on open days men with scoop nets are along the banks. Catches thus far have been light but there are prospects of heavier catches as the season advances. Information from other parts of the state being that smelt are running in greater numbers this year than for several years past.

HUSBAND ACCUSED OF ATTACK ON HIS FAMILY

Argument over financial difficulties between man and wife and the man's subsequent alleged smashing of window and maltreatment of their children led to the arraignment Monday night of Henry Daugherty of Clark lane, Waterford, before Justice of the Peace Frederick L. Goss in Fireman's hall, Waterford.

Dougherty was arrested Friday night by State Policeman B. W. Kenerson of the Groton barracks upon Mrs. Dougherty's complaint. She alleged that they had argued and Dougherty, becoming enraged, seized a club and battered in one of the windows, then turned on their two sons, Thomas and Henry, Jr.

The case was continued in court until Saturday afternoon. Dougherty was liberated in his own recognizance.

REV. ALFRED DRISCOLL TO PREACH AT ST. MARY'S

Rev. Alfred J. Driscoll will preach the Lenten sermon at St. Mary's Memorial church this (Wednesday) evening. Father Driscoll was born and raised in the parish and the opportunity offered to hear a parish boy in the Lenten course should mean a large congregation, not only of parishioners but friends outside the parish. The services commence at 7.30 o'clock. Father Driscoll is stationed as a curate at St. Augustine's church, Bridgeport, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius J. Driscoll, now residents of Uncas street in this city.

FORMER NORWICH NURSE SERVES HARTFORD STORE

A former Norwich woman, Miss Elizabeth A. Denison, R. N., is acceptably filling a place in a unique development in a Hartford department store which has installed a registered nurse behind the drug counter in the toilet goods department. Miss Denison acts somewhat in a public health capacity.

In the current issue of the Dry Goods Economist, this unusual development in the department store organization is referred to as follows:

Miss Elizabeth A. Denison, R. N., is a particularly valued member of the organization. Her spheres of action are manifold. As is customary in most stores, she mades a round of sick visits, has office hours for store employees, and gives first aid to customers who become ill while shopping. In addition, she buys enamel ware and various sickroom items. The unusual feature of her work is her contact with the public over the counter. "And she has 'her public,' as much as any movie actress ever has," said Mr. Egan, the merchandise manager.

"You should see the cards and letters of appreciation that poured in here Christmas time."

During the busy periods of the day a steady line of customers seek Miss Denison. Some come for maternity advice, others want Miss Denison to recommend a doctor. Many calls are for a home remedy which Miss Denison will suggest. Miss Denison gives small children as much attention as grown folks and she never hurries anybody. Lots of people say they are a lot better just from seeing her.

She is a very human sort of person. People like her because she likes them, and her all embracing desire is to help them. "Why," she said, in speaking of her work, "you know the old saying, 'I shall pass through this world but once; if, therefore, there be any good that I may do, let me do it now, for I may not pass this way again.' Then, too," she said, "I find that we get out of this world just as much as we put in—the little starved lives are little just because they never learned to give."

Miss Denison has been with this company for four years. She came from the Norwich hospital, where she was in charge of the surgical ward. When the cares of the world of Hartford's sick folk get too heavy, Miss Denison turns to her avocation, music. She's enough of a professional on the guitar to participate in an annual orchestration concert.

Miss Goodell's School.

A former Norwich man, now residing in New York, writes regarding the recent sale to Mrs. Walter H. Gallup of the little triangle of land at Harland's Corner:

"I remember when there was a building on that plot; and the old Goodell place had a little schoolhouse (many years ago torn down) where Sally Goodell taught all of four generations.

"I went to her school when I was a small youngster. Besides other things, I learned to knit and sew; it might be a good thing for the boys if they could teach these things in some of the schools today. It is a disadvantage for a boy to grow up and if he finds himself alone, not to be able to even sew on a button."

Took Part In Dialogue.

The names of Virginia Young and Mary Farrell, who took part in a dialogue entitled One Thing at a Time, were inadvertently omitted from the list of participants in the recent entertainment given by the children of the Elizabeth street school.

HEBREWS DISCUSS WAYS TO STRENGTHEN INFLUENCES

More scientific organization of Jewish life in Connecticut along educational, religious and economic lines was stressed at sessions Sunday in New Haven of the first Connecticut Jewish religious and educational conference ever held. How to strengthen the schools, colleges and synagogues in their influence was the main topic.

Judge Jacob Kaplan of New Haven and Louis Katz of Hartford presided at the morning and afternoon sessions. Police Commissioner Hyman Jacobs of New Haven welcomed the delegates, and Rabbie Samuel M. Cohen, executive director of the United Synagogues, outlined a programme for intensifying the work of the religious and educational bodies.

Rabbi Morris Silverman of Hartford spoke on the "Organized Community," and Rabbi Leon Spitz of New Haven discussed "The Religious Organizations of Connecticut." Mrs. Wessel of the Faculty of the Connecticut Women's college at New London, described the efforts of the Jewish college woman at self-improvement, and Rabbi J. L. Siegel of Toronto, who is taking graduate studies at Yale, spoke on men's student life.

The economic condition of the Jewish farmer in Connecticut was discussed by Gabriel Davidson of New York City, who urged efforts to aid the grangers in securing improved educational facilities.

Several speakers referred to the houses for Jewish students which have been established in some western universities and urged that this be done in Connecticut colleges.

HOURIGAN POST MADE PROFIT ON WAR FILM

At the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Richard E. Houregan Post No. 594, Veterans of Foreign Wars which was held on Tuesday evening at the Post Rooms, with Commander Leo L. Jacques, in the chair, the reports of various committees were read and accepted. The entertainment committee, under the able leadership of Chairman Lewis Hull, made a very fine success, of the showing of the war film, "Over the Top;" and realized a large sum for the relief fund of the Post.

Plans are being made for the "Poppy Drive" for decoration day. The poppies sold by the Veterans of Foreign Wars are made solely by disabled veterans. The money received for these poppies, is returned to the veterans. This year the poppies for Connecticut department will be made by Connecticut veterans, and are real "Buddy Poppies," in every sense of the word. Much interest is centered in the state encampment, department of Connecticut, to be held in Bristol, on June 11th, 12th and 13th. A very large delegation is planning to attend, especially on Flag Day, June 13th, when the state parade of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, takes place. Among the guests will be Commander-in-Chief John H. Dunn, of the old 101st. Infantry 26th Division, and Past Commander-in-Chief Robert G. Woodside, General Pershing's choice for the outstanding hero of the war.

It was voted to take out a life membership in the new National Veterans of Foreign Wars Home, at Eaton Rapids, Michigan. This home was incorporated on Jan. 7, 1925 by the State of Michigan. It was at one time, the Grand River Stock Farm and comprises 472 acres. It was presented to the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. by Comrade Carey J. Spencer of Post 323 of Jackson, Mich., and his wife, Mrs. Mattie Webb Spencer, for the widows and orphans of veterans.

At a meeting of Congregational church officials at Central Village, Mortimer Stetson, formerly of Norwich, was empowered to sign the necessary papers in the sale of the church parsonage, at Ladd's corner.

MAKES DESERTION CHARGE IN DIVORCE SUIT

On the ground of desertion since Jan. 1, 1922, Felix Flower, alias Felix Kwiatkowski, of Norwich, has brought suit for divorce from Anna Flower, alias Kwiatkowski, formerly of Preston, but now of New York city. They were married in October, 1914, the maiden name of the defendant being Anna Pietrolaj. The suit is returnable before the superior court in April.

Fan In Town Clerk's Vault.

Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook has had an improvement made in the record vault at his office by having an electric fan installed there, which will operate to clear the atmosphere in the vault which often becomes very close when several persons are there for a considerable time in searching records. It is an improvement that will be greatly appreciated by the office staff and by the public who use the vault.

Hunting And Dog Licenses.

A total of 150 hunting licenses this year has already been issued by the office of Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook.

The season is now opening for dog licenses and the town clerk's office is prepared to care for these as fast as they come along.

Helpful Hair Hints

A leading hair dresser says—"I have found nothing we good as Parisian Sage to make the hair wavy, soft and lustrous and make it grow abundant and beautiful." Remember the name—Parisian Sage—best for the hair and scalp. It's guaranteed. Lee and Osgood and all druggists sell it.

Announce A Change in Management

Exit— Mr. P. Buttleman, who successfully operated this store during the past 5 years, under the management of Mr. H. M. Tishkoff, to whom is due the credit.

The advertised "Going Out of Business Sale" was a phenomenal success, leaving very little of the stock to be moved to New London store, owned by Mr. Buttleman.

Enter— D. M. Lamitie the new proprietor, who purchased only the Good-will and Fixtures, will continue the business under the same name, hoping to retain all former Friends and Patrons.

For more than 20 years Mr. Lamitie acted as Manager and Buyer for several New England most progressive and successful Department Stores. The past 6 years affiliated with The Orr Company of Easton, Pa.

Moral Support— So well known in the market of Women's Wearing Apparel that Mr. Lamitie is assured the moral support and co-operation of New York and Boston foremost makers and designers, who will contribute the styles in vogue for the women of Norwich and friendly neighboring towns.

Store Closed— WEDNESDAY — THURSDAY AND FRIDAY, to renovate the store, ticket the new merchandise and make general preparations for the—

Grand Opening

SATURDAY, APRIL 4th
9 A. M. to 9 P. M.

Suggestion— Women contemplating the purchase of a new COAT, DRESS or HAT for EASTER will profit materially by waiting until Saturday.

Former Fellow Convicts of the Accused Testified That Chapman Was in Brooklyn, N. Y., Within Four Hours of the Time That Policeman Shelly Was Shot to Death in New Britain—Pistol Experts Positively Identified the Bullet Taken From Skelley Body as Having Been Fired From Gun Taken From Chapman—The Accussed is to Take Stand in His Own Defense Today.

Hartford, April 1—Gerald Chapman, mail thief and jail breaker, is alleged to have been in Brooklyn, N. Y., within four hours of the time he is charged by the state of Connecticut with having shot to death Policeman James Skelly in New Britain.

Three alibi witnesses, one of them a former "buddy" in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, took the stand in defense of the spectacular criminal and swore that they had seen him in Brooklyn at an hour when three other witnesses, testifying for the prosecution, placed Chapman in the Old Colony Inn at Meriden, Conn.

Alibi Testimony

Lyle Chastane, confessed former convict and the man who nursed Chapman back to health in the Atlanta federal hospital, swore that he had seen Chapman until after the morning of Sunday, October 5, when Skelly was shot down by bandits in the store of Morris Lewental in New Britain, and Chapman was in a restaurant with him at 9 o'clock that morning in Brooklyn.

Chastane was the proprietor of a restaurant on Vesper avenue, Brooklyn, and testified that Chapman visited his place on Sunday night, October 17, and remained there with his one companion, who at that time was wanted by the authorities of a New Britain as a result of his escape from the state prison for the criminally insane at Wethersfield. Chastane said that Chapman did not drink with him on that occasion, but that they had several drinks Chapman did not drink after two o'clock in the morning, he testified.

Francis M. Brennan, 32 year old bank clerk, and John A. Nolan, both residents of the Borough of Chasterton, Brooklyn, testified that they had seen Chapman walked into the place where Chastane while they were there. Neither was not positive about the identification, declaring that he was "almost sure" that the prisoner was the man they had seen.

Chief Rose, a very serious looking witness, was very positive. Asked by Attorney J. Grechl, Chapman's chief counsel, if the prisoner was the man he had seen in the Old Colony Inn, Rose replied: "I am positive. I know he left the restaurant about 2 o'clock and walked up to within a few feet of me. I looked intently at him, and I am sure that he is the man I saw."

Pistol Experts on Stand

This was only one of the high lights of the sensational trial today. Before the alibi witnesses took the stand pistol experts for the prosecution had positively identified the bullet taken from Skelly's body as having been fired from the gun taken from Chapman when he was arrested in South Bend, Ind., last January. One expert, J. Henry Fitzgerald, of the Colt company, Hartford, declared that the odds were not one chance in 10,000 that the marks on these bullets could have been made by another gun.

The other pistol expert for the prosecution, Roy D. Jones, of the Smith & Wesson company, Springfield, supported Fitzgerald's testimony. The telling of various tests which had been made with the gun taken from Chapman. Each of the tests produced identical marks, probably due to a peculiarity in the gun barrel, which were found on the bullet which caused Skelly's death. On cross examination Grechl was able to make the prosecution admit that the same markings could have been made on bullets fired from another gun, except in extremely remote cases. Grechl sought to get testimony to this effect into the record through a defense firearms expert, William A. Jones, former captain of New York police. Jones, cross examined by State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn admitted the bullets introduced in evidence by the state "apparently were fired by the same gun."

Other Defense Witnesses

Other defense witnesses gave testimony designed to tear down prosecution testimony which placed Chapman in the company of Walter E. Shean, a Springfield advertising man who said the fugitive mail robber was his wife hunting companion on the Davidson and Leventhal job.

Dr. David F. Waskowitz, a New Britain physician, said he had seen a car similar to that the prosecution alleges Chapman stole in Steubenville, Ohio, last April on a New Britain street three hours before the murder with only one man in it. James Trindasenis, a fruit dealer of Springfield, a jolly fellow of large proportions, said Shean, known to him for two years, had come to his store at 2 o'clock the morning of the murder. Shean, he said, and two companions were in a car answering the description of the so-called Chapman motor, with Shean at the wheel.

Shean's own testimony, as well as that of other witnesses, had placed him in the Old Colony Inn at that hour. One of Shean's companions, the fruit dealer said, was a drunken sailor, and the other man with a small mustache. Neither was Chapman, he testified.

Arthur M. Baglin, manager of a New Britain grocery store, testified that Patrolman Alfred E. Atwater, who had testified that he had recognized Chapman as the gunman who shot Skelly at the time he fired the first of three shots, had told him another story. Atwater had told him a few days after the crime, Baglin said, that he had "jumped behind a counter at the gunman's command to "get out or I'll shoot." and had not had a view of him.

Grechl called Sergeants McCue and Neal of the New Britain police force and Mrs. Irene Buckland, who was a nurse in the New Britain General hospital at the time of Skelly's death, to testify concerning the dying policeman's identification of Shean as his slayer. Before closing his case Alcorn had put Dr. George W. Duane, of New Britain, on the stand to testify that he had administered an opiate to Skelly some time before he had made his identification of Shean.

Edward L. Johnson, New Britain stable man who had identified in a New York jail George Stuyvesant as the man he had seen with Shean at the department store robbery was another defense witness. He still insisted today that he believed Stuyvesant, an ex-convict, whose home is in Albany, N. Y., was Shean's safe looting companion. He had seen the robber three times, he testified, and he was positive that Chapman was not the man. His story seemed only slightly shaken under a severe cross examination.

Chapman to Take Stand Today

Court was adjourned with the announcement that Chapman would take the stand in his own defense tomorrow morning and that all the evidence in the case would have been submitted with the close of the day's first session.

Chapman seemed as little impressed with the witnesses testifying on his behalf as he had been throughout the prosecution's innings, when fifty-three witnesses lined together a story designed to prove to the jury that he was a murderer. He spent most of the day indolently slumped into his chair, looking lazily at the witnesses. His face had its usual gamblers' blank expression throughout and he took little or no part in the day's business, instead continuing to be the center of constantly increasing interest. Today's crowds included several hundred women, even more than yesterday. Women continued to be turned away at both entrances to the building, held in check by heavy police cordons on the guarded doors to a cordon of police.

ANOTHER ALIBI WITNESS FOR GERALD CHAPMAN

Hartford, April 1.—An eleventh-hour witness to strengthen Gerald Chapman's alibi in his trial for the murder of Policeman James Skelly, of New Britain was summoned tonight from Holyoke Mass. H. D. Wheeler, reported to be a prominent business man of that city, will testify, counsel for the defense announced, that Chapman was in a store between 2 and 3 p. m. of the day preceding the murder in New Britain, October 1, 1924. This would corroborate the statement of Walter E. Shean of Springfield, the state's star witness, that he and Chapman were leaving Springfield for New Britain early in the previous afternoon.

The last will be Chapman himself if he will take the stand at about 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning and tell his own story of his whereabouts early that Sunday morning when a burglar shot down the policeman who was one of a group who surprised him in the act of blowing a safe in Davidson and Leventhal's store, New Britain.

79 GERMAN INFANTRY MEN DROWNED IN THE WESER

Veltheim on the Weser, Germany, April 1—(By the A. P.)—Dragged down by the swift undertow of the Weser, which has been running high and fast because of the recent heavy rains, the bodies of 79 infantry troopers, victims of yesterday's pontoon disaster, are still hidden or pinned down in the bed of the river.

Pioneer squads dredged the Weser today for a stretch of ten miles, and although it is no more than 12 feet deep the greater part of its course up to this point, the search failed to recover any bodies. It is believed that they have been swept down stream in the direction of Minden, 20 miles away, and that dragnets must be employed before the bodies of the missing are finally recovered.

Eye witnesses say that the catastrophe came with such startling suddenness that officers and men on both shores were dazed. The troopers in too great numbers were crossing over the pontoon bridge, and because of overweight one of the pontoon sank. Most of the victims disappeared beneath the surface in 20 seconds and failed to come to view again.

In true soldier fashion the men stood by their guns and disappeared frantically clutching their rifles and giving no heed to their cumbersome field equipment, which was destined to prove a fatal handicap in their struggle. More than 150 men were precipitated into the water, and only 70 succeeded in saving themselves or were rescued by comrades ashore. Several bodies were swept in immediately after the sinking of the pontoon.

Two empty emergency pontoons attached to the train of the ill-fated company were seized by the men when thrown into the water, but both craft capsized as the men sought to climb aboard.

IMPORTANT FINANCIAL DECISION IN FRANCE SOON

Paris, April 1—(By the A. P.)—Whether France will resort to inflation or adopt some other means of solving the financial situation, which has become embarrassing both to business and the treasury, will probably be decided within a few days. It is no longer a secret in official circles that radical measures are under consideration. No matter the nature of these measures—inflation, a levy on capital, new taxes, or, as a last resort, a national lottery,—it is admitted in business and political circles that the time has come for action.

The veiled allusions to grave forthcoming decisions, which have appeared in the press for the past few days, are becoming more and more explicit. The financial paper L'Information this evening declares: "Decisions of the greatest importance, financial decisions that may influence exchange, are to be taken without delay."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Approved Geneva Protocol.

Paris, April 1 (By the A. P.)—The foreign affairs commission of the chamber of deputies today approved Deputy Paul Boncour's report recommending that the French parliament ratify the Geneva protocol.

SERIES OF MISHAPS TO A DANISH FREIGHTER

Boston, April 1—Ending a voyage which began 74 days ago, the Danish freighter Anna Jensen arrived here today after a series of mishaps off the coast of Scotland which threatened to send the craft with all hands to the bottom. Officers and men frankly admitted that when they were drifting helpless in heavy seas, with a disabled rudder, a smashed stern frame, a leak which was flooding the stern, and in imminent danger of being hurled against precipitous cliffs, none expected to reach Boston.

Hurrying make-shift repairs the vessel was saved by the crew from wreck in the shadow of the cliffs and limped into Aberden, Scotland, where five weeks were necessary to refit her and send her on her way.

The Jensen left Copenhagen, January 25, and on February 1 was near the Scottish coast when she was struck by a northwest gale. The pounding seas broke the stern frame and the rudder was rendered useless by the stripping of a turnbuckle on the starboard steering chain. At the same time the stuffing box, propelling the rudder post, broke and water poured into the breach. Three pumps were pressed into service but failed to pump out the water as fast as it entered. Late at night, when the water had crept up almost to the boilers and the cliffs were visible only a short distance away, the crew succeeded in gaining in their efforts to lower the water in the hold. With no time to spare, a shackle was inserted in the steering chain.

Under control for the first time in hours, the drifting steamer was halted just in time to avert disaster on the rocks.

Another danger threatened as the freighter steamed slowly toward Aberdeen So much water entered number 4 hatch in the storm that the bales of newsprint stowed in the compartment swelled until it was feared the hull would be split apart. More than a month of repair work at Aberdeen was necessary before the Jensen could proceed.

DUELL CROSS-EXAMINED IN LILLIAN GISH SUIT

New York, April 1.—Charles H. Duell, cross-examined today as a witness in his suit for an injunction to compel Lillian Gish, motion picture star, to complete her contract with him, found himself forced into conflicting testimony and into an admission that he had sent telegrams to Miss Gish on November 27, 1924, containing "absolute falsehoods."

Duell's suit, before Federal Judge Julian W. Mack, was today in its seventh day, when Duell underwent cross-examination at the hands of Max D. Steur, chief counsel for Miss Gish.

Duell first had trouble after he had insisted that he did not try to disparage the independent counsel Miss Gish retained November 22, 1924, after which statement he admitted that he telegraphed her that day threatening to "bring the conduct of her counsel to the attention of the bar association."

The witness was questioned concerning a receipt for $6,000 given Miss Gish September 9, 1924, in lieu of three weeks' salary. He said the amount included a $3,000 fee for legal services to Boyce E. Smith, Duell's former law partner. The other $3,000 Duell said he had intended to refund Miss Gish later, and claimed he ehad made entries in his books showing that amount due the star.

Steuer countered by producing the affidavit filed by Duell when he asked a temporary injunction pending the present suit, this affidavit showing it to be Duell's intention to use the $3,000 to repay himself for advances claimed to have been made Miss Gish.

When Duell testified these advances were recorded in his books, the books he had produced was shown him and an entry dated September 9, 1924, pointed out, noting advances made in October and November the same year.

Duell admitted he could not explain the antedated entry.

INTERNAL REVENUE AUDITOR ARRESTED IN WASHINGTON

New York, April 1.—The arrest at Washington today of Maurice F. Vernon, an auditor in the bureau of internal revenue, was followed here by the arrest of Elias A. Laskey, head of a Brooklyn firm of public accountants, as Vernon's alleged accomplice in a scheme involving the preparation of fraudulent income tax returns.

The charge was "advising and preparing a fraudulent income tax protest and appeal" which the accused are alleged to have represented to the ship brokerage firm of Houlder, Weir and Boyd, Inc., would obtain them a refund of $140,000 on their 1920 tax.

Hugh McQuillan, head of the intelligence division, bureau of internal revenue, made the arrest. Laskey was held in $2,500 bail for a hearing April 15.

According to McQuillan, Laskey went several weeks ago to the ship brokerage firm with a proposal to prepare a protest and appeal from their 1920 tax which would save them $140,000.

Laskey said, according to McQuillan, that he knew a "crooked" auditor in Washington who would give the ship brokers a special classification as a personal service corporation. The ship brokers consulted their attorneys and were advised to get in touch with federal officials at Washington.

Great Ice Gorge In St. Lawrence River

Railroad Tracks Are Inundated Along the Waterfront of Montreal.

Montreal, April 1.—Swollen by a night ofd rain and heavy thaws, flood waters of the St. Lawrence and Back rivers today were dammed back on Montreal and countryside by a gigantic ice gorge extending almost to three rivers.

Victor Leroux, an eleven year old youth of St. Teresa, fell into the Riviere Aux Chaines, while "playing icebergs" and was swept away.

Railroad tracks were inundated along the city waterfront. Waves were lapping against the wall at the foot of Common street for the first time in the city's history.

FLOODS INCREASING IN THE PRAIRIE PROVINCES

Winnipeg, April 1.—Floods which have menaced the prairie provinces for 48 hours increased in seriousness in Manitoba today. Meanwhile, waters in southern Saskatchewan, except at Estantallon and Lumsden, were reported receding.

Two miles of Canadian National railroad tracks were washed out at Bredin, near Lumsden, and both Canadian National and Canadian Pacific traffic were tied up in other parts of Saskatchewan.

Workers have been busy removing morooned families at Reginia and othre Mantoba points. A continuance of the warm weather, which caused ice to break up much earlier than usual, is predicted.

ANOTHER DEATH CHARGED TO INDIAN VENGEANCE

Cortez, Colo., April 1. — Another death was charged late today to Indian vengeance when Mormon Joe, medicine man of the Ute tribe, killed a cell mate who had chided him for the slaying of an Indian infant—alleged to have been buried alive last week in accordance with sacred tribal rites.

Angered the Indian tore a leg from a table and beat the prisoner to death before officers could intervene.

Only a few hours before the killing in the jail, a coroner's inquest returned a verdict declaring that the 18 day old daughter of Plat Nay, Mormon Joe's son-in-law, "was buried alive by Plat Nay under the coercion of Mormon Joe."

The jury also declared that the infant's dead mother, with whom the living child was buried, came to her death by natural causes.

Both Plat Nay and Mormon Joe are in jail awaiting the arrival of federal officers from Denver.

Evidence at the inquest showed that Mormon Joe instructed Plat Nay to wrap the baby in the same blanket with its dead mother and bury them together. The bodies were found at the reservation near here last week.

Plat Nay's own story of the deed led to the arrests.

Nay, it was testified, went to Montezuma Creek, nearby, where he told his mother of the edime and later it was told to the Indian agent, who conducted the investigation and caused the arrests.

LUCIUS S. STORRS OPENS OFFICE IN NEW YORK

New York, April 1—Lucius S. Storrs, who recently was appointed managing director for the traction industry by the American Electric Railroad Association, opened his office in New York.

Mr. Storrs formerly was president of the New England Investment and Securities Company, and president of the Connecticut company, which operates practically all the electric lines and many busses in that state. He is a director of the Union Trust company of Springfield, Mass. He will act largely as a general advisor and guiding hand for the electric railway interests, large and small, according to a statement issued by the association today, and his appointment is part of the general modernization movement in the National Electric Railway situation.

The statement listed the chief problems confronting the industry at present as co-ordination of electric railway and bus service, financing of extensions and betterments, and the procuring of legislation for the regulation of interstate bus traffic.

TO REPORT FAVORABLY ON SUNDAY RAILROAD BILL

Hartford, April 1.—The legislative committee on railroads is to report favorably on senate bills numbers 515 and 516 which repeal existing statutes regarding operation of railroad trains on Sunday. Bill No. 515 will repeal section 3755 of the general statutes which forbids the operation of any trains on Sunday except "from necessity or mercy, or to carry the mails." The section, in common with 3758, which forbids intrastate fare reductions such as excursion rates on Sunday is repealed by senate bill No. 516, has become practically inoperative because of no state jurisdiction over interstate traffic, and the committee feels the section should be repealed.

MEN TAKEN PRISONERS ON SEAPLANE RELEASED

New York, April 1—Two men taken prisoners aboard the seaplane Lorraine II when she was captured by coastguard officers 25 miles southeast of Ambrose Light Monday morning were freed today by United State Attorney Buckner.

"I see nothing that would warrant any action against these men," Mr. Buckner said after hearing a report by coastguard officials who made the arrests.

SEIZED LIQUOR ON CAR OF GERALDINE FARRAR

Y., searched the private car of Geraldine Farrar they said late today. The singer and her party were permitted to proceed to Rutland where she was to fill a concert engagement tonight. No steps toward prosecution have been started so far as could be learned.

Favorable Report By New Haven Road

Net Income Showed Improvement of $5,915,755 Over the Previous Year.

New York, April 1—Although operating revenues of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company for 1924 were $6,726,888 less than in 1923, it was the first year a net income has been earned since 1917 which amounted to $2,998,650, the annual report showed today, an improvement of $5,915,755 over the previous year.

"This favorable result was accomplished," E. J. Pearson, president, said, "by the reduction of per diem charges and operating costs which in 1923 were increased by the continuing effects of the coal and shop strikes and unusually severe winter weather. Today the New Haven is equipped to handle a larger volume of traffic than ever before with efficiency, economy and continuing satisfaction."

Mr. Pearson emphasized that the competition of motor vehicles and the growing use of privately owned automobiles has necessitated careful study of the question of service on certain of the company's lines where the volume of traffic is so light as to cause a serious loss from continued operation. Bills were now before the legislatures of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, tending to stricter regulation of this class of transportation service, enactment of which, he asserted, would be a step in the right direction.

The income account showed a decrease of $10,335,770 in operating expenses for the year and a gain of $3,673,373 in total operating income to $25,995,336. Freight revenue decreased $3,764,283 and passenger revenue fell $1,689,531. Current assets were placed at $29,599,205, an increase of $3,136,980. Current liabilities were $16,651,270, a decrease of $2,141,469. The road's net corporate deficit at the end of the year was $20,020,095.

SALE OF DODGE BROTHERS HAS BEEN CONSUMMATED

New York, April 1—After a spirited struggle between powerful financial interests, ownership of Dodge Brothers, Inc., one of the country's largest automobile companies, today passed to Dillon, Read and company, New York bankers, in a cash transaction involving slightly less than $175,000,000.

The exact purchase price was not revealed by the bankers, but it was learned authoritatively that it exceeded a combined cash and securities offer of more than $150,000,000 submitted by the General Motors corporation through J. P. Morgan and company.

Confirmation of the transaction, representing the largest single transfer of an industrial corporation for cash in the history of American finance, was made by Dillon, Read and company tonight in a brief statement, issued simultaneously by members of the firm in New York and by A. C. Schwartz, who closed the negotiations in Detroit.

Within a short time the huge motor business founded by John and Horace Dodge a little more than ten years ago will be transformed from a closed family corporation to one of the largest publicly owned automobile companies in the United States. Reorganization of the company's capital structure is planned by the new bankers owners, who will subsequently make a public offering of securities probably exceeding $100,000,000.

Net sales of the Dodge company totaled $191,632,446 last year when 232,236 cars were sold. In line with a policy of plowing earning back into the property the business was conducted on a capital of only $10,000,000 until 1923, when it was raised to $50,000,000.

WORKING FOR RELEASE OF WILLIAM D. SHEPHERD

Chicago, April 1.—Attorneys for William D. Shepherd, foster-father of William Nelson McClintock, millionaire orphan, and accused of murdering McClintock by administering typhoid germs in order to gain possession of his estate, today filed six affidavits before Chief Justice Jacob Hopkins, of the criminal court, in a further attempt to gain Shepherd's release on bail.

All of the affidavits attacked statements of Charles O. Fairman, proprietor of a medical school, and whose confession that Shepherd offered him $100,000 for typhoid germs and information about administering them, resulted in the indictment of Shepherd and himself on charges of murder Fairman never has been arrested formally.

One of the affidavits was made by Dr. Herman N. Burndesen, city health commissioner, and two others were by officials of the city bacteriological department. All were to the effect that typhoid cultures were very closely guarded and were issued only to persons after careful investigation. All said that Fairman had never obtained any cultures from the city health department, as he had claimed.

THREE CASES SMALLPOX IN BLACKSTONE VALLEY

Pawtucket, R. I., April 1—The cases of small-pox reported in the Blackstone Valley in the last week increased to eight today when three persons were discovered to have contracted the disease in Central Falls. They remained in their homes. Four of the eight affected, seven of whom live in Central Falls, and one in Valley Falls, are in a hospital in Providence.

Dr. Byron U. Richards, secretary of the state board of public health said today after visiting Central Falls that he expected more cases of small pox to develop. Fifty employes of a mill here were vaccinated today and others will receive the vaccine tomorrow, as will a number of residents of Central Falls, according to health officials

FRENCH AND GERMANS HALT THEIR COMMERCIAL PARLEY

M. Raynald, French Minister of Commerce, and Herr Posse, Fail to Reach Agreement Over German Stand on "Most Favored Nations Cause"—Compromise Appears Unlikely Unless German Delegates Get New Instructions From Germany.

Paris, April 1—The negotiations for a commercial treaty between France and Germany came to another halt today when M. Raynaldy, minister of commerce, and Herr Posse, head of the German delegation, failed to settle a disagreement which arose over the number of French articles which the Germans desire to bar from the benefits of the "most-favored nation cause."

A compromise appeared unlikely, and unless the German delegates get new instructions from Berlin, it is thought that the negotiations will be called off.

The French were assured by the Germans that they would be accorded the most- favored nation treatment except on a very limited list of articles. When the list was submitted, however, it was found to comprise about half the French exports to Germany. M. Raynaldy then said he could go no further, but decided to make another effort to keep the negotiations open.

It was said in official circles tonight that nothing had come of the talk between the French minister and Herr Posse.

HISTORIC DAQUERREOTYPES PRESENTED TO YAVE

New Haven, April 1.—A collection of daguerreotypes of important figures in the history of this country during the late 40's has been presented to Yale university by Charles P. Howland, Yale 1891, and Miss Frances L. Howland, of New York city, and Dr. John Howland, Yale 1894, pediatrician-in-chief of the John Hopkins hospital. The collection, acquired 25 years ago in Washington by their father, the late Judge Henry E. Howland, B. A., 1854, consists of likenesses of 14 men, eight of whom served as United States senator, seven as congressmen, five as state governors, three as president and vice president of the United States and as secretary of state, two as governor of a territory and one each as secretary of war, attorney general, postmaster general, secretary of the treasury, chief justice and associate justice of the supreme court, president of the senate, speaker of the house, minister to Russia, superintendent of Indian affairs, and superintendent of the United States mint in New Orleans.

The daguerreotypes are of John Caldwell Calhoun, John Davis, James Duane Doty, General Zachary Taylor, Judge Andrew Pickens Butler, Roger Brooke Taney, David Rice Atchison, Henry Clay, Henry Stuart Foote, Millard Fillmore, Justice John McLean, Nathaniel Pitcher Tallmadge, Neil S. Brown and Martin Van Buren.

The daguerreotypes were almost all taken in 1849 and are considered by Yale officials to be of great value, particularly as an aid to students who do research in American history.

NOT LIABLE FOR INJURIES IN PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS

New Haven, April 1—A municipality in Connecticut is not liable in damages for injuries or fatalities to patrons of playgrounds in publicly operated parks, according to Judge Isaac Wolfe, of the superior court, who today handed down a decision in the suit of Samuel Epstein, administrator, against the city of New Haven which in effect decides a $10,000 damage action in favor of the municipality.

Judge Wolfe's decision came on a demurrer bythec ity to the allegations of the complaint. On May 7, 1924, twelve-year-old Harold Epstein and other children were playing in the Edgewood Park playground here. They were swinging on the ropes of a so-called merry-go-round. The iron pole, from which the ropes were suspended toppled over and fel on the boy, who died the following day. The city was sued on the theory that it was liable for damages because of the accident.

The city counsel countered with a demurrer, claiming that the city was not engaged in any enterprise for gain in operating a park or playground that it did not operate it for its own corporate benefit, that no admission was charged, the park was not maintained for gain of any kind, that the boy was injured while the city was engaged in the performance of a public governmental function under authority conferred upon it by a public act, in the doing of which no liability is imposed upon it by law or statute. These contentions were upheld by the court.

WHY LODGE REFUSED TO SUPPORT PRESIDENT'S VETO

Boston, April 1.—An explanation of the action on the late Henry Cabot Lodge in refusing to support the president's veto of the veterans' adjustment bill was made public by Bishop William Lawrence, of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts, in delivering the address of eulogy at a joint session of the state senate and house of representatives held in memory of the former senior senator from Massachusetts. A promise previously made to "a great constituency" was assigned by Senator Lodge, the speaker said, as his reason for failing to support the president on that occasion.

Bishop Lawrence, a friend of Senator Lodge from boyhood, analyzed the character and career of the Massachusetts statesman before a gathering which filled the chamber of the house of representatives.

MAN SHOT DEAD IN A TAXI CAB IN BROOKLYN

New York, April 1—One man was killed and another probably wounded in a shooting in a taxi-cab at the Brooklyn end of Manhattan bridge which held up traffic for half an hour this afternoon. A third man was arrested on a charge of homicide and felonious assault, while trying to escape on a passing truck.

In the shooting, which the police believe to be the result of a bootlegging dispute, Albert Callabrase, 25, was killed, and Samuel Sacco, 22 was wounded in the abdomen and the right shoulder. He was taken to Cumberland Street hospital, where it was thought he would not recover.

Frank Gentile, 24, who was arrested as he was fleeing from the scene of the shooting, denied that he fired the shots, but refused to make any other statement. All three men were from Manhattan.

Fire partially destroyed the rectory of the St. Andrew's Episcopal church in Thompsonville.

SHIFT IN ASSIGNMENT OF TREASURY EXECUTIVES

Washington, April 1—Official duties assigned to the several treasury executives were shifted about considerably today with the advent of Lincoln C. Andrews of New York as an assistant secretary, succeeding Elliot Wadsworth, resigned.

Forecasting efforts to bring about more effective enforcement of prohibition laws, all agencies in the treasury having to do wholly or in part with this work, including the prohibition unit, the coast guard and the customs service, were concentrated under the jurisdiction of Mr. Andrews. For the first time, too, the office of prohibition commissioner was placed under control of one assistant secretary while the internal revenue bureau, of which it is a part by law, was given to another official.

The realignment of duties also brought a culmination of efforts to divide the work of collecting the revenues between two assistant secretaries, Assistant Secretary Mary Moss, who, heretofore, has handled the largest volume of work of any of Secretary Mellon's advisors, was relieved of the division of customs, but retained jurisdiction over the internal revenue bureau. It was confidently expected among officials that by so dividing the two revenue collecting services, Mr. Moss will be able to give closer scrutiny to tax questions and eliminate many possible causes of complaint.

PLUMBERS AND LATHERS ON STRIKE IN BOSTON

Boston, April 1—With nearly 1,000 members of the local plumbers and lathers union and a scattering of electrical workers on strike today for higher wages, the building trades employers' association petitioned the state commission on the necessaries of life to investigate the situation and voted unanimously to stand by its recent demand that the unions sign a three-year wage renewal contract.

The bricklayers and stone masons unions today joined the carpenters in signing wage renewal contracts. Other locals will vote later on the proposition.

Both sides there were maintaining an attitude of "watching waiting" today, but union officials said a general walkout of all union men could be called if the employers attempted to fill strikers' vacancies with non-union men. The United Building Trades Council of the American Federation of Labor has promised full support to the strikers in such a situation, it was said.

The increase being demanded is $1.25 an hour for those trades which have been paid $1.10 under the old scale and $1.50 for those receiving $1.25. The scale which the employers asked to have renewed expired at midnight last night.

REVENUE OFFICIAL WAS ARRESTED IN WATERBURY

New Haven, April 1.—Benedict Rabinowitz, attached to the Waterbury office of the internal revenue department as agent was arrested here today on a warrant sworn out by James J. Donovan of New York city, special agent of the intelligence department.

The charge against Rabinowitz is violating section 123 of the federal criminal code which described conspiracy to defraud the government of income taxes. It is alleged that Rabinowitz received $100 from Jerry Murphy of Naugatuck, yesterday, to fix up the latter's income tax form.

Rabinowitz was brought before Federal Commissioner Lynch, waived examination, and was held for the federal court, April 28th at Norwalk. Bail was fixed at $2000.

ATTORNEY WAS OUSTED BY FIRE COMMITTEEMAN

Norwalk, April 1—A hearing before the fire board tonight, in which volunteers were charged with gambling in the fire house, ended with the ejection of Attorney Paul R. Connery, attorney for the accused, from the meeting by John R. Frizzell, fire committeeman. "Get out and stay out," said Frizzell as he led Connery to the door.

Connery started the rumpus when he told Frizzell he had no proof that the accused men were gambling. Frizzell told him to do his talking outside. Connery retorted he would "talk anywhere he pleased," and defied Frizzell to oust him. Frizzell called two of the paid firemen about to do the ejecting out himself. He showed Connery the door. Connery stayed out, refusing the offer of volunteers to "put him back in again."

BEQUEST TO DAUGHTER BY BOYHOOD MARRIAGE

New York, April 1—A daughter of the late Thomas F. Foley, Tammany leader, by a boyhood marriage of which the general public was unaware, was bequeathed his estate, estimated at only $15,000 in his will filed in surrogates court today.

The will, executed April 24, 1923, left nothing to the widow, his second wife, who died only a few weeks after the death of her husband. Mrs. Foley explained that his wife already had between $40,000 and $50,000.

The will named his daughter a "Maria McKaigney, daughter of Mary Conners, who resided at the time of her death in Brooklyn."

WILLIMANTIC

The Foreigner and Our Relations With Him, was the topic of an address delivered before the Willimantic Exchange Club, Wednesday noon, by Rev. Simeon S. Bogan, pastor of the local Holy Trinity Orthodox church. Rev. Mr. Bogan was introduced by Rev. F. C. Williams, chairman of the entertainment committee. The meeting was in charge of President George E. Wilcox. The minutes were read by Secretary Robert H. Trenton. Singing was led by Leader Charles H. Caswell who received the material and voluminous support of Megaphone Donnelly, the club's radiographic four-speaker. The vocalist rendered a song of years ago entitled School Days.

In his address Rev. Mr. Bogan pleaded for a display of good fellowship for the Russian and Slavonic race, which he said "is the most oppressed and degraded race in the world." In following American ideals these people broke the binding chains of tyranny and overthrew their oppressive monarchs. This was a great move and for a time it appeared that Russia would become a successful republic; but still another yoke was placed upon them by "plain robber" tyrants who usurped the government and snuffed out the hopes and joys of the people. The speaker eulogized the great American spirit which he said he found existed even in the remotest recesses of the continent of Europe in the Carpathian mountains, inhabited by a population of illiterate peasants known as Little Russia. He found men and women who had never heard of America and [illegible] being ignorant of the language, customs and traditions of this country. DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Southern New England had it out Wednesday. It was not a World war or anything like that—just the opening of the trout fishing season of 1925. That suspense may be allayed, it may be said right here that this section of Southern New England lost.

There was a day when trout fishermen who lived within five miles of Danielson had the brooks much to themselves. That kind of a day has gone forever, apparently. What might be regarded as batteries of Massachusetts and Rhode Island cars were lined up Wednesday, from early morning until the sun had set at every bridge-head on every trout brook within miles of this place. The lure of the open had called across state borders. Out of the state fishermen who came into this territory were prepared to show Connecticut licenses to fish. They were sportsmen, pure and simple, unable to withstand the urge of the open after a winter of restraint from their favorite sport.

But the fishing Wednesday did not amount to much. Few were the devotees of rod and reel that brought in a catch worth talking about. The brooks were "just right," as the fishermen say, but the fish were not. The speckled beauties were not in the biting mood, probably because it was very cold in the morning and possibly because there are too few trout to make a showing, anyway. What applied to the morning hours applied also to the afternoon. Many a fisherman had to come home with no more than a pair of trout and many others came home with none at all—but not that they did not try.

On such brooks as Snake Meadow and Quandock the S. R. O. sign was out. Men from three states competed for a few feet of space on these brooks. A circumstance that almost assured that no one would get a string to talk about. It will be better after the first of the season enthusiasm dies off. Misty cars and old cars brought the fishermen to the brooks, some staid business men coming along dressed for business aside from a pair of boots and a fishing rod for use along the brooks. Well anyway, it was the first day. There will be better fishing later. The average man who gets no fish the first day is not apt to return during the season. Perhaps there are not many trout to be had this season. Time will tell. The stickers among the fishermen will demonstrate this in the next six weeks. In the meantime, enthusiasts looked ecreenily upon some mighty poor strings Wednesday—one or two of three small trout—not the kind that the oldtimers loved to shoe.

Charles Mills, brother of Ashley P. Mills, died last week at Fall River. He was a native of the town of Thompson and of the famous family who have contributed so much to make that territory historic. Mrs. Ashley P. Mills formerly was Miss Ella Chapman of Danielson where she and her husband make their home each summer coming here from Massachusetts. Charles Mills had been ill throughout the winter and recently had failed rapidly.

Observers of the motor busses operating between Providence and Hartford through this town have noted that the luxurious machines have not been doing so well lately, in so far as number of passengers carried is concerned. Lack of patronage does not seem to have allayed the fear of the railroads over the busses as competitors. Like the scheduled passenger trains on the railroad, the busses continue to operate on regular schedule, notwithstanding the dearth of passengers, and there are times when the inexperienced observer wonders how long they will stick it out. Imagine running a great bus from Hartford to Providence—with no chance to pick other riders at intermediate points—for $6.6.0 this over a road route of about 75 miles.

The advent of April could not be regarded as real summery. If March did not go out like a lion, it had something of the characteristics of a polar bear about it. Just before sunrise Wednesday morning the mercury stood at 30 degrees in Danielson. Ice had formed on pools of water and there was nothing about the new day to inspire anyone to be real enthusiastic about the advent of spring.

Gurden E. Withey, it is indicated, will have an appointment as deputy game warden in Windham county. Mr. Withey, a resident of this town is one of the most experienced hunters and fishermen in this section of the state. The fact that he is much in the woods and along the streams where fishermen will be found for the next three months has proved a consideration in recommending him for appointment. There has been no deputy game warden in this section of the county since the resignation of F. L. Kies, and the appointment of Mr. Withey will be regarded generally as in line with the effort of the state commissioner of fish and game to have adequate supervision of all territory in Connecticut.

The fire record for Danielson during the fiscal year that ended at midnight Tuesday stands at 39 alarms, all of whichwas involved a property loss of less than $700. While the number of alarms was the greatest since the borough installed the fire alarm telegraph system seventeen years ago, no alarm, or all of them considered as a cause of loss, amounted to a great deal, for which Danielson is duly thankful. The borough pride itself that its fire department keeps down losses by exceptional prompt response to fires and effectiveness in combatting them.

N. Waldo Kennedy of Eastford, formerly of this town and Putnam, is at present, as a national organizer of the Loyal Order of Moose, engaged in increasing the membership of lodges at Providence and is meeting with marked success.

Listening in Wednesday evening for the broadcast, between 6.15 and 8.00 p. m., of WSAD at Providence, numbers of radio set owners in this vicinity heard the concert by Warren Braley and his Royal Serenaders of Attawaugan.

At the Burlingame farm, under lease to Silvio Gauthier, ruins of a fire that destroyed a milkhouse, a shed and garage Sunday night were smoldering and smoking Wednesday. The farm is in the Mashentuck district.

The younger generation has come in for much admonition and advice as to what it should do during the past two weeks. And the young generation does not seem in so far as outward appearances go to indicate that it is at all interested.

It is not indicated that any considerable number of the stockholders hereabouts of the Connecticut Mills company will be present at Boston during the coming week when the annual meeting of the big corporation is held in that city.

Borough residents are now engaged in a clean-up of their premises, after a winter that precluded much being effectively done to improve the appearance of properties.

PUTNAM

Philip Beaulac of North Grosvenordale, whose skull was fractured in the accident a week ago which caused the death of his father-in-law, Stanislaw Dusziak, is growing stronger daily and will recover, was the word given out Wednesday at the Day Kimball hospital. He and Duszlac were riding on a motorcycle which ran into a train at the crossing at North Grosvenordale, last week Wednesday. Duszlac died dtwo days later without recovering consciousness.

The Easter vacation of Putnam schools will be from April 3rd to April 13th.

While on the road from Putnam to Webster, Mrs. Edith Cornell of New York City, a sister of Mrs. Ernest C. Morse of this city and Mrs. Hale also of New York, the car in which they were riding overturned and both occupants were thrown out. Mrs. Hale sustained a broken collarbone and was badly bruised and shaken up. Mrs. Cornell escaped injury but the nervous shock was a severe one.

The accident happened just this side of Webster and it was only a moment until another car came along and the driver brought the women to the Day Kimball hospital. Word was given out there Wednesday that they were both improving and that there were no lasting injuries.

The car in which they were riding is Mrs. Cornell's and she was at the wheel. The highway was very slippery and the machine skidded and then went over on its side. It was but slightly damaged. Mrs. Cornell has been here for most of the winter, the guest of her sister.

Postmaster Archie Macdonald, who is at a Worcester, Mass., hospital, following a serious operation is steadily regaining his strength and will soon be able to return home.

The annual meeting of the First Baptist church was held in the chapel Monday evening. The financial and other reports of the past year were presented.

Although the year has been a strenuous one because of pastoral changes and financial loss due to the closing of the First National bank and the general business depression, the condition of the church as shown by the reports is very encouraging. The financial statements closed as follows:

"After all bills are paid we shall have a fair cash balance in the treasury. We have paid a note of $500 at the Danielson Trust company and, our assessment of $500 on the stock of the First National bank. This could only have been accomplished by the generous and loyal support of our people and the splendid work of the Ladies' Aid society."

Approval was expressed of the Rev. Mr. Lockwood, of Boston, who is acting as pastor. It was said that he was filling the position very acceptably, that he had judgment and poise, and that his sermons were interesting and instructive. As one of the officers of the church phrased it "he has the faculty of applying the Gospel to the problems of every day life." The attendance at the Sunday services has been steadily increasing. The Roll Call of the church is to take place in the assembly room Friday, and there will be music and a banquet. Mr. Lockwood and his wife will be present.

This (Thursday) afternoon and evening Putnam State Trade school will be open to the public for inspection. For several years it has been the custom of this school to have an annual opening, so called, to which every one is invited so that the actual accomplishments of the school and the methods of operation may be observed.

There is a steadily growing interest in this institution as evidenced by the ever increasing number of people who visit it on the date of the annual opening. All the students will be working as on an ordinary day and night and the work will be under the direction of the heads of the several departments. The exhibit of the Home Economics department will be in the High School auditorium.

The thoroughness of the training given in the various trades and the value of it are well illustrated by the high percentage of the graduates of the School who are following the trades they learned there and whose earning powers have been greatly increasing by reason of their practical preparation.

BOSTON GIRL'S JOY RIDE ENDS UP IN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, April 1—Because she objected to the actions of the young men with whom she was riding, a fourteen year old Boston girl was left on the back road near Mechanicsville, Tuesday evening, and wandered around for two hours in swampy ground and in the mist and darkness, before help reached her.

She had been under the charge of an Episcopalian church society at Boston and a home had been found for her with a Rhode Island family, where she was to have been taken this week. According to her story, she was invited yesterday morning to take an automobile ride with a young man. She accepted and the party, (there is believed to have been another man and another girl along) started south. Just about dusk they had arrived at Mechanicsville on the back road, a very little traveled thoroughfare. One of the men persisted in trying to force his attentions on the girl until she demanded to be let out. The automobile was stopped and she alighted on this lonely stretch of road. Seeing a trolley car pass on the road to Mechanicsville she tried to make her way in that direction but had to stop when she reached the river. In trying to retrace her steps she got into a swamp, where she sank to her knees.

Thoroughly frightened, she began to call for help. Her cries were heard by two of the employes of the Beachmont Worsted company, and with the aid of a lantern they made their way to the spot and guided the girl, covered with mud, frightened and almost insensible, to the Mechanicsville Inn. Miss Larned, the Putnam probation officer, was sent for and after hearing the girl's story she communicated with the Boston society and this morning a woman representative came after the girl.

She is a ward of the Juvenile court for previous wayward conduct. She is good looking and her appearance would indicate that she is sixteen or seventeen instead of fourteen. Her dress was modish and not at all cheap. She left at noon Wednesday, in company with the Boston woman.

MYSTIC

The annual business meeting of the Mystic fire district was held Monday evening in the rooms of the B. F. Hoxie Engine company. The meeting was called to order by the chairman of the executive committee, John Fribance and he was elected chairman of the meeting with Albert Denison clerk. The annual report of the executive committee was read and accepted. The largest expense item was for street lights $4,584.52 and Mystic Valley Water company for hydrant service, $3,240. Other expenses note and interest to Mystic River National bank $690, Manhattan Rubber Co., hose, $514, insurance, $313.20, Hook and Ladder Co. services, $650, coal $439.30 salaries for officers $231, other small orders drawn makes the expenses for the year $11,969.70. The expense of laying a cement sidewalk to Industrial place on Stonington road was $4,-301.28, the property owners paid $1,-150.82, the fire district $1,569.44 and the town of Stonington $596. The wall and bridge at the cove and iron railings along the sidewalk in needed places cost the town of Stonington $11,050, and fire district $700. C. A. Perkins, treasurer, was absent and the report was read by Clerk Albert Denison. Balance on hand, April 1924, $1,-666.06. Receipts for the year $17,213.29, total $18,879.35. Bills paid $16,281.21, leaving a balance in treasury, March 30, 1925, of $2,598.14. Tax Collector Denison's report showed most of the taxes had been paid. Chief Engineer C. B. Donnate's repore was full of interest, 42 calls in all had been answered, 11 outside of the district and only twice was water from hydrants used; in the other 40 calls chemicals With the exception of three fires, the loss being $4,648, the other fires were small with very little loss.

When questioned, Chief Donatte said hydrant service had been used but twice in two years and this proves the fact that the exorbitant rates asked by the water company is not justifiable and will put an extra burden on the taxpayers. The reports were accepted with approval. A five-mill tax was voted and to the collector one-quarter per cent. same as last year.

Attorney B. H. Hewitt who has been the counsel in fighting the large increased water rates, reported that Mystic is now paying a high rate and is the increase is granted by the public utilities commission, Mystic will have the highest rate in the state, no doubt.

At the caucus held at the close of the business meeting the following were nominated to be elected at a meeting next Monday night: Executive committee, John Fribance, Conrad Kretzer, W. L. Main; clerk, Albert Denison; treasurer, G. A. Perkins; collector, Albert Denison; assessors, A. G. Hewitt, J. W. Chapman, J. B. Grinnell; board of relief, E. E. Donohue, H. C. Allyn, T. A. Jewell; chief engineer, F. A. Mabbett; assistant chief, C. E. Greene.

Rev. Lucius Wilson Shey, of Cleveland, O., recently called to become rector of St. Marks' Episcopal church, was the preacher at the Lenten services Wednesday evening. All were well pleased with his address.

Amos G. Hewitt has returned from a visit in Chester, Pa., and Washington, D. C.

Dr. and Mrs. George Ward are spending a week here to be near the former's sister, Mrs. Isabelle Hoxie who is a patient in Lawrence Memorial hospital.

WESTERLY

The Mistuxet club bridge team of Stonington, emerging victorious from a series of three bridge games with the "Varsity" team of the Westerly Masonic club, were the dinner guests Wednesday evening at a local tea room of their involuntary hosts. Helpings were "doubled and redoubled" in the following "make":

Fruit Cocktail
Tomato Soup with Crutons
Shrimp Salad
Roast Spring Chicken
Mashed Potatoes Mashed Turnips
Creamed Onions
Chicken Croquettes
French Peas
Fancy Rolls
Hot Apple Pie with Ice Cream
Cake Fruit

A year ago the tables were turned, when the Mistuxet club members were hosts. The captain of the Mistuxet bridge team the past series was Henry M. Friedman while L. Gourlay McLaren "stroked" the Masonic Varsity crew. Charles H. Cowan of Stonington ably presided as toastmaster. Mistuxet club colors predominated in the decorative scheme, daffodils being the table flowers.

Senior class students of the Westerly High school, under the supervision and direction of Mrs. John Stanton, Jr., have been engaged the past few days in preparation for the Shakespearean play, The Taming of the Shrew," which they are to present in the high school auditorium on Broad street.

About the same performance was gone through with Wednesday morning by a one-man trolley car of the Groton and Stonington Traction company on West Broad street, Pawcatuck, when the 6.45 o'clock New London bound electric car split the switch in a similar manner as did the one Tuesday night. The car was in charge of Motorman Malone, but the number of automobiles parked at that curb was not as great as in the evening so that an automobile was not included in the direct accident. An automobile mishap however, resulted, as a truck driven by Harvey Arzar-Campbell grist mill yard, and not being able to make the short turn backie dagain. This happened as the Velie touring car, operated by C. B. Hansen of 41 Sherman street, New London, was passing, so that when the two machines came together the rear mud guard of the touring car was bent and the handle snapped from the door. Police Constable Kenyon of Pawcatuck cared for the auto traffic at the time and took the statements of the two operators.

Battery E, 243rd [illegible] armory on Dixon street Tuesday night held its regular drill in infantry and battery work, when guests were present for the Battery Ladies' Night. A company membership of about 90 per cent attended and following the drill ice cream and cake were served. Dancing followed to the music of Crandall's orchestra. The arrangements were in charge of a committee consisting of Capt. John F. DaDdario, Lieut. Alvin Andrews, First Sergt. Spry and Sergts. Card and Merrill. The next company event will be the federal inspection of the company, which will take place about the third week of this month.

Fire alarm No. 73, Canal street, was sounded on the bell of the Westerly fire department about 12.30 Wednesday noon for a chimney fire in the four tenement house of Louis Deutch, 104 Canal street. Fire Chief George Egger responded with two fire trucks. On reaching the house the fire extinguishers were exhausted and then the Ahren-Fox pumper was driven in back of the tenement house and the hose from the Brewster carried up to the rear chimney. The 70 gallon tank was emptied into the chimney before the fire was extinguished.

JEWETT CITY

Returning fishermen, Wednesday evening, brought in no creels to speak about. In fact the large trout have never risen to the first-day worms. When the Ashland Fish and Game Protective association was organized, among their other laudible activities was the offering of a prize each year for the largest game fish caught by any member in local water. As proof that the big fellows live up this way, the following list is taken from the record of J. H. Tracy, the referee on weights and conditions: Aug. 26, 1923, Herbert Gray caught a large mouth bass at 10 a. m., that weighed 4 pounds; Sept. 1, Fred Raill caught at 6 p. m., the same sort of fish that weighed 4 pounds and 9 ounces. The prize went to Raill that year. July 3, 1923, Joseph Zubroski at 6:30 a. m., caught a 5 and 1-4 pound bass in Ashland pond; July 5, in Ashland, at 5:30 p. m., 4 3-4 pound bass caught by Alex Desjardines; July 23, in Voluntown, 4 p. m., 5 1-5 pound bass, Fred Raill; Aug. 9, in Ashland pond, 7:30 p. m., 4 pound bass, Joseph Zubroski, prize to Raill. July 25, 1924, in Ashland, 6:30 and 7 p. m., 3 pound and 14 ounce, and 3 pound and 12 ounce bass, Fred Raill; Aug. 14, in Voluntown, 5 p. m., bass, 4 pounds and 10 ounces, Alex Desjardines.; Sept. 13, at Brown laid over all records by landing 3 p. m., in Voluntown, George a large mouth bass, that two hours after the capture weighed on Tracy's scale, six pounds and 12 ounces. As is often the case the biggest fish are caught by anglers outside the fishing clubs. The father of all bass was caught in Hopeville by George Geer. Doctors that are fishermen came from Norwich to see. Fishing journals published the measurements. All the doubts of unbelievers were set at rest, when they came to see. The catch was made in the early hours of the dawn of a late summer day in 1923. After fishing until noon, Mr. Geer brought the fish to Mr. Tracy for official weight and 8 hours after it was taken from the water its weight was seven and one quarter pounds.

Yet that is not the largest fish that ever swam the local ponds; there are records to prove that Dizette Blanchard took an eel from the Ashland mill wheel pit, that was weighed in front of the Ashland store by Sam Pickett on his rag-cart scales, that tipped the steel yard and beam from balance at 8 pounds flat. It is a matter of record, that at that time, during the same fall, the run of eels was so great in the Ashland and Slater mill ponds, that both the mill wheels were clogged and stopped. Men were lowered into the penstocks and many bushels of eels, cut and brushed by the great turbines were literally shovelled out before the mills could start. Heavy steel gratings were fastened in front of the canal ends to keep the eels out of the wheels.

The Southern New England telephone company is putting in two new poles on Post Office square. They will be forty-footers and are necessary so as to raise the big trunk line cable high enough so that passing sky loaded trucks will not foul it. It is believed that something may be suggested to the Max Gordon people of Norwich, relative to the height to which they pile a truckload of waste. The loads have often fouled the street span lines of private telephones, and recently a lineman narrowly escaped serious accident by fouling of the line by a passing high-loaded truck. There is plenty of head room as the cables Ashland pond; July 3, in Ashand, at are now, except for the loads of waste.

STATE OPPORTUNITIES WASTED

The fisheries of Middletown heard some [illegible] Dr. [illegible] of the [illegible] special [illegible] dress [illegible] because [illegible] condition [illegible] Connecticut [illegible] state [illegible] acreage [illegible] not [illegible] of being [illegible] purpose [illegible] being [illegible] tural [illegible] sections [illegible] there [illegible] acres, [illegible] just over [illegible] ered with [illegible] ing up [illegible]

In [illegible] with [illegible] increase [illegible] and in [illegible] position [illegible] virtual [illegible] bring [illegible] its effect [illegible] its fish [illegible] ing [illegible] resources [illegible] ment [illegible] ward [illegible] increase [illegible] state [illegible] property [illegible]

This [illegible] Connecticut [illegible] employed [illegible] stand [illegible] able [illegible] tunities [illegible] inclination [illegible] ial from [illegible] attendant [illegible] yet comp[illegible] mounting cost [illegible]

When [illegible] the state [illegible] [illegible] to be [illegible] and [illegible] he a bigger Connecticut [illegible] states [illegible] the Union [illegible] duce much [illegible]

CUTTING THE TAXES

A[illegible] of the [illegible] they are [illegible] urging [illegible] the next [illegible] are talking for themselves [illegible] ical effect [illegible] if the [illegible] known, probably for the purpose of embarrassing the administration forces.

Not until September will there be a meeting of the committee of ways and means and house [illegible] ing upon [illegible] already established that there will be a larger surplus than had been estimated. This means that the government has [illegible] what were formerly [illegible] that business [illegible] showing [illegible] tures have been [illegible] sities. We [illegible] garnered with [illegible] available [illegible] is offered [illegible] cloth which needs [illegible] the requirements of the [illegible] years.

Plainly this is a matter which needs to be considered [illegible] justified by the facts. [illegible] that should be done in a businesslike manner. It is a time for the employment of good judgment and a knowledge of the [illegible] and to give concern to [illegible] relief [illegible] ing to follow.

It is one thing to proclaim to the country that a bill for slicing off a heavy part of the federal taxes is going to be made. That in itself may have its effect upon [illegible] ber, but it is for performance that the facts and the figures should be available before anything rash is undertaken. It is well to know what will follow any such hit or miss piece of business.

There is no question but what there will be as large a cut in taxes as the situation will permit. The president has long advocated it and the country wants some relief, but when it is done it must be done in that sound manner that will bring full and lasting benefit upon the country. It makes little difference whose plan it is, if it is in accord with the conditions.

ADMINISTERING PUNISHMENT.

A few weeks ago, when the question of increased pay for postoffice employes was before congress, there were disclosures concerning the activity of certain employes raising funds which were turned over to the clerk of a senate committee in order to have him interest himself in behalf of the measure. He was regarded as being in a position to use his influence with those who were to vote upon the matter and it was for the purpose of getting favorable action that he was employed, or as the case may have been he offered his services and was employed.

It was not so much the amount of money employed as it was the impression given by the method that was employed to get through legislation. It was following or setting a bad example. It was perhaps open to much different construction than was expected, but it certainly created the idea that all that was necessary to get a favorable vote from congress was to solicit a fund and have it applied in the right places.

The postal employes involved were relying upon money rather than the merits of the bill. They were dropped from the service even though they were veterans in the postoffice department. They were looked upon as having been so long in the government's employ to have known better. And yet it appears that it is because of their length of service and because of their previous good record the postmaster general has decided to restore them to duty with certain demotions which will stand as permanent punishment.

That such a disposition of the case will work out best is entirely probable. It has at least been put into effect, and while it appears to be a modification of the first action it establishes the fact that when methods are employed which border on or approach bribery there is going to be no winking at them. Quite as deep in the mud was the committee secretary. His job is permanently ended but under the circumstances he seems to have escaped any more severe punishment. It is a case, however, which should serve as an object lesson for others.

SELLING THE SHIPS.

[illegible] divided was the shipping [illegible] upon the merits of the bids [illegible] been received for the five [illegible] the president type and [illegible] operated under government [illegible] direction by the Pacific Mail [illegible] company. This company [illegible] of the bidders. Naturally it [illegible] to be made to get possession of [illegible] and as the long run there [illegible] a larger return to [illegible] its offer been accepted. The [illegible] Steamship company [illegible] and a quarter [illegible] cash, and the [illegible] what are considered [illegible] the uncertainties of the [illegible] to four to three vote [illegible] the government [illegible] ships that cost $30,000,000. The replacements at the [illegible] appear the [illegible] of some of [illegible] Whether it is actually [illegible] monopoly through the [illegible] will develop in [illegible] there is a reason [illegible] ship holdings, [illegible] being turned [illegible] corporations and [illegible] in getting [illegible] that business, [illegible] possible to get [illegible] satisfaction out of the deal. But [illegible] best of the ships are being [illegible] for a song there doesn't appear [illegible] any great interest being manifested in that portion of the fleet [illegible] has been up for too long a [illegible] no promises [illegible] taken out of that state. [illegible] investment into the ship [illegible] was expensive but [illegible] are times when getting it out [illegible] is almost as bad.

ENFORCING DRY LAW.

[illegible] statement made Assistant [illegible] Wiehbrandt, who [illegible] dry law enforcement, [illegible] explaining the [illegible] prohibiting the Volstead [illegible] why there [illegible] such difficulty with enforcement. Political influences, [illegible] exists, laxity of federal attorneys and improper procedure were [illegible] for prohibition not being [illegible] enforced on the Atlantic seaboard. Better trained agents, fewer but larger cases would result in less congestion in the courts and their more speedy trial.

At about the same time this statement was being made information [illegible] been given out concerning [illegible] in the treasury department [illegible] there is a separation of the [illegible] and enforcement from the internal revenue department. With the [illegible] assistant secretary of the [illegible] the new appointee, Lincoln [illegible] Andrews, is given direct supervision [illegible] the prohibition unit along [illegible] other duties and the internal [illegible] bureau will function under [illegible] changed from time to [illegible] this separation should take [illegible] and it has ever been argued [illegible] enforcement should go from [illegible] department entirely. [illegible] some improvements in keeping [illegible] the assistant attorney general [illegible] statement will be forthcoming [illegible] the change. It will be watched [illegible] whether a new broom sweeps [illegible] in this instance.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

[illegible] can't wait to get into the [illegible] cooling down the enthusiasm [illegible] cleaning up the backyard.

The man on the corner says "Don't" is a much needed slogan for those who are inclined to jay walk.

The taxpayer may look forward to reduction in federal taxes, but there seems to be no hope locally under the present tendency.

Senator Cummins thinks nine-tenths of the senate favor the Dawes suggestion. That being so will it be easy to get action?

Those who are having padlocks put on their property in New York think it a terrible thing, but they seldom realize that they could easily have avoided it.

Texas' woman governor has restored full political and civil rights to her husband who was impeached in 1917 when governor. Thus has her mission as governor been accomplished.

While much is being said about the removal of railroad crossings, there is a Monday morning list of accidents and fatalities which shows that many other places along the highways need to be eliminated. Or is it another illustration of the need for more care?

DISADVANTAGES

"What's the use?" sighed the dissatisfied young woman with the natural curl in her hair. "It makes me so mad to read about these folks who have come in from the country and opened the town house to stay in five minutes before they take the Mediterranean trip previous to running out to California for the bad weather in February, after which they will do Atlantic City at Easter and stop in New York to buy their sports clothes for the season! All of them get private railway cars in their stockings for Christmas! What chance have we against folks who do all that?"

"Whatdyuh mean chance?" growled the pessimistic bachelor. "Why should you envy young women who alternate between getting cinders in their eyes and longing desperately that the boat would stop just a minute and let them catch their breath? What fun do you suppose it is for Clementine Goldrock to be dragged off to Egypt or the midnight sun just when she has a brand-new and fascinating sheik tamed and eating out of her hand and all the other girls so furious they would like to poison her?

"Competition in these days is too fierce to allow a moment's careless relaxation. Postals of Feeding the Doves at St. Mark's, Am[illegible]ing delightful [illegible] wish you were here, haven't a particle of weight against a jazz band in one's left ear and a pretty girl cooing into the right one, and Clementine knows it.

"What about last year when it was time to go to California and Reginald was so hypnotized that about two more sessions and he would be seeking the diamond counter in the jewelry store? Hardly had the train reached Kansas before Reginald was under the spell of one of the many envious sirens who had helplessly watched her pre-emption of this most popular swain of the season—and believe her, she is not going to let so much good work go to waste again.

"So when you read that Magnus Everich family is starting for a tour around the world, with a few side trips to Mars and the Milky Way, the simple announcement covers wars, battles and upheavals within their portals, and, unless papa holds the purse strings, Clementine is going to beg off and stay with dear Aunty Somebody while her father is away, and keep track of Claude. She doesn't much crave scenery and mandarins and, sphinxes when she is where Claude can phone he'll be around in the roadster about 8:30.

"And if parents can't be convinced of this and she is forced to join the happy family party, Clementine knows how to throw a few monkey wrenches into the innocent jollity of the occasion. Many is the time on the trip that Clementine's papa and mamma will grit their teeth and yearn to do violence to their offspring. Here they are giving the girl every advantage and cultural opportunity and broadening her mind, and all she gets out of it is a flirtation with an Italian count.

"And most always on these trips they stay at the Grand Hotel everywhere. What I ask you, is there for Clementine in a Grand hotel? Nothing but a few spavined archdukes and folks from the flat below back in Chicago! They don't let the poor girl buy a lot of foreign clothes to knock 'em dead because by the time they have paid the duties she can buy the same thing cheaper on State street, and to crown it all she gets letters in every mail from her girl friends relating in detail what good times they are having without her and now completely her best beau has forgotten her!

"Why, woman, you don't know your luck! You can stay [illegible] and keen your young man amused to realize how much finer he is than of those foreign chaps—that is if there is somebody like that means a lot to you—er—isn't it.

"There isn't a man on earth I'd [illegible] two cents of my fingers about!" declared the rebellious young woman with great vigor, and for some reason the pessimistic bachelor who had been doing his best looked very much discouraged.—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Be American and Obey the Laws.

Mr. Editor: There is a lot of chewing and nagging through the papers. Just a few short words. If every one born in U. S. A. and every one coming to its shores would simply be American, obey its laws and let nothing whatsoever turn or interfere with its principles, and let it be as its principles were after the revolutionary war there would be no cause for all this slamming. This country can take care of itself if—(Guess). That's all.

Are You Discouraged ?

Sabin Could Not Decide What to Do

After Charles H. Sabin had been graduated from school he did not know what course to follow. He had no definite career planned and no special vocation made any particular appeal to him.

In Williamstown, Mass., he attended public school, then entered Greylock Institute at South Williamstown. He was graduated at 17, and not having made up his mind as to his lifeaim he helped about the local hotel which was conducted by his father.

At 19 he went to Albany, N. Y., and hunted for [illegible], finally obtaining one with Henry [illegible], a flour merchant. The work was hard, but Sabin found time to play baseball, his favorite game.

Albany's leading nine was mostly composed of bank clerks, and was defeating the teams of many of the nearby cities. To strengthen his lineup, the captain obtained a job for Sabin as clerk in the Commercial National Bank so that he could play on the team. Next with the Park Bank, Sabin worked his way upward and at 30 became cashier of the Albany City National Bank. When it merged with another, three years after he became vice president of the enlarged institution, the National Commercial Bank.

Five years [illegible] came an opportunity to [illegible] New York. It was the panic [illegible] of 1907, the berth was as head of a new bank, and friends told him it would be folly to accept. But Sabin had faith in the backers and was made president of the National Copper Bank of New York at 39.

In three years he built up the deposits to $3[illegible]. Then the bank was consolidated with the Mechanics & Metals National Bank and Sabin was made vice president with powers equal to those of the president. A few months later he resigned and accepted an offer to become vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company, the largest institution of its kind in this country.

Five years afterward he was elected president and today at 56, he is chairman of the board is interested in many other business enterprises and is rich.

More Puzzled Than Ever

Who while at his work you will Discover thinks and plans no ill.
—Old Mother Nature.

Farmer Brown's Boy was digging holes in the Old Pasture. He was whistling as he dug. It was Blacky the Crow who discovered what he was doing and right away Blacky hastened to tell all the other little people. As many as dared to found hiding places from which they could watch him. They were more puzzled than ever. What was Farmer Brown's Boy digging those holes for?

But Farmer Brown's Boy didn't tell them. He didn't tell them for one very good reason—he didn't know that himself.

Sammy Jay asked Blackie the Crow Deer. And each shook his head and said he didn't know.

When Farmer Brown's Boy went home that night he left many little holes in the Old Pasture. Every one of those holes was visited just as soon as he was out of sight. But each little hole was like every other little hole, and there was nothing to be learned from them. The next day Farmer Brown's Boy came back and dug more little holes. It was all very puzzling, very puzzling indeed. Digger the Badger turned up his nose at those holes. He didn't think much of them. He didn't see any sense in them. They were not deep enough to be good for anything.

"If he wants to dig a hole why doesn't he dig a real hole?" demanded Digger the Badger. But this was a question no one could answer, so no one tried.

All around where he had cleared away the brush and the brambles and burned them Farmer Brown's Boy dug those little holes. And as in the beginning all the time he whistled while he worked. He seemed to be very happy over something. He worked hard. Digging holes is hard work. He didn't work every day, nor did he work all day. But whenever he had a little spare time he was sure to be found up in the Old Pasture digging those little holes.

Everybody in the Green Forest, on the Green Meadows and in the Old Orchard knew about those little holes. Everybody was puzzled. Not one could guess what it all meant. Even those who were not in the habit of going to the Old Pasture found some excuse to go up there now. They had to see for themselves what was going on there. And the opinion of all was that Farmer Brown's Boy was spoiling the Old Pasture. Even those who loved and trusted him most felt that way about it.

Stories That Recall Others

His Education Lacking

Three year old Herbert was taken to his grandfather's for a visit. It was his first visit to the farm and he was much interested in what he saw. He watched eagerly as Hanna dressed the turkey for dinner, and noticed that each handful of feathers was placed carefully in a box. Finally his curiosity got the better of him and he asked: "Why do you have to save the feathers, Hanna, for seed?"

At milking time he was surprised on seeing for the first time where the milk came from, and as the man finished milking one cow the youngster exclaimed: "How are you going to turn this one's faucets on?"

If our neighbors would only do as we think they should do it would be much easier for us to love them.

Donohue, chairman of the building committee will officially turn the first shovelful of earth to mark the beginning of excavations at Elks' park, on Pleasant street, for the erection of the new home for the local lodge.

DESTROYED NICKEL MACHINE IN NO. STONINGTON COURT

Justice Ledyard S. Anthony held a session of court for North Stonington in the town clerk's office at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, which was called to act upon a writ of seizure against a nickel machine which had been seized in a North Stonington store by Constable Vincent Jones. The storekeeper was not in court, but his interests were cared for by Attorneys Shields and Perkins of Norwich, who offered no defense. The state and town was represented by Attorneys Gallagher and Harris of Westerly. Constable Jones exhibited the machine in court and showed how it worked. After considering the case Justice Anthony ordered the machine destroyed and the proceeds distributed between the town and state. Complaint was made by Albert E. Kingsley, a newly named grand juror, after Grand Juror Martin Main had refused to sign the complaint. As usual in North Stonington law suits a large crowd had gathered, all of whom could not find admittance to the court room.

Suggest Honors to Mgr. May.

The suggestion has been made in New London that its citizens grasp the opportunity to pay honor to Mgr. M. H. May of the city when he reaches New London next Tuesday upon his return from Rome. As Mgr. May was born in New London it is regarded as eminently fitting that his friends there should participate in recognizing the high honor that has been paid to him at the vatican.

War's Cost Exceeds Money

Although the cost of the World War in 1914-18 has been reiterated in dollars and cents many times, it remained for some one to point out that it represented more than two and a half times more money than exists in all the world to make the total really comprehensible. The actual total was $186,000,000,000. The total of men killed was 7,450,200.

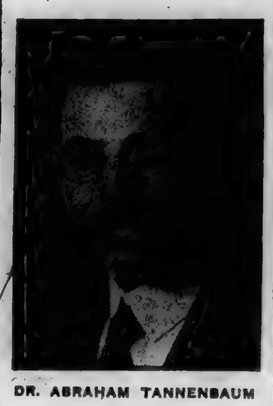
BIG AUDIENCE CELEBRATES OPENING OF HEBREW INSTITUTE IN PALESTINE



DR. ABRAHAM TANNENBAUM

Wednesday will go down as one of the greatest days for the Jewish people of Norwich, for on that day special celebrations were held by a people made joyful by the opening of the Hebrew university on Mount Scopus, Palestine. The feature celebration was held at the Community house in the evening, when over 500 Jewish residents of the city and their guests listened to addresses by prominent Norwich residents and by Dr. Abraham Tannenbaum, of New York, an orator of national repute, and leader of the Young Judea of America, who brought a message from Palestine which carried his audience to the highest point of enthusiasm.

Dr. Tannenbaum said that the progress of the world was made mainly through dreams because through these great force is created and nations go forward as the result of dreams. Dreams mean much to individuals and nations because from them is learned duty, hope comes and inspiration is gained. They are the stimuli that makes the individual progress. In nations dreams bring about a unity of action giving them a power that no individual has, giving to individuals that which they themselves have not alone, not having the power of a nation behind them.

There are dreams and schemes that are practicable and those that are impracticable. Moses dreamed of bringing his people from Egypt into Palestine. David dreamed of Palestine, the city equal to others and King Solomon dreamed of establishing the house of God in Palestine.

There are other kinds of dreams, said Dr. Tannenbaum, Alexander the Great, the rulers of Rome, Napoleon, Bismark and the German Kaiser had their dreams of conquest. There are dreams of another sort, those of Aristotle, Luther, our own prophets and the immortal Wilson. They were scorned and derided because they dared to dream of peace. Prophets were scorned and mocked but today we are beginning to realize that in these dreams the secret of the future is maintained.

The Jews have dreamed of these years, dreamed of the day when they might go back to Palestine. They have hoped that nations might see and change, thus allowing them to go back to their country. The Jews did not dream of using physical force, "For not with strength, for not with power, saith the Lord of Hosts, for only through my spirit." The Jews dreamed of their homeland and hoped for justice to prevail, they wanted to once again create things Jewish, to express their thoughts and be able to say to the world, "This is how we shall be able to serve you when we are in our homeland once more."

This evening we celebrate a momentus occasion, the weaning of another child of Jewish imagination. We are here to celebrate the opening of the first Hebrew university at Mount Scopus. We should all voice our praises that we have lived to see the day when this has been accomplished. It is an appreciation of an unfailing work and of the labor of the members of the Zionist movement. For this reason we have gathered to celebrate a dream come true.

The building of the university is not all, said Dr. Tannenbaum, there is also the rebuilding of Palestine. Today Palestine is a beehive of industry. Eighty colonies have been established through the Palestine fund and young men and women are working for this cause. Buildings, schools and roads are being built, everything is for the future construction of the homeland. Many cities have sprung up during the past ten years. We now have Jewish mayors of cities, Jewish officials and public houses, but, thank God, no jails.

Go to Mount Carmel and see men and women working, giving their souls to an ideal. Land barren three years ago is now in blossom, factories are being built and an unhappy people has been made happy. The forces of anti-Zionists are crumbling now that they know Palestine is being rebuilt will be rebuilt and must be rebuilt, for wherever we are, no matter what we do, Jews we are, no matter where we are, Jews we are.

Mount Scopus gives one a bird's eye view of Palestine. A student in his laboratory may look down and see where Joshua fought the kings, where invaders were met, the stones upon which prophets stood and preached, look down on a pageant of Jewish history. It is the outlook station of the Jewish people of the world. It will stand for what Palestine means to the world a place where there is no predjudice and where all nations may meet and learn to live together.

Three departments of the university are already open, the department for biology, chemistry and the teaching of Hebrew. Only advanced scholars are admitted to this university which is taught by the leading minds in their departments secured from all parts of the world. This is so that graduates of the university may go out into the world and be recognized as leaders, equal to the best universities of the world.

There has been the misfortune in American colleges of having a feeling and predjudice against races and creeds but let us hope that no feelings may exist in Palestine like that in Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Columbia. The Hebrew university will be non-partisan, welcoming all within its doors.

The Jewish soul has long awaited the welcome to the homeland where it might find a final resting place and be able to help the world for peace. Let us rise and shout in a loud voice, "Freedom, praise be to God who has preserved our lives and permitted us to see this great event." Let those who have been indifferent see Palestine as she is today and go to work. Let us hope that as the Jewish soul finds peace and contentment that the word of God shall come from Zion, a new law for Jerusalem and that her colleges will give justice not only to the Jew but to men of all nations.

Explained Zionist Movement.

Rabbi Max Stamm opened the meeting and explained in detail what the Zionist movement had accomplished and what the future holds in store for the Jewish people, at the same time urging his hearers on to greater activities and more loyal support of this worthy enterprise which has attracted the attention of, and demanded the respect of every nation in the world.

Rabbi J. N. Rosenberg also spoke at length stating that the world had not yet grasped the full significance of what the institution of the Hebrew university means. It is only the first item in the great constructive program we Jewish people are to do, he said. We have proved our aim of recreating the Jewish nation, to give back to the world all the good things that have come out of Jerusalem and again we will make it a living civilizing force for mankind. That is why we are here tonight, he said, and that is why we have asked our distinguished guests to speak to us.

Mayor Waters' Greeting.

Rabbi Rosenberg then called upon Mayor Milo R. Waters who spoke in part as follows: My friends, only a few weeks ago I saw in a paper where a steamship had sailed from New York under the flag of Palestine. I am here now to congratulate you on behalf of the people of Norwich on the opening of this Hebrew university in Palestine. It is small now but it will grow to be a great university. No man is a poorer citizen of any country because his heart goes out to his native land. In Norwich you Jewish people have raised $30,000 and sent it to be used in the rebuilding of Palestine, to rebuild a national home. You are a better citizens of Norwich because of this, because if you are a good Jew you are a good American and if you are a good American you are a good Jew. I am glad to see some concrete thing done to pay you for the sacrifices you have made and I say to you, go on until the day when Palestine shall stand and belong among the greatest nations of the world.

The second speaker of the evening was Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, who informed his audience that the celebration appeals to the imagination of every thinking person. Anyone with a sense of history feels this appeal, he said. Twenty-six hundred years ago a man dreamed a dream, saw a vision, and now what was to be has been accomplished. Remember the words, "It shall come to pass in the latter days that the mount in Jehovah's house shall be established above the mount and all nations shall flow towards it." You tonight remember this great prophet Isaiah and his great city.

As a Christian preacher I cannot help but appreciate the place where the foundation of Christianity was laid. The world will ever be indebted to your people for this great gift, for thinking, religion and faith in God—we have to come to you and say we must forever be indebted for the Hebrew faith in God. It stirs the imagination when one remembers what has already come out of Palestine, to think of what you still have to give to the world. Your people have ever sought unto your God and this great event is a clear indication that your faith in Almighty God has blessed Palestine through all these centuries. Not only what you have done, but what you are still able to do for the world. Achievement is simply prophecy of what can be done. Jews, Gentiles, all who have faith in the invisible, as from the east something came to the west, shall again from the east that Holy Land come things not yet seen and dreams not yet dreamed.

Principal Tirrell Speaks.

Principal Henry A. Tirrell of the Norwich Free Academy spoke briefly, voicing his feeling of appreciation of the great strength of the Jewish race. The world, he said, absorbed the culture of the Greeks and the strength of Rome and both these are no more. Today the Jewish people are as strong as ever, their intellectual powers are the same as ever. The Jews have given to the world something more wonderful than the Greeks ever gave. David's appeal and Solomon's proverbs are as true today as the day they were spoken. Now you start in a new era in the opening of this Hebrew university in Palestine. A previous speaker has correctly called it the middle point of the world. You have sought out the best men and you have a chance to draw the best there is for there are none who are thinking of personal gain. It is indeed an occasion for celebration.

Arthur E. Story, president of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, being called on for a speech, said that as president of the chamber of commerce he was happy to testify to the assistance the Jewish people had been to Norwich in all lines of business. Your success has been by your own making, he said, and rightfully earned. Your thrift, cooperation and generosity has aided you. We now honor your new university and it is my wish that the soil may harbor and nourish the institution and make it one of great benefit to all mankind.

Letters of Regret From Senators.

At this point Rabbi Rosenberg called upon Attorney Josiah Greenstein to read two letters of regret from the senators of the state, Hiram Bingham and George P. McLean, both of whom expressed their regrets at being unable to be in Norwich for the occasion, but extending their congratulations on the opening of the Hebrew university.

Organization Representatives Speak.

Rabbi Rosenberg called upon representatives of the several Jewish lodges and organizations of the city who briefly covered their activities in the work for Zionism in Norwich during the years past and pledged their loyal support in the bigger and greater work which was to follow.
